 MOTTO.—Not dull sloth but earnest activity. It is the Christian's high privilege through Christ our Lord.
Fried as Fat
 For the Southern Californian.

White God's best system to man has in it all the elements of discipline for the human soul, there are, doubtless, times when an aggregation of people, led by men not graduated in the wisdom from above, in a stern and hurried manner make incisions and amputations, or require members to fill a measure which neither Christ nor the apostles themselves were able to fill. This is frying as fat or in fat.

With seeming unfeelingness the axe is laid to the root, the tree is hacked and split until it has no resemblance to its former self. And worst of all the axe has not been whetted at the stone of mercy, but with jagged edge it is sunk into the soul of the offender to the gratification of the offender.

Do you think that Peter, the chief of apostle, could live in this year of grace 1891, and deny Jesus, fixing it with an oath, and retain his membership without submitting himself to the most exacting requirements of his associates? Are we better than Jesus who forgives when man voluntarily confesses from a consciousness of his error instead of being forced to degradation—a step which, in my observation, has never brought reformation to a soul in the church? Is it not highly probable that the true mould of reforming the erring is not yet fashioned among us out of the divine material, but that, out of our selfish half converted state, with unsuitable environments in the form of wealth and honor-seeking one of another, a system of dealing with offenders has grown up which is not in perfect agreement with the high, holy and imperishable principles of God and his Christ?

The tenacity of the human mind to cling to its conclusions is known by every student of human nature. To bring forward better ways, better methods and to uncover to the mind principles of heaven, is to call upon one's self of suspicion, distrust and even persecution. To even suggest an examination of the truth of God, for a leveler and surer way to reform the erring, is to invite the charge of heresy and unfaithfulness.

It produces sorrow and amazement to see in the midst of our boasted civilization and extraordinary opportunities to secure the sweet graces of Jesus, the disposition to use measures of great severity for offences which savor more of infirmities in which Paul gloried.

In the study of God's government to men for men, the fact of the difference between acts of rebellion or the infractions of law from a heart resolutely set on evil, and the acts of disobedience, not willingly committed, but the result of some human infirmity, is overlooked.

Errors have been committed, not in the spirit or motive regarded by ecclesiastical tribunals, and the erring subjected to the same disgrace among their fellow men as those who have committed one or more of the crimes enumerated in the Gospel.

A good education is man's capital in business life, for without a business education money is not of great practical benefit.

THE Athenian society attracts quite a crowd on Saturday evening. The chapel is usually full of attentive spectators, and the work done by the members of the society is very entertaining.

THE Pomona correspondent of the Los Angeles Herald is mistaken in saying that fifty houses are being erected in and around Lordsburg. About that number have been put up in the last twelve months, and doubtless more will be built. Altogether the growth has been good and the future prospects by no means discouraging.

THERE is a great deal more of South Riverside than one can take in by passing through on the cars. Outside of the pretty town with its three or four miles of boulevard around the town, there is the clay pipe works, the tin mines, the porphyry works, and fine orange groves, which, in a few years, will likely be unexcelled by any others. For a grand view of the valley go into the country a few miles to the southwest.

PERHAPS the first lesson to be taught in any school is the lesson of good conduct and regard for those who have the work to do. Heavy walking over the floor as if there were brick tied to the feet, loud talking and boisterous laughter, whistling and singing, are not welcome sounds to teachers and students who have the hard labor to perform. To practice proper decorum is always in order.

WE have a letter from Amos Wrightsman, Cerro Gordo, Ills., who recently went from here to that place, saying: "some big frosts made me think of California." No doubt, Amos, the frosts make some impression, but how will it be when the cold snow storms and the mud of spring-time come, don't you think you will then feel for the golden State? We hope you may, and come and enjoy with us the many blessings in this goodly land. The few things which some would not enjoy, you know, are easily borne.

THERE are indications of war between this government and Chile. It is to be hoped that pacific measures may prevail as war is deplorable and has indeed few compensating features. There is still virtue in the gospel that "it is better to suffer wrong than to do wrong," and this truth is applicable to nations as well as individuals. This government, we believe, can accomplish diplomatically what it could by war, hence should not hastily be belligerent.

FISHED! Yes we were fished, completely taken in by that prince of fishers, Ed Carson, the genial brakeman on passenger trains 42 and 44 between Redondo and San Bernardino. He angels at Redondo from the arrival until the departure of his train, and takes in from three to ten fine fellows every day, and then hands them to his friends along the line as he goes up the valley in the evening. That's how we got fished one day last week, and it did not hurt our feelings either. Thanks! Ed.

Asthma and its Cure.

BY S. S. GAIST, M. D.

WHAT IS ASTHMA?

ASTHMA, is an involuntary paroxysmal spasmodic contraction of the muscular structure of the bronchial tubes and often associated with a tonic spasm of the diaphragm characterized by spasmodic attacks of great dyspnoea, which may continue indefinitely.

Its pathology is a true neurosis of the respiratory apparatus. The result of local or peripheral disturbances in the nervous system, often hereditary, pressure on the pneumogastric nerves, cardiac disease, gastric catarrh and constipation, resulting in irritation of the end organs of the pneumogastric, hepatic, or nephritic disease. Inhalation of various substances, climate, mental and moral influences and last but not least a gouty diathesis; all these causes contribute to produce this; one among the most annoying diseases that ever afflicted mortal kind.

Asthma is more common in men than in women, in childhood than in old age, in rich than in the poor.

The onset of an attack is abrupt and sudden; night seems to be the most appropriate time for him to make his visits, and the victim upon whom he seizes, has a feeling of anguish and constriction in the chest and an intense desire for air. The breathing is characterized by loud wheezing, (the wheezing, whistling, sibilant and sonorous rales) the face is flushed, at times even cyanosed, and bathed in perspiration, the eyes stare, the eyeballs protrude and the muscles of the neck become very prominent as they aid in the effort for more air. After some minutes or hours the respiration becomes easier, the cyanosis disappears and gradually the paroxysm ceases, the patient feeling exhausted and with great fatigue and soreness of the chest. During the paroxysm, the patient leans forward upon a chair or some other object, or sways to and fro in his chair as he gasps for breath and gives forth a peculiar short dry cough, becoming looser as the attack subsides.

The duration of an attack varies from three to ten hours, instead of single paroxysms, slight remissions may occur at intervals of one, two or three hours, to be followed by exacerbations lasting from four to six hours, continuing for a week or two, preventing the patient from lying down or taking food.

I shall refrain from giving any of the phenomena characteristic of accultation or percussion in this malady.

The prognosis has always been "not fatal," "no immediate danger to life," "patients live to an old age," in brief "favorable as to life;" such are the prognostications given by our leading physicians.

My experience, however, is that they ultimately succumb to the disease.

As to the treatment, all sufferers from this, apparently intractable, disease has tried, every remedy that has ever been mentioned for its relief, from the superstitious plan of measuring the body, boring a hole in the wall, depositing a lock of the patient's hair in the opening and driving a pin in upon it so tightly that it almost becomes a part of the timber previously penetrated—the only relevancy in it is that the asthma sticks to the patient just as tightly as the pin sticks in the hole.

In addition the physician comes in and administers: morphine, belladonna, opium, lobelia, ipecac, chloroform, tartrate of antimony, ether, chlorol, iodol, pyroline, stramonium, atropine, and all the bromides mixed in one fearful beverage with grindelia robusta; then tells you that you must now have tonics and as that class of agents are endless he starts you in without a single ray of hope and informs you that for a perfect cure you must use the iodides, and arsenic and any quack nostrum that your perverted fancy may dictate during your next attack. Thus you go on from time to time suffering excruciating agonies, depositing money in the Dr's. pockets, and allowing the disease to push on with the energy of a pandamonium until you have hypertrophy and dilatation of the heart, emphysema of the lungs, a perverted nutrition and an involution that no power save that which generated the Egyptian lice that were found in the category of Pharaoh's plagues can ever remedy.

Then the doctor, or more appropriately the medical Charlatan, when the patient has died, "who might have lived had he been undoctored, in the learned nomenclature of his profession which metamorphoses his hearers into gaping monuments of unspeakable wonder, passes by his own inefficiency and animadvert upon the defects of nurses, the blunders of druggists, the mysteries of physiology, the marvels of pathology the complexity of diagnoses, the arcana of materia medica, till the hearers feel profoundly grateful for deaths and funerals, and are willing ever after to ignore the vis medicatrix naturae and the prophylactic, that they may be the happy beneficiaries," attributing all their ills to infinite mysteries, the relatives gather around the remains, nicely domiciled in a costly casket, the clergyman approaches and with a solemn and sanctimonious expression he gazes heavenward and calls upon his friends to sing:

"Why should we mourn departing friends, or shake at deaths alarm;

It is but the voice of Jesus, that calls them to his arms."

And then amid the musical strains broken now and then by the mournful lamentations of heart-broken friends, they manage to pack all the blame on the Lord, of a man's death at the age of forty five years, when the Lord in the beginning, all things being equal promised him three score and ten, and by reason of strength four score.

Now to those afflicted by asthma, as I have been for a number of years, let them come to a climate specially favored for them; where the pure, dry, warm and invigorating atmosphere may act as a prophylactic.

If you wish to keep from being burned keep out of the fire. If you wish to be rid of asthma go to a climate where you can keep out of a cold moist atmosphere. Such a climate may be found in various portions of Southern California; and thus live entirely free from this dread malady.

There is no cure for asthma, strictly speaking, after once established, it will assert its claims, and the predisposition cannot be removed but it can be prevented by a change to a proper climate and the carrying out of strict hygienic measures. I do not mean that one must become a monomaniac on the subject of hygiene, but regulate the habits, keep the body and clothing clean, avoid sudden changes of the atmosphere (if there be any here) and regulate the daily consumption of rations, etc.

"A hint to the wise is sufficient."

MRS. ABRAM HOAG who lives five miles south-east of South Riverside, started with two turkey hens and one gobbler three years ago, and now has ten or twelve hundred turkeys. We never before saw so many feathered fowl of one kind in a body, and it was a sight not soon to be forgotten to see so many hundred turkeys roaming over the hills. Mrs. Hoag says she receives from $2. to $4.50 apiece and is making money. There are people who wonder what to do to make money, a class who cannot buy orange and lemon groves. Here is an industry open to men and women of small means, and in which there are large profits. Eggs for some time have been 30 cents a dozen and good poultry $5.50 to $6.00 per dozen. There are those who could, in a small way, start into the business and like Mrs. Hoag, climb up.

A Handsome Gift.

WE are informed that the Pomona College has received the handsome sum of $75,000 from three friends of that institution in the East—$50,000 as an endowment, and $25,000 for a building. We congratulate Pomona college on its having fallen among good friends; for without substantial aid colleges cannot accomplish the great good which their mission demands. To do proficient work and reach a satisfactory degree of usefulness a college needs books, philosophical apparatus, maps, globes, charts, a museum, and first-class instructors. To have all these requires money—much money—and usually the few devotee souls have to furnish it.

Who will come up and add to Bro. Riley's beginning to endow the Lordsburg college? The good work begun by him should be carried forward.

Boarding is so cheap in the college that one cannot afford to board himself if he is a student. J. F. Neher is not only giving good vituals cheap, but an abundance to all.

The prayer meetings in the chapel on Tues. evenings are quite instructive and edifying. The room is usually full, and those who participate in the good work are prompt and give expression to sound doctrine.

It was something uncommon Sunday morning to see wagons in front of dwellings, robes and blankets hanging on the telegraph wire, wagons out of their usual places loaded with grape boxes, mules and cows tied at different places to what they were accustomed, and if our barber had followed his sign he would have had to move chair, sure.

Miss Hettie Gibble and Mr. W. H. Neher, finished the first year's Work in book-keeping last Saturday evening. Miss Gibble did the work in seven weeks and Mr. Neher in eight. These are extraordinary results; neither of these students had ever before studied book-keeping. Ladies and gentlemen should come and enroll at once in the commercial department.

Wanted: the people of Lordsburg, and more especially those who come in from the country, that are in the habit of driving their teams to within ten or twelve feet of the hitching posts and going inside the store or shop as it may be and letting the team stand loose: to know that they had better tie their teams and perhaps prevent accidents, for we bicyclists are getting tired of walking half the time on account of so many scary horses, or more properly, it is most always the plugs that are left thus,

Last Wednesday evening, a parlor meeting, under the auspices of the Lordsburg W. C. T. U. was held at the residence of Mrs. Davis, and proved a most enjoyable affair. A short program of pointed recitations and readings was rendered, after which a most delicious and abundant lunch was served. The rest of the evening was spent in lively games and conversation.

Mr and Mrs. Davis, as host and hostess, were an entire success and Mr. Archie Davis did the honors of the evening to the approbation of all.

The company showed their principles of moderation by gathering at an early hour and dispersing in good season. Thus making pleasure and sociability what it should be—a recreation, not dissipation.

California's Business Growth.

Referring to the enormous shipments east by the S. P. Co. the L. A. Herald says:

Some of the shipments are texts for books full of sermons on economic features of California, and trade features. For instance, yesterday a special train of eighteen carloads of raisins passed through here for the east. Another incident was five carloads of hops consigned to London, England. Perhaps one of the most importance, and one which is full opperunity for comment, is that of ten carloads of California wire, billed to Marseilles, France.

From six to nine special freight trains are dispatched eastward daily, and officials state the road in its whole existance never began to do as much and as profitable business as at present.

Three thousand carloads of dried fruits are now awaiting shipment in this state. The producers say they will not send them forward until a better rate than $1.50 a hundred lbs. is made by the Transcontinental association. Raisins are moving only slowly for the same reason, being given the same rate. Canned goods are moving very freely, the rates being $1 and $1.20, which the producers regard as reasonable. Rates on dried fruits and raisins have reduced to $1.40,

And with the increased shipment over previous years, there is a wail, mostly by the uninformed, that says: "Too much produce, no profits in fruit." The calamity screamers are very noisy fellows; and while they are trying to scare, the wise and the workers go on "coining money" by raising big crops.—Ed.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt an effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Are You Coming to California?

IF SO, SOME REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD JOIN ONE OF ESHELMAN'S EXCURSIONS

Politicians speak of their campaign or campaigns of education; and we of our excursion or excursions of information, of education as it were, because neither time nor effort is spared to inform tourists of the places and the things of interest along the famous "Santa Fe Route."

Men, women and children thus become informed about the old cities by the way; they learn about the chasms, canyons, lava-beds, curious rocks, and monuments and mountain peaks, where the gold and silver mines are, see the extinct volcanoes, and "bottomless pit" as the train speeds down the scenic Johnson's canyon.

There are people who have gone over the "Route" many times yet know but little of what ought to be learned. Our excursionists need have no occasion to go through in ignorance. Parties desiring to come should arrange to join the excursion at Kansas City or Chicago at the following times.

Chicago Nov. 3d. 7:50 P. M.
" Dec 1st. " "
Kansas City, Nov. 4th. 10:55 A. M.
" Dec. 2d. " "

By consulting Santa Fe time tables parties can see where to join us after leaving Kansas City.

If you want a berth or berths in tourist car, always write in time to M. M. Eshelman, 1050 Union avenue Kansas City.

See notice elsewhere in this paper about these excursions.

GOSPEL WORK.

Sermon Outlines.

OUTLINE BY T J NAIR.

Sunday morning Nov. 1st.

Text: Watchman what of the night. Isaiah 21:11.

Watchman. A sentinel placed upon the wall surrounding ancient cities to watch for enemies, to give an alarm at the approach of danger.

Zion the church of God is surrounded with a wall—the word of God.

We have Christ pictured to us in the Gospel as a faithful watchman; died at his post for the salvation of a lost world.

Every minister is a watchman and should watch for the safety and interest of his people, and should denounce the judgement of the Lord against the impenitent.

The unfaithful watchman. Isaiah complains of certain watchmen that are blind, that are ignorant and dumb dogs that cannot bark; they are greedy dogs—can never have enough.

What of the night? Is the darkness of the benighted condition of man soon to pass away. Are Christian parents sending up their prayers to heaven in behalf of their children that they may be arrested from sin? And Christ to prepare our hearts for that home beyond, a heaven of happiness and joy.

OUTLINE BY J F NEHER.

Sunday evening Nov. 1st.

Theme: The contrast of things material and things eternal.

Text: 1 Cor. 13:10: But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

An intelligent person is able to give a reason for his conduct etc. But in the works of God, man cannot always assign a reason on account of the finiteness of the human mind notwithstanding continual search is made for the whys and wherefores.

But man should come nearer home and ask the question, why am I created?

If children were asked the reason why domestic animals were created would answer for our use. Man was created for God's service.

God created all things perfect; but the violation of his law brought a curse upon the earth.

How imperfect the things that are seen. Why the use of eye glasses by the aged? The eyesight is failing. Why do their voices fail? Because of the imperfection of the corporal organism. Man is passing away in consequence.

But "when that which is perfect is come, when this mortal shall put on immortality, when we shall live in those glorified bodies, knowledge shall develop. "Now I know in part. but then shall I know even as also I am known."

Man boasts of this beautiful country and when the truth is told of this goodly land people from the eastern States are induced to sell their land at a sacrifice in order to inhabit it on account of its healthfulness; but man must die. Because of its fruitfulness, but crops are not always abundant.

There is a country where there is room for all. "In my Father's house are many mansions" one can get possession without money; no more death abundant fruit. "The tree of life bear twelve manner of fruit monthly."

INDUSTRIAL.
NOTICE.—The reward of industry is not in the money in current coin, but also in an approved conscience.

Dairy Notes.

Much of the poor butter made in the private dairy is due to the cold, damp and disagreeable condition of the workroom.

The making of good butter begins with the feed and care of the cow, and is followed up until the butter is placed in the market.

It is an old adage that "Out of nothing—nothing comes," and there is no place where this is more applicable than in the dairy.

While milk and butter, of course take something from the soil, we need not worry about the matter. Dairy-ing will never ruin the soil.

One method of getting rid of white specks in butter is by washing it. These white specks are the cheese elements and are heavier than the butter.
