MOTTO.—Not dull sloth, but earnest activity, is the Christian's high privilege through Christ our Lord.

Baron Hirsch and the Jews.

Dr. Joseph Wild Pastor of the Bond street Congregational church, Toronto, Canada, delivered a sermon on Baron Hirsch's proposition to extinguish the Jews by education. We publish a part of the sermon in this issue and shall complete it in the next number:

"In those days the House of Judah shall walk with the house of Israel, and they shall come together out of the land of the North to the land that I have given for an inheritance unto your fathers."—Jeremiah iii. 18.

Some rivers are easily traced to their source, and so some races can be traced to their origin. This is especially true with regard to the Jew-people. No one I presume, doubts their Abrahamic origin; they have been so vividly present in all centuries and in the greater nations of the earth, that no one could deny their continuity of existence. Some rivers become divided into two. Thus it was that the Hebrew race after the death of Solomon and the ascension of Rehoboam, his son, divided into two, and became known, as named in my text, the House of Israel and the House of Judah.

Some rivers are known to disappear, to lose themselves in the desert sands or plunge into some great deep cavern, and further on appear again. So it has been, with the House of Israel. They lost the knowledge of their own identity, and the surrounding nations knew not that they were the literal chosen Israel, the sons of God. Of all people who have the most difficulty in tracing their origin the Hebrew is the one. No historian can find the source and beginning of our existence. The most difficult of all questions, until a few years ago, proposed to a man was, Where and who are the Ten Lost Tribes? Light is being shed by them upon our very origin now, and as to who and where the Ten Lost Tribes are, for doubtless they are one and the same. For you will read in Hosea ii, 6: "Therefore behold I will hedge up my way with thorns, and make a wall that she shall not find her paths." This, He says of Israel. This has been true in the past. They were walled in—lost; so He said it would be. But after this, the Lord promises in the same chapter to speak comforting words, and make himself known unto her. He will say to them that have not known Him and been hid: "Thou art my people, and they shall say, Thou art my God." From this knowledge of God shall come a knowledge of their own identity; and in consequence other people shall be led to acknowledge that they are the children literally of Abraham. If you read in Hosea i, 10, you will have the following: "Yet the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sands of the sea which cannot be measured nor numbered."

The literal meaning of this is, that when Israel becomes a numerous people, the following part of the verse will become true: "And it shall come to pass that in the place where it was said unto them, ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, ye are the sons of the living God." That is, they have been saying of England, you are not Israel. We are beginning now to say, we are the sons of God. The next step will be that Israel and Judah will recognize each other. Israel will no longer be Loruhamah, nor Judah Lo-ammi. For we read in first of verse Hosea ii: "Say ye unto your brethren, Ammi; and to your sisters, Ruhamah," You will notice Israel must make the first approach and offer the salutation of brotherly recognition to Judah. The Jews will not likely for sometime recognize that we are of the same blood and family descent as they are; but we are to approach them, saluting them in that way. In return, Judah will respond intelligently and lovingly to the salutation; the sister and brother, in other words, the house of Israel and the house of Judah will discern and acknowledge a common origin, a common parentage and a common destiny. The next step will be that the two people will have to join together and again become one people and one nation. As it is written in Hosea 1, 11: Then shall the children of Judah and the children of Israel be gathered together and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land, for great shall be the day of Jezreel."

You are to keep in mind, after reading that passage, that the thing spoken of takes place after the battle of Armageddon. The Jews will be colonized and settled in Palestine by Great Britain after the great European war. It will be one of the sequences of that war; they will be under the protectorate of Great Britain; they will have a governor of their own, that governor or his successor will turn traitor and make an alliance with Russia, proclaim himself Anti-christ and bring on the battle of Armageddon. Now we get some inkling of that spirit in them already.

Baron Hirsch, a millionaire banker, of Paris, France, has just committed to the public journal his ideas. He prefers that the Jews should lose their identity and amalgamate with the Russians and Austrians, cease their distinction as a race and become another people. To carry out this scheme, he offers to these respective governments $20,000,000 for the purpose of founding schools where the young Jewish children—Austrians and Russians—shall be brought together, and, if possible, annihilate any trace of Judaism in them. A hard task! He will want more than school houses; he will want to begin earlier than that to get the right kind of a nose on a Russian or an Austrian, if a Jew. He has got an impossible task before him. Jewish blood, Abrahamic blood is dormant, absorbing, controlling; it will eat up all the other bloods, and no other blood will ever eat it up. It is not possible. What do you see in a proposition like that? You see the very thing the prophet forecasts; when Judah is settled in Palestine she will have a leaning to Russia. Here is the spirit of John the Baptist going before the revolution. What is in this man's thought as a leading man, a man who has millions at the back of his thought to press it into an organized form, will grow, and you will see the germ of the revolution of Palestine of our Jewish friends in the future in that very proposition of Baron Hirsch.

A river divided into two in some cases unites again; so it will be with the divided houses of Judah and

Israel. This union is very graphically expressed by the symbolism of joining two sticks together. In Ezekiel 37th chapter and 19th verse, the two sticks in the hands of the prophet representing these two houses, are to become one stick in his hand. And in the 22nd verse it reads: "And I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountain of Israel and one king shall be king to them all and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Selfishness may prompt a man to do things that seem unselfish; but there is a world-wide difference between selfishness and unselfishness, and the recognition of this difference, in one's self or in others, is a primal test of personal character. A man may show special attention to another, or may on an occasion deny himself for another, in order to be a personal gainer by his temporary surrender of self. He may even persist in the performance of self-denying acts in the present life in the hope of greater gain in the life to come. But apart from all these things, there are some occasions for every man to decide whether he will lose all thought of self, or of gain, or of present or of future reward, and will act against his apparent interests at the call of another's need; and if at such times he chooses against himself, he acts unselfishly. This unselfish choosing is the true nobility of character. The selfish cynic says there is nothing of the sort in the world, but every man's final choice is based on some view of his own self interest. He, however, who is himself capable of unselfishness, knows that others also are sometimes ready to act unselfishly, and that they are to be adjudged noble accordingly. Whoever says that there is no such thing as unselfish thinking or doing in the world, thereby condemns himself as wholly and hopelessly selfish—too selfish to appreciate or to recognize unselfishness when it is exhibited before him.

A Taste of Luxury Once a Year.

A hoary-headed old tramp, rich with the experience of years, reaped a rich harvest on election day. Leaning heavily upon his staff, he would approach a polling place. An embassy would hurry forward to receive him. He would remark that his old limbs were chilled, and he would warm up a bit before casting his vote. Borne into a saloon he would then be treated to the warmest and best potions in the house. By and by he would say: "What district is this?" and being answered would exclaim: "Ah, I in such a district," and then march slowly away to work other places in the same manner.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed."

Rain.

THE gentle rain commenced falling Wednesday about 10 o'clock and continued all night and Thursday until about noon. The ground has been thoroughly soaked which will enable the ranchmen to get in their small grain in good shape, and at the same time it will send up the grass which will relieve the necessity of purchasing hay at such high prices; thus the rich and poor share alike in the blessing of the gentle showers.

How to Cook Prunes.

Many persons do not know how to cook prunes, (or other fruit that has the skin on) in order to have them soft and the full flavor retained. The following manner will be satisfactory: Pour on hot water and wash immediately to cleanse them, then put on cold water and when heated let them simmer, not boil, for two hours, only using enough water so the fruit is barely covered.

What We Want.

THE town of Lordsburg has started out in good shape so far, but what we need most is men who are interested in the growth of our town. Men who locate in a town just for the loaves and fishes are of but little value to the upbuilding of any place. It is true, however, that sometimes men have but little money and must make a start before investing, but at the same time they should make every lawful effort to encourage business men to locate and become permanent citizens by putting up good and substantial buildings. The tortoise principal has done but little to the upbuilding of any place. Let us have more capital and we will succeed.

A Great Improvement.

Since Mr. K. H. Wade became General Manager of the Southern California Railway, he has caused great improvements to be made along the line which he represents, and especially where the Railway enters the valley from the east—the Cajon Pass. The immense bank of earth, where the ground, in the winter season, came rushing down and impede travel and traffic, has been terraced and roofed so that hereafter the right of way will be undisputed.

New stations have been built, the made road bed improved and the bridges made more secure from floods. Few roads in the United States are in better condition; and the traveling public and business will appreciate these efforts to give them first-class service. Mr. Wade is the right man in this field of activities.

Highly Favored.

When one examines the condition of the producers in many parts of the East and then compares this with the prosperous state of producers in Southern California, it results in finding the people in the last named region highly favored.

At Kansas City we met a farmer who lives in as good part of Kansas as there is, and he is not of the "slipshod" kind either. He said that corn would not average five bushels per acre in his country—that hogs, big, little, fat and lean were forced on the market until prices were demoralized—that farming this year did not pay in any sense, and therefore times were lard.

How is it in Southern California? Wages have been good, work plenty and prices of produce satisfactory. Result: times are good improvements are being made and prosperity is blessing the people. We should be pleased to see several thousand more good farmers come to this country.

A Catching Condensation.

Major Truman writes to Major Jones, president of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, concerning some printed matter sent out by the secretary of the chamber. We published in a recent issue extracts from the circular and sent Major Truman a few hundred copies. Our Eastern friends should go to see the Southern California Exhibit in the Rialto building, Chicago.

"Please let me say in a few words that your chamber of commerce bulletin for what it is intended, is by far the best thing that has ever been produced. It is a multum in parvo surely and no mistake. There are only four letter pages, but there is more in these four pages than in any one hundred I have ever written. Who ever made such a catching, truthful, satisfactory condensation is entitled to great praise. It will do a great deal of good. I have mailed it to farmer's clubs in this section, and put it on the tables of the hotels where farmers put up. If you could mail copies to each farmer's alliance club in Kansas you would be catching the biggest chunk of bread on emigration water ever known, etc. The exhibit here is being well patronized. Even dark, rainy days we have from four to five hundred visitors. The quietest hour I have seen was sixty, the best, two hundred visitors. The big melons are gone, the lemon- and lime-letting hard and the quinces speckled out withal the exhibit is in splendor. What we need most now is samples of wines and extract honey."

The Chicago Exhibit.

We have just visited this fine exhibition of Southern California products under the supervision of Major Truman and Colonel Nolan—two earnest and faithful workers.

The display was superb. The products are arranged to show in fine condition; and the stock on hand is good and the variety quite abundant. The apples are especially well preserved, and the show of dried fruits is most excellent. Corn barley and other grain make a very creditable showing and the pyramids of nuts and jellies and tables of citrus and deciduous fruits fairly groan with the excellencies of Southern California.

Visitors are coming in all the time and already some parts of Southern California is reaping the harvest of gain in good citizens. The people of the several counties in Southern California can well afford to sustain the gentlemen who are so ably representing their interests. Major Truman and Colonel Nolan are a pair that cannot be outdone in faithfulness to their constituents, and we hope to see the exhibit sustained with the very best of the land.

The papers of Southern California should keep a standing notice in a conspicuous place of the exhibit inviting their eastern readers to not fail to visit the display when in Chicago. Posters should be distributed in all the large towns within 100 miles of Chicago calling attention to the exhibit and inviting every body from cousin to grandfather to call and see the wonders of Southern California.

The products of the new "Condensed Milk Factory" at Buena Park is gaining ground rapidly in San Francisco. The leading physicians here are prescribing their milk in preference to all others. BUENA PARK, DEC. 2nd 1890

DEAR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIAN:

We think you are the brightest paper on the coast; we have gained a great deal of information from your columns.

Easterners are arriving and express themselves as well pleased.

Centralia Tract is quite settled only a few more acres of desirable land left.

The Centralia hotel is well kept and receives a liberal share of patronage.

We are always glad to welcome enterprising men, we hope that there will be more.

The sorghum mill is now closed, but the sweetness still lingers in the atmosphere.

One of the large ranches have been sold, that of A. Reddick, and the purchaser has already begun to make decided improvements.

We are feeling that the thanksgiving day which has just so pleasantly and quietly passed in our midst was one in which we could be truly thankful.

Some parties from here were in your vicinity a short time ago and express with delight their appreciation of your town and of their entertainment by J. W. Hoff their former townsman.

It is needless to mention that the condensed milk and coffee factory is a success for you must already know it by the manner you speak of it in your paper.

The blacksmith shop is open and our young mechanics, Messrs. Whitaker and Deering are building up a fine trade; they are very obliging and enter heartily into all of the interests of the place.

There is no place in this valley that is growing so rapidly or so steadily improving not a "boom", but regular sales for people can see by the growth of the past year the value of lands.

There is no place in the country so well situated for manufacturing. Then too, we have quite a reputation as a health resort, many have come here and breathed our pure atmosphere and drank of our Artesian water and recommend all as adapted to perfect health.

We have a Christian Endeavor Society here which is the pride of the valley, Monday evening they gave a concert for the benefit of the Congregational church; the Hall was crowded and it proved a success; the church and Sunday School are both in flourishing condition.

YOURS,
BUENA.

On the Iron Highway.

Our car contains eight ladies and ten gentlemen, and as it now appears every one has justly earned these titles; for all are gentle. We have known people who become offended when called gentlemen, or if of the other sex when called ladies; and we always make the amenda honorable when men and women become offended at being called gentle, for becoming hurt at being called gentle is proof that they lack the quality in its finest sense.

* * *

Our train was delayed east of Holbrook the night of the 28th of Nov., on account of an obstruction placed upon the track. A lot of ties and rails had been piled upon the track, but the engineer saw it in time to avert an accident.

Thinking of feelings I am reminded that there is a class of people who are ever sticking their feelings on the outside to get them hurt. Feeling is a very tender spot in our being, and when people keep them mostly on the outside where they are liable to be hurt at any time, they can never live at ease and be happy. When a boy has a sore toe, that is the toe that usually gets all the accidents; just so with the hurt-feelings; when they are sore and worn on the outside they are pretty sure to get all the "bumps and thumps."

Some of our company have left us rather hurriedly; Andrew Leslie and wife, Noah Greenawalt and wife, and Miss Dollie Cripe, all of Cerro Gordo, Ills., concluded to hie themselves homeward before Southern California put on its most gorgeous raiment of flowers. We regret this very much as a few months sojourn among the lilies, roses, crysanthemums, pansies and all other kinds of "posies" would still have enlarged their already widely expanded genialities. If they would have remained a little longer, we should have taken pleasure in showing them the tin mines, in San Bernardino county, the magnificent wafer falls, near Eswenia, the golden orange orchards of Riverside, the ostrich ranch at Pasadena, the grandeur of the chamber of commerce, Los Angeles, and many other things which are worth seeing in Southern California. But they are on the "iron highway" their faces turned eastward. Still we are not disconsolate; for there is hope that some, if not all, will return, like the bee, to the hive, loaded with honey.

Our Ideal.

For some time we have been revolving a railway project in our mind—not that we intend to go into railway enterprises, because there is a lingering timidity about us on account of the low condition of our pocket book; but to our idea.

It is certainly apparent that the motor of the future is electricity. Already there is a longing to ride one hundred miles per hour instead of going forty or fifty. The speed of the bird is wanted, and what is wanted must come, and what must come will come.

We should like to see a road built from Boston to San Francisco for the exclusive use of passenger traffic, said road to be elevated through the cities and in densely populated rural districts so that there may be the least possible danger. Such a road should be built looking to speed and safety to the traveling public and to those who live along the line.

With the net work of railroads from Maine to Colorado, and country roads and villages by the thousands, an elevated track, becomes a necessity.

A direct or air line could be built touching many of the large cities, and the cities not on the direct line could be connected by branches. In this way rapid communication could be had and the business interests of the country greatly facilitated. The present roads could be used for local traffic and through freight, while our daisy-in-the-air could be utilized for through mail and passengers. Electricity must be the motive power, and with the great waterfalls along the route, dynamos could be operated cheaply and the expense thus kept within a minimum.

We trust that capitalists will consider this. We believe it feasible, believe it will pay. Of course it should come by way of Los Angeles and down by Lordsburg. Would't a ride on an elevated road down this valley be sublime while the tourist would look down on the well-laden fruit trees, the fragrant flowers, and the fields of waving grain?

Let us have the elevated railway over which we may ride to Chicago in twenty hours. We have long waited for the flying machine, but it seems afar off so give us what we most need—an electrical elevated railway across the continent. What do you say?

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Cows.

INDUSTRIAL.

MOTTO.—The reward of industry is not alone in current coin, but also in an approved conscience.

Delawares Tomato Crop.

WILMINGTON, DEL., October 20.—The entire peach crop which was manifested over the Delaware railroad this year consisted of two baskets and one crate of very indifferent fruit. That virtually represented a total failure of the peaches with an attendant loss to the growers of millions of dollars. To a certain extent, however, the absence of peaches has been compensated by the unusual growth of tomatoes. The crop this year has been really phenomenal, and canneries were put in operation in nearly every prominent town or village, in the lower half of Newcastle County, in Kent and Sussex. These canneries have now completed the work of canning tomatoes, and many of them are engaged in canning pumpkins. Just exactly how many tons of tomatoes have been canned in little Delaware this year is difficult to determine, but the number of cans prepared for the market will probably exceed 5,000,000. These are 3-pound cans which would mean 5,000,000 pounds of tomatoes. A ton of tomatoes, as they come from the field, will fill from 400 to 425 cans. On this basis a product of 5,000,000 cans means that 12,500 tons of tomatoes were purchased by the canneries in the State this year. The loss from cleaning and preparing, and from rot in wet weather, will reduce the number of tons put up to 7500. The tomatoes that have been canned do not include the entire tomato crop. Many thousand baskets were sent directly to the truck market and were consumed at once. Besides that, the canners of Baltimore and elsewhere came to Delaware for some of their tomatoes.

Now as to the money in the tomato business for the farmers. The price paid by the Delaware canners has been $5 and $6 per ton, and the price has never gone below the lowest figures. Some of the Baltimore canners, early in the season, when the crop was in danger of being a failure, paid as high as $9 a ton, it will be seen that, with 12,500 tons as a basis, $68,750 were paid to the farmers of this little State by the tomato canners. The other sales will undoubtedly bring the total amount received for tomatoes close up to $100,000. In addition to the millions of tomatoes canned in Delaware, the Maryland portion of this peninsula has not been behindhand. It is probable that the Maryland counties which bound Delaware on the west and south have put up at least 5,000,000 cans, which would make, on a safe estimate 10,000,000 cans for the peninsula.

Mr. Kroeger gathered 260 pounds of nuts from one tree. At 6 cents this would be $23.40. If these trees are planted forty feet apart, giving twenty-seven trees per acre, the income will be $631 per acre. There is money in walnuts.—Phoenix.

THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE AGENCY.

In order that we may get our lands on the market we have concluded to list them up or at least a portion of them, which will enable our Eastern friends to make a selection by number. Thus taking the advantage of the low prices, as we predict that in less than twelve months that the same land will be one-third higher. We are not expecting a boom but the intrinsic value of land will advance the price.

Persons having land for sale would do well to list up their lands with this AGENCY, as we expect to make a specialty of selling land in this section of country.

No., 10—A beautiful 20 acre tract with plenty of water. Will sell on time low interest, has been in cultivation. No better lands for oranges or deciduous trees. Must and will be sold soon.

No., 30—A 40 acre tract, very desirable near Lordsburg, with water already on the land. The tract will be sold in 10 or 20 acre lots to suit purchaser. Terms low. Will be sold soon.

No., 25.—A 120 acre tract—very fine and hard to beat any where. Will be sold at a bargain with but little money down will secure it. Every foot tilable and susceptible of a high state of cultivation. It is in the Wright Irrigation District. Just right for prices, it will astonish you, but it must be sold very soon.

No., 20.—A 6 acre lot all set to fruit and in bearing with plenty of water. Has on it a small house and barn all in good condition. Beautiful hedge in front. Price, $2500.

No. 51.—A small tract will sell in 10, 20 or 40 acre lots on long time at 6 per cent. No finer fruit land on the market near the foot hills with plenty of water at $125 an acre.

No. 60.—A tract of 100 acres or more which we will let out to parties who wish to plant it on the shares. A man can take 10 or 20 acres plant it to apricot, prune, peach or orange trees and at the end of three years we will give him a deed to one-half the land thus planted; the planting to be done during the spring of 1891. Write for particulars.

No. 50.—A 160 acre tract near rail road station; water piped all over the tract; no better raisin land in all the country. Will sell in ten acre lots on long time with low interest if persons mean business by commencing to improve. For prices and terms address the undersigned.

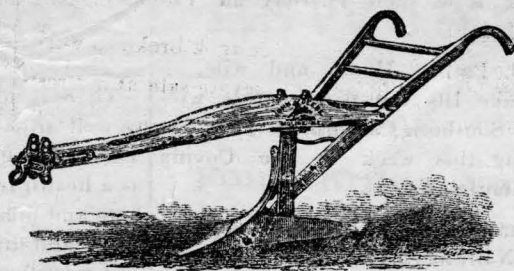

No., 35—Quite a number of small tracts from 5 to 10 acres at reasonable prices and on good time, and near depot, and good schools. These lands are selling right along and will not be on the market long.

No., 18—A 20 acre vineyard in full bearing. Will pay from $150 to $200 per acre. Will sell on good time, and between two R. R. stations. Write for particulars. Give number when information is desired.

NOTES.—Illuminate the mind, is to lay the foundation for sound government and human happiness.

A novelty of an electrical exhibition at Frankfort, Germany, is to be the transmission of 500 horse power to a distance of 140 miles.

The use of electricity for slaughtering hogs is proposed. It is claimed that the current will not only kill the hogs, but will kill trichinae at the same time.

The Urania, of Berlin, is an institution containing well appointed telescopes, microscopes and other instruments for public use. In its first year it was visited by 100,000 persons, who have been benefitted by 1000 lectures.

Primary batteries are said to have been discarded at the Central Telegraph office in Berlin, storage batteries charged from an electric lighting station having been substituted.

After exhaustive experiments, the French Post Office has decided to substitute a copper-coated steel wire in place of the ordinary iron wire for telegraphic and telephonic services.

The Roman city of Cissa was last mentioned in 679, and even its site has long been forgotten. Submarine ruins lately found indicate that the island was sunk by some catastrophe.

Experiments in Sweden show that steel rails with 4 per cent of carbon are liable to break in winter, and steel with less carbon is recommended for cold climates.

The plan of using gas in small electric arcs to increase their power at a less expense than that of extra current has been effectively carried out by means of hollow carbons. An added cost of six per cent is said to give in this way a light equal to one and one-half times that of the ordinary lamp.

In tests on a number of different persons, an electrician has found the effective resistance of the human body to be less to the alternating than to the direct current in the same individual, with a great variance in the resistance to either current in different persons. In five subjects the resistance to a continuous current of 50 volts ranged from 4,320 to 10,000. The tests revealed incidentally a striking difference in the strength of current different individuals can endure.

But little is known of the action of drugs on the human health. For a number of years an English biologist W. Sharp, has been experimenting to determine this action, using different quantities of the same drug, and he has reached some interesting conclusions, including the following: The smallest doses used in these experiments have power to act upon the living human body; the commonly received opinion that the actions of drugs are simply increased in degree and not altered in character by increasing the dose is an error; the action of drugs are sufficiently distinct to admit of classification.

For His Sake.

"How can we love those who don't love us—much less our enemies?" mused Millie, as she carefully watered her window plants, thinking meanwhile of her Sunday School lesson. "Love your enemies bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use and persecute you." I don't see how it can be done. No one uses me despitefully, but if any one did, I am sure I shouldn't love him." I should'n even try."

"How thrifty your plants are Millie," said some one who had heard Millie's half audible soliloquy.

"Yes don't they grow famously?"

"You must be very fond of plants."

"Why, no, I don't think I am naturally. I used to consider it a trouble to watch and water them every day."

"What made you do it then?"

"O auntie! you know they were sister Annie's plants. She loved them, and when she died I took care of them for her sake; but now, somehow I have grown fond of them too, they seem so grateful, and it is such a delight to discover new buds and leaves day after day. See how full of splendid blossoms this cactus is."

"Is that the same cactus that poisoned you last spring? I remember your hands were swollen and painful."

"Yes, it is the same cactus, but it was not the fault of the plant. You see, I didn't know to manage it; I don't get thorns in my hands unless I am careless. And really, auntie, I think I am more fond of it than of the other plants, it blooms so magnificently."

"Is it then impossible to love those who despitefully use you?"

"Why, auntie!" exclaimed Millie, facing about, a sudden light in her eyes.

"Yes, Millie, that is the way. You took care of them for dear Annie's sake and so grew to loving them for their own sake, even the one that despitefully used you. For His sake, Millie, always for His sake, and the rest will follow."—Ex.
