

SPRING FOLLIES GALA PROGRAM SPONSORED BY SENIOR CLASS

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY MEETING MARCH 18th

Special Acrobatic and Musical Features, Admission Two L.V.C. Snapshots, Cameras Loaned Free at Student Store.

Absolutely you simply can't miss this program. Imagine Orlin Vaniman as a hard boiled judge trying to sentence Mary Throne for —?— in the first, second, and third degrees. Ah, what can poor Mary do? You'll be surprised how she does it. Bert Jones also stars as the non-incumbent janitor in this unique drama, "Mud Flats," which is being directed by Doyle Montz. It's something new and it's got a style all its own.

Then, how about a little sweet, melodious rhythm from the Cotton Blossom Singers, who will be right heah on hand to give you all a little preview of their evening concert. And can those b'ys sing? Uh huh, I guess they-all can.

Furthermore, Mrs. Holsinger, of dormitory fame, has a son, 6 feet 1 inches tall that can tumble like all of nobody's business. He can tumble twice while an ordinary man is tumbling once. Mac Holsinger & Co. will entertain you with a high class tumbling act which won't cost you a cent extra.

Esther Thomason—ha! ha! ha!—Oh, Chuck, you'll sure laugh.

CLEAN-UP DAY BRINGS REDUCTIONS TO DORM

Have you noticed that Miller Hall has recently decreased in size? The entire building has a somewhat diminished appearance.

The cause was at first attributed to erosion, resulting from ages of hard usage, but a more scientific investigation personally conducted by Dr. Gilbert (with the aid of a microscope and two freshmen) showed that the decreased size is due to the severity with which it was violently attacked on clean-up day. Luckily, the inhabitants became exhausted before the building was entirely washed away.

Many were the methods used in this campaign of cleanliness. Shepp's pajamas were a great assistance; she had only to walk down the hall to dust both sides as well as sweep the floor.

Isabelle was afraid that Santa wouldn't come next year, so she cleaned every cinder out of the fireplace with her own little hands.

Eileen slid gracefully from one sill to another washing window panes. Incidentally, the sills were cleaned, too.

The big mystery of the building was what happened to Edith Coffman. Many theories were offered, but the most plausible one was that she had simply folded herself up in her bed and remained safe and sound till all activities were over.

Frank Saylor was indispensable as a great inspiration to every girl with-in smiling distance. Elvin Wilson, however, probably accomplished more actual work than any other person in the dorm.

The building is as shinningly clean as a Dutch Cleanser advertisement, but there is sure to be smudge again next year—oh, the cruelty of fate.

LEAGUE PICTURES ARE SHOWN IN CHAPEL

The International Relations Club, whose purpose is to keep the students informed on world news, sponsored an interesting motion picture on the League of Nations in chapel Tuesday.

The film showed the League in action, its official buildings, some of its prominent leaders and various incidents related to their activities. It was pointed out that in spite of the criticism it receives, the League has accomplished a great deal toward the establishing of world peace. Nations about to take up arms against one another have submitted their difficulties to the League for investigation and arbitration, and have abided by its decision, thus preventing war. The settlement of the recent conflict between Greece and Bulgaria is an example of this influence.

In connection with the presentation of the film, Chalmer Faw explained the history and organization of the League and some of the important problems it has solved.

PROF. BRUBAKER SPEAKS IN THURSDAY CHAPEL

On an imaginary trip of three thousand miles, Prof. Brubaker took us to many interesting places in Idaho during the chapel period Thursday.

Idaho is noted for three things: Senator Wm. E. Borah, its potatoes and prunes. Idaho doesn't always follow Senator Borah, but nevertheless they are proud of him because he is unbuyable, unpredictable, and unafraid.

The name Idaho, or as the Indians would say it, "Lee-dah-how," means "Behold the light on the mountains." Idaho is a state which in size would be equal to New England, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware. It is in the shape of a huge armchair facing the east—to the light of the rising sun.

MAX PRODUCTIONS ARE SUCCESSFUL

According to Ardith Horning, treasurer of Chi Delta Chi, the financial proceeds from the group of one-act plays given by that society on March 19 almost reached the "hoped for" limit.

According to the plaudits of the audience, the plays themselves were valuable in content and in their highly gratifying presentation. Indeed, each play was truly distinctive, quite apart from the ordinary type of one-act plays.

"The Wonder Hat," highly humorous and fantastic, was coached by Miss Eleanor Shepp; "The Boor," decidedly Russian and vying with professional in acting ability, was directed by Miss Constance Horning, while an original creation of the playwright class, "Cats, Dogs and a Professor," which brought many chuckles of amusement by virtue of its complicated episodes, was coached by Miss Opal Kuns.

The specialties between plays consisted of quartet numbers by the Dorian Four and vocal solos by Edith Flory, accompanied by Evelyn Wine.

FOUR ONE-ACT PLAYS TO BE GIVEN MARCH 29

A change in the date of the advanced dramatics class play from March 17 to March 29 has been announced, at which time four one-act plays will be presented.

The plays are "White Dresses," coached by Esther Thomason; "The Woman Who Understood All About Men," coached by Jerry Deal; "Ropes," directed by Virginia Stern, and "The Minister's Wife," directed by Evelyn Deardorff.

Special numbers of entertainment will be heard between the shifting of sets.

The "cut rate" price of 10 cents per individual should make it possible for everyone to attend.

Remember, the date is March 29, the plays, "four"; the time 8:00, and the admission, 10 cents.

COTTON BLOSSOM SINGERS TO PRESENT PROGRAM

The Cotton Blossom Singers, students from the Piney Woods Country Life school, Piney Woods, Mississippi, will present a program of spirituals and plantation melodies at the L. V. C. auditorium, March 18, at 8 p.m.

At the student body meeting they will also sing a few numbers in connection with the Spring Follies.

NOTICE

All petitions for next year commission must be given to Jerry Deal by next Monday noon. This is absolutely the final date. Election will be held a week from Friday.

DR. KOO TO SPEAK AT LONG BEACH

Is Sponsored by Young People's Council. Will Speak on "Problems of the Pacific."

On Sunday, March 20, at 3:00 p.m., Dr. T. Z. Koo will speak on the subject "Problems of the Pacific" at a mass meeting to be held at the First Methodist church, corner Fifth and Pacific avenues, Long Beach, under the auspices of the Young People's council of Long Beach.

Dr. Koo is a graduate of the St. John University of China and was formerly head of the "Y" work of all China. He is therefore in intimate contact with the problems of not only the Chinese people but of the students and young people of the land. Although a Chinese, Dr. Koo's message will not be solely the Chinese point of view. He is an internationalist and has visioned the higher synthesis, knowing that in the struggles going on in the Pacific area at present have the right and wrong spread on both sides.

This meeting is open to the public and is another example of the arousing of youth interest in international questions. The young people of Long Beach are to be highly praised in sponsoring such a meeting.

LARRY HANDY SPEAKS IN Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Due to the illness of the scheduled speaker, Dr. Robin Fisher, Dick Maley called in a "pinch hitter" in the person of Larry Handy, secretary of the Pomona Y. Larry commended Laverne College on the fine type of Christian fellows it turns out in the various fields of service. The purpose of the Y. M. C. A., he said, is for creating a spirit of Christ among the fellows, for character building, and for citizenship.

A brief history was related by the speaker: The Y started in London with the organization of a Bible class by a group of young men. This gradually expanded to other countries until it became known as an institution under the name of Young Men's Christian Association, taking in many fields of service. The first playground work was developed under the leadership of the Y. In the search for games to build up the body, basketball and volleyball were first organized by the Y. The first organized summer camps came through the Y. M. C. A.

First among the movements of the Y is the bringing of denominations closer together. A second is the creation of goodwill between races and nations.

The various types of work are done by the International Council, national work, regional secretaries. The organization is mostly made up of laymen because the Y is in reality a fellowship.

At the close Larry gave the group a chance to ask questions.

Dick announced the Southern California conference on the Christian vocations at which Chalmer Faw will speak.

The Harmony Four sang one number at the beginning.

WOMEN'S TRACK FOLLOWS CLEAN-UP

Girls Hold First Women's Inter-Class Track Meet in History of La Verne

After eating a luncheon of sandwiches, weiners, jello, and pie, the girl tracksters, as well as most of the student body, went out to the track to see the girl athletes of the school compete in several track and field events. As the forenoon had been spent in cleaning up around the campus and various buildings, the girls as well as the rest of the students enjoyed themselves immensely in this first girls' inter-class track meet. It is expected to make this an annual affair, like the boys' inter-class track meet.

The first event of the meet was the sixty yard dash. After several false starts, and amid much cheering and laughing, the race was run, being won by "Ede" Eisan, much to the happiness of the coach, with Shepp taking second, and Strate third.

Next in order of the events was the running broad jump. After eating such a hearty luncheon, several of the girls had rather a hard time in getting off the ground, but as they all took several warm-up jumps, they all were able to land in the pit. Shepp showed her power as a track woman by taking first, "Ede" Eisan taking second, with only a half inch behind Shepp. Strate again took third. Bernie Brubaker said she would jump a lot further if she didn't come down so quick. The students all agreed with her. The high jump was next on the list. Again the heavy luncheon problem entered in, as you could hear the competition saying: Oh, those sandwiches, or those weiners, or that pie. Strate won this event, with Eisan, Shepp and Perry all tying for second.

The 440 relay was then run, with only the Sophomores and Juniors entering teams. Eisan, Sheller, Dickey and Perry were the Sophomores. Shepp, Kuns, Butner and "Torchy" Samson were the Junior entries. It was a close and thrilling race (ask any of the spectators), but the Juniors were the first to break the tape.

The last event of the day was the baseball throw, and did the crowd get a thrill when Miriam Dickey tried to lose the ball? They did! She threw it so far over the heads of the officials

CLEAN-UP DAY SLACKERS

Well, clean-up day has come and gone again. Are you sorry or glad? I for one am glad that it came and am happy that I had a part in helping to make my school look better. I suppose I could wax philosophical and go to great lengths to draw analogies about cleaning up on the inside as well as just the ground, I mean our own selves. We could all stand a little internal cleaning, but that is not the object of this editorial.

As the day progressed I was more than greatly pleased to see the fine cooperation and spirit manifested by the majority of the students. True, there were some that failed to show up, but they were checked up on and will be assigned jobs. There was very little loafing and at dinner time I heard some of the cook girls say that the group was the best behaved of any they had seen. I suppose that was because they were too tired to be anything else but mannerly. Even when it seemed as if dinner would never be called there was very little let down. Of course there was some playful crabbing, like Les DeHart who just wouldn't be happy unless he could raise his voice in protest about something, and that day it happened to be that there wasn't any more holes in his belt.

Now comes the part that puzzles me. Why, when the majority of the students turned out and had a good time out of the job, must there be a few who take the wrong attitude towards the project? For instance, there were two girls who were almost nasty with their laziness. Another girl refused to do a thing in the dorm because she said she paid to go to school and she was not going to work to keep it clean. As a result she went to the grammar school and observed, and she wonders why she does not get along well with all the other students. Sure, we all pay to go to school but there are some things around here that the janitor just can't keep up. Why does it hurt, then, to declare a holiday and all turn out and have a lot of fun and do something that will leave a good taste in your mouth as well as beautify the campus. The girls were not only the ones who failed to show up. There were some men who were just as narrow minded and obstinate. One fellow who ditched last year didn't come around this year either. He bragged about it last year but don't worry, they have his number. That type of student has a job waiting for them.

I have observed one singular thing about clean-up day. The people who were too bigoted to come and work with the rest of the more common ones are the ones who feel out of place. They can't find any of that college companionship that is so desirable. They always have a sour grape outlook on life and school. They are the ones who have the fewest friends. Well, all I have to say for such poor misplaced beings is come out of it, it is your own fault. You are no better than the rest of us.

OUR PRESENT DE LUXE PROJECTION MACHINES

Oh what a rotten picture! Is that the best you can do? What is the matter with the operators? Gee whiz there must be a couple of dummies running those machines! These and similar questions and exclamations bombarded my ears after the murdering of the last film shown here. I grant it, it was rotten, something was wrong with the operators, and THERE WAS SOMETHING WRONG WITH THE MACHINES AND FILM. I do not care who you call in or where you get him from but I am willing to take my hat off to the man that can make a model T Ford perform like a Packard and I know that those machines are absolutely worn out. Did you know that a crank had to be put on one to speed it up to the required speed because the motor needs overhauling and the machine is so worn it pulls too hard for the motor? Did you know that the other machine runs too fast and has to have a stick stuck in it for a brake? Until a splice came along, and who ever spliced it did a rotten job of it and the machine had to be off centered to the limit to frame the picture. When this happened the eccentrics set up so much friction within themselves because of their wornness that a crank had to be placed on it to speed it up and help the motor out or the machine would have frozen up.

I do not care what who says when, those machines are absolutely beyond use unless they are repaired with some new parts. Parts that are supposed to fit snug have a sixteenth of an inch play in them. The eccentrics in both machines are worn out and if they have to run a trifle off center the film cannot be kept steady. If we expect to be able to show moving pictures in the future without furnishing dark glasses and receptacles for the seasick spectators we will have to expend a little money on the projection machines. It is up to the administration, student body, or a yellow dog, I do not care which, but something will have to be done or else forget that we have such a high sounding contraptions as projection machines.

"JACOB'S DREAM" TO BE PLAYED AT PASADENA

The first production in the English language of an inspiring Biblical drama poem, "Jacob's Dream," translated and adapted from the German of Richard Beer-Hofman, by Redington Sharpe, is announced by Gilmor Brown as an Easter season production at the Pasadena Community Playhouse from March 21 to April 23. A BOOKKEEPER'S MEDITATION

By Cleo Beery

Our student business departments lack co-ordination, even within themselves. For instance, one day, upon opening my desk, I found a small check signed by a certain man. He had advertised in the Campus Times under his firm name and then given someone a check under his own name, and although I have deposited the check I have not been able to find what firm he represented, or who put the check in my desk. There is likely a dissatisfied advertiser somewhere—lost business.

Between departments there is also a lack of co-ordination. For instance, some of the bookkeepers deposit money in the bank while others check it out, with the result that the bookkeeper does not know how much money has been taken out of the bank, and the person who writes checks only with difficulty finds how much money has been deposited.

Probably the greatest value of a closer co-operation would come in purchasing. One department may need some envelopes, for instance. Perhaps another department is in need of the same thing. By joining together and purchasing at one time they may effect a saving. As it is now, there is almost no such connection.

In order to overcome these difficulties, there is a need of some kind of central organization. The most probable source of success would be to have one bookkeeper handling all the books of the student government. This bookkeeper would be either the commissioner of finance, or else work directly under the commissioner of finance and the graduate manager. There might be some difficulty in making the commissioner of finance the centralized bookkeeper. He has duties outside of keeping books and sometimes the man who would be suitable for this outside work has never studied bookkeeping, while a good bookkeeper might sometimes be unsuitable as a commissioner. On the other hand, this system would put the handling of books, banking, and money under the control of only two people, the commissioner of finance and the graduate manager. Besides, the commissioner of finance would know exactly where his money was being spent.

If the bookkeeper is a third person, there would be almost as much centralization, with the added value of having a secretary for the commissioner of finance and the graduate manager. This would entail the need of a business office for the student government, but would make it possible for the commissioner of finance and the graduate manager to guide and direct the work, while the bookkeeper-secretary could do the clerical work of the organization. There would be at least two difficulties in this arrangement. In the first place, it would put the bookkeeper under two bosses, which might make it a rather difficult position to fill. In the second place, there are few competent pupils who would be willing to spend the time that such a position would require (and it will take plenty of time) without remuneration. In fact, if the commissioner of finance were to keep all the books this same difficulty might be encountered, for he would have to spend much more time at his task than he does now. It might be possible, however, that a good bookkeeping department would save the student government enough money to pay the bookkeeper.

Possibly the chief value of a bookkeeper working under the commissioner of finance and the graduate manager would be the fact that the bookkeeper could continue in the job for more than one year, while the commissioner of finance would be

SPASMS

As a result of Clean-up Day, there were several errors on the second page of last week's sheet that should be corrected: The story under Mr. C. Faw's "Inkwell" was written by Mr. Charles Seymore Manning. "A Bookkeeper's Meditations" was not signed by Cleo Beery as it should have been, and he has a continuation of a pencil pusher's reveries in this issue.

After nibbling the fruits of being quoted in an editorial by Editor Charles S. Manning, I am going to get me a three-legged stool and go into this oracle business in a big way. By appointment only.

"GREEN FIRE" TO BE PRESENTED AT PADUA

Production dates for "Green Fire," Glenn Hughes' thrilling mystery melodrama of the future, regularly scheduled as the April offering of the Claremont Community Players, have been advanced one week, it was announced on the campus today by Mary C. Blaisdell, Players director. "Green Fire" will open Tuesday, March 29, and play March 30, 31, April 1 and 2, with a matinee April 2, at the Little Theatre in Padua Hills.

Players already cast for the nerve-tangling play of the scientific world of 1990 are headed by George Hamilton, noted for his stage appearances in various parts of Southern California, in the role of the half-mad genius, Boris Jevic, who is scheming to destroy the world.

Chester G. Jaeger of Pomona College faculty, will play James Ferguson, the philanthropic scientist who combats the efforts of Jevic in an exciting duel of wits, and Virginia Princehouse, also of Pomona College faculty, will play June Adams, Jevic's secretary, who plays a vital role in the saving of the universe.

elected each year as at present. This continuity of the business department from year to year is one of the things which we need. It would make the system of budgeting possible in some of the departments of student activity. For instance, the bookkeeper could determine how much money the Campus Times earned this year and could plan a budget for next year so that when the new force took office he could present them with a budget and give them a definite idea of the aims of their work. On account of the varying attendance at athletic games it would be difficult to budget that department, but there is no reason why it should be impossible in the others.

The extra assessment for the annual probably made each student realize that the student government is in debt, and that not all student business ventures in the past have paid their cost. If we do not want to go further into debt it is evident that we must not spend more than our income. If we do not have a bookkeeping department which can tell us what this income is how can we hope to escape debt?

Northwestern University is looking for precocious students. They hope to admit as many as six next semester who will meet all entrance requirements, but who are only 13 to 15 years of age.

"THE YOUNG IDEA" TO BE GIVEN AT PASADENA

Last seen as George Harding, the deaf conspirator, in the English comedy, "Passing Brampton Road," last November, Addison Richards, popular actor and associate director, will play the leading masculine role, that of George Brent, the muchly married husband, in the gay comedy-satire of the huntin' and shootin' set, "The Young Idea" by Noel Coward, which will be given its first western production at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, March 17 to 26.

Before becoming a member of the staff of the Playhouse, Richards was a leading actor with the Moroni Olsen Players in the Northwest, and for season played in the Hollywood Pilgrimage Play.

"The Young Idea" is a witty, rather fantastically farcical comedy, in which Noel Coward manages, it is said, to make the manners and aspirations of those who have an inclination toward equestrianism, appear exceedingly funny.

WATER COLORS TO BE EXHIBITED AT PADUA

Water colors by Albert Symmonds, self-taught artist of Fullerton, will be exhibited at the Little Theatre in Padua Hills, Claremont, beginning March 10.

Finding inspiration in the beauty of the California landscape, Mr. Symmonds has concentrated his talents in that direction, and according to Arthur Miller of Los Angeles, art critic of the Los Angeles Times, "he can draw trees as no one else can."

The work of this talented young man was brought to the attention of the Arts and Crafts Council by Mr. Glen Lukens, well-known ceramist of Fullerton and a member of the Council.

SPORT GOSSIP

by EDE

Seems that every track meet has its hero. Saturday's at Riverside showed Myers as the new "iron man." After taking third in the mile, a half hour later he won the 2 mile, ended like a 100 yard dash, and then wasn't even tired. Nice going!

LaVerne was handicapped by the number of men taking part in the meet and the absence of Montgomery, Brooks, Lathrop, and Elder.

Max got a nice throw in the discus, making his best mark this season of 114 odd feet.

Calvert came thru on his last throw to take first in the javelin at a distance of 149 feet 6 inches.

Roberts showed improvement over his inter-class form but seems to be far from his best yet this season.

Our broad jumpers were not able to get a good jump, Smith only getting 19 feet 6 inches, while he is capable of close to 22 feet.

Jones' knee seems to still be bothering, for although he ran a nice race to win the high hurdles, he could only pull a third place in the low.

The times were slow due in large part to the poor condition of the track.

Brownsberger was a busy man and he accumulated 6 points, taking second in the 440 and in the low hurdles.

Manning, who is out for the first time, took third in the 440 and if he improves will be right in there in the conference meet.

I'd just as soon run across the continent as try two miles—eight laps are quite a few and if you don't think so try it some time.

The track sure got improvement on work-day. We were afraid to have the men practice before for fear they might get lost in the weeds.

Next meet will be a triangular meet between Pomona J. C., Pomona College Novices and LaVerne College Thursday afternoon.

The frosh will probably have a meet at the end of the week.

For those who don't like football and basket ball, come out and see a track meet. Maybe it's what you've been waiting for.

The women are still busy with basket ball (don't forget the league game Friday nights at the "Y") and hockey. (Busy is the word when it's played without shin guards.)

Those who missed the women's inter class, plan on being at work day next year. It should offer some excitement.

LAB'RATORY BLUES

When you procure your H2S
And other stuff as bad, or less,
And mix a frightful smelling mess—
That's preparation.
And when you take a tube of stuff
And pour it through a paper rough,
And half of it goes down your cuff—
That's filtration.
And when you dump some acid in,
And shake it up and boil it thin,
And stir it for a while, like sin—
That's separation.
But when you've worked both hard and long,
Made your experiment with effort strong,
Then prof tells you it's all wrong—
That's exasperation.

CLEAN-UP DAY RESULTS IN IMPROVED TRACK

Last Wednesday many improvements were made to the track and the gym. All the frames around the screens and windows in the gym were painted white. Although the work was not quite finished, it will be done by those who could not work Wednesday.

The weeds were cut around the gym and the track, and much of the clover growing up on the football field was taken out.

At last LaVerne has a pole-vaulting pit, due to the combined efforts of "Dynamite" Elder and "Sammy" Rothrock, who started to work at 6:30 Wednesday morning—in order to get thru early—and were kept busy the rest of the day in order to finish, although they had everybody they could induce to work busy for them. Although they took the sand out of the broad jump pit to make the runway for the pole vault, they have done a very good job, and some pole vaulters should be developed.

The track was also smoothed up all the way around. Due to the poles that are used for the football field lights being set along the edge of the track, the runway had to be moved back, and this was done by a bunch of fellows under the direction of Coach Eisan.

The weeds on the runway for the broadjump were also cut.

that a fight almost developed in the argument that followed as to just where that said baseball had landed. Strate took second, with Shepp running a close third.

Needless to say, the three main "iron women" of the afternoon's meet were Shepp, who took 10 1-3 points; Strate, who took 10 points, and Eisan, who took 9 1-3 points. After totaling up all the points, the Sophomores won with 18 2-3 points; Juniors were second with 15 1-3 points, and the Freshmen third with 10 points.

Everybody heaved a tired and happy sigh as they went to their various homes, after having done a real forenoon's work, and having enjoyed an afternoon of real fun.

Summary of events:

60 yard dash—Time 8 sec.; Eisan, first; Shepp, second; Strate, third.

Broad jump, distance 13 feet 3 3/4 inches; Shepp, first; Eisan, second; Strait, third.

High jump—Distance 3 feet 10 inches; Strate, first; Eisan, second; Perry, tied for second.

Relay, 440 yards, won by Shepp, Kuns, Butner, Samson.

Baseball throw—distance, 195 feet 10 inches. Dickey, first; Strate, second; Shepp, third.

Baseball News

At the end of the second inning of the baseball game between the Bobeterias and the Bellyachers the score now stands $5.00 to nothing in favor of the Bellyachers.

Doughboy, pitcher for the Bellyachers, has speed and curves but no control. Everybody expects that the Bad Boy will be sent in as a pinch hitter for the Bobeterias next inning.

MAN IS BORN A SLAVE DECLARES HISTORIAN IN COLLEGE ADDRESS

"Instead of man being born free, he is now born a slave, and technology, applied with intelligence and wisdom, will free him from bondage to reality," said Dr. Charles A. Beard in a talk on "The Spirit of Technology," at Pomona College Tuesday morning.

Dr. Beard mentioned the fact that Rousseau said in a previous century that "man was born free and was enslaved by reality," whereas this condition no longer holds true.

The speaker said that a definition of technology as being the art of applying scientific knowledge to practical use was much too narrow. Technology, in his opinion, had four attributes: Emancipation of the human body from physical limitations, freedom of the body from limitations of energy, emancipation from organic and inorganic limits of nature and emancipation of space limits in communication.

"The only limits that technology offers are those of intelligence. It is in the power of everyone to make use of the new technology wisely and humanly," Dr. Beard said. "Chemicals may be used for fertilizing a rose or to blow your neighbor to atoms. Choice of how they are to be used must come from intelligence."

Technology tends to draw together, and concentrate industry and accounts for the enormous integration of machinery. Its crowning attribute is efficiency, according to the noted historian, who said that it is concerned with accomplishing the most work with the least energy. "College students might well study technology for this one thing alone," he recommended.

"Our whole cultural heritage has been based on agricultural and handicraft pursuits. Technology has turned this heritage upside down. To a large extent, our present trouble arises from the fact that we have been trying to cling to our old thinking without considering the fact that the ideas are outworn and outmoded."

FORTY-FIVE PEOPLE ATTEND CHINESE SUPPER

About forty-five people enjoyed the Chinese supper arranged by Mineva Neher and given by the Student Volunteers last Wednesday night at Fellowship Hall.

The Chinese food was cooked by Mineva Neher and a group of college girls. It was served by Evelyn Dearthoff, Virginia Stern, Harry Thomas and Miss Neher, attired in Chinese costumes, and Evelyn Edmister.

The tables were bare, with the exception of a Chinese doily and flowers, which furthered the atmosphere.

The menu consisted of:

1. Egg and Chinese salad.
2. Chop suey and Rice.
3. Cabbage-broth soup.
4. Chinese delicious tea.

The most remarkable thing of it all was, however, that with the exception of two or three people, the entire dinner was eaten with chopsticks.

During the meal, Chinese music and songs were given by Vera Hoover and Mineva Neher, a piano solo by Cleo Beery, and several violin numbers by Robert Walker. After the dinner Miss Neher gave a brief and extremely interesting stereopticon slide lecture concerning China. President Chalmer Faw acted as toastmaster.

MISS MYERS SPEAKS IN Y. W. C. A. MEETING

Miss Myers, a returned missionary from Africa, was the speaker in Y. W. C. A. Friday morning. Miss Myers has been on the mission field for fourteen years, and told several interesting incidents concerning her work.

Miss Myers and her party were the first white people to penetrate the part of Africa where they were stationed. Before giving her talk, Miss Myers read a few verses from the Gospel of St. John in the native tongue. She then showed many interesting curios which she had with her.

Frances Sandblom took charge in the absence of the president and vice-president.

DR. T. Z. KOO WILL SPEAK THURSDAY

Mr. T. Z. Koo, Chinese scholar and lecturer, very prominent as an educator and leader of students in China, will speak in chapel Thursday on the "Present Situation on the Pacific Area." Mr. Koo is traveling as secretary of the World's Student Christian Association and as he is stopping in Southern California for only 48 hours, we feel exceptionally fortunate in engaging his time.

VISITING DAY TO BE MARCH 24

Most inviting is the tentative program which has been arranged for visiting day, March 24.

Classes will be in session until the chapel hour when a very interesting one act play will be presented. The famous Apollo Four will sing and the string trio will play. Elizabeth Lehman and Edith Flory have also promised to play another of their delightful piano duets. In addition there will be a reading by Constance Horning and perhaps a few orchestra numbers.

At noon there will be all the fun of a delicious picnic in the park. For afterwards, the coaches are arranging some spectacular field events to display the skill and sportsmanship of our athletes as well as to entertain spectators. The dormitory will observe open house during the afternoon also, at which time tea will be served.

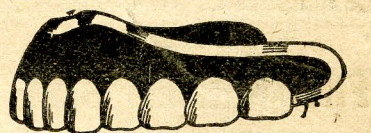

Since this is the first occasion of a visiting day at La Verne, the school is hoping for the cooperation of each student. Anyone is given the privilege of inviting one of his Junior college or upper class high school friends to spend the day on the campus. Those who cannot or do not care to entertain a personal guest may be asked to play host or hostess to some visiting student for of course everyone will maintain the friendly La Verne spirit.
