PROF. GRAY GIVES VOCAL CONCERT

EXPRESS VIEWS ON THE NEGRO'S CONTRIBUTION TO MUSIC

Professor Gray, of the department of applied music in Pomona College, gave a vocal concert in chapel Thursday.

His first number was a Scotch ballad, 'Pipes of Gordan's Men.' This was a very descriptive number. The martial strain could be heard all through the piece, vivifying the war. The next number was an English song, 'Phyllis Has Such Charming Graces.' Negro spirituals comprised the next group. Prof. Gray is especially well qualified to interpret the emotional content of the negro songs for he spent several years in the South studying the negro's characteristic at first hand. The negroes have not contributed very much to music, but have adapted old Spanish music to their needs and stamped it with the individuality of their own race. The numbers of Prof. Gray's song were: "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child" and "Going to Shout." This was followed by "Tallyho," "Sylvia," and "The Old Road."

The concert was made very informal by the pleasing personality of Prof. Gray. The students were very enthusiastic about him, wishing he would return again some time.

Mrs. Gray added much to the program by her accompaniments.

"SAUCE FOR GOSLINGS"

"Sauce for the Goslings," a one-act play, was the feature of the student body meeting last Friday morning. Showing the foolishness and hilarity of slang, the play was able presented by Ruth Rothrock, Jerry deal, Orlin Vaniman, Virginia Matthews, Ardith Horning, and Kenny Deardorff. Opal Kuns and George Berg, were the directors.

"I smell the groceries!"

The famous Apollo Four entertained the students with several of their well known compositions. Their dedication to Ed Ohanesian seemed to meet with the hearty approval of all, and their "I-le, I-lo" won the high point.

A violin trio composed of Robert Walker, Robert Harris, and William Clinkenbeard, preceded the play and added greatly to the day's program. They were accompanied by Prof. Ralph Travis.

DIETZ CHOSEN FROSH CLASS PRESIDENT

The Freshman class has at last become a working organization. At a class meeting held during the noon hour of Friday, October 8th, the following were deemed worthy to hold the exalted class offices: Joy Deitz was the unanimous choice for president. The honorable office of vice-president will be occupied by Alice Strate. Katherine Blickenstagg will keep the official records. Bill Clinkenbeard intends to handle the Frosh finances, and Ward Turney will report the class activities.

LIBRARY TO REMAIN OPEN EVENINGS

All Students are Urged to Get Library Minded

In order to accommodate the eager students of L. V. C., the college library will be open every evening except Friday from seven to nine. However, books may be taken out at four, brought back at seven, and then taken out again at nine, thus insuring the usage of all books during the evening study hours.

Mrs. Miller and Virginia Stern will have charge of the library and any further information may be had by seeing these librarians. Mrs. Miller has this one objection: out of town students will be handicapped by the arrangement, but she feels sure that some special conditions may be made for such students.

The administration makes this one plea—please use the library, now that such accommodation has been offered.

LAMBDA STAFF DISCUSS PLAN FOR 1932

On the evening of October 7 at nine o'clock the Lambda staff met for its first meeting at the home of Kenneth Deardorff and Leslie DeHart, where matters of designs, themes, photography contracts and printing contracts were discussed at length.

Plans were made to let the printing contract to the same firm as had it last year, but before the photography contract can be let there must be some further investigation into the matter.

As to designs, the cover design was all that was definitely decided upon. The theme will be chosen later.

There were various suggestions as for the book. Even if the staff members and their co-workers give of their time and effort to the limit, money is necessary, and it is imperative that the whole school help in raising it. After all, the Lambda is a college project and not the project of six or eight staff members. If anyone has any ideas to offer, he should talk them over with "Kennie" Deardorff at once, for this production requires co-operation.

PEP RALLY SENDS TEAM TO FRESNO

Bubbling over with the grand old pep, the LaVerne students gathered at the P. E. depot Friday evening, and, rallying to the tune of "Come On, Ye Leopards," sent their capable team off to Fresno.

Enthusiasm soared high as the college watched its heroes board the big red car and set their determined faces toward their destination. Many were the longing eyes as the car pulled away from the depot and the team moved westward. Never has a team been sent to a game with such glory and great expectations. Never has a team seemed so bent on doing the well nigh impossible.

Indeed, if rallies are ever responsible for the victory, the Leopards should come out with colors streaming and banners flowing.

CALENDAR

Tues., Oct. 13—Mass meeting of Student leaders, 3:45 p. m.

Wed., Oct. 14—Student Volunteers.

Thurs., Oct. 15—Pep rally, bonfire, 7:30 p. m.

Friday, Oct. 16—L. V. C. vs. Whittier. Here.

Sat., Oct. 17—Apollo Home Coming concert, 8:15 p. m.

Sun., Oct. 18—Regular Sunday meetings.

Mon., Oct. 19—Orchestra practice, 7:00 p. m.

Wed., Oct. 21—Student Volunteers.

INTER-COLLEGIATE EXCHANGES

For greater enjoyment of the grid games and other athletic events, the College of the Pacific has installed an amplifying microphone in Baxter Stadium.

Whittier's teams will no longer be confronted by sponge and water buckets, but with a brand new water wagon which is the gift of the townspeople. But needless to say, LaVerne won't be downed by any water wagon.

The late Dr. Robert G. Martin, head of the English department at Occidental, bequeathed his library to the college. The collection contains a number of works on Elizabethan drama, in which Dr. Martin was a specialist.

Varsity Club Sponsors Apollo Four Concert

On Saturday night at 8:15 o'clock, the Apollo Quartet will present their second home-coming program. The concert is to be sponsored by the Varsity Club, which will receive the greater per cent of the receipts. From past experience we know that anything put on by this club and anything in which the Apollos take part is bound to be a great success.

During their extensive tour last summer, they picked up many new numbers, some of which are "Moanin' Lady," "Vere is Mein Leedle Dog Gone," which will be included in the program. Dan and Vernon's snappy piano duets, Marvin's vocal solos, and Dan's trumpet solos are among the other interesting features.

This is the second home-coming program presented by the boys in their career, and it will be their 251st appearance since their organization.

As we all know, the Varsity Club is back of the student body in every way, so let's get behind them and show our appreciation, especially of their co-operation with us in putting in the lighting system on our athletic field, by attending this program.

There will be no reserved seats. The admission will be 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

LAVERNE LEOPARDS OUTFIGHT FRESNO BULLDOGS

PHOTOGRAPHY FOR LAMBDA TO START

LOCAL PHOTOGRAPHER HAS CONTRACT

The photographic department of the Lambda is very busy making preparations to take all the necessary pictures for the Lambda this year. Each student will have an individual picture, and the cost is almost negligible.

The price for Freshman and Sophomore pictures will be sixty cents each. Two poses will be taken of each student. The price for Junior and Senior pictures will be one dollar. Four poses will be taken of each person if an order is placed for pictures with one-half down payment accompanying the order, otherwise only two poses will be taken.

The photographic work will begin within the next few days. Mr. Bixler, our home photographer, will take the Lambda pictures this year, and all individual pictures will be taken at his studio.

In order that the pictures may be taken within the allotted time and that we get the best possible pictures, the Photograph Editor, Carroll Aeschbacher, urges the co-operation of every student. A schedule is worked out by which every student can get his picture taken without missing classes.

Let's co-operate with our Lambda staff and give it our support.

JUNIOR-FROSH IN MIX-UP

Apples, hot dogs, frolic! Young couples, fresh couples, married couples, and stags all gathered for a common purpose at San Dimas park.

The fun began at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday evening by playing games—three deep, last couple out, flying Dutchman—and "etc." until an appetite was acquired. Every one lined up for hot dogs and apples. Boy, did they taste good—and how!

Max Forney standing on the table like a Napoleon made an excellent target for "apple core—Baltimore." (Any sore spots, Max?) Opal Kuns fishing for the "weinie" was just too clever, and Charlie Snell found the other half of the worm!

Just a good time was had by all, and the party broke up early because the football heroes had to hit the hay.

HAPPINESS FOR ALL

Bringing the greatest amount of happiness to the largest number of people was the theme of Prof. Cullen's chapel talk on Tuesday.

Prof. Cullen related the story of a boy whose parents had planned his life with ideas which did not coincide with his own ambition—that of being of service to society. He left home with enthusiastic resolves and did succeed in being of great service to humanity by giving a portion of his land as a home for poor people.

First College Game of the Season Gives Prestige

The nature books say that Leopards do not go about in herds or droves. But the LaVerne Leopards invaded the kennel of the Fresno Bulldogs and outfought that animal to emerge with a 7-6 victory.

The Fresno touchdown came early in the contest. LaVerne received the ball on the hick-off and started a march down the field which was halted by Fresno tState on their own 40 yard line. Fresno took the ball at this point and worked it down the field as far as the LaVerne 25 yard line. Here, it seemed the Leopard would hold, but the Fresno-ites completed a pass over the goal line for their only score. An attempted place kick went wide and so went the extra point that would have meant a tie instead of a defeat for the Bulldogs.

LaVerne took the lead early in the third quarter, when they started a determined march that was not to be denied. Cecil Brooks started the fireworks on the kick-off in the second half, when he returned it thirty-three yards to his own forty-two yard line. He carried the ball most of the way from here on, while alternating with Vaniman on line bucks and off-tackle thrusts. These boys completed three first downs on this drive and placed the ball on the Fresno State ten yard line. At this point, Montgomery tossed the ball across the goal line to Jones, who welcomed it with open arms and gently forced it against mother earth for six points.

The extra point which LaVerne was able to garner came somewhat in the nature of a gift from the Fresno State aggregation. LaVerne attempted a place kick for the extra point, but the kick was wide. However, a Fresno man was offside and the ball was given to the orange and green team for another try. LaVerne again lined up in place kick formation but Vaniman took the ball and bucked it over for the margin of victory.

It was a great victory for the LaVerne team, with the pre-game dope all pointing to an easy victory for Fresno State, but the boys played inspired football and were not to be denied. To make certain that the victory was not a fluke, the Leopards out-gained the Bulldogs and registered 13 first downs to the Bulldogs' twelve.

Although the victory was sweet, it was a costly one, for injuries were too prevalent with the Whittier contest

Three cheers, and a cheer again. The Library has been declared open from 7:00 to 9:00 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings. The faculty and library committee co-operated with the students in a splendid manner by granting their request. Now it is our turn to show how much we appreciate this by observing the Library rules. Books may be taken out at 3:45, but they must be returned at 7:00 for use by those who want them until 9:00 when they may be signed out for the remainder of the night.

We students should become "library minded." By that I mean that we are to make use of the books in the Library. There is a well stocked rack of magazines and plenty of good reading, of which we should avail ourselves.

Again the present grade system takes a rap. S. C. has inaugurated a new experiment which is being watched with much interest by all educators.

Seventy Freshmen whose high school grades did not meet the requirements for entrance into the University have been permitted to enroll. Each year over a period of three years this will be done. The object is to determine whether or not the recommended high school grade is really the best basis on which to establish a student's fitness for college. Students of the present group who earn grades of between B's and C's, or higher, during their first year in college will be advanced the next year to regular university standing.

It is hoped that better requirements for college entrance than recommended grades in high school may be found. Perhaps many a brilliant mind has been denied a college education because it was occupied with other things in high school which were more suitable to its nature than the prescribed study courses.

If sufficient numbers of students in this first group show that they have scholastic ability of college level, the long-standing system of required grades may receive a real rap and the test of mental ability rather than knowledge of certain facts may be established as the entrance requirement for universities.

EXCUSES

There is one man the world is waiting breathlessly to meet, and that is the person who can make mistakes without also making excuses. Step right up, the line is not crowded!

Like flies, excuses breed profusely, and for every possible occasion there are from one to fifty of them available. Witless indeed is he who cannot find whole litters of them at will, for they crowd around on every hand, ready to be used one at a time or all together, as the need arises.

Our words are the express trains which transport our ideas to others. What decrepit interstate commerce systems we must have, with every locomotive an excuse!

Again, our words are our representatives before the minds of those about us. How unstable our "credit abroad" must be at the hands of such envoys!

If we failed in our lesson it was the fault of the teacher, or of our textbook, our dinner, fate, our best friend, or some other convenient martyr. If we lost the game the opponents either cheated or outweighed us or the field was slippery. If we were late for class it was because our car broke down, we had company, our alarm clock broke, didn't go off, or our neighbor's cat had kittens.

We don't believe our own excuses, then why do we think other folks are that "dumb"?

So let us collect our betterselves together, invade those cobwebbed attics of ours, and rid them for time and eternity of those mean, contemptible little rodents—excuses.

The world still waits for its excuse-free hero. Front seats are plentiful.

CAMPUS CHUCKLES

The Campus Times is a great invention,

The school gets all the fame;
The printer gets all the money,
And the staff gets all the blame!

Mr. Steves: "Did that young man smoke in the parlor last night? I found matches there."

Marion: "No, dad. He just lit a match to find out what time it was."

Nurse: "Willie, don't you want to see the new little sister that the stork brought?"

Willie: "Naw, I wanna see the stork first."

To the Frosh: "Conceit, like every other seat, must be sat on."

The robber wore rubbers and walked backwards," deduced Hanshaw. "Oh," observed Watson, "then we must look for a man with receding gums."

Zelda Sheler: "Are you a track man?"

Bert Jones: "Girlie, you ought to see the callouses on my chest from breaking ropes."

Turney: "He is the funniest guy I ever struck."

Joe Pratt: "Did he live?"

EDITORIALS AND FEATURES

A DARING INNOVATION

"The way of the innovator has always been hard." The dean said that, and he followed it up with, "Progress is the result of variation." He was right. (He always is.) Now the variation that I am going to suggest in the name of progress is that we stock our Student Store with a supply of nice green and orange fly-swatters.

The idea isn't crude, it's merely practical. Someday you will agree with me. For the time will come when all your powers of concentration are centered on some deep hidden fact that is to be revealed in the next intricate words of the Dean and you suddenly become aware of the fact that a plump innocent little fly is crawling around on your hand (the one you are taking notes with, of course) and eyeing you with mild curiosity. In a second he is joined by several old friends and they skip around and have a delightfully social time. You make a vicious grab—they are gone—you turn your mind to the lecture. The Dean is asking, "How many of you believe this is true?" You sit there with that blank stare on your face that denotes absolute vacancy. The dean sees, feels sorry for you, and thinks—oh, well, there is at least one in every class.

We must have fly swatters! You laugh—I knew you would, but again I quote the first sentence of this article. "The way of the innovator has always been hard."

STUDENT PHILOSOPHY

It ain't what you get out of college that counts, it's what you take out. Whether you get a black eye or an "A" or an "F" when you are in college doesn't matter much unless you take it out with you.

Did you ever notice how anxious most students are to get something out of college? Whether they want to go to college or whether they must, whether they are paying their bills or sending them to dad—unpaid bills don't count—whether they are old or young, they want to get something out of college.

There is Alice Fitzsimmons, for instance. She is determined that she is going to get good grades. Good times, social contacts, proper exercise, sufficient sleep, and even food to eat must go if need be—she is going to get grades. Somehow, she doesn't seem to realize that when she gets to be fair and forty, perhaps a little too plump, somewhat "old maidish," and even a little lonely, that she will have forgotten the formula for making carbon dioxide; will not care to prove that a right angle contains 90 degrees; and will find it impossible to recall the third person singular, imperative subjunctive of the German verb "wissen."

On the other hand, Amadeo Fitts is going to college to get "some fun out of it." He belongs to the Spanish Club, the Los Comminus Hiking Club, the Society for the Study of Criminology, the Fair Haven Riding Club, the Far Hills Golf Club, the Rest-a-While Smoking Club, and the Senior Euchre Club; and he is trying to form some other clubs so that he can go to a club meeting each night of the week. He doesn't realize that by the time college is over he will have had so much fun that he will not be able to remember much of it.

Old Hiram Speeks has the right idea.

"Yes, sir," he says, "you wantta be sure that you take somethin' out o' college. When I went to Upshaw State College I didn't get nothin' but

SPASMS

Just to mention some of the greater wonders of nature along with the beautiful California climate, rains, mountains, etc, the greatest of all is how a stray bramble, from one of the prickly bushes that abound on this picturesque campus, can always reach out and puncture my delicate hide.

If one could travel across the continent and never see a drunken person, then one's own community, (which is admittedly of a higher standard) must look quite perfect.

Crime is decreasing. Prohibition is a success, or at least a great improvement. The evil in the world is far away—something abstract—something to be discussed in terms, statistics, figures, and records of the past.

We do not shut our eyes to the things in our immediate vicinity: we look but we do not see.

"The largest swimming pool in New York—drilled and piped thru solid rock from a depth of 500 feet, affording patrons the opportunity of swimming in the water you drink at home.—Hotel adv.

"The origin of Sousa's name happened this way: The initials of his real name are S. O. His connection with the United States Army resulted in his trunks being lettered S. O. U. S. A. Get it?" —Evening Graphic. Now wait, don't hurry us.

A tragedy has recently occurred within our midst. No one knows the gruesome details as yet. It goes something like this: Late the other night in Miller Hall an untimely interruption prevented the solution of an unusually difficult physics problem. Although, I am sure it was quite an accident, the earnest students of physics burned for vengeance.

The following night a blood-curdling scream echoed down the halls—there was a groan, another scream (several of them, in fact) and then a deathlike silence reigned.

I could not think of revealing the horrible hidden facts of the case to you, but for further information you might consult the recently published book entitled "How to Get Vengeance in a Dormitory," E. Shepp and I. Sheller.

Last night I dreamed I was going to school and that I broke my pencil. I went out in the hall and there was a sharpener as nice as any well bred sharpened could be. I was starting to sharpen my pencil when I woke up, darn it. I wonder what happened to all the pencil sharpeners around here. There is only one left that will work. They were either used by some bachelor's club for meat grinders or some one kicked them all to pieces. Let's have some more; what say?

"This is the bunk," said the tramp as he fell into the box car.

a paddlin' for disobeyin' Freshman rules, and an 'X' (that means sure failure) in the Humanities; but when I left I took out a college debt, several friendships, and a wife. Then, when I landed out in the world my debts made me work, my friends gave me work to do, and my wife loved me so much that it made work easy. If I hadn't taken somethin' out o' college I never would have amounted to anything. Yes, sir! It ain't what you get out of college that counts, it's what you take out.

"SKIDDING" SELECTED AS JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

The Junior play selected for this year is the three-act comedy entitled "Skidding," by Aurania Rouverol. The play was voted on at the last class meeting unanimously.

The play is a rollicking story of American family life. Judge Hardy, the father of the family, is running for re-election. Mrs. Hardy longs to be helpful but her knowledge of politics is very limited. Estelle and Myra are the two married daughters who are swamped with matrimonial difficulties and return "home to mother." Andy is the young son who is passionately fond of cross word puzzles. Marion Hardy, the youngest daughter, has just returned from college and longs to follow a political career—but Wayne Trenton III is determined to marry her and keep her from this unwomanly profession. Grandpa Hardy is a sweet old soul who isn't quite sure what it is all about—but feels sure everything is going smoothly. Aunt Milly is Mrs. Hardy's old maid sister who is extremely disgusted with the entire family, chiefly because they do not appreciate their husbands. With a group of characters like this, the play promises to entertain everyone.

Tryouts are to be Wednesday at noon. The lines to be read will be posted on the bulletin board.

W. A. A. CABINET MEETS

Following a luncheon in Prof. Merritt's room Monday noon, Oct. 5, a W. A. A. cabinet meeting was called by Frances Nix, president, for the purpose of drawing up a constitution, including a point system which will be presented to the girls in their first meeting.

Prof. Gilbert: "What animal has the greatest fondness for man?"
M. Butterbaugh: "Women."

WORRIED

The family is collected around the bed of the dying old store keeper merchant.

The old man: "Is Rachael there?"
Rachael (sobbing): "Here I am."
Old man: "Is Margaret there?"
Margaret: "Yes, father."
Old Man: "Is Jakey there?"
Little Jakey (crying): "Here I am, papa."

Old Man: "Where is Abie, is he there, too?"

Rachael (sobbing): "Little Abie is right over there."

Old Man: "Then who in the debil is watching the store?"

on tap for Friday night. Swihart and Brownsberger will both undoubtedly be unable to play against Whittier because of injuries suffered. Swihart aggravated an old leg injury and Brownsberger injured a shoulder. Lathrop received a bad sprain of his ankle and in all probability will see but little service against Whittier. Bob Flynn became quite sick during the contest but will no doubt be ready for service Friday night. All of these men are regulars, so it bodes little good for LaVerne's chances against the strong Whittier aggregation who have taken it on the chin in their last two starts and will be rarin' for revenge when they meet the LaVerne Leopard.

But to get back to the ball game. The boys all played a superlative brand of ball. Three Leopards lasted thru the whole game: "Hobbs" Adams, whose defensive work was much improved; Bob Flynn, who was a whirlwind of defense and a much improved player on offense, which in a large measure accounts for the effectiveness of the LaVerne offense for Bob is the key man in this department of the game, and Cecil Brooks, who again played his superlative type of ball, or maybe he played better than usual. He started the game at quarter and this is a position he has not occupied since high school days. He got along O. K. at this position, but he did not begin to sparkle until his sidekick, "Red" Montgomery, joined him. "Red" started the game on the bench be-

His best piece of running, when he returned a punt from his own 10 yard line to the enemy's 25 yard line, was not allowed because an over-zealous LaVerne man was penalized for roughing the kicker.

LEOPARD KITTENS
BEAT MONTEBELLO

Thursday afternoon on Arnett Field LaVerne Frosh defeated Montebello in a rather uneven game. The Frosh ran at will thru their opponents, hinging up six touchdowns, four of which were converted by "Peanuts" Roberts, who is a real asset to the team when it comes to making place kicks and touchdowns, as he made two of the touchdowns out of six. Smith, Hylton, Elder and Albers accounted for one touchdown each.

The Frosh are showing real teamwork and they should make a good showing in their three conference games. LaVerne's line-up follows: Kerr, left end; Smith, left tackle; Nordstrum, left guard; Dickey, center; Butterbaugh, right guard; Harshbarger, right tackle; Crites, right end; Elder, quarter; Roberts, left half; Jones, right half, and Reed, fullback.

HAVE SCRIMMAGE

Wednesday evening Coach Van Cleave's Jaysee football team scrimmaged the varsity on Arnett Field. There was no outstanding playing done by LaVerne, as they seemed to be taking things easy in anticipation of the Fresno game. Van Cleave has worked up a snappy team and we all wish him luck.

Both oaches were on the field directing their men and helping them run their plays. As far as touchdowns go, there was none made by either side. LaVerne made more yardage and first downs than the Jaysee, but failed to shove the pigskin across the goal line. Montgomery and Swihart watched the game from the bench, as both had an injured knee. "Peewee" Lathrop caused quite a bit of excitement when he rubbed "capsicum" on his face instead of vaseline. Ask "Peewee" if capsicum isn't "hot stuff."

RALLY FOR WHITTIER
GAME THURSDAY NITE

Ye loyal students, next Friday night at Whittier, the LaVerne Leopards will have the toughest game of the season thus far, when they meet the Whittier Quakers. We are having a rally Thursday night in preparation for this encounter! Will we have to prepare, and how!

Since it is the custom for the Frosh to build the bonfire, we are expecting to see a large symbol of Whittier go up in smoke. Frosh, don't disappoint us.

We certainly had a large number of loyal rooters at the rally last Friday. Let's make this rally twice as enthusiastic as the one which resulted in a victory for the Leopards.

Remember, students and alumni, this is our first conference game. Let's all be there with a clear throat and loads of enthusiasm Thursday night at 7:30.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

It takes seven years for light, which travels at the rate of 186,300 miles a second, to pass across the top of the Big Dipper. The distance is over 41,000,000,000,000 miles. This means that, if a track were provided, an express train traveling at the rate of 60 miles per hour would require about 78,120,000 years to make the trip. And, allowing 40 years for the average period that an engineer is able to function at the throttle, and providing for the eight-hour shift, it would take the active lives of 5,859,000 different engineers to guide the train to the other star. At the rate of three cents a mile, the fare for the trip would be $1,231,796,160,000. If a person should have that amount of money to spend, this would be a useless way to spend it, for, relatively speaking, his three score and ten years would be over before the train hardly pulled out of the station. If an observer at the end of the handle of the dipper had a telescope so powerful that he could see as far as the other side of the dipper, he would be able to witness the start of the trip nearly 17 years after it took place.

If this huge dipper were the size and shape that the cross section indicates, it would hold approximately 1,220,541,302,774,293,635,320,000,000,000,000 cubic miles of water. And if there were a giant who would care to use a dipper of that size, he would be so large that the highest balloon ascension ever made would not clear the epidermis on the bottom of his foot. The distance to the top of his toe would be thousands of times the distance from the earth to the sun. If our earth should fall into this dipper he would swallow it and never realize our presence in his system. The Big Dipper, however, is only a very small group of stars in the universe.

STUDENT SOCIAL LIFE

FACULTY

Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert entertained at 6:00 o'clock breakfast last week the following: Vera Mae tafford, Mrs. Lucy Trostle, Florence and Anna Mes-samer, Edith Flory and Mildred Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Yoder attended the district conference in Empire, Calif., and also attended the football game in Fresno.

Professor Cullen spent two days last week at the State conference of superintendents in Riverside. Wednesday night he attended a banquet for those attending U. C. L. A., U. S. C., U. of C., and Stanford.

President Studebaker spent the latter part of last week in Empire, California, attending the district conference of the Church of the Brethren. He saw the Fresno vs. LaVerne foot-ball game.

Professor Brubaker, secretary-treasurer of the annual Women's Forensic Club, met in an annual meeting at U. C. L. A. and decided the women's debate question; also the declamation and extempore contest.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS GIVE PROGRAM AT MIDNIGHT MISSION

Owing to the fact that Thursday was Midnight Mission night for LaVerne College, the Student Volunteers canceled their regular meeting and provided the program for the mission.

The program consisted of several numbers by a mixed quartet composed of Virginia Stern, Evelyn Dear-dorff, Elmo Holl and Claude Rupel, two duets by Anna and Florence Messamer, a piano solo by Emma Mae Neff, a vocal solo by Fred Brunk, and two talks, one by Royal Glick and the other by Arno Myers.

It was reported that this was one of the most successful programs that the college has put on, as well as one of the most enjoyed programs that the mission has listened to for several months.

Homer Kreps: "Did you tell Fred I was a fool?"
"No, I thought he knew that."

SENIOR CLASS IN TURMOIL

Senior class met again Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Grace Brubaker. A good time was had by all, as far as hubbub and a get-to-gether is concerned, but the two im-portant decisions made were sadly reversed later.

Two kind Los Angeles salesmen displayed many styles and colors of leather jackets. As is usual, the little girls and boys took about one hour to "almost" agree on two jackets. To cap it all, the class finally decided to drop the project idea regarding wearing apparel! All that discussion for naught! Anyway we were able to try on many of the jackets and hold an informal fashion revue.

The othre important decision re-versed was concerning a proposed skating party for the Sophs. We were going to have a good time, but blame Eisan and football for the cancellation of the party.

Don't worry, though, Sophs, we shall get together yet.

POPULARITY OF W. A. A. INCREASING

Speaking of new clubs—did you ever see one spring up with such a mighty leap as this Women's Athletic Association? In one day 61 women students joined this club, elected their cabinet, and paid their dues!

If these women continue the way they have started, we are a doomed institution. We shall be completely subdued and hence-forth dominated by the fairer sex. Seriously, however, this isn't as miraculous as it seems. For a long time there has been agita-tion for some sort of an organiza-tion that would make women's athletics more than just dainty little games of "I see you."

From now on the women will take their athletics seriously. They are even thinking of enforc-ing strict training rules. This might help football — not, of course, that the women are think-ing of playing that masculine game themselves, but—figure it out for yourself.

May: "Did her voice fill the audito-rium?"

Dora: "No, it emptied it."

Ed O.: "Have you got a date this evening, Ruth?"

Ruth Van Fleet: "No, Ed; why?"

Ed: "Well, you ought not to be so sleepy in the morning."

HOW THE FACULTY SPENT THEIR VACATION

Many of our students went places and saw things this summer, but they weren't alone for so did our faculty. If you don't believe it just read how and where they spent their summer vacations.

President Studebaker spent much time in his office. He had general charge of the publicity campaign for new students. He edited the May August Bulletin. Nevertheless, all his time wasn't spent in working. He and Mrs. Studebaker took a few short trips, visiting Jenks Lake, Big Bear and Camp Baldy.

Dr. Hoover spent a quiet summer here in LaVerne. At different times he and Mrs. Hoover and her mother vis-ited the beaches and mountains. He also spent part of his time reading four new textbooks, as many of the students realized.

One of our busiest this summer was Dr. Emmert, who, it seems, attended every posible conference, meeting and assembly. His chief work was in the Mission Board meetings. First he at-tended the annual church conference in Colorado Springs. From there to Arrowood, Canada, where he attend-ed the district conference. From there he traveled with M. R. Zigler and family farther north thru the National Park Banff, returning south to Idaho, where he was an instructor in the summer assembly of Idaho. He next went to Washington, visiting prospective students in the interest of the college, also attended the sum-mer assemblies of Washington and Oregon, and here again he was an instructor. On his trip home he at-tended the district Conference of Southern California and Arizona. The last trip before the summer ended was to Elgin, Illinois, to attend the Mis-sion Board meeting. This was made in a few hours less than a week, and he spent two days of this time in the sessions.

Dr. Frantz spent his vacation in La-Verne making repairs on his new home that he purchased this summer.

Five weeks of Dr. Sarafian's sum-mer was spent studying Mexican life in Mexico City, Mexico. The rest of the time he spent at his home in Van Nuys, reading, writing, and resting.

Professor Brandt attended the first session of the U. S. C. summer school. The latter part of the summer he spent in LaVerne.

After spending some time in the Philippine Islands, Dr. Spencer ar-rived back in the States last May. This summer he spent teaching in Stanford University.

Prof. Brubaker attended the first session of summer school at U. S. C. The rest of the summer he spent in soliciting new students in the interest of the college.

Professor Gladdys Muir spent a quiet summer in Pasadena with only a two weeks vacation at Laguna Beach.

Molly: "So you think a girl should propose?"

E. Eisan: "I don't know. Have you tried everything else?"
