FOOTBALL BANQUET ENDS SEASON

DALE GLICK ELECTED CAPTAIN FOR NEXT YEAR

Otis Brooks Chosen from Seventeen Letter Men as Season's Most Valuable Player

This year's football season came to an official close at the Football Banquet which was held in the dining hall of the Ladies' Dormitory on Tuesday evening, December 1st. Approximately one hundred twenty-five alumni, students and friends were present to administer last rites and pay a final tribute to the most prosperous season of LaVerne's five years of football history.

A fitting finale it was. Besides the regular rituals of awarding the team, vocally and materially, the evening was spent in a jolly program of readings, songs, special stunts, all introduced by a worthy toastmaster in the person of Prof. Ray Cullen.

The suspense of the occasion was concealed in the election of a captain and the awarding of the MacDonald trophy to the "most valuable player of the season." Dale Glick received the compliments of the team in being chosen to the former honor. Otis Brooks, the sensational half-back of the year, received the cup. Both of these men will form the nucleus of next year's backfield and should make a dangerous pair with the support of the other backfield men who showed up so well this year.

SOPHOMORES ANNEX BASKET TITLE

Defeat Freshmen Basketeers in Close Game Which Proves Best in History

By Howard Hoff

The Sophomores won the interclass basketball championship by defeating the Freshmen 31-29 on December 3d. But to stop here would be something like saying that old Rip Van slept. This same team won their game last year as Frosh, and of course were forced to continue their supremacy, but how near it came to meeting its Chateau Thierry at the hands of this year's battling Frosh can only be appreciated by those who were present.

For what seemed like an hour or so after the first tossup, the ball was carried from one end of the court to the other, only to meet some stubborn guards and retreat. And then Chet Shirk, forwarding for the Frosh, (Continued on page 4)

A PIECE O' GOOSE

"Say, Sambo, what you all been sniffin' around so much for lately?"
"Sh! Mose. Don't you smell somethin'?"

"Smell somethin'! Lawsy, I believe I do."

"What is it, Mose? It sho' do smell mighty fine, but I don't know what it is."

"Oh, Sambo! I know what it smells like."

"What, Mose?"

"Why it done smell like goose."

"What goose?"

"Oh, ya good for nothin' nigger, don't ya know. 'The Goose Hangs High'."

"Say, Mose, I want a piece o' dat goose."

"Well, I'se gwine to tell you where you can get a piece. You all come 'round January 8th and the Seniors will give you a piece o' dat dere goose."

GIRLS DEBATE TWICE IN A WEEK

New Method of Debate Proves Interesting and Pleases Audience by Novel Arrangements

"Resolved, that this House pities its grandchildren." At least that is what representatives from S. B. U. C. tried to convince the audience assembled in the College Auditorium, December 2d. But equally as efficient a negative team, representing LaVerne College and composed of Ramah Maust and Pearl Witcher, maintained that the House does not pity its grandchildren.

The English system of judging debates is being used, therefore no definite decision was reached as to the winning team. However, the teams were rather evenly matched and both did exceptionally well. LaVerne has just reason to be proud of her representatives from the girls' forensic department.

December 9th, the girls' affirmative debate team engaged in a verbal dispute with the girls from Occidental College. The LaVerne representatives were the stronger and did well in their constructive arguments, but rebuttals gave evidence of the fact that the Occidental team had spent much time in research work.

The questions asked by the audience were very difficult but well answered by both teams considering the short space of time given in which to answer them.

CONFERENCE CONSIDERS ADMITTING LAVERNE

Application for Full Membership in Conference Referred to Committee to Report Next Spring.

At the Southern California Inter-Collegiate Conference Committee meeting on December 5th, several things were brought up which are of special interest to LaVerne. Prof. Brandt, Prof. Cullen, and Dr. Arnett were the delegates.

LaVerne, along with San Diego State Teachers' College, applied again for full membership in the Conference. These applications were referred to a committee composed of Mr. Sorenson, of Cal Tech; Mr. Woodford, of Pomona, and Mr. Marsh, of Redlands, who will report at the next regular meeting, which will be held in March.

It is with a good deal of interest that LaVerne awaits the recommendation of this committee. Both LaVerne and San Diego have been associate members of the Conference, but this has not placed them on an equal basis with the other schools, as this year's records entitle them to. And so it is hoped that next year both schools will have an equal chance to fight for Conference titles. The indications look very favorable.

LA VERNE SUFFERS CLASS WARS

FROSH-SOPH RIVALRY TAKES ACTIVE FORM

Classes Engage in War with Righteous Indignation as Upper Constituents Stand by and Laugh.

The Frosh and the Sophs had a scrap. It began on December 3d about 10:05 p. m. when the elder class let out a war-whoop in chapel. It hasn't exactly ended yet, for there are still brewing the after-effects of indecisive victories. A good scowl from any good-looking Frosh face will become contagious on an equally handsome Soph countenance, and said appearances will readily become scarred and disfigured by the horrors of another battle.

The shot that was heard around the campus exploded in the hall, immediately following chapel on the third, when certain wit-saturated Freshmen had written all over the premises with white chalk these history-making words, "Beat the Sophs!" (Jump the fence and read on.)

WELL! WELL! WELL!

The latest bit of inside information about LaVerne College from an outside source comes to The Campus Times as a very interesting piece of news, extremely new.

A good friend of the College, who lives down the boulevard in a neighboring city, reports that there are two rumors being circulated about the institution. Briefly they are:

1. LaVerne College fellows are playing Sunday baseball (professional?).

2. There have been held informal, indecent, inhuman, vulgar, vehement, and extremely violent dances in the basement of the Ladies' Dormitory.

(Time out for a hearty laugh. Proceed.)

Well, what do you know about

SECOND LYCEUM NUMBER IS PRESENTED

Dr. Edward Amherst Ott Speaks on the Moral and Religious "Measure of a Man."

The lecturer and educationalist, Edward Amherst Ott, delivered his lecture, "The Measure of a Man," to a large audience on Friday, December 10, 1925. As the second number on the lyceum course for this year, it was well worth the while of everyone present.

Dr. Ott began his lecture by showing the fallacy of modern education. "We have too long taken as the ideally educated person the man with a high "intelligence quotient," or "I. Q." We neglect the moral training and it has resulted in a great crime wave." Dr. Ott believes that a man's moral nature may be trained and graded as easily as his intellectual nature. This training would include training in manners and morals and religion. A man's measure will then be his "M. Q." (moral quotient) in addition to his "I. Q." A good citizen will be normal in both. "The Measure of a Man" will not be one-sided—it will be the "measure of a well rounded man."

Prof. Sarafian was given a distinct privilege by having a signed article on the World Court published on the editorial page of the Los Angeles Times, Monday morning.

COLLEGES PULL FOR WORLD COURT

WORLD COURT CONFERENCE AT PASADENA TAKES DEFINITE STEP

LaVerne Allies Itself with Other Colleges in Informing U. S. Senators of Unanimous Stand.

Five representatives from LaVerne attended the conference on the World Court which was held at the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena on December 5th. The LaVerne representatives were, Dr. Hoover, Prof. Serafian, Pres. Studebaker, Prof. Cullen, Pearl Witcher, and Nellie Frantz. A deep consideration of the World Court, America's place in it, and the problems which prevent international peace were discussed.

This conference was attended by about one hundred and fifty delegates from all the colleges in the Southland. So one can readily see that it was a direct step which the students of the nation are taking to help solve, or at least influence those who can solve world affairs.

LaVerne has fallen in line by direct action on this question. At the last student body meeting, it was unanimously voted to send telegrams to the California senators stating that this college was in favor of entrance into the World Court. This is being done in most of the colleges in the land, and the move certainly will have a large effect.

The building fund for the new building now stands at $137,000. This does not take into account what Rev. H. A. Frantz may have in the next report which will come from Santa Ana.

STUDENTS FINANCE ATHLETIC INJURIES

Student Body Votes Assessment Upon Classes to Care for Injuries Received in Football Season.

Due to the fact that there were more injuries received in football games this year than before, the athletic fund was incapable of paying the doctor bills for them. At the last student body meeting the students voted to assess themselves for the amount needed. The work was left to the classes. The Freshmen are privileged in being able to raise their amount by basketball games. The games Friday afternoon with Bonita High, and Saturday evening with Pomona Frosh, were both benefit games for this cause. The Sophomores decided to raise their quota by direct assessments which will cost each member seventy-five cents. The methods the upper classes are employing are unknown, if any.

'28 WHO WON THE WAR? '29

On the night of December 4th the Sophomore Class went on a lark which will go down in the annals of history as the gayest of gay parties, and will be remembered unto the third and fourth generation. Armed with wieners, buns and mustard, four carloads of the loyal Sophs set out for Dalton Canyon, where it was rumored the Freshies were attempting to have a steak bake. Scouts sent ahead reported that the Freshies were all on their ears with the suspense of expecting their formidable enemy to appear on the scene any moment. It must have been true, for no sooner had the Sophs driven casually up the canyon than they all tore past in frenzied haste for the open road. Just before reaching the boulevard the pursuers cornered a certain blue roadster and surrounded it. The driver turned a sickly green and suddenly, much to the delight of his captors, scuttled right out through an orange grove like a frightened rabbit.

Battle followed battle in successive, spontaneous order. They were pitched here and there, from the basement to the flagpole on the tower.

One of the most desperate battles took place the following Friday evening, the account of which is given in the articles appearing to the right and to the left of what you are now reading. Under ordinary circumstances the editor of this paper would refuse to publish articles written in the attitude which these two partly convey. and some equally brilliance-inflated Sophs tried to rub them out and reverse the charge. This centered the attention of all the other people of the immediate world upon the game between the two organized classes on the basketball court that afternoon. War was declared and everything was fair.

Though bowing to the Sophs in the interclass basketball fray, in the battle of wits the Frosh held the upper hand. Following is the story in which the Sophomores ignobly showed their ignorance:

On Friday morning plans were definitely laid on the preparation of the "steak fry," which the Freshmen had formulated before and set for that evening. The Sophomores started to look like wise owls, i. e., minus the wistom, and seemed to have a counterplot which was supposed to end the Freshman party in disaster. A great variety of furtive whisperings and knowing signals were passed all around, and at 4 o'clock the Frosh gathered at Cecilia Shaffer's, prepared for anything. Six loaded cars left for Big Dalton and about thirty Freshmen rolled up the canyon to a secluded spot where there was a waiting fireplace. To show the Sophs that they expected to give them a "hot hand" if they ever appeared,

A special trustee meeting of La Verne College will be held Saturday morning to consider the advisability of starting work on the new building immediately. This will be attended by the trustees from both districts of California. If the trustees decide in favor of immediate construction (which undoubtedly will be the case according to administrative opinion) special district meetings in both districts will be called soon after Christmas holidays.

WE AIM TO PLEASE

JOHN KETELSEN

The play "Tyndale" is being prepared by members of the Dramatics Class with the aid of Mrs. Haugh's coaching, and is to be rendered during the Annual Bible Institute conducted here at LaVerne.

The play is centered around Tyndale, the English martyr who lost his life through his endeavor to have the Bible printed for his people. This particular play has been chosen because of its educational and spiritual value.

WHAT WILL YOU BELIEVE?

Since leaving college, I have learned why students, after leaving school, find their theories of religion, of ethics, of science, of music, of dramatics, of life, impractical.

It is necessary for students to choose theories that seem to them to be the most practical, and theories that contain the most truth. In most cases, the testing of these theories comes after college days.

Many fail because they have chosen impractical and untruthful theories. But more fail because they do not put forth enough effort to make these theories practical.

THE EDITOR'S STORY

thing out of it!" Not wishing to battle the angry thoughts of an angry class, and inasmuch as the affair was sponsored by at least one-fourth of the student body, and should therefore be given the publicity of a student activity, there was but one alternative. Along came the other side of the story.

Oh, the trials and tribulations of an editor!

Both sides are published but not necessarily upheld. It's all in the point of view. If those parts that should be cut were put through that discriminatory process, the final result would be exceedingly unbalanced, perchance. We simply ask the reader to weigh the evidence, cull out that which is apparently over-exaggerated and read the rest with several grains of salt.

For you see, this class war is not really as severe as you may have been led to suppose. Sophomores still are friendly with their Freshman lady friends. If there have been any breaches, they have been done so without noticeable eruption and the parties concerned should be congratulated for that. The presidents of the two classes are determined to see that the affair does not exceed fun limit. The best way to keep it so is for everyone to consider it such. If outside spectators imagine that the two parties are dragging the rivalry down to a serious basis, it is altogether probable that that psychological attitude will have such an effect upon the rivals, who otherwise have no such intentions.

At the last debate meeting, President Studebaker was impressing the importance of experience as a factor in evidence. To illustrate it, he referred to the cartoons of the day, saying that the funniest or best ones were those which depict common experiences. He told of a cartoon he had seen which contained the following story:

A little child was in bed. The night was as dark as could be. Occasionally a streak of lightning would flash by the window. At each flash the child would cover up his head and sob his fears. Finally he jumped out of bed and ran to the room where his father and mother were sleeping.

"Don't be afraid," his mother soothed. "The angels will take care of you."

"Well, you can go and sleep with the angels if you want to," replied the boy, "but I'll sleep with Pop."

The Spice of Life

Resume of Chapel Speeches by Hazel Funk

It should be the business of college students to learn to think in world terms, and about world problems. The national and international policies of tomorrow have their genesis in the mental outlook of students of today. To avoid future calamity and insure peace as an international attainment, college students should be seriously interested in any group whose business is to bring about these conditions. That is why members of the faculty of LaVerne have been giving a series of lectures on the World Court. That is why we, as students, should do more than allow these lectures to go in one ear and out the other. As professor Cullen puts it, these discussions were aimed at creating a sentiment to influence senators to vote for the World Court, showing the rest of the world our sentiment, and creating a positive attitude toward peace and the World Court.

Professor Kurtz informs us that the World Court is an outgrowth of American ideals. Its purpose is to settle international disputes, which it admirably accomplishes, in the light of its accomplishments of the past three years.

There are many critical conditions among nations in the world today which might lead to war. The reason there is no war is not because the conditions are not favorable but because public sentiment is against it. Political leaders are willing, but common men are adverse to another bloody conflict. Will public sentiment continue to keep us out of war? Professor Serafian says it will if we vest the widespread sentiment for peace in an institution. The World Court fills the bill.

Prof. Cullen says our old Christian ideals of peace were negative. The modern Christian ideals of peace are positive. But, in spite of our ideals, we are not willing to sit down with the rest of the world in practical business. Wilson says the reason Americans are not willing to put their ideals into practice and take part in world affairs is because Americans are not willing to take responsibility. College students are not willing to take responsibility. If they were, older people would be inspired to do more. College students must think. Think, but not with the gang. Mob psychology is not patriotism. We must think constructively and internationally; positively, not negatively. Here are some things to think upon: Are you willing to enlist in another war? If so, upon what conditions?

The World Court is a venture, but that does not depreciate its value. Are you willing to venture into something big? Either the world will come together or it will keep apart. It is coming together. It is coming together economically and industrially. It is coming together in international territory along all lines. Let us take a step which will bring us even closer together in peaceful relations. Pastor Rothrock says we are already entangled in world affairs. We were in war, why not in peace? "The reason we are not in the World Court is a matter of politics, pure and simple." Dr. Arnett says that the only way America can become great is by following Christ, by giving ourselves, not by holding aloof.

President Studebaker believes that politics alone cannot put America into the World Court. The help of the church is needed. United effort can do wonders. All the great accomplishments of the world have come through united effort. He discusses four phases of the place of the church in world society: What relation the church should hold with the social nature, education, science, and brotherhood. The church should take care of the entire social nature. It is the only organization in the world which ever attempted to do this. The church should educate its youth to greater service in its behalf. The church has always stood for education. If, when educated, we cannot go back to the home church and accomplish more, we have failed in our education.

The church is founded upon the principle of brotherhood. The Golden Rule of the church is a good rule to apply to all life's problems. "It is the business of the church to develop the highest type of character along the principles of Christianity. The church must quit quibbling with one another on the inside and direct its effort toward the one on the outside."

Mrs. Cullen says we can be ambitious and yet content. The answers to many questions as to why one can't have this or that are often found in one's self. Often we are so busy asking why and wishing for things that we fail to see the beauties about us.

The Y. M. C. A. held its regular first Monday of the month meeting, December 7th, in the dining hall of the Dormitory. Pie was served to the group by the Y. W. C. A., after which President Studebaker gave an interesting and beneficial address on the subject of "Manhood."

WELL! WELL! WELL!

that?
The only thing that could lead one to opine that there is baseball played in LaVerne on Sunday would be to mistake the Mexican youngsters who spend such an afternoon in the athletic field. Humph!

Well, about those dances in the basement of the Ladies' Dorm:

Said basement consists of a dining hall, a kitchen, a store room, a laundry room, and the cook's living quarters. The only place where such dances could be carried on would be in the kitchen, where it would be appropriate to use the "kitchen sink."

Or the furnace room, where they could connect with the switch and create the shocking effect.

Still the dining hall might be available at meal time when the fellows are admitted, when no chicken is served without plenty of dressing.

Well, well, well!

There are no such things and we all know it. But it just reminds one of other rumors which someone by the grace of Beelzebub and all his devilets is pleased to throw into life's rosy countenance. These two stories are impossible from every standpoint. So are the ones who started them.

A FAILURE

An interesting social phenomenon occurred in the classroom last Tuesday. A well meaning student, laboriously carrying on a recitation, gave vent to the expression "he don't." Immediately a look of shocked horror, followed by one of pained surprise, crossed the face of the professor behind the desk. A kind of electric silence gripped the occupants of the room and they seemed to freeze in their places. Their sensitive ears grew pink with embarrassment. In this strained atmosphere, the criminal, realizing the enormity of the offense he had committed, felt himself shrink until he seemed to be microscopically small.

When finally the period was ended, he rushed gratefully forth to the kindly out-of-doors, resolving to guard his tongue with an iron will lest he ever make such a failure in society again.

PERSONAL

The women of the Brethren Church have been entertaining the Clarion Four right royally with delicious dinners during their services in the revival meetings now in progress.

June Hershey spent the week-end in Long Beach.

Sociology involves some hard questions, such as the distinction between stable and unstable groups. But Otis Brooks comes out ahead when he asserts that the former is a gathering of cows.

A group of students withdrew from the maddening crowd, December 5th, to restore their jaded nerves with a week-end house party at Big Bear Lake. Blanche Young, Wanda Carl, and Hazel Studebaker, and Wilbur Hoke, Bert Betts, and Graham Palmer, with Mrs. Newcomer as chaperone, were those who went a-larking.

Mrs. B. S. Haugh entertained the Clarion Four on Wednesday evening, December 9th, in honor of Prof. Haugh's birthday. It was a charming little party with a very musical atmosphere, carried out even to the clever menu. A buffet luncheon was served.

Mrs. Merritt was lately enveloped in a deluge of sonnets, not written to her, however, but for her, by the 10a English Class. Since this attempt the class has a deep and awed respect for the intellect of poets. If there is any merit in the sonnets it will probably take the form of corrections.

If a "Pearl among women" is referred to, breathes there a man with soul so dead that he must ask Witcher who?

THE SOPH STORY

The Sophs then picked up the scent of a small car containing the president and chaperone. They chased it, teased it, played with it, as a cat plays with a mouse. But having no really murderous designs they finally dropped it not, however, before enjoying the privilege of twisting the president's toe.

Then for the real fun. Up to San Dimas Canyon for a jolly wiener bake they went; to Chino for cider; to La Verne with the good old Sophomore yells; back to Pomona, where the Frosh were gratefully recuperating at a theater, and LaVerne again to enjoy the home-coming of certain of the returning unusually interesting-coupled Freshmen.

THE FROSH STORY

several Frosh boys blockaded the narrow road. A little after 6 o'clock, after an enjoyable meal of tasty steak between buns; pickles, cookies, and apples, and an impromptu program, the class decided to attend the "show" in Glendora. A short distance on their way down they encountered a half a dozen cars containing Sophomores. As the roads were narrow and they had a definite place to go, the Freshmen let the oncoming cars take care of themselves and proceeded on their way to Glendora. However, finding the Sophomores insistently trailing them, the Frosh cars scattered and let the Sophomores follow their noses through Glendora and presumably home. Meeting behind the Church of the Brethren, the class decided to go to Pomona, and after one car looked for the auto which carried Professor Hollenberg, they all met and parked at the Opera Garage, and crowded into the "California" for a few "pointers" on being an "eagle" from Valentino. A family reconciliation was held later, when the stray students came in without Prof. Hollenberg, who had dropped off at his home to hear his "offspring squall."

Everyone then went peacefully home and called it a day.

Rev. Frantz reports that the Santa Ana Church, small though she is, is behind the College, soul and pocket-book. Three cheers for Santa Ana!

Virgil Brooks spent the week-end in Covina.

The school is happy again and functioning properly with the return of Dale Glick and Levi Dickey. They have been absent because of injuries sustained in the San Diego game.

An almost party occurred Friday evening, December 4th. The Y. W. Cabinet had planned to receive that of Pomona College in the parlor of the Woman's Dormitory. The almost games were very interesting and the almost refreshments were delicious. When the guests did not arrive because of illness in their number, the realities (the party eats) were used to advantage by the debating teams.

The campus boasted distinguished visitors last week. Paul Royer and Harry Martens, of Texas, both former students of LaVerne, dropped in for several days.

The revival meetings which have been in progress at the Church of the Brethren have been very interesting. Pastor Rothrock has been preaching some splendid sermons. Special music has been produced by the Clarion Four and the choirs. These services will continue until this coming Sunday night.

LA VERNE COLLEGE SPORTS

LA VERNE BEATS POMONA J. C.
The College won a sloppy, slow, uninteresting basketball game from the Pomona J. C. last night by a 43-17 score. The evening was chilly and fumbling was frequent. The fellows were weak on the long shots, inaccurate on the mediaeval shots, and absolutely rotten on the short shots. Ernie Brubaker refereed a splendid game for neither team.

LA VERNE-POMONA "Y"
LaVerne held a scrimmage with the Pomona "Y" team last Monday evening and emerged with a 38-8 victory. It was the first scrimmage of the season with outside competition and looked well for the season's prospects. Besides bringing to light a new combination of the two LaVerne first teams, a new referee was uncovered who can be picked on to mediate at all future games of the like in the person of Ernie Brubaker, well known freshman from Live Oak, Calif.

FROSH WIN A GAME AND LOSE ONE

The LaVerne Frosh basketball team gave a good account of itself last Friday afternoon by defeating the game Bonita High quintet in a runaway tilt. In the first and second quarters, the outcome of the game looked dubious, but the entrance of Bohn and Hartman into the fray strengthened the local tossers, resulting finally in the score of 39-19.

Saturday night the Frosh tangled with the Pomona College first year men and bowed to the visitors to the score of 44-32. The game was not what could have been expected although it was a close and hard-fought affair. Fouls were frequent and the home men played a poor game, considering their usual standard. The Sagechicks formed a neat, speedy combination which eventually defeated the plucky cubs. Ritter was the strong man for Pomona. Chester Shirk was the point scorer for the home Frosh. The LaVerne lineup was: Forwards, Orville Brooks and Francis Crites; center, Chet Shirk; guards, Urbin Hartman and Bruce Bell; referee, Ernie Brubaker.

The proceeds which came from these games and the candy sale held Friday afternoon at the game amounted to $18.85. This goes to make up the Freshman quota for the Athletic Injury Fund.

started the scoring. They say women of all generations have been gifted with strong throats, but undoubtedly those Freshie girls are the result of the survival of the fittest in that particular line, for of all the fits there never was such a fit fit as that afternoon when the Frosh basketeers displayed their talent.

Coach Galen Root's Soph team was blessed with two varsity forwards, Lehmer and Kreps. But the Frosh were just as surely the possessors of some superb guards in the persons of "Bull" Bell and Urbin Hartman. In the first three quarters, before these two men tired, all the Sophomore baskets were made from a little distance, and on the run, for the proverbial "No Man's Land" ended at the end of these guards' realms.

At the end of the first quarter the Frosh led 6-3, and this small score for a suarter betrays some facts, that the game was hard-fought, for both teams were able to shoot, with half a chance. By the end of the first half the Sophs had reached the bigger end of a 13-10 score.

A few substitutions had been made. Otis Brooks, forward; Harold Hoff, guard; Zafon Hartman, guard; Raymond Mahoney, center, had had their chance for the Sophs, and Wayne Bohn replaced Vaniman at center for the Frosh.

The last half, the score was one of those nip and tuck affairs, in which first one team and then the other led by one or two points. First one side of the gym, then the other, trembled with excitement. First one side, then another, would pray for the whistle to blow with their team in the lead, and then as Dame Fortune willed, the whistle did blow with the score tied, 27-27. The captains agreed to play off the tie by adding five minutes, and it was at the end of this period that the Sophs rolled in their winning basket, leaving the score 31-29.

No more exciting game has been spectacted around these parts in some time, and to both teams goes the credit for some splendid pre-season work.

POMONA WINNER OF FIRST GAME

Sagehen Captain Enjoys Streak as La Verne Suffers Eye Failure.

Captain Wilson, with the aid of his coordinates, tossed the Pomona College basketball team to a 33-25 win over the LaVerne aggregation on the latter's court last Thursday evening. It was a pre-season game and therefore marred by loose playing, but nevertheless an interesting one to watch.

Somewhere back in his younger days, the afore-mentioned Captain Wilson learned to shoot goals. He used that training as though it were all he knew. When the final whistle blew, it was discovered that his uncanny success at placing the ball in such a position that it would drop through the netted ring had made him owner of 20 points. While he was doing this, Captain Lehmer of LaVerne was wondering just where the basket was and how to find it. He couldn't shoot a basket if no one objected, and therefore Glen Kreps was called upon to do most of the scoring for LaVerne. Glen couldn't equal the Pomona captain and that was the difference between the two teams.

Both teams showed streaks of brilliant passing and teamwork. But it was distinctly an early season battle in comparison to the potential strength which was apparent at times.

BASKETBALL IN FULL PROGRESS

With two weeks of pre-season practice over, the basketball prospects for this year have evidences of being very prospectful. Coach Arnett has organized two full teams and has enough left over to make a fair team in comparison to the first two. Mark Lehmer is captain and forward. He was the brightest light on the court last year and should be a capable leader of this year's forces. Glen Kreps has been running mate on the other forward position. Galen Root played guard last year but has been shifted up to center, which position he threatens to fill in fine shape. John Brooks and Bruce Bell have been playing guard. The second team has been composed of Otis and Orville Brooks, forwards; Ivan Betts, center; Chet Shirk and Russel Frantz, guards. This team runs the first squad a merry race any time. The utility players who sometimes form a third team, but more often fit in the other teams on emergency cases, are Wayne Bohn, Raymond Mahoney, Francis Crites, Harold Hoff and Jay Myers.

Marion Boots was a consistent forward on the first squad last year but has been disabled so far by an injured knee received in football. Dale Glick has been kept out because of a dislocated hip. Levi Dickey was a first string guard for three years, but due to his recent illness, he will not be able to play before the end of the semester, at which time he graduates. But when the first two fellows recover, they will materially strengthen the first two squads.

COVINA IS SO. CAL. CHAMP

Practically the entire male factors of the student body, and many others, went to Covina last Saturday to watch Marion Boots' Alma Mater carry the ball all over the field to decisively defeat San Diego High for the Southern California championship. They all take off their hats to the scrappiest, brainiest, go-gettingest team that ever represented a high school. They appeared light-weights beside San Diego, but they played like a college team. Here's to them and may they trounce their next opponent.
