MAY DAY IS CELEBRATED

A. W. S. Crown May Queen

The month of May was very effectively ushered in by a ceremony given by the College girls on May Day. May Day and the month of flowers was certainly well manifest in the auditorium, the platform of which was covered with ferns and flowers of all colors.

The girls, all dressed in white and wearing bouquets of roses and ferns, formed a beautiful procession as they marched to the platform. They were led by their flower bedecked queen, Hazel Brubaker, and the little crown bearer, Doris Beckner.

As the Queen of the May was crowned, Beulah Noll and Susan Stoner sang of her beauty and grace. Then followed a short history of the significance of May Day, with a poem proclaiming Spring, by Vera Hoover. Cathryn Byerly gave a reading, "Corinna's Going 'a Maying," which aptly expressed the sentiments of the day. Several numbers of appropriate music were sung.

The beauty of this very fitting May Day ceremony will not soon be forgotten, and many of the town people who came to the program expressed their appreciation in these words, "Come again next year, A. W. S., and we'll all go a'maying."

The climax of the celebration happened some time during the noon hour when the A. W. S. with their guests, the lady faculty members and the Academy Seniors went to Ganesha Park for lunch. A bountiful feed was participated in, and the A. W. S. are in favor of making this event an annual affair, if the other members of the school wish to co-operate.

MRS. SOMMERVILLE ADDRESSES A. W. S.

At the regular meeting of the A. W. S., Mrs. W. D. Somerville, chairman of the Parliamentary Usage section of the Pomona Ebell Club, favored the members with a short lecture and drill. Some of the most necessary facilities for conducting a meeting were explained, and then a chance was given the students for asking questions.

At the suggestion of our honorable president, Mrs. Somerville conducted a drill, in which the content of the lecture was put into practice. Robert's Rules, which are accepted by higher authority, were followed.

Much benefit was received during the afternoon, and it is expected that the girls will take a more definite part in our student body meetings after this, thanks to Mrs. Somerville.

Chautauqua to Open Feb. 4th

Anyone with his eyes open is aware of the fact that La Verne is to have a Chautauqua May 5, 6, 8, and 9. Placards and handbills are seen in practically every store window, as well as a row of banners above the street—all to boost for the coming programs.

In brief, the program is as follows: Friday afternoon, May 5th—Music and Entertainment, Loren Bates Co. Admission 50c.

Friday evening, May 5th—Lecture, "America Among the Nations," Dr. Wm. E. Bohn. Admission 75c.

Wilma Lett and Bertha Swihart spent the vacation at the Brenaman home. They returned looking extremely well fed and satisfied.

DR. BAUMGARDT ON CRUCIFIED RUSSIA

Friday evening, April 28, Dr. B. R. Baumgardt gave his interesting and instructive lecture on "Crucified Russia." He was an eye-witness of the Revolution in Russia, and as such was able to give some authentic idea of her conditions today, thru his illustrated lecture.

Some of the statements of Dr. Baumgardt brought home many truths Russia's population constitutes about one tenth of the entire human race. The country is a vast plain, the northern part of which is heavily forested, while the south is chiefly agricultural. Ninety-five per cent of the Russian people are in some way connected with the farms, and with this they are advancing in every way.

Dr. Baumgardt says they are the coming people of the world. As proof of this, he showed samples of art on the screen and gave some accounts of the noted musicians, literary leaders, along with those advanced in Ethics and Chemistry.

Russia is now in a period of religious reformation, intellectual renaissance, and in fact one of general revolution. She is working swiftly toward the downfall of autocracy. Greek Catholicism has held the people back.

Before the revolution, sixty-nine per cent of the population could neither read nor write. At present a public school system contains the best gathered from the systems of other countries united in one.

Most of the peasants know no government except that of the village, while the Soviet was only a step forward in the weak organization of many of these. There have been various rulers who had power to rule Russia if they had been tactful, but they lacked the main principle which could bring about a firm government, the education of the people in preparation for this. So if America helps Russia, she must do so through an army of educators.

This was Dr. Baumgardt's third visit to La Verne, and we greatly enjoyed having him with us, especially since he gave the same lecture before Juniata College about three weeks ago.

Revival Services At the Church

Easter Sunday was the opening day for a two weeks evangelistic campaign at the Church of the Brethren. Pastor R. H. Miller, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Brubaker, conducted the meetings.

At seven o'clock each evening a well attended prayer circle met in behalf of the meetings. The devotional-praise service led by Mr. Brubaker from 7:30 to 8:00 was an inspiration to all. The various special numbers of music were exceptionally fine and added much to the spirit of the meetings.

Pastor Miller's sermons were short, but to the point, giving a vital message. There were large audiences, especially during the last week, when the house was filled every night. More than twenty took their stand for Christ. On the whole, the meetings were a success, proving a real blessing to the community.

A very interesting lecture on South America was given by Rev. L. A. Bauman, pastor of the First Brethren Church at Long Beach on Wednesday, April 12th. Many of the students attended, and wonderful visions of South American opportunities were brought to them by the speaker.

"PRODIGAL SON" TO BE PRESENTED

A new feature will be added May 19 as the closing number of the Music and Lecture Course this year. The Choral Union, composed of college students and a number of outsiders from La Verne, Pomona and San Dimas, will render an oratorio, entitled, "The Prodigal Son."

This is the first number of its kind to be presented by the College, and although a difficult production, it promises to carry satisfactory results under the direction of Prof. Haugh.

The solo parts will be carried by Chas. E. Stickle, tenor; J. C. Poole, baritone; Miss Lucile Beckner, soprano; and Mrs. B. S. Haugh, mezzo soprano. These special members, together with the chorus of seventy voices, will give a message of beautiful harmony. Further announcements will be made later.

New Music Club Gives Program

The Apollo Club (graduates from the Music Department) gave a special program in chapel Saturday April 29. Miss Bertha Fike played a piano solo, "Chapel on the Mountains," after which Prof. Haugh made an introductory talk concerning the purposes of the club.

This was followed by a piano solo, "The Muzurka" by Mrs. Olive Stouffer Thomas. A duet, "The Lord is My Light," was beautifully rendered by Miss Lucile Beckner and Prof. Haugh. With splendid skill a piano quartette, "The call of the Winds," was played by Mary Blickenstaff, Lois Miller, Vera Hoover and Pauline Miller. The closing number, a piano duet, was played by Vera Hoover and Lois Miller.

As this first open program by the new Apollo Club was thoroughly enjoyed, it is to be hoped that they will again provide entertainment.

Miss Ruth Horn Leaves La Verne

Miss Alice Freeman Takes Her Place Miss Ruth Horn, who has faithfully served in the language department of the College during the past four years, surprised many of her friends by quietly resigning before spring vacation.

Although not unexpected, the announcement that she was to be married in the near future was soon known. Her husband-to-be, Mr. Paul Warnshins, has been attending a theological school in Pennsylvania.

They expect to attend the University of Mexico in Mexico City during the summer, and will return to take up work somewhere in the States, probably in Arizona or New Mexico.

During the past four years at La Verne, she has made many true friends, who wish her all the joy and happiness possible in her future life and service for the Master.

Miss Alice Freeman, of Upland, will take up Miss Horn's duties as a member of the faculty.

ELDER J. HARMON STOVER PASSES TO REWARD

The sad news of the death of Elder J. Harmon Stover, of Fresno, was received recently. Elder Stover was a member of our Board and a loyal friend of the students. Expressions of sympathy are sent to the Stover family and many friends.

LAVERNE ACADEMY SMOTHERS REPUBLIC

Score 23 to 7

The Academy nine literally smothered the Republic team under an avalanche of hits and runs. The Republic boys played fairly good ball; but the home team seemed to be decidedly anxious to boost their slender batting averages, and consequently connected with twenty-three hits, to their opponents five. The twenty-three hits accounted for twenty-three scores, while the Republic crossed home seven times.

Bohn, the La Verne captain, led his teammates by securing five hits out of six times at bat. Stoops, who occupied right field, was second in the slugging honors, with four hits out of six trials.

Kreps pitched excellent ball, which aided materially in the victory. He allowed but five hits, and retired fifteen of the visiting batsmen with strike-outs. Zip Hartman was on the receiving end of the battery for the first time; but he showed that he was at home, by catching an excellent game.

La Verne had but two bad innings, the first and the ninth, when a few hits and errors allowed three and four runs respectively to be scored against them.

The Summary:

Score, L. V. A. 23—C. J. R. 7.

Hits, L. V. A. 23—C. J. R. 5

Bases on balls, off Kreps 2; off Graham 4.

Struck out by Kreps 15; by Graham 5.

Social Pathology Visit Patton--All Return

Thursday afternoon the Social Pathology students visited the Southern California State Hospital, popularly known as the Insane Asylum. The official membership of the class is eleven, but for other varied and occult reasons the group was increased to sixteen. At the beginning of the journey about the grounds, it might be stated incidentally that certain ones of the party participated in an X-ray examination of their hearts, but the reason for this procedure was not given to the press.

The inmates of the institution are given very comfortable and home-like cottages, each of which has its parlor furnished with a player-piano, a victrola, rocking chairs and fire place. Each cottage has its own dining hall, which accommodates about one hundred persons.

Most of the inmates sleep in a large ward or on an open sleeping porch. Only a few must be kept in private

May has come, and with it is ushered in the last month of school. It is "the beginning of the end."

Just one more month in which to get in your semester themes, read all your outside books, raise your grades from B's to A's, attend all the athletic games, and keep up all social affairs, not to speak of lessons and committee meetings.

"BUSY" will be the slogan of La Verne College students from henceforth and hereafter.

This school year 1921-22 has been the "first year" for many various school activities, organizations and functions in L. V. C. We boast of our first Foot Ball Team, our first College Track Team, our first Campus Clean-Up Day, and so on. But this first thing is an organization, very active and wide awake, composed entirely of College Women, commonly known as the A. W. S.

Under the able leadership of their President, they have been doing things this year. They have been responsible for initiating various unique days, such as "ear" day and "apron" day.

But by far the most interesting and entertaining event staged by them was the May Day Program. It was very pretty and effective, and it is hoped that such festivals may occur annually, each May Day. The Women's Organizations in all the large colleges of Southern California have charge of the May Day celebrations, and so the girls can do as much as the boys to place L. V. C. on the map. This beginning should become an established custom, and in the years to come, it will be a College Tradition that the girls prepare for the May Day festivities.

As we approach the close of school, we should begin to think of our annual Student Body election, which comes a couple of weeks before vacation. Who do you want for Commissioners next year, students? Put on your thinking caps, stir up some enthusiasm and get some candidates in the field.

Often in our busy college life we don't have time to appreciate things as we should. We go to chapel each day and listen—or do not listen, as the case may be—to the chapel talks. O yes, we enjoy them, but do we appreciate them enough to tell the speakers so?

We hear music, special music, very often. Do we appreciate it enough to praise those who spent hours of practice on the song, that we might listen a few moments to their finished work?

For the last two weeks we have been listening to our Pastor speak every night. He delivered some masterful sermons in fifteen or twenty minutes, sermons upon which he spent days of deep thought and concentration. It might be an inspiration to him if we spoke to him and told him we gained something from his talks.

And we don't even have time to appreciate our friends. Of course we love them, but do we tell them so? Perhaps we won't realize what they mean to us until we can call them friend no more. Our college friendships will mean everything to us in later years. A poet once aptly expressed this thought in these words:

"If you have a friend worth loving,
Love him. Yes, and let him know
That you love him, ere life's evening
Tinge his brow with sunset glow.
Why should good words ne'er be said
Of a friend—till he is dead?"

If you hear a song that thrills you,
Sung by any child of song,
Praise it. Do not let the singer
Wait deserved praises long.
Why should one who thrills your heart
Lack the joy you may impart?"

Dorm students all report a good time over the vacation, but judging from the six-inch grins in display on the following Monday, it would appear that they think old L. V. C. will most certainly do for them.

Mrs. Lester Vaughn and baby, of Laton, were guests at the Fike home the past week. The students all remember Coach Vaughn and his wife and wish them success.

We understand there is to be a tourist car go through without change to the Conference at Winona Lake Indiana, in June. See W. F. England or write him at Covina for particulars.

You will always find a complete line of Parker and Shaffer Fountain Pens, also Eversharp Pencils suitable for graduation gifts, at the La Verne Stationery.

OPEN FORUM

As we are nearing the close of our school year, we should be thinking of means and plans whereby we can better our activities, organizations, and publications for the next school year. The publications hold a very important place in the school activities, and perhaps do more than any other one thing to advertise us among the other Colleges and among the people of the north who are supporting our school publications. More especially is this true concerning our paper, "The Campus Times."

Has this paper been of any benefit to you this year? Have you enjoyed it? If not, why? Perhaps one of the greatest reasons why you have not is because you haven't contributed anything to it. It is an old saying that you get out of a thing only what you have put into it.

Is our paper worth while? I think most of you would reply in the affirmative, and yet there are many ways in which we could make it better.

What do you think of the size of our paper? Compare it with other school papers. Of course the Campus Times is only published bi-weekly and necessarily needs to contain more news than a weekly paper, but isn't it larger than we really need? The space for material is extensive, and only those who are closely connected with the Campus Times realize how much material is needed to fill the paper. There are very few editions of the Campus Times which do not have to have a half galley or so of "filler"—just something to fill up space—inserted.

This means some one has to scour the magazines for stale jokes or selected articles to fill the paper. That isn't what our paper is for. We can read selected articles any place. Every thing in our paper should be peppy, original.

You may wonder why the reporters can't find enough material. They haven't time to ask every one what he did on a certain day, and scour the campus for news. Oftimes they are told to stretch an item out to unreasonable length—just to fill up space. This same item could be told in a far more journalistic fashion with a few words, rather than with a regular essay.

And again, who is this "some one" who must see that the space is filled? It is usually the editor. And if he doesn't want to search for the extra material in books, he must rack his own brains for something—that isn't there. And that is exactly what the editor is doing now, so be glad that you didn't have to rack your brain to fill up this space, and take the suggestion of a smaller school paper for what it is worth.

Dear Editor of the Campus Times:

I would like very much to put some questions before the student body. First, how much does each individual owe the College? Second, how much does the College owe the individual?

The College faculty, board, and field representatives go abroad soliciting the brotherhood and telling all how much they owe the College. How much do we students owe the College? Instead of feeling we owe the College anything, we feel that the College owes us everything. We even seem to feel that we ought to be paid if we put ourselves out to tip out hat to a faculty member.

If we pick up a few papers in the hall we want pay, if we put a few extra minutes in the kitchen we want more pay. If we are on the College debating team we want recognition of the fact. We want a pennant, or pin saying in big letters, "Look what we did for the College."

Is this the right spirit to show to outsiders? Should not we be as enthusiastic toward doing something for the furthering of our College as we want those on the outside to be? We who have the deeper interest for La Verne College, should be deeper interested in doing something for her success. If debaters must have so costly a recognition to represent our College, what do we owe the editors and reporters of the Campus Times, who work, not for a few months, but for the entire year; who sacrifice time, energy and pleasure? What do we owe the Annual staff, and business managers, for their time and

IZZY NEWSY

Dear Sam:

Easter time, Sam, you get one inspiration after another. The first inspiration comes the night before, when you decide to go early singing to sympathetic listeners, but the next inspiration you get is when morning comes and you change your mind and snooze on and on, and dream you went, when you didn't.

The next inspiration is to work hard all vacation, and make enough money to pay off your school debt and to buy yourself a full supply of clothes. But another inspiration comes after you come home the first night, too dead tired to dream restful dreams. The inspiration is not to work any more, but have a restful rest for the rest of the week.

Sam, did you ever hear tell of "flappers?" The other day the A. W. S. celebrated flapper day by wearing aprons. A flapper, Sam, as described by our president, is a goosette, half way between a gosling and a goose that has reached its full height. There was a great deal of "proper ganders" going around concerning those flappers.

Mary's got some new red cherries for her hat. There awful pretty. They look as natural as life.

Sam, the next time you pitch hay be more careful and don't hurt yourself. Good Nitric Acid, IZZY SPRINGY.

APRON DAY

"Once more yet again" the A. W. S. celebrated a day of great import. Now just whether the holiday atmosphere was due to a strike against the Paris fashions or a memorial of the kitchen maid's union is not known, but the A. W. S. certainly carried the day. Every conceivable costume bordering on an apron was to be seen. A few returned to childhood with curls and big hair ribbons, while others looked demure and sedate.

The climax of the day came in the tea at "Snug Harbor" where the President made a delightful hostess and the "be-aproned" maids drank tea until the supper bell rang and the apron brigade disappeared down the street. Long live the apronites—the "be-eared" A. W. S.

effort? All editors ever get is severe criticism if they have done something wrong, and nothing said if they have done well. The editors do not wish any unusual recognition, they do not ask for bribes or any one to sing their praises. All they wish is a different spirit from every one.

Let every one have a feeling that La Verne College belongs to him; let every one work for La Verne's up-building. Let every one be anxious to contribute any and everything for La Verne's success; if it is washing smudgy walls in the kitchen to beautifying the buildings, do it; if it is picking up stray orange peelings on campus, do it; if it is carrying chairs from the auditorium to the gymnasium, do it. Each one will get his own reward, as everyone does, who has the spirit of serving. —E. G.

A. W. S. ENJOY PINK TEA

Who ever said that the A. W. S. was a dead, "no life" affair? Who ever imagined such a thing has another thought coming. They've had lectures, conferences, social hours, business meetings and just all kinds of interesting affairs.

And Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 was just another of their good times, when the President of the Association, Miss Ruth Barnhizer, entertained all the college women. A short business meeting was held, followed by a guessing game which required much vocabulary skill and afforded great amusement. The guests, Miss Dyck and Miss Harshbarger, tied for the prize—a miniature tea cup and saucer.

Refreshments of wafers, candies, salted peanuts and tea were served at 5:30 o'clock, and they tasted mighty good. All present had a dandy time and wish to give three rousing cheers for our President and the A. W. S.

HO! YE APRILITES

April is supposed to be the month of foolish ones, so they say. But it isn't always a disagreeable thing to be one of the victims, at least a "friend" of one. The Aprilites found this very true on the evening of the 15th, when they, with their invited friends were entertained by Mrs. D. S. Newcomer in honor of the many birthdays.

The lovely chicken dinner was somewhat delayed because of a certain young gentleman's tardiness, but that only created more huge appetites. Mrs. R. H. Miller assisted the hostess in serving the bountiful feast.

In spite of his whispered request for a half helping, because of a dormitory supper already eaten, Ray's plate came out in all its glory. Dwight also had a little difficulty in "getting away" with the fourth meal of the day. The beautiful birthday cake held seven candles, one for each Aprilite present.

After dinner, games and music were enjoyed, the participants being sent home with the strains of "Christ Arose" ringing in their ears.

The Aprilites present were Cathryn Byerly, Russel Grossnickle, John Brooks, Eva Brownsberger, Dwight Welch, Raymond Root, and Olive Deardorff; friends—Pauline Shirk, Howard Beckner, Rhoda Price, Dorothy Arnold, Lucile Beckner, Jess Frantz and John Price.

ONE OF THOSE SURPRISES

At 2:15 Friday afternoon a jolly crowd of girls left town headed for the Brenaman home. The questions uppermost in the mind of each girl were, "What is this to be? Is it someone's birthday, or are the Brenamans again showing their usual hospitality to us?" Well, they knew they would have an enjoyable time, whatever the occasion.

After their arrival a happy time was spent in games, one of which was the drawing from a plate a rolled paper, supposedly a news-item, but to their disappointment they were not allowed to read them until later in the afternoon. Olive Pobst was the "sharp" lady of the day, having drawn the paper containing a pin.

During the remainder of the games their curiosity grew as to what those papers had in store for them. At last they were told to be quiet as the "sharp" lady was going to read her paper. Each listened intently and surprisedly as they heard, "Miss Erma Marshburn and Mr. Herbert Van Horn expect to be married sometime in the near future. They will make their home at Victorville, California."

All have gotten over the shock except Fern, and she is slowly recovering. After they had regained their equilibrium, they were served with delicious punch and wafers. Then a few pictures were taken of the guests and the bride-to-be.

The invited guests were Alice Davis, Ruth Barnhizer, Theresa Dement, Wilma Lett, Bertha Swihart, Rhoda Price Estella Landis, Helen Winslow, Eva Marshburn, Iva Carl, Merle Fike, Susan Stoner, Fern Griggs, Olive Pobst and Ethel Winslow.

"KATY B." AGES

Friday evening, April 21, Mrs. Dayton S. Newcomer entertained in honor of the birthday of her sister, Cathryn Byerly. Such days are bound to come in spite of one's constant desire to remain sixteen, but the delicious dinner quite compensated for the age of the honoree—at least to the guests. That strawberry shortcake "slithered" with whipped cream was just as good as it looked.

Those present beside the aged Cathryn, were Martha Brubaker, Maurine Miller, Benjamin Franklin Hepner, George Simeon King, and Howard Benjamin Beckner.

KOLLEGE KNEWS

Elder Jacob Funk, of Pomona, gave a peppy talk to the students in Chapel Wednesday, April 26th.

Ruth Emley accompanied Velma Fager home for a week end visit recently, and Esther Stoops was the guest of Nova Leonard for several days.

Elder and Mrs. I. J. Zimmerman, of Long Beach, entertained as guests over the week end Beulah Noll, Hazel Brubaker, Ralph Netzley and David Bomberger.

BETHANY GIRLS SHOWER BRIDE

Friday afternoon a group of girls went in a body to the home of Mrs. Nellie Fisher Shively, however at a very inopportune time, as the rugs on the lawn and the upturned chairs evidenced. To call in a body on a little bride is bad enough, but to come on house-cleaning day is intolerable. Nellie was completely surprised and overcome, but she managed to unwrap the gifts properly amidst the advice of all the guests. Delicious pie a la mode was served, and the bride was again left in peace and tranquility.

Freshie:—I want to do something big and clean before I die.

Senior:—Wash an elephant.

Mr. Wm. Dyck, of Reedley, came down by auto and took Dorothea, Kathryn Harshbarger, Viola Neher and Phil Smith home for the vacation, returning with the same group on Tuesday, April 25th.

THE S. S. G. S. CLUB MEET

The S. S. G. S. Club held its weekly meeting Friday, April 21 in the Ladies Dormitory, room 19. After the regular business meeting, refreshments consisting of tea, cocoa, crackers, buns and bologna were served to the members. The cocoa was served to the honorary members only, while the tea was served to every one present.

SURPRISE WEDDING "SPRUNG"

For several years the College walls held the dreams, and joys and fears that some inmate, unbeknown to the others, might pass into that indescribable realm of double life—marriage. The inevitable event did happen Tuesday, April the 18th, when Miss Nellie Fisher was married to Mr. Everett Shively, of Pomona. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Fisher.

The ceremony, performed by Pastor R. H. Miller, was very beautiful, although simple in effect. The couple stood under a canopy of lilacs. The bride was dressed in white, and carried a bouquet of lillies-of-the-valley. After the ceremony the relatives and a few close friends who were present were served ice cream and cake.

The bride's mother has gone to Lindsay to visit her son Charles, leaving the home to the newly-weds. The numerous college friends join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Shively many years of happiness and success.

MRS. MILLER ENTERTAINS AGAIN

One Thursday evening after Mexican prayer meeting, all members of the prayer meeting groups and mission band assembled in the large Sunday School room at the church for an informal reception, given by Mrs. J. L. Miller. As the large crowd quietly filed into the prettily decorated room, each person was tagged.

After partners had been secured by the method of numbered chairs, each couple was given a dainty little Easter basket, and orders to fill the same with Easter eggs. Although only tiny candy eggs were hidden, great excitement was created when each tried his best to find the most eggs.

After all the eggs were found and devoured, a few songs of foreign countries were rendered by various people: Mrs. Miller and daughter Lois sang a duet; little Ruth Miller sang a solo, while a mixed quartet and the Bingo quartet also entertained.

An original reading was given by Lola Shirk for and in honor of those who had birthdays in April—or otherwise, the Aprilites. Then the Aprilites, numbering about ten all together, were given a chance to show their skill in blowing candles. They were lined up along one side of the room, and their future sealed by the blowing of candles placed on the large white birthday cake. Following this, came the big event of the evening, namely the refreshments, consisting of ice cream and various kinds of cake.

In each piece of cake was hidden a button for the bachelor, a ring for him who was to wed, a small tin for the cook, or an egg for the poultry raiser. The owners of these various articles gathered in four respective groups and each group gave some original stunt, corresponding to the article secured, such as a mock wedding by those who had the rings and a barnyard story by the owners of the eggs.

All those present gave their heartiest thanks to Mrs. J. L. Miller and family, who were responsible for one of the most successful social gatherings of the season.

Chase H.:—Ah, she smiled at me.
Alvin M.:—How could she help it?

Alva Brower:—How long can a man live without brains?

Paul Throne:—I don't know. How old are you?

wards. The work about the cottages and the care of the rooms is all done by the inmates. Dr. Myers, the party guide, remarked, and the evidence showed that the men kept their rooms neater, and showed a finer taste for decoration than the women. After hearing this statement one of the party said that if the doctor should see his room, then he would know that he wasn't crazy.

Besides the work about the lawns and the cottages, the inmates do various kinds of industrial work. The women make rugs and carpets, lace and various kinds of fancy work. The men make shoes, toys and baskets which are very durable. Some of the inmates originate toys and designs which show some real ability. A few, however, believe they have great inventive ability, and create much enjoyment for visitors, who see the folly of their ideas. One man displayed

ACADEMY LOSES TO CORONA

In an extremely ragged game of base ball that the locals should have won easily, Corona swamped the Academy hopefuls to the tune of 10-1. Kreps pitched a good game, allowing only four safe hits, the rest being made on errors. La Verne earned its one run, while Corona only earned two of their ten.

The Academy men showed a glaring weakness in their stick work, either Yenter had a lot on the ball, or L. V. A. lost their batting eye.

Root, substituting for Kreps on the mound whiffed three men in the last inning with his port side delivery. O. Brooks scored the sole run for the preps on a safe bingle in the first inning.

CALTEK TRIMS COLLEGE TEAM

The hard hitting conference leaders played true to form when they trimmed La Verne 16-3. Errors both by the infield and outfield contributed to the lopsided score. Our heretofore invincible outfielders blew up and dropped easy flies, while the whole team seemed on the bum. Welch only allowed six hits and struck out eight men, while Groat of Caltek was touched for four safe ones. Welch accounted for two of these, one being a home run.

a perpetual (?) motion. He had also invented a machine for climbing the steel telephone poles in New York. But later he said, "But do they have telephone poles there? It seems to me they have taken them down."

There is one man who sits out under a certain tree all the time, making toys. He will not talk under any circumstances, for he "doesn't want to be scolded." He appears to be a second Mr. Jiggs, who has succumbed to a policy of passive resistance.

There are 2465 inmates in the institution. There is about the same number of men and women. About 80 per cent of the insanity is a form called dementia praecox. This form is often hereditary and incurable. The other forms do not seem to be hereditary.

About one third of the cases are curable. The forms of treatment are kind and friendly treatment, and plenty of exercise and work if the patient will do it. Most of them like to do something. In the more violent cases, special baths and hot packs have a very helpful effect. A psychiatrist also does much good by inquiring into the causes of the disorder and by psychological methods relieves the person of his anxieties and delusions. The class was pleased to learn of the excellent care that is given to these unfortunate people.

COLTON VS. LAVERNE

The La Verne Academy baseball team was badly defeated, to say the least, in the league game with Colton High School on their diamond. The poor showing was due to the absence of Kreps as pitcher, which took a lot of pep out of the playing.

Root as pitcher was effective at times, but most of the time he threw them high and wide. He walked eleven men, while Langford of Colton allowed but three passes.

Colton collected ten hits to La Verne's two. Bohn was substituted for Root and succeeded in lasting the remaining two innings. Having never pitched before, he deserves a great deal of credit, for he fanned one man. Bohn starred for La Verne and Gunter for Colton.

Colton has a regular ball team, and deserved to win. The score, by the way, was 15 to 3. It could have been worse, you know. This practically ruins La Verne's hopes for the cup, as the have, to date, lost two games and won but one.

WHAT GERALD DID DURING VACATION

"Gerald! Oh, Gerald!"

"What?" I sleepily answered.

"Time to get up," answered my mother.

With the use of much will power, I got up; I ate my breakfast and then started to work. I attacked the weed patches on the lot, and when these were partly conquered I began to clean up the wood shed and chicken house. By this time the noon whistle blew, so I went into the house and partook of the noon meal. I then proceeded to the living room, where I settled down in the Morris chair and went to sleep.

About four o'clock I awoke and went outdoors. It was so hot I did not feel like working, so I went into the house again and began reading a magazine. I ate supper about six thirty, read a magazine some more, and about eight o'clock I went to bed. The next day, Tuesday, I repeated almost identically the performance of Monday.

Wednesday, my father stayed home and I helped him in a small degree to fix the house in regard to doors and the ridge boarding. In the afternoon my mother, sister and myself went to the college, where we played several games of tennis. It was exceedingly hot, so we did not play as long as we might have.

Father decided that I ought to put in the concrete on our porch, so we put up the frames and then I started out to find some one to help me. I had no luck, for all those that I saw had something else to do. Finally I gave up, and about this time I was offered a job by Chester Shirk, which I accepted.

Thursday morning I was ready with a hoe and my lunch at seven o'clock, for Chester's appearance. He finally arrived at fifteen minutes of eight and we started for work. He stopped at Lloyd Emmert's place and when Lloyd started to get in the car we saw that he had no lunch, so he went back into the house where lunch was prepared for him. After this delay, we drove furiously, and reached the ranch at about ten minutes after eight. We received our instructions and then started to work.

The particular job that we had to perform was that of digging up the hard packed dirt under lemon trees of the age of seven years or thereabouts. That was about the hardest job I've ever done. Several times our radiator systems run dry and we departed to a neighbor's for water.

After having been asked several hundred times—more or less—what time it was, Chester told us that it was twelve o'clock. Oh, what a haven of rest! At one we went to work again and remained at it till five o'clock. After reaching home each of us proceeded to disencumber ourselves from the dirt we had accumulated during our day's work.

Friday we did almost the same as Thursday, except that we started work at half past eight and quit work at half past four.

I hired Lloyd Emmert to help me put in concrete Saturday, as we were going home. We got into a discussion as to whether the Arabian horse or the American horse had the longer back. Lloyd contended that the Arabian had a shorter back and longer legs. I agreed with him about the length of the legs, but not about the shorter back. When we reached Lloyd's home we stopped, and he went into the house, procured a late issue of the American Boy, proceeded forthwith to the car and effectively proved that the Arabian horse had a shorter back than an American horse because it has one less vertebrae than the coyase pony mustang, or common ordinary American horse.

I finally prevailed on Chester to take me home, so Lloyd got out of the car and Chester stepped on the gas. It didn't respond very well and when we had gone about half a block the car stopped on us. We finally came to the conclusion that we were out of gas, which was correct.

We got out of the car and started for home, which was one trial, for we had become stiff from sitting in the car. I cleaned up that night, and the scratches from the devilish thorns on the lemon trees kept me jumping for a while. I still carry honorable scars from those selfsame thorns.

Saturday Lloyd appeared at our house at seven o'clock sharp and we proceeded to mix concrete. We finished our work at twelve o'clock and Lloyd and I went into the house and ate dinner.

In the afternoon we went to his place, where he showed me various Indian curios and helped me start to make a wireless receiving set.

Thus ends my thrilling adventures of the Easter vacation of April, 1922. —G. M., A. B. '27.
