DR. MILLER GOES EAST

Attends Conventions — Enthusiastic for La Verne College

Dr. Miller has just returned from an extended trip to the East and we are certainly glad to have him in our midst once again. He also expressed his pleasure in being in balmy California after enduring the snow and ice of the east. During his stay Dr. Miller spent a few days in McPherson, Kan., visiting the College and former friends. There he attended the Students Volunteer Convention at Des Moines, Iowa, La Verne College being represented at this meeting. From Des Moines, Dr. Miller went to Chicago. Here he visited Bethany Bible School and the University of Chicago. His main purpose, however, was to attend the convention of the American Association of Colleges. This convention is held annually and is represented by presidents from all colleges of a religious nature in the United States. There were one hundred and fifty present at this meeting. The general theme discussed was "The Forward Movement of the Educational Program for the Next Five Years." A report was given of a large number of new dormitories, libraries and colleges which are to be built. Dr. Miller received a great deal of inspiration from this meeting and has visions of the New Men's Dormitory at La Verne. He is planning for the continuation of the raising of funds for this building as soon as possible. We, as students, are deeply interested in this subject and it behooves each and every one to give his heartfelt support in every possible way.

Everyone is acquainted with Dr. Miller's work as president of the school. He is one of the men who have done much to further the interests of La Verne College and to

MISS BRUBAKER WINS ORATORICAL CONTEST FOR L.V.C.

SCHOLARSHIP VICTORY

January 14, 1920 is an important date in history making events. The American Anti-Tobacco League held its first oratorical contest on this date in the Y. M. C. A. building at Pasadena, California.

There were five contestants, a physician from Loma Linda, a student each from University of Southern California and the Junior College at San Fernando, a professor of advanced college work, whose address we cannot ascertain, and Miss Maude Brubaker, of La Verne College.

The college is proud to announce that Miss Brubaker won this, the first prize, receiving two hundred and thirty-four points above the second winner. Also, Miss Maude is happy, as the prize envelope contained $25.

Miss Brubaker's instructor, Mrs. Haugh, is feeling very pleased indeed, over the event, and rejoices in the fact that the college is capable of winning victory in scholarship contests as well as in athletics.

bring the institution upon an equality with other colleges. This is Dr. Miller's fourth year of service in this capacity. Looking back over these years, everyone will recognize the great part he has played in the rapid development of the school. We appreciate the untiring effort and ceaseless loyalty with which Dr. Miller has supported his classes.

Bob Barnhizer:—"What is a Bolshevik?"

Miss Horn:—"A Bolshevik is a person who is dissatisfied with conditions."

Bob:—"I'm sure a Bolshevik, for I had three conditions last quarter."

Miss Muir says, "Anybody would rather be a big frog in a little puddle than a little frog in a big puddle."

Lady:—"Is this a pedigreed dog?"
Salesman:—"Pedigreed! Why if that dog could talk he wouldn't speak to either one of us."

President:—"You may report for work tomorrow morning at nine sharp Miss Neff. And, by the way, I trust you are not a clock watcher."

Stenographer:—"Oh, dear no! I have a wrist watch."

Judge:—"Have you ever seen the prisoner at the bar?"

Witness:—"Never, your honor; but I've seen him when I strongly suspected that he had been at it."

"Say, Dutch, what is the most liable to get broke about your automobile to get broke about your automobile?"
Dutch:—"The owner."

DEPUTATION TEAM COMES BACK FROM NORTH

The Deputation Team, consisting of the Misses Beulah Noll and Naomi Harshbarger and the Messrs Ernest Root and David Bomberger, which was sent out by the Mission Band to the churches of the Northern District, returned to school with an interesting report. The team gave programs at nine churches, speaking to approximately 1365 and raising $188.89 for missionary purposes. Following is a list of the churches visited and their attendance and offering:

McFarland, Dec. 11;	125	$30.00
Lindsay, Dec. 21;	250	36.00
Laton, Dec. 22;	100	16.98
Raisin City, Dec 23;	100	9.60
Patterson, Dec. 28;	60	11.59
Waterford, Dec. 28;	105	15.30
Empire, Dec. 29;	250	29.90
Reedley, Jan. 4;	200	22.50
Fresno, Jan. 4;	150	27.02

Free transportation by automobile from church to church was easily secured. The people in the Northern District received the team warmly and entertained them royally. They didn't suffer for something to eat, as one may easily see. They seem to have enjoyed themselves immensely and have returned with a bigger vision of future possibilities.

Many people sent their regards to their friends in La Verne. There was a sort of L. C. reunion at McFarland, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. De Whistler, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Root, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Conrad and the quartet. At Laton Mr. and Mrs. John Coffman were visiting. Dorothea Dickey at Raisin, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Goodman, Anna Yost, Ruth Bechtel, Paul Kellar and Lee Garvey at Empire; Myrle Finke at Patterson; Cecil Brower and Ruth Emley at Reedley and Mrs. Flossie Bowser at Fresno, wish to be remembered. Then too, many strangers were met.

The churches are well organized and in good working condition. Most of them have pastors or will have in the near future. Much interest was aroused in La Verne College and much good done for the Master's cause.

There is great opportunity for leadership open to those who return to their home churches. We, as students, have a definite relation and responsibility to the work there. There is a great need for consecrated workers everywhere. Let us live up to our privileges and prepare for service.

The Old Monks used to shave their heads on top and let the rest of their hair grow. That modern apostle of celebrity and asceticism, D. Welthy Lefever lets it grow on top and shaves the rest of his head.

RETURN of DES MOINES DELEGATES

They Report a Fine Convention

On Saturday Dec. 27, 1919, a large number of people were gathered at the Santa Fe Depot in La Verne to see Mr. and Mrs. Forney and little Lucile off for the Des Moines convention and also off for the India mission field.

They were not the only ones leaving, however. Four delegates sent from the school to the convention were also leaving. Great was the number of tears shed for both parties leaving, but as our train pulled away we left some happy, others sad.

Messrs. Ernest Davis, I. V. Funderburgh, J. I. Kaylor and Leland Brubaker were the delegates representing the school. Two special cars had been chartered to carry the Southern California delegation to Des Moines, and it is in one of these cars that we find our delegates soon comfortably seated. The car was filled with happy joyous young college students, who were looking forward to a good time as well as receiving a great inspiration and conviction. It was surprising how soon the La Verne delegation became acquainted. Funderburgh was soon to be seen talking to a U. S. C. professor, Davis with a Whittier girl, and Kaylor and Brubaker with a group of Pomona boys. Delegates were gathered as far as San Bernardino, Little scenery was to be seen going to Des Moines, but the atmosphere inside the car was worth the while. The delegates had morning and evening devotion, prayers being offered for the safe arrival of all of the delegates and for the success of the convention. The inspiration imparted at these little meetings was something wonderful. Each delegate was preparing himself for the great blessing ahead.

After repeated stops, when all of the delegates jumped off the car and strolled about, the train arrived in Des Moines Tuesday morning about 8:30. Snow had fallen only a few days before and the air was keen and inviting, welcoming us to a good time.

After finding our lodging, the delegations separated to all parts of the city. La Verne delegation spent the day looking at the different parts of the city. The State Capitol was very interesting to us, but we were more interested in a building near by. This building contained exhibits of literature, of agriculture and of war. Everything was very interesting. Some of the most notable were the pen used by General Lee in signing the treaty between the North and South, and Daniel Boone's gun. Many Indian relics were shown, and many present and past war exhibits.

Wednesday morning our delegation went ice-skating. This was a new experience to some of us, but Mr. Kaylor made up for all. We had a very delightful time on the ice as well as on our skates! Mr. Kaylor brought the climax to our skating party by politely running away with another California girl. Of course, we all promised not to tell.

Wednesday afternoon the Convention began, and we were very busy attending meetings held at different places over the town. Sunday evening after a very inspiring and beneficial meeting, the convention closed, leaving all the delegates filled with new hope and new courage to face the battles of the coming generation.

Mr. Brubaker left Des Moines Sunday evening after the convention, coming home the same route as going, except stopping a day at Grand Canyon, Arizona, he reached La Verne on

IN CHAPEL

Dr. I. S. Flory, an instructor in Bridgewater College, Va., and a member of the General Educational Board of the Church of the Brethren, is spending a few days in La Verne visiting the respective classes of the college. He led devotions in chapel on January 15th. As his scripture he read from the 19th chapter of First Samuel. This reading gave an account of the earliest school, where the students came together to learn of religious leadership. In his talk he emphasized the fact that we, as young people, should avail ourselves of our opportunities and learn to become more efficient leaders, religiously and socially.

One of the greatest possibilities we have is the opportunity to gain more Christian education. This possibility should inspire us to do more efficient work. The atmosphere of our school life ought to give us the trend of what we are to accomplish in after life. We are a fortunate and select body, with opportunities which hundreds of young people are craving. With these privileges and opportunities comes a grave responsibility, for every year comes the call for some young man or woman to enter missionary as well as other forms of work as leaders. Hence, we must hasten our preparation with definiteness of purpose, so that when we have accomplished our education, we may enter into the broader life as efficient leaders.

On Jan. 10, the Deputation Team to the Northern District led chapel. Mr. Ernest Root conducted the devotional, Mr. Bomberger told of some of the experiences of the trip, and the quartet sang. The thought was emphasized that the students here have a definite opportunity and responsibility to their home churches. "The Northern District is looking La Verne-ward," said Mr. Bomberger. This brings us into closer relationship with the people there. There is the great need for Christian leadership. Every student should do his share to meet the problems as they arise.

Miss Muir gave us a few of Dr. Lange's pithy sayings in chapel Jan. 10. While these sayings concern common subjects, they are presented in an unusual way.

"Intelligence is like radium, not much of it is found in any one place." "When the simple life becomes the 'skim'plé life—what's the effect on the teacher's efficiency?"

"A governess in looking at Raphael's cherubs said, 'If I had charge of those urchins, they wouldn't put their elbows on the table!'"

"There are people who pray on their

THE NEW YEAR

The old year of 1919 has rolled away and the new year of 1920 has been ushered in. We look back over the old year with feelings many and varied. We see the mistakes, the failures, the troubles and heartaches which we have experienced. There are so many things we wish might be stricken from the record and blotted out of our memories. On the other hand, we remember with a feeling of pleasure the joys, the good times, the successes and the triumphs of the old year. And after all, haven't there been more joys than sorrows, more sunshine than rain, more white than black? It is always so in Nature. There are more days when the sky is bright and sunny than when it is grey and overcast with clouds. In life, too, there is more good than bad, more beauty than ugliness, yes, more white than black. Too many times we see only the dark, our eyes are blinded to the light. We spend so much time thinking of our trials and burdens that we fail to recognize the benefits and blessings which are showered upon us. Let us realize that the rainy days are necessary for growth, both in Nature and in our lives. Cannot we see a development, a progress in our own characters?

Now we stand on the threshold of another year. We are beginning the record of another year. The page is blank. What will be written thereon depends largely upon us. We can make this year what we will—not wholly, but to a large degree. The practice of making New Year's resolutions is an old one and one which is frequently the object of much fun and joking. Yet there is a truth there that we must recognize. No individual should be constantly brooding over his conduct or "figuring his motives." Yet it is necessary for the progress of the moral life to take an inventory of oneself. The New Year offers an opportunity for such self-examination, although it should not be confined wholly to this occasion. When the individual sees his shortcomings and the opportunities of greater self-realization, then is the time to resolve to "leave the things that are behind and press forward to the things that are before." Let us look forward with hope and renewed courage to the things which the future will unfold. May we make the best use of our time, our opportunities and our privileges, and develop ourselves for greater service.

knees on Sunday, and the rest of the week on their neighbors."

"Teachers teach Latin and Mathematics instead of boys and girls. The result is not in terms of character."

"We are educating children for the future as if they were our own grandfathers and grandmothers."

"The greatest weakness of a democracy in comparison with an enlightened despotism is that it is not looking ahead and self directive."

"The problem of the school is how to make people want what they ought to want."

"The grammar school should leave a boy full of question marks instead of periods."

"Emotional people give out more heat than light."

"The only difference between a rut and a grave is the size."

While probably most of us had never been permitted to hear Mr. Lange, we had formed some idea of him when Miss Muir completed her talk.

We have been bountifully blessed with the talks of great men the past week in chapel. Friday, Mr. Sargent from Bethany Bible School was with us and led devotions. Saturday Dr. Flory gave us a talk using "building" as his main theme. He said that building is the most beautiful and useful art. Dr. Flory noticed the California architecture in comparison with that of the East. He also said that anyone who had ever visited the Orient brought back reports of the beauty of the Egyptian Pyramids. The Hanging Gardens of Babylonia are also masterpieces being ranked among the seven wonders of the world. The temple at Jerusalem, built by Solomon was a wonderful structure.

However, only a few people have and can make themselves famous in this form of art. Nevertheless we can and are erecting a temple more valuable than any of these structures and the greatest work we can do is to live in our own life the higher life that we will inherit when this world has passed away. We cannot save ourselves by trying to be good, but by helping and serving others. Therefore let us strive to get the preparation in our school life which will help us to do more efficient work for our master.

Hazel:—"Buy a camel."

Lucile:—"Papa, small checks will be in fashion for spring styles."

Mr. Beckner:—"Thank goodness."

LETTER FROM ESTHER FUNK

I see that La Verne intends to send four delegates to the Des Moines Convention, and I certainly am glad of that fact. Juniata will also have four delegates. I suppose you will meet each other there. It's a wonderful opportunity for those who will attend, because they will be able to meet and talk with the greatest men in Christendom today, such as John R. Mott and Robert E. Speer.

The Sectional Conference of about 99 colleges in the east will be held at Juniata sometime in January or February, and we also expect to have Robert E. Speer with us. You know, I never heard of these Conferences in the west; I wonder if they have them.

Well, I suppose some of you have wondered about how we like the climatic environment around this section. It rained about every other day after we got here until just the last couple of weeks, and now it's turning a little colder. We haven't minded the cold at all yet, indeed we don't seem to mind it nearly as much as many of the natives. It doesn't seem to penetrate into the very marrow of your bones like a damp cold does.

This last week the thermometer has been down quite low, keeping below freezing for a few days, and as low as 14 degrees in the mornings.

I just finished writing a letter to Maudex before starting this literary production and tried to excite her about a great happiness that has entered my life—about one of my dreams being fulfilled, etc. Oh, no, I'm not in love, married or anything of that nature, you all know me too well for that, it's merely the fact that at last I've had a chance—to learn to skate.

Last Wednesday the ponds were frozen over, and of course I sauntered down the first thing to see what a pond looked like when it was frozen over. I went by myself, because I was afraid these people might think that was funny. Well the next day some children began skating, then that evening some of the College kids went down. I tried to walk on it, but my shoes were not properly shod, and the sliding ability of the protruding nails in my shoes was so intense that the ice came up to meet me. Oh, a little thing like that didn't bother me in the least though.

Friday afternoon Mabel and I had our first lesson in the art of cutting the ice. Many, many thanks to the bumps, bruises and sore spots I received while attempting to become proficient on roller skates the past two years, ice-skating came very natural for me. Of course every one has a little trouble at first in trying to keep their ankles straight. Skating makes you rather warm (except your feet) and so of course you can clearly understand that the few times I did sit down were merely for the purpose of reducing the temperature of my body—a very excellent method.

Talk about cold feet tho, now that's one thing I do get, and if you girls happen to have any extra Red Cross socks, you might send them along in the Missionary Box to us. Stony Creek hasn't frozen yet, but when it does—Oh, Boy,—there's three splendid miles of skating. I'm simply living in anticipation. It's only two weeks now until Christmas vacation, and we certainly hope there's good sledding and skating then.

Mabel and I often think of all of you back at dear old L. V. C. and I may be back with you next year, you never can tell what the days may bring forth.

Now, really I don't want to burden you with too long and burdensome an essay, because you might get sleepy or tired. It's like Dr. Greene said Tuesday night about long winded people.

"A certain lawyer had just given a very, very long and tiresome plea in behalf of his client, when he turned to the judge and said, 'Your Honor, I hope I am not intruding upon the time.'

"Well," replied the judge, 'I don't mind you intruding upon time, but I do hate to have you encroach upon eternity.' So I'll end on time.

No, I must say a word more, please excuse me, but—it's about the Campus Times. Well, now, you know, I think that's a peach of a paper. It's so much more practical and sensible than that monthly magazine, "The Palmerian," was, of which, I don't believe I ever did read a single number clear thru. But I'll venture to say that everybody reads every word in that Campus Times. Keep the good work up, and some of you will make good newspaper men, society editors, etc., etc., some day!

Oh, yes, I want to tell Mrs. Garver and Pres. Miller that the College people here don't have to go to bed at 10:00 p. m. Only Prep kids do, and they get till 10:30. And we, poor things, can stay up all night if we can't get our lessons any other way. However, I love my bed too much to do that. Well, it's ten o'clock now, and as the Fiske people would say—time to re-tire. So we shall say good bye to you, and here's wishing L. V. C. all the success which can possibly come her way.

P. S.—Before I close I want to drop the hint that Mabel and I would be very glad—I mean we wouldn't be a bit peeved to hear from you all once in a while. You know letters look mighty good.

As ever,
ESTHER FUNK

CONVENTION PARTY RETURNS

Concluded from First Page

Thursday night. Monday morning Messrs. Funderburgh, Kaylor and Davis left Des Moines en route to La Verne by way of Salt Lake City, Royal Gorge and Colorado Springs. They report the trip as one unexcelled in beauty as well as scenic points. They arrived at home on Friday night, Jan. 9, 1920.

Reports of the Convention will be given at the Bible Institute during the first week of February.

Mrs. Ellis:—"Now who can explain why the grave stones in this old dungeon had no inscriptions on them?"

Emley:—"Well some grave stones just naturally have no inscriptions."

Mrs. Ellis:—"Oh, is that so? Did anyone in this class ever see a grave stone without an inscription?"

Emley:—"Yes, before they are ready to be taken to the cemetery."

Heard in the Laundry Room of the Girls' Dorm.

Viola:—"Oh, Maude, I put my hand on the hot iron. What shall I do about it?"

Maude B.:—"Read Carlyle's Essay on Burns."

Dr. Dickey is Bible History:—"It tells here about the twin devils entering the swine."

Chase:—"Was that how they got the deviled ham?"

The conversation had turned to weddings when Welty said:—"I would not walk a half a block to my own wedding unless they served refreshments."

"Can you squeeze in this crowded car?" asked the polite young man.

"Maybe, Charley," replied the sweet young thing; but don't you think we had better wait until we get home?"

One of the weddings which took place during the Christmas vacation, and one which is of interest to many of the students, was that of Mr. Marvin Goodman and Miss Susie Minnix which took place Wednesday, Dec. 24, at Miss Minnix's home in Reedley, Cal. at high noon. Just after the clock struck twelve, the bride and groom took their place under an arch of palm leaves and oranges, where they were met by Dr. J. P. Dickey, who tied the knot which bound two happy hearts. The bride was very sweetly dressed in a dainty gown of cream silk crepe meteor, a long net bridal veil, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and ferns. The groom was dressed in a navy blue suit. After the ceremony was performed about twenty-four guests, who were the bride's and groom's relatives, Dr. Dickey, Leonetta Holderman and Beulah Noll took their places around a well filled table.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodman then left on their honeymoon in a Ford, which was to be spent in San Francisco. At present they are living with Mr. Goodman's parents at Empire, but they are eagerly awaiting the time when they can take possession of their farm which they own near Empire. The groom is a graduate of the academy class of '19 and the bride was a member of the class of A. B. '21.

We all join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Goodman much success, joy and prosperity in the life which is before them.

At the home of W. B. Emley, near Reedley, Calif., on December 25, 1919, Irl D. Van Fleet and Mary Emley were united in marriage by Rev. D. F. Sink.

The parlor was decorated with red and white streamers hanging from an arch made of pepper boughs. The dining room, in which the delicious two course supper was served, was decorated with mistletoe and red and white streamers.

Only the near relatives of the bride and groom were present. Mr. and Mrs. Van Fleet are living on a ranch north of Reedley, which was recently purchased by the groom.

On Christmas morning Miss Bessie Miller and Donald A. Maxwell were married at Miss Miller's home in Paterson. Miss Miller met Mr. Maxwell while in training at the San Jose Hospital. The bride and groom are spending their honeymoon in San Francisco, and will make their home at San Jose.

Monday evening, January 12, eleven of the college boys were met at the dormitory by eleven girls and escorted to the home of Hazel Minnich, where a very enjoyable evening was spent.

After the boys succeeded (but with much difficulty) in shooting one of the paper hearts on which was written a girl's name, all joined in a hunt for hidden candy hearts. Twin kewpies were given to the couple finding the greatest number of hearts. Other games were played that created much mirth and laughter.

Refreshments of sandwiches, hot chocolate, ice cream and wafers were then served. The ice cream, a source of much amusement for some, was white brick cream which embedded a pretty red heart. Many were seen exchanging hearts after the white ice cream had been carefully removed.

The Bethany Girls entertained the Hustlers Sunday School Class New Year's eve at the home of Miss Florence Overholtzer. Various games were played, both indoor and out. The refreshments consisted of toasted marshmallows, apples and candy.

At twelve o'clock the door opened and the "Old Year" entered in the form of an old woman. She told the boys and girls how bad they had been in the past, and various other things about them. Again the door opened and the "New Year" rushed in, kissing everybody (?) and giving flowers.

There was something different about the ending of this party from previous ones. When the Hustlers were leaving, a Bethany girl was seen hurriedly going to each boy, and with many blushes and much hesitation said, "Will you take me home tonight?"

Everyone had a good time and even some expressed their appreciation by wishing for many more Leap Year parties.

NEWS ITEMS

Miss Fern Stitser is receiving a visit from her parents who are on their way east to visit friends and relatives in Iowa.

Birthdays have been very popular around the dorm this month. Virginia has added another year to her heavy burdens. In honor of the event, she received a box of "eats" from home. Miss Julius and Vada Zug also count another year to their glory. Many happy returns, girls.

Irene Frothingham and Miss Maude Brubaker spent Monday, January 12 shopping in Los Angeles.

Dr. Flory, from Bridgewater, Va., is a visitor at the college these days. We are glad to welcome Dr. Flory from the far, far east.

One more week until those unusual things called exams come off. Fellow Students, let's band together, and when all the teachers have gained much worldly knowledge from our papers, and we all receive an F (fine), let us all sink together.

Miss Horn lost her pep and was absent from class for a few days, but she's back again with a smile and a chick little grade book in her right hand.

During the game at Claremont Mr. Thomas fell backwards, striking the back of his head on the floor. He was unconscious for a few minutes, but was not, we are glad to know, seriously injured.

Several of the boys have been suffering with blood poison lately. Mr. Jones and David Bomberger have been limping around. We hope that soon these boys will be their normal selves again.

A number of the students have seen "The Heart of the Hills" lately.

The other night when the milk brigade started out, there was a crash and one of the petite milk bottles broke on the marble steps in front of the dorm.

During the holiday vacation Mrs. Garver was delighted to entertain for an evening her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fey, of Chicago, and her brother, R. W. Davenport was with her for a day.

Dutch and Mr. Kaylor must have enjoyed themselves exceedingly in the east, if you want any particulars about this trip, ask Kaylor about the skating!

Archie Brooks and Carl Jones have put out their danger signs for Leap Year. You can see these danger signals far and wide.

If you have a Kodak and are not getting results with your snapshots, go to "Frasher's," and they will be glad to help you find the error.

Always keep a record of your pleasure trips, and friends' visits in your snapshot book. If you haven't a Kodak, "Frasher's" will loan you one. "Frasher's" service with a smile.

ALPHIANS GIVE PROGRAM

On Saturday evening Jan. 17, the Alphan Literary Society gave a program to the students and Faculty. This program was very much enjoyed by all. The piano quartet was followed by an interesting paper by Miss Catherine Byerly. This was a satire on the Philomatheans. Misses Lucile Beckner and Dorothy Arnold delightfully entertained the audience by singing a duet. The Alphan Oracle was read by Mr. Marion Roynon. A piano solo by Miss Wilda Kagarise was followed by Miss Beckner impersonating an old Dutch woman. The audience was much amused by Mr. Webster's and Mr. Gilbert's guitar duet. A dialogue by Mr. Webster and Mr. Roynon concluded the program.

Lefever in American Institutional Life:—"Miss Woody, do you believe in a high or low protective tariff?" Marie:—"I don't wish to express my political views in class."

INDOOR BASEBALL

Our Indoor Baseball girls have played two practice games, the first with Chino, and the second against the La Verne Grammar school. Owing to a lack of practice and to a feeling of too much confidence in themselves, we are sorry to say our girls lost. The scores were: Chino 25 - La Verne 24; and La Verne Grammar School 19 - La Verne 11.

Frances Arnold is captain of the team and girls, we are depending on you to win those league games and prove yourselves champions. Our team line-up is as follows: Margaret Forney Pitcher; Barbara Clay, catcher; Dorothy Arnold, first base; Mollie Rhodes, right short stop; Annabell Huberty, second base; Frances Arnold, left short stop; Eva Marshburn, third base; Jennie Colbert, left field; Grace Forney, center field; Lola Shirk right field.

POMONA COLLEGE vs. LA VERNE COLLEGE

In a clean, fast game played in the Pomona College gymnasium, La Verne was defeated 13-41, Thursday, Jan. 8. Spectators watching the game gave the La Verne boys credit for playing as fast a game as Pomona, but they lacked the shooting eye, which is necessary to win games. Two weeks vacation without practice before the game did not help in this matter.

Our star running guard, John Price, was not able to play, Thomas playing guard and Davis center. The line-up for the game was; Beckner, Funderburgh, forwards; Bomberger, Thomas, guards; Davis, center; Fisher, Root, Subs.

COVINA HIGH AT LA VERNE

On the first day after vacation, Jan. 6, 1920, a hard fought game was played between Covina High School and the La Verne College team. Covina had just finished football and the game resembled the rougher sport. Covina showed gameness, but they were clearly out-classed by the college quintet, and went home with the short end of the score of 10-41. Forest Forney, a former student just out of the navy, refereed the game and allowed the teams to rough it as is done in the service games.

LEAGUE GAME AT PUENTE

The first league game played by the girls' base-ball team was at Puente on Friday afternoon. Did our girls win? Of course they won! You should have seen Margaret fan those Puente stars, the outfield catch flies, and our girls send the ball half a mile distant when up to bat. The score was 35-47 in our favor. Keep it up, girls, and you will win the league for L. V. C.

WIENIES AND THEN SOME

Leland Brubaker, otherwise known as Dutch, arrived home from the Des Moines Convention with a smile spreading from starboard to port. He was back in his own beloved sunny California. While in the East, he had divided his leisure time between condemning the weather and singing "I Love, You, California." But getting back to home and M...Shh-h-h, I almost said it—was not the only cause of Dutch's joy. In his travelling bag he carried, wrapped in a neat bundle, a big wienie, the gift of a representative of the Hartford Cafeteria, Des Moines' super eating place.

It happened like this. The Hartford employs the prettiest girls that can be found in the state of Iowa, which is saying a good deal. Another feature is that your food is not only served to you, but when your tray is filled, one of these beautiful waitresses—or a waiter if your rabbit foot or horseshoe isn't working—takes your tray, carries it to a table, and arranges your food; all in a way that adds one more customer to the Hartford's growing trade.

Well, Dutch saw the girls, but he couldn't get started somehow or other. His spark plugs were dirty from over-work in California, besides the cold Eastern air bothered his carburetor some. He had no luck. Funderburgh and Davis in old model machines, perfected before the days of camouflage and substitution, were roaring along, with smoothly working engines, taking the grades on high. Dutch was worried, but he stuck to the wheel.

Coming into the cafeteria one day, a trifle worried over the prospect, his face suddenly brightened. He saw, or apparently saw, a familiar sight ahead. There were some big sausages on a dish. Now Dutch is nothing if not gastronomic. So in joyful tones he said, "Oh; see the big wienies. Give me a big wienie." It struck the girl funny to have such a big sausage called a wienie by the short, semi-fat fellow from California and she laughed at him. But from that time on, Dutch's fortune was made. The joke spread around. Dutch was greeted with words of reminder at every appearance. He had become a local celebrity.

Before the last meal the young lady promised Dutch a wienie to take home with him. When he came back for his farewell lunch there was the biggest wienie the Hartford force could find waiting for him. It was presented amidst roars of laughter, and so it was that the fellow who got off on such a poor start came racing down to the finish tape a big wienie's length ahead of all competitors.

No wonder Dutch smiled as he stepped off the Santa Fe overland.

CHRISTMAS VACATION AT THE DORMITORY

There were about twenty of us who did not go home for the holidays, and I think we all found that a person can enjoy themselves, even at a dormitory, if they just will.

During the first week Mrs. Michaels took her vacation, while Minnie and Bernice undertook the management of the kitchen. The girls said that they enjoyed preparing some of those meals, regardless as to whether the others might be able to eat them or not. Well, anyway, it is a good thing they did not all know everything that happened in the kitchen.

No one could have been more glad to see Mrs. Michaels return than were the substitute cooks. They think it was good practice though, and besides—it is leap year.

Mrs. Garver was here all during vacation, but just think! She didn't have to turn out the lights, and nearly

California Congressman Would Bar Tobacco Advertisements

(From Tobacco Record of New York)
During a recent debate in Congress on the matter of conserving the supply of news print paper, Congressman Randall, of California, seized the opportunity for an attack on tobacco, and urged that a saving in the consumption of news print paper could be affected by the passage of a law prohibiting the printing of tobacco and cigarette advertisements in daily and weekly newspapers and monthly magazines. Congressman Randall is said to be in active sympathy with the aims of the No-Tobacco League which has made great headway in California, where it will hold a State Convention in January. It would be well if the friends of tobacco in California could get together and see that effective steps be taken to oppose Congressman Randall's re-election and retire him to private life at the end of his present term.

every night some of the boys would come over and play rook. Several times we made candy, and once had "dates" for the boys—but alas, the unappreciative creatures! Not one of them appeared on that night. Ask Professor Frantz if you can pull teeth by eating taffy.

The day before Christmas the boys got us a Christmas tree; we won't tell where they found it either! But it was prettily decorated with gifts piled at its base, on Christmas eve. Everyone present was remembered by Santa with some useful present and then—the jokes! Big jokes and little jokes that caused a laugh at the expense of the recipient.

On Christmas day, it was your own fault if you did not get enough to eat. The boys said so, and boys do know that. We had chicken and all of the things that go with it to make a Christmas dinner.

Some of the girls enjoyed a trip to Mt. Wilson on Friday of the second week and saw the beauties and wonders connected with a visit to that place.

We all appreciated the pleasant times given us by our friends, for nearly all were invited out at some time or other during vacation.

Did we study, as we had planned? We did not. Oh, no! We had no time for such insignificant things.

I think it was the wish of all that vacation could have been longer, but nevertheless we were very glad to see everyone come back to L. V. C. Just ask Johnnie Brooks whether or not he was glad. He will tell you.

And that was the end of a pleasant vacation!
