WHY A CHRISTIAN COLLEGE? --- NEED TO SPIRITUALIZE LIFE

We are often asked why we should work and strive for a Christian College when there are so many tax-supported institutions where our young people may go. I am a firm believer in the development of the physical, social and intellectual sides of the student, the sides the state institutions emphasize, but I believe more in the spiritualizing of all life. In fact, to me this is the outstanding reason for the existence of a Christian College. Were this not true we had much better turn the education of our young people over to the larger institutions that are much better prepared to teach the intellectual, social and physical subjects than are we. This does not mean that the Christian College should in any way neglect these three phases of education, but rather that it should make them as strong as possible, and at the same time universalize them. In other words, the intellectual, social and physical development should carry with it the spiritual significance which is to do all things to the glory of God, the Creator of all things.

We, the students and faculty of a Christian College, go together into the field of plant and animal life, and in addition to the facts of biology found there, we find God. We go together into the laboratories of physics and chemistry, and in addition to the laws of science found there, we find God; we go together into the classrooms of literature, history, sociology and ethics, and in addition to the manuscripts of life found there, we find God; we go together into the conservatory of music, and in addition to the harmonies and beauties found there, we find God; we go together into the department of theology, and in addition to the truths of life and death found there, we find God.

This was Jesus' way. He saw a lily of the field and taught us of the watchful care of God; He heard of a lost boy, and taught us of the Fatherhood of God; He beheld the fishermen taking fish from the sea of Galilee, and taught us God's purpose for us in our relation to our fellow men who know not God; He heard of a man who was robbed and then befriended by a despised person, and taught us God's plan for us in relation to all peoples; He picked up a tiny mustard seed, and taught us how God would cause His kingdom to grow. He saw God in everything and in this way glorified everything.

What better can we do, what higher purpose can we have, as members of a Christian College, than to follow the Great Teacher who spiritualized everything with which he came in contact? This glorifying, or spiritualizing of life would be my answer to the question, Why a Christian College?

ROSE-COLORED GLASSES

Put on your rose-colored glasses my friends, and look into the future. You will see that which will leave you breathless and shining-eyed with joy.

The season is jeweled with a golden California day and steeped in sunshine, a stately new college building dreams in serene dignity and repose. Its creamy walls lift above the smooth lawns about it to look across wide stretches of orange groves. Beyond, the mountains sleep against the soft, warm sky.

An ideal spot is this for boys and girls to live and learn.

Or look again when night has fallen. A slim young moon rides above the spring-scented valley and a shadowy college building gleams through the silvered darkness of the campus. The fragrance of roses mingles with the faint, low voices and laughter of youth.

There has never been a lovelier place for the soul of a college to develop its highest and best.

NEED OF NEW ADMINISTRATION BUILDING FOR COLLEGE

Early Recognition of the Need

As far back as the years when Dr. S. J. Miller was president of the college, the need of an up-to-date administration building was fully recognized. Its probable location, dimensions and style of architecture were all considered, but immediate construction was delayed in favor of another need—the Ladies' Dormitory.

President Studebaker's Desire

From the first day of his administration, President Studebaker has insisted that a new administration building is an absolute necessity, and must have the first place in any building program. His enthusiastic advocacy of this need, and the very apparent benefits to be derived from such an addition to our equipment have largely overcome all opposition and indifference. However, a college has needs other than that of buildings, and some of these have forced themselves to the fore for a time and absorbed the attention and resources of the institution.

To Remodel the Old Building

For years there has been an insistent opinion that the old building could be remodeled in such a way as to make it semi-fireproof and also much more conveniently arranged for college purposes. This idea was taken up and carefully considered. Plans were drawn, rough estimates made and expert opinion sought. The results of this investigation, together with an alternative proposal to erect a new building, were brought before the Board of Trustees of the College in their annual meeting in February. The plans were carefully considered. The Executive Committee was instructed to continue its investigations and make a more careful comparison of the cost of the alternative plans.

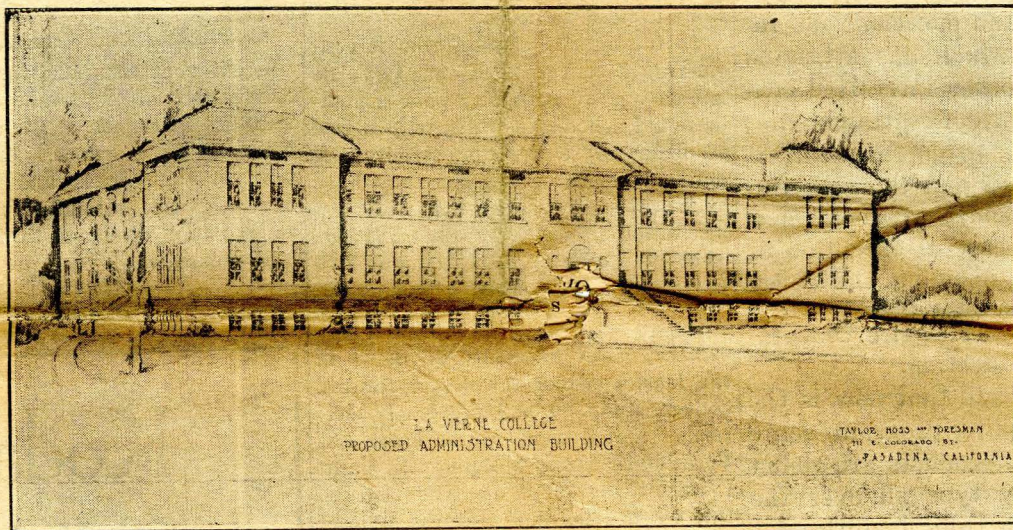

The College Constituency Consulted

Recognizing that the combined effort and strength of the entire constituency of the college will be necessary to carry to completion a building program, the Executive Committee was also instructed to make a canvass of the churches of the Pacific Coast for the purpose of acquainting them with the proposal to build and to ascertain their reaction to such a proposal. Meetings were held in all except the more remote churches. Those of Oregon and Washington were informed by letter and an expression of opinion solicited. The results of this canvass were quite gratifying. Almost one hundred per cent of the opinion expressed was in favor of building, and almost as unanimous was the vote for a new building rather than a remodeling of the old.

A Decision to Build a New Administration Building

On learning of this enthusiastic response on the part of the friends of the college, the Board of Trustees decided to undertake the erection of a

The administration building displayed herewith is to be a basement and two-story reinforced concrete structure covering a floor space of 33,000 square feet. It will contain well-proportioned and splendidly lighted rooms for offices, lectures, laboratories, and student organizations. There is to be an auditorium with a seating capacity of about 625. This building will have architecture similar to that of the ladies' dormitory and will be located on the same block. It will be a credit to all who help to make it a fact and will adequately take care of the present needs of the institution. Let us see it through.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING

THE BUSINESS MAN

The many advantages of a college to the business life of any community are apparent to all. Every city has something to capitalize, to attract attention to itself, and to draw prospective settlers. LaVerne cannot hope to become a mining center, and her industrial development and agricultural pursuits are insufficient to sustain a very large municipality. On what specific thing, then, shall the business men centralize to build a larger and better LaVerne? The reply is obvious. Our business future hinges largely upon the future development of our college.

Something like fifty thousand dollars passed through the business manager's hands last year, most of which was expended here in LaVerne, and this amount does not include the expenditures of the students in the local stores. This is the mercenary side of the college and this angle of any venture necessarily has a strong appeal to the business man, yet we realize that the type of students, faculty and home-makers attracted here has enriched the community far beyond the measure of the dollar.

Let us be alive to our opportunities and our responsibilities. Success depends largely on the cooperation of the people of this community. Let us pledge ourselves to a greater LaVerne College, which in turn means a greater LaVerne City.

—Bob Williams.

THE STUDENTS

Those of us who have been connected with the old building in various ways see its passing with feelings of mingled joy and sadness.

If these old walls could but speak they would reveal an abundance of visions seen, of associations formed, of resolutions made and broken, of victories won and battles lost, of lessons learned and lessons neglected, of rooms stacked and of Freshies ducked; but above it all they would proclaim the lives of men and women that have been raised to a higher level of usefulness because of having been therein.

Because of these associations, because of the "spirit" that ties this old building to our memories, we have a feeling of sadness when we realize that we are now nearing the last days of an old, dilapidated, well worn structure, which has had much to do with the formation of these memories.

Perhaps we have a feeling of remorse that in these experiences we have left undone many things we should have done, that we have not always done as well as we might have done.

But paramount to these feelings is one of joy. We glory in the fact that LaVerne College is entering into a new era of usefulness that she never could approach were she to remain in the old building. Some even might

OUR ALUMNI

It came as a great surprise to the alumni that LaVerne College is to have a new administration building next year. The floor plans and sketch drawing of the new building certainly give one a thrill. Just to think that this dream is to be a reality in a few months—seems almost incredible. It truly is a launch on faith.

But when one stops to think that the new building must be realized or LaVerne College will practically cease to exist, he is presented with a tremendous challenge.

As a member of the alumni, I want to say that we are certainly enthused over the new project and we want to be back of it in a real practical way. Fellow alumni, let us realize our responsibility in helping our beloved alma mater to put this new building across. The college is counting on us for a large moral and financial support. Let us not fail in this crisis.

have a feeling of jealousy because future students are to have the rare privileges which we have hoped for so long, but a nobler impulse moves us as we contemplate the greater service to be rendered by our beloved college. We are made glad to know that she has always fostered ideals which require the complete living of a life of service in accord with God and man.

POSSIBILITIES OF LA VERNE COLLEGE

LaVerne College stands at the beginning of a new epoch. The present move for a new administration building is only one step in a program of development which will add to equipment, endowment, curriculum, and efficiency of instruction. Never before in the history of the institution was the opportunity greater for the college to become a real factor in Christian Education.

For a long while the institution offered no more than high school work, but of recent years it has been advancing rapidly in the college department until at the present time there is an enrollment of one hundred college students, nineteen of whom are candidates for the A. B. degree. Though the curriculum has not been wide nor the student body large, nevertheless, a type of work has been done by the well-trained and conscientious faculty and by the sturdy body of students which has attracted much favorable comment by educators and other interested citizens. But we must not be satisfied with present attainments; the standards of this present day require us to go forward. It is clear, therefore, that the board of trustees and the constituency of the college acted wisely when they decided to erect a new modern administration building; for the successful execution of the present campaign will do much toward deciding the policy and setting the educational standards of LaVerne College. The present move, therefore, is momentous and merits the cooperation of all who are interested in Christian Education.

There are a number of things which indicate that now is the time to launch out in a vigorous forward looking program, some of which are the following: Commodities and products are rising in value. Big business enterprises of every type all over the country are advertising widely and increasing their facilities for output. Schools throughout the United States are executing successful building and endowment campaigns. These facts are evidence enough that we are on the verge of a period of prosperity.

Then too, the advertising which LaVerne College has gotten this year through the success of her athletes has attracted the attention of many young people who can be induced to attend our school if our equipment, curriculum, and faculty can measure up with the standards of other institutions. Moreover, our graduates have been making themselves felt in various activities of leadership and, by the very nature of the case, are interesting their friends in the possibilities of securing a worth while education in LaVerne College.

In addition to these things, the great needs impel us; for our old building has outlived its usefulness and, though it has served the college in a remarkable manner for many years, nevertheless, the time has come when it must give place for more up-to-date equipment. Standardization requirements are such that we must have buildings, laboratories, and library facilities which make it possible for us to offer courses that will give our students a training which is second to none. Young men and young women whom we invite to pursue their education in our school have a right to demand that we give them a training equal to that which they may get elsewhere.

Every institution of learning in this part of the county which is executing a successful and attractive program is over-crowded with students. The success of LaVerne College, therefore, will be determined in direct ratio to its capacity to make a real contribution to those who seek an education here.

There are only two things necessary to make the present drive a success: namely, the whole-hearted cooperation of the students, the alumni, and the constituency, and a complete surrender to the wisdom and guidance of the Almighty. LaVerne College is an institution which has a most promising future and all of us have a very definite relationship to its activities. Let us, therefore, cooperate in this great cause of Christian Education in order that mankind may be blessed and God glorified.

—Ellis M. Studebaker.

Ernie Landis (in chapel)—Some of the Seniors want to know if you are going to offer any post-graduate work when you get the new building. Pres. Studebaker—We may. We might offer a course in matrimony.

There is a determination on the part of broad-voiced people to make impossible another such war as the World War.

The world has never tried the teaching of Jesus on peace, but she never will succeed until she does.

Jesus said, "Do not retaliate. They that use the sword will also perish by the sword."

As much power as Christ had, he never used it for his own selfish interests nor for the destruction of the life of another.

The world will never come to peace until people are willing to substitute love and kindness for retaliation. —Pres. Studebaker.

The individual that is worth while is the one who keeps "scratching." The outstanding reason for the existence of L. V. C. is the development of character.

The next fifty years will be spent in using, for the good of humanity, that which has been invented in the last fifty years.

All things must be spiritualized. We must see God in everything.

Our conception of God goes a long way toward forming our philosophy of life. —Dr. Arnett.

Holy days have been made into holidays to the extent that the true significance of the day is lost.

The places that are the most beautiful are the places where Jesus Christ has been.

The Holy Land is truly carpeted with flowers. Do not go to a famous place, but make the place famous because you have been there.

A life that sends forth its fragrance at all times, and in all environments, is the most worth while. —Rev. Tay.

THE LIGHT UNDER THE BUSHEL

(The reasons which held down the enrollment of LaVerne College, as experienced and told by an "out-side student":)

Beyond all doubt, the old administration building has held down the enrollment for LaVerne College. It made it almost impossible for me to come to LaVerne and it is keeping many others away. It is only by almost a chance that many who have come decided to do so.

To the outside student who is considering a college to attend, LaVerne is just one of the many poor denominational schools to which only a few students go, either for strictly denominational study, or because they have been especially connected with the institution in one way or another. That is exactly as I thought two years ago. Only when I became acquainted with the persons and personality in the school through my brother, as it generally is, did I in the least consider the school for my college study. I had previously contended that I would never enter LaVerne until a new building was built. I wasn't the only one who said it. But when I learned that the fellows here were just as alive as elsewhere (and far cleaner as a group) then I decided to come. It was the inner personality of the school that won my decision. It alone wins others. But the sad part is that this character has always been hidden from the outside by an ugly structure. Many students do not have the opportunity to become attracted by the spirit within the school. We are not able to attract them with anything else. As a result, we are losing many whom we should have.

The solution to this is just around the corner. Unless President Studebaker runs into too many folks backing into him on the turn, that solution will come in the form of the splendid building of which you see a drawing on page one. It isn't a question whether we can afford it; rather it is the question of whether we can afford to do without it. It will mean an enormous increase in attendance, more adequate facilities, and it will mean all the world to LaVerne and that for which she stands, Christian Education.

new administration building. The campaign is on. Preliminary floor plans and style of architecture have been approved by the Building Committee. Utility, convenience and economy have been the watchwords, but beauty has not been overlooked. The future of the college depends on the success of this campaign. This building is not simply a need, it is a necessity. We solicit the enthusiastic cooperation of all in this effort to make LaVerne College a bigger, better and more efficient center of Christian education.

—Dr. J. B. Emmert.

Let's boost the building campaign.

NEED OF NEW ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

So then as the college moves out of the old building into the new, we commit ourselves to do whatever may be our part, that she may acquire a new impetus, that she may enter larger fields of service, and that whereas she now influences hundreds of lives she may in the future influence thousands for the advancement of the kingdom of God and the brotherhood of man.

Great consternation was caused in one corner of a certain class room Tuesday afternoon when a rat went bouncing on the floor. Several girls took to their heels and more than one squealed. Luckily it was soon caught and returned to its owner's hair unharmed.

THE NEW BUILDING AND CHARACTER

It is a long-recognized truth that environment helps to mold character. People are strongly influenced by the harmony or the discord, the beauty or the ugliness of the surroundings in which they live. This is especially true of students because they are young and impressionable. Let us apply this principle to LaVerne college and discover how the old building has been affecting the young people who have come and gone from within its walls.

It was a grand old edifice in its time, but that time is past. Crumbling to decay, it no longer offers an inspiration to high and noble things. The students, living all day in the presence of broken windows, sagging floors, falling plaster and gloomy halls, feel no incentive to build strong and splendid characters, for they have learned to tolerate foundations that are not quite true; materials not of the best, and rooms that are dark and unattractive.

But the students in a new building will be continually surrounded by beauty and quality. Everything will be of the best. Day after day they will come in contact with strength and harmony and dignity until these qualities will become a part of themselves.

If for no other reason than this, a new administration building will be worth while.

We have received word that Mr. and Mrs. David Bomberger of the Classes of '21 and '22 respectively, are the proud parents of a new baby girl, Doris Eileen Bomberger.

KOLLEGE KNEWS

Miss Helen Fairweather, of Reedley, was the guest of Dorothea Dyck at the ladies' dormitory last week. Miss Fairweather and Miss Dyck are Reedley school friends.

Miss Susan Stoner, who graduated from the college in '24, visited school this week as a guest of her sister, Ruth. Miss Stoner is teaching school near Inglewood.

Miss Pearl Whitcher was the guest of Nova Leonard at her home in Hermosa Beach over the Easter vacation.

Did you recognize any of the dorm girls Wednesday? It looked almost like an echo of "Hick Day." Someone evidently mixed the clothes of the various residents of the ladies' home.

The "flu" is still flying. This time Alberta Maust, Mary Blickenstaff and Mina Shirk were caught.

Alvin Marshburn was happy last Saturday when he was in Los Angeles and his eyes fell upon Vessie Noll's Ford that had been stolen some time before. Alvin says, "How lucky, it's just like finding my own Ford."

Pastor Rothrock is conducting a two-weeks revival meeting in Calvary Church at Los Angeles.

Pauline Dunker, Helen Fairweather of Reedley, Paul Blocher and Russell Frantz enjoyed the snow in Icehouse Canyon on Sunday afternoon, April 5th.

Dr. Miller was missed from school last week. He went to attend the meeting of the General Ministerial Board of the Church of the Brethren, which convened at Elgin, Ills., Tuesday, April 7th.

According to Dr. Hoover, measles is a child's disease. To justify this statement he cites the cases of Masters Dale Glick, Levi Dickey and Claude Junior Arnett.

Mr. William Dyck of Reedley visited his daughter, Dorothea, the first part of last week.

Mr. Ben Hepner of Covina visited friends in LaVerne on Tuesday, April 7th.

Velma Noll left Thursday, April 9th, for Long Beach, where she spent her Easter vacation as the guest of her sister, Mrs. L. Robertson.

Nellie Hylton spent her Easter vacation as the guest of her aunt, Miss Della Booth of Hollywood.

SOCIETY

SOPH-SENIOR PARTY

Who said one could not have fun at a regular old-time party? The Seniors proved that they could when they met at the home of Frances Arnold on the evening of February 28th.

Under the able instruction of Lola Shirk, many new and interesting games were played. Chase especially enjoyed "helping Wanda shave in the kitchen." After so much merriment, all were quite hungry, especially those who had expected the party to be a banquet and had come without their supper. In due time the eats came and relieved the hungry ones.

Levi Dickey enjoyed himself waiting on the porch for a "hand-out" and for one lone Rose, but he says, "That's worth waiting for."

Everyone considered the evening well spent and now, all together, "Who won the war?" . . . Sophomores!

DEBATE PARTY

As a pleasant closing for the debate season, Dr. Miller entertained both the men's and women's debate teams at his home on Monday evening, March 30th. The principal sport of the evening was a debate, the affirmative being upheld by Pearl Whitcher and the negative by Mr. Jamison, debating simultaneously on the question, "Resolved that LaVerne College is a better match-maker than the moon." Various illustrations were drawn from the audience and the speakers' experience. The judges, largely composed of the ladies, maintained their faith in the institution. Various other clever and interesting games were enjoyed and at last delicious pineapple ice cream, cake and punch were served. The whole evening was full of fun and was much appreciated after a strenuous debate season.

ANOTHER BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Ruth Blocher was surprised at her home on April 7th, when she returned from church and was met by a group of girls, namely Misses Myra Yoder, Thelma Glick, Margaret Garber, Helen Fairweather and Pauline Dunker. Messrs. Francis Crites, Cecil Jordan, Ralph Shrock, Paul Blocher and Russell Frantz suddenly appeared on the scene and Ruth sank into a chair.

After everyone had sung a few popular pieces around the piano and Miss Fairweather had entertained the group with comical readings, refreshments consisting of jello, cake and punch were served. As a climax, a big birthday cake holding seventeen candles was brought in and the candles were lit and blown out. Those present will assure you that that angel food cake was delicious. The group adjourned, wishing Ruth many more birthdays to come.

Scene—Girls' "Y" room. Occasion—Discussion on dishwashing.

Myrtice Butterbaugh—I wish that I could wash dishes for just two.

DORMITORY SURPRISE-

A triple birthday surprise was staged at the dormitory on Sunday, April 5th, in honor of Mrs. Grace Miller and Misses Lucile Cox and Pearl Whitcher. Mrs. Miller and Miss Whitcher had the double surprise of finding that each had helped to prepare her own surprise, not knowing that she was included.

All did justice to a chicken dinner while they fed their eyes on the three big candle-covered cakes before them. As a tip, the cakes bore candles to the number of 47, 21 and 19, respectively. One more lady voter, girls! When dinner proper was finished, all had the pleasure of watching the victims cut their cakes. Ice cream finished the dessert course.

The dormitory girls wish these three many more such birthdays, especially if they can help celebrate.

SHOWER

It "rained" quite hard at the home of Cathryn Byerly on East Fourth Street, Friday night, March 27th. A group of about twenty-five girls met at the home of Pauline Shirk and stealthily went over to Cathryn's, and in upon her without any warning.

While the girls talked, 'Cile and Polly hid the various articles. Then each girl led Cathryn to one "secret hiding place." As soon as the gifts were collected, Cathryn with the aid of little Norma and Leland, took a peek into the packages, which contained many useful and beautiful gifts for her future home.

Delicious ice cream and cake were then served, but the girls refused to leave and at last Cathryn was persuaded to show them the contents of her "cedar chest." After this the girls were given all the pinoche they could eat. They then went home, but left with Cathryn many congratulations and wishes for her future happiness.

ANOTHER VOTER

After church on Sunday night, those who have passed the important milestone of voting age, and those who have not so done (in brief, the dormitory-ites) initiated Lucile Cox into the sacred order of "Those Who Have Been Surprised." The occasion was an ice cream feed to celebrate Lucile's step from childhood into adulthood. Do it again, Lucile.

WHICH ARE YOU?

The Y. W. program of March 30th consisted of a scene which contrasted the person who is always on time with the person who is always late.

Lucile Cox was always ready for everything—meals, classes and parties; but Vestal Goetze, who represented the tardy girl, had an awful time. Hurry at the last minute resulted in half-combed hair, a disorderly room, and zeros in class.

The Y. W. girls needed no one to point out the lesson of the scene.

SENIORS ABSCOND

On Friday afternoon, April 4th, the LaVerne College Seniors departed from the community, leaving all their cares and woes behind them. Their destination? The Y. M. C. A. cabin in San Gabriel Canyon for a grand and glorious Ditch Day—or technically speaking, two days and two nights. With rolls of bedding, and boxes, cans and jars of provisions, the farewells were said and the journey begun. At the end of the road cars were unloaded and supplies were taken up the trail by human energy.

Exploring, sweeping, scrubbing and dishwashing were indulged in until the last arrivals under the chaperonage of President and Mrs. Studebaker appeared. Twenty-two hungry people were then appeased with hamburger sandwiches and apple pie. Then the clouds turned inside out, the rain fell, the winds blew and the final touch necessary to make a perfect evening of fun around the fireplace had come.

At an hour neither too early nor too late the boys repaired to the bunk houses and the ladies went to a "quiet" night of slumber upon the floor of the cabin.

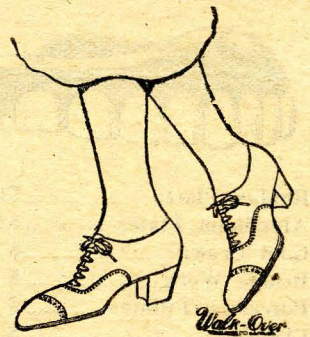

Saturday morning came and all awoke to the joys of hot cakes, sausages, oranges and coffee. Each worthy Senior served uncomplainingly his term of K. P. service, and marvelous were the results achieved. Between times of cooking, eating and dishwashing, everyone amused himself in his own sweet way. The favorite sports seemed to be rook, fancy work, baseball, horse shoe, family scrapping, checkers, magazines and pig-latin. After noon the sun appeared and cameras and kodaks were quickly assembled, and all willingly posed for as many pictures as possible. Then some of the party, desiring exercise, set out for a hike to the river, and reappeared an hour later sadly bedraggled. The shower coming up the canyon had reached them—all except Bert and Wanda, who found shelter in a romantic little shack until the rain was over.

For supper came hot tamales, and somewhat later in the course of events, after an uproarious and jolly time, plates of taffy all ready and waiting to be pulled appeared. That taffy, made under supervision of Mrs. Studebaker and pulled by eighteen dignified Seniors, was a perfect success.

Everyone was awake next morning by the bright and early hour of 8 o'clock. Shortly after, the call to breakfast was given. Bacon and eggs in a mountain cabin—what more could be desired? After breakfast, everybody gathered around the fireplace for Sunday School. With President Studebaker in charge a most interesting question box discussion was held until far past noon. Then at half-past two the greatest triumph of culinary art was served. A long table was spread with President Studebaker at the head and Mrs. Studebaker at the foot. A real old-fashioned family dinner was enjoyed. The menu? Steak, gravy, potatoes, peas and carrots, jello, and cake—mountains of it.

As soon as possible after eating such a meal, camp was broken up, all personal properties were packed, and everyone turned while going down the trail for one last look at the cabin, where the most wonderful ditch day ever ditched was spent.

"THE DREAM THAT CAME TRUE"

The Student Volunteers of the College will give a pageant play on stewardship, entitled "The Dream That Came True," by David A. Johnson and Clarke Billings. The play is to be given in the College auditorium on Tuesday night, April 14th, at 8 o'clock. A silver offering will be taken. This play has a strong, gripping message. Come everyone!

NARCISSA GIRLS ENTERTAIN

The Narcissa girls furnished the chapel program on Thursday, April 9th. Besides the club ritual they gave a reading and two very clever one-act plays. The program ended with a talk by Ruth Rothrock on "What we expect of a college girl."

The program was very well received, and proved that these girls from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of grammar school, with the help of their leaders, are capable of doing some very creditable work.

Short Plays Coming

The Teeth of the Gift Horse," Margaret Cameron;
 "Joint Owners in Spain," Alice Brown;

"Mansions," Hildegard Flanner.
 All these plays are to be presented in the college auditorium on April 25th, at 8 o'clock. The admission is fifty and thirty-five cents. Get your ticket early and avoid the rush.

Cooperation is the keynote of the age, so the College Juniors and Seniors decided to use the key and present three short plays. The Juniors will then give their long play next year. The result of this cooperation you will see, if you are lucky enough to get a ticket, on Saturday, April 25th. "Joint Owners in Spain" are comedies full of wholesome fun. "Mansions" is a serious drama with a beautiful appeal for youth and life. All three plays will be greatly appreciated.

A word to the wise is sufficient—if you are able to borrow, beg or earn fifty cents before April 25th, be there.

LaVerne College building campaign begins Thursday, April 16th.

ATHLETICS

COLLEGE BASEBALL
 Having defeated Caltech on Monday, March 30th, by a score of 11 to 2, the college team was beaten by Occidental by the same score on the following Wednesday.

On Wednesday, April 8th, San Berdoo High School was defeated on the home grounds 4 to 3. Howard Hoff did the pitching and was aided by good support on the part of his teammates in winning the game. The next day a return game was staged with Whittier on the LaVerne diamond and for the second time this season LaVerne proved to be the superior team, winning the affair 6 to 3. Kreps pitched the full game and altho Whittier gathered 12 hits, he was able to pull himself out of the holes at times, due to good fielding on the part of his team mates.

TRACK

The fact that three LaVerne men entered the Conference track meet and took three points should be an impetus for a desire to enter a real track team next season. It is a well known fact that LaVerne possesses some real track stars and a good showing could be made with most of the small colleges. It requires no small amount of hard work to train for track but it is the one form of athletics in which LaVerne is put on an equal basis with the other Conference teams, and she should be well represented.

J. Brooks was entered in the shot and discus; Lehmer in the shot and javelin, and Boots in the javelin and discus.

J. Brooks and Lehmer tied for third place in the shot at 39 feet 6 inches, thereby missing by an inch second place and a trip to Berkeley, as all first and second place men were to compete against the California Golden Bears at Berkeley. Brooks won the flip of the coin that gave him the third place medal and Lehmer received the fourth place medal.

ACADEMY COMES BACK AT BONITA

Still feeling the sting of defeat handed to them at Bonita on Tuesday, March 24th, the Academy staged a come-back and gave Bonita a lacing here on All Fools' Day, to the tune of 5 to 1. Few errors were made and team work was much improved over that of the first game.

Fred Mahoney played in spite of his poison oak. Crites allowed but two hits and had seven strike-outs to his credit, and drove out a single that scored two.

Bonita threatened in the third inning when Crites walked two and Mahoney's error filled the bags, but a snappy double play retired the side. Shirk featured at the bat, getting two hits in three trips to the plate.

ACADEMY

The Academy Baseball Team journeyed to Webb on Thursday, April 9th, and trounced them 4 to 1. Paine of Webb and Crites of LaVerne tied for strikeout honors, having eleven apiece. Webb, on a walk and two hits, scored in the seventh inning, while the Leopards bunched six hits in the sixth and seventh for four runs. The Leopards featured in stolen bases, stealing 5. Paine allowed six hits, Crites four. The return game will be played here April 30th.

Batting averages of the members of the college baseball team after the Whittier game were as follows:

Bohn	21	8	.381
Glick	25	9	.360
Lehmer	20	7	.350
Boots	12	4	.333
Landis	28	8	.286
Betts	14	4	.286
Brooks	25	6	.240
Root	21	4	.190
Harold Hoff	13	2	.154
Howard Hoff	9	1	.111
I. Betts	2	0	.000
Kreps	8	0	.000

Community Mothers and Daughters Banquet

The Y. W. C. A. girls are sponsors for an ambitious undertaking—a mothers and daughters banquet to be given in the gym on Friday, April 17th, at 6:30.

All mothers of course are invited, and all daughters of college or high school age are eligible. The Y. W. C. A. will act as a clearing house and provide mothers with eligible daughters, and vice versa, so that none need be left out.

The kind cooperation of all is invited. The general chairman, Marguerite Dickey, will appreciate any offers of help and will gladly make assignments.

The evening promises attractions in music, readings, and an address by Dr. Raymond C. Brooks of Pomona College, and other features.

Tickets are 50 cents and can be obtained at the drug store until noon on Tuesday.

HICK DAY

April 1st was celebrated as the annual "hick" day. Most every type of character was evident on the campus—from tramps, old men and old women to clowns, cowgirls and kids.

The spirit of the day was carried out in the morning chapel. A supposed farmer had charge of the program. The big feature was a stunt entitled "An Over-ripe Egg."

The commission announced that in the evening there would be a wiener bake and program on the athletic field. When the crowd arrived, they were greeted by a blazing bonfire, but none of the commission were present. So suspicions began to arise. Just at the moment of dispersal a letter came from the commission stating that it was April Fools' Day and that the crowd could return home. Those present were not disposed to accept such an invitation. Instead, the boys furnished the money to buy sufficient marshmallows and apples to replace the would-be wieners. Thus the evening ended very enjoyably, quite contrary to the plans of the commission.

GIRLS LYRIC CLUB

The Lyric Club, consisting of sixteen girls, Professor and Mrs. Haugh and several selected gentlemen escorts, journeyed down to the Church of the Brethren at Santa Ana on Thursday evening, April 2nd, where the club gave its first program. Before the program was given, however, the merry singers were called down to the basement of the church, where a most delicious dinner was served.

After supper they wended their way back upstairs toward the auditorium, where they adorned themselves in their white dresses for the program. The program consisted of twelve selections from the club, two selections from the "quintet," two vocal solos, one by Lola Shirk, the other by Lucile Beckner, a piano solo by Dorothea Dyck and a violin solo by Pauline Dunker. Some of the selections were secular and some were sacred.

On Thursday evening, April 9th, the club gave its program again, this time to the Inglewood Church of the Brethren. Here they were also served a luscious dinner before the program.

These are just beginnings of the work and plans of the Lyric Club. Quite a number of invitations from other churches in the district have been sent to the club. It is the aim of the club to broaden and grow, and to give these people something really worth while.

PRE-EASTER MEETINGS

All the churches of LaVerne cooperated in putting on a splendid program during the week before Easter. Splendid addresses on The Triumphal Entry, The Arch-Traitor, The Trial of Jesus, Earth's Greatest Tragedy, the Atonement, Proofs of the Resurrection and Immortality of Jesus were given by Dr. W. I. T. Hoover. The meetings were very well attended and appreciated. On Sunday evening, April 12th, a cantata, "A Thorn-Crowned King," directed by The Atonement, Proofs of the Resurrection and The Immortality of Jesus, April 12th, the cantata, "The Thorn-Crowned King," directed by Professor B. S. Haugh, was given by a choir of fifty voices selected from the college and the church. The cantata was composed of solos, duets, trios, quartets and choruses which worked together to carry out the sequence of the story of the Resurrection. It was very effective and served a splendid climax to the services of Passion Week.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MEETING

On Thursday evening, March 26th, the Home and Foreign Student Volunteers met in a joint meeting. Pastor Rothrock, the speaker of the evening, gave several splendid thoughts for those planning to enter the field of Christian service. He took up the points of (1) adjustment and (2) the message. Among other things he said: "Adjustment is not easy but is essential. First find a good field, then adapt yourself to the environment and the conditions of the field. Also, if your message is worth while, propagate it."
