

Halbutt Lane School,
January 20, 1892.

Dear Lincoln: -

You most likely have read all of my letters so I will tell you what I have been doing for the past three days.

Monday evening seven of us and ~~Miss~~ Ross went to hear Patti sing. Of course our seats were pretty well up in the air but we heard everything and certainly were more fortunate than some of the people who paid four dollars for their seats as there was such a crowd they could not get to their seats. Mr. Fritz, our teacher is writing, who is one of the stock holders in the case of of Maria said he thought he was and was afraid he would not get in as so many were compelled to stay outside. He was in a state in the second falcony and was not comfortable. Her husband was good and Gatti herself was good. I guess she must have more her hair a little in coming - on the stage - so every time she must lift after singing she had to comb back they could only stop the applauding by going off with the finger-glass. She sings in New York City to-night there she goes next. I will enclose a programme, you may not be interested in it but maybe Mother will wish to see it.

Yesterday afternoon,
before he was dead Mrs.
Richards must have Pale monk play. He is my young and a beautiful piaciat, I was down stairs of course and when I heard up and saw him high we were the night before I could hardly describe it.
All of my description seems to come altogether. I am going to stay here all the while for a month now. I mean that I am not going into the city. Next week we have examination. By me I mean the school. I think all of my answers will be ready from dead if they are I will not have to take any of them.

Mrs. Richards gives a musical ^{the party} either Tuesday or the first Saturday of February.

February 14 the girls intend to give a party of some kind and Washington's Birthday we are all to help in a Library Party.

The town clock is striking nine so

Good Night.

Your aff. sister Georgia Weller.

P.S. Tell Mother to please save the Patten programme for me.
