Dear Father, -

Your letter, containing a note from Margaret, came Tuesday and I was glad to hear that Mother and she arrived home safely Sunday.

My wish is not good and I have so much to write in which to write this that I am going to use a pencil. I am not heard was read Shakespeare last year but as there was here now Miss McLain takes charge of the reading. Miss McLain is more particular about our reading than Miss

G. was.

Mother will be glad to hear that I am in the first class in school. I suppose when the
bookman takes this letter,
while we are at breakfast, that he will bring a letter from home but

I shall not see it until two o'clock.

Mrs. Tanisio's death
will make this coming evening very quiet. I managed to get a glimpse of the Phila. News and read a little about the damage at the White House.
Sweepings for to-day
the breakfast will be meagre.

Good bye daughter
