Dear Mother, -

The express package was received and I thank the sender especially for the diary which is such a convenient one. I can keep every thing in it.

After quite a time, I at last succeeded in dropping Latin. Miss Tracy seemed to be sure that I had some other reason beside the one I gave. Well, I did but would not tell her. She said she would not ask me to do anything which I did not wish to do but that she would like to know the reason. I imagine that she thought it was on Miss Cook's account but she had to be satisfied with her imagination for I decided not to tell her and she could not make me. She was very nice about it and I like her better since.

I made up all of my lessons and now am ready to have a pleasant time. Miss C. is rather distant but very polite to me. When I was talking with her, she said it would "break her heart" if I stopped Latin and I replied in a laughing way that I would leave that for some one else.

Last evening, we went in to hear what we thought was going to be a prize contest between the Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Clubs of the different colleges. By the different colleges we thought that Yale, Princeton and the University were going to take part. Ada and Georgiana Rockhold wore Princeton ribbon. Mabel, Janet and Emma Deisey wore Yale. I wore University of Penn colors and was the only one who was not sold. University of Pennsylvania and Lehigh were the only colleges represented.

At breakfast this morning, we were very quiet and were not anxious to talk about the concert.

Wednesday evening about half past five Miss Annie Bartlett was here for a few minutes. I was busy so he did not remain long.

To-morrow evening I am going to a lecture in the 2nd Presbyterian Church; the subject is "Salt" and the lecturer, Rev. Babcock of Baltimore. The lecture is for the benefit of missions but we are not compelled to go.

We attended church as usual this morning and heard the assistant, Rev. Hayman preach a good sermon. He is quite young and probably someday will be a distinguished man.

I am very well. I take the Papoid pills but do not need the ones Dr. Payne prescribed for me.

Ada and I are going to sleep this afternoon as it was almost one when we were ready for bed last night.

Love to you and all.

Your affectionate daughter,

Georgia.

Monday.

Ada and I slept for an hour and a half yesterday afternoon. Then dressed for supper, after which we had Bible Lesson for an hour. Mabel and Janet were in our room until bed time, nine o'clock Sundays.

It is dark this morning and Ada is still sleeping although I lit the gas in order to add this postscript. Now I must dress for breakfast.

Good bye

Georgia
