PROCLAIMS "NORM RICE DAY"

Sunday, Feb. 19, Norm Rice will be recognized for his many personal and public achievements. It is a honor to have him in the Greater Seattle area.

Norman B. Rice was born in Denver, Colorado in May, 1943 and moved to Seattle in 1968. He is married to Dr. Constance W. Rice and has a son, Mian, age 13. Rice earned a bachelors degree in Communications and a Masters of Public Administration from the University of Washington.

Rice was first elected to the Seattle City Council November, 1978. He was re-elected to the Council in November, 1979, receiving one of the largest pluralities in local and state government history. He has continued that trend, receiving an 80% plurality in the November 8, 1983 general election.

Rice has established himself as a leader for innovative and intelligent financial and environmental policies for the City. He has chaired the Finance and Budget Committees since 1980. During that time, the Council rewrote the City's financial and debt policies, thus protecting Seattle from the debacle which took New York and Cleveland to the brink of fiscal ruin.

Under Rice's direction, Seattle's budget was balanced despite the worst economic conditions since the Depression. Rice has consistently led efforts to protect the City's investment in its libraries, fire stations, parks and other facilities which enhance the quality of life for Seattleites.

Rice is currently President of the Seattle City Council, Chairman of Seattle's Capital Preservation and Improvement Citizen Committee, and is President of the Northwest Conference of Black Public Officials. He is also a Board member of the Paul Robeson Community Theatre.
