

MODEL OF SOLOMON'S TEMPLE JERUSALEM—Solomon, B. C. 1015-975, the first and last magnificent Hebrew King, erected a temple of stone and cedar, from Phoenician plans and with Phoenician workmen, and by the side of it, within the same enclosure, a palace with a great hall of judgment, and an extensive harem for 700 wives and 300 concubines, besides the royal residence.