GRADUATION SPECIAL

The Seattle Medium Wants To Know...

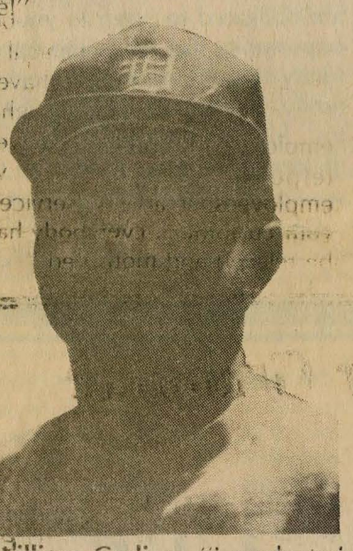

When and where did you graduate from high school and what did you do on your graduation night?

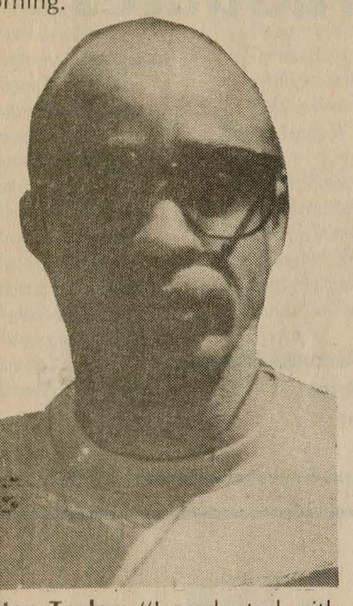

Michael Williams: "Well, I went to high school and graduated in Savannah, Georgia in 1972. I'm from a small school. There couldn't have been more than 25 people in my graduating class. On that graduation night we went out to a party."

Howard Mitchell: "I went to school here in Seattle. I graduated with the class of 1982 at Chief Sealth High School. On our graduation night we went out to a really live party, went to a late movie and came home really late!"

William Garling: "I graduated in Michigan with the class of 1967. I went to the graduation ceremonies on one night, went out to a party that evening and got up and went to Expo-67 the next morning."

Stan Taylor: "I graduated with the class of 1967 in Illinois. After the commencement ceremonies I partied for about two days straight."

Colleen Peoples: "I graduated with the class of 1983 at Roosevelt here in Seattle. After the ceremonies I went on a boat cruise."

Soweto Day March And Rally June 16

The Seattle Coalition Against Apartheid will commemorate the ninth anniversary of the Soweto uprising in South Africa with a march and rally on Sunday, June 16. The march will begin at Mt. Zion Baptist Church, 19th and Madison at 1 p.m. and will end at Garfield High School.

A rally will begin at Garfield at 2 p.m., followed by a car caravan leaving at 3 p.m. and going to the home of South African Consul Joseph Swing in the Madison Park neighborhood. A casket and wreath will be laid on his doorstep to remember those killed in the Soweto demonstrations of 1976.

The Soweto uprisings of June 16, 1976 involved thousands of Black school children of the township of Soweto who marched in protest of the unequal education system under apartheid. The South African police attacked the protesting students, killing 100 of them. In protests that followed in 11 other Black townships throughout South Africa, over 1,000 Blacks were killed.

The resistance in South Africa to apartheid, the White minority government's system of racial separation and oppression, grows stronger and stronger to this day, with more and more lives being sacrificed in the struggle for freedom.

The rally on June 16 in Seattle and cities across the U.S. will remember those who have died in this struggle and will give support for those in South Africa continuing to fight for their freedom.

Bill To Assist Black Colleges Will Be Introduced In Congress

The chairman of the U.S. House Committee on Education and Labor, Representative Augustus F. Hawkins and Senator Paul Simon will soon introduce legislation in the House and Senate that would establish a much-needed assistance program for Black colleges and universities.

This legislation is the culmination of an almost ten-year effort by the United Negro College Fund to strengthen the institutions and enhance the academic quality of Black colleges.

The Hawkins-Simon bill expands and improves Title III of the Higher Education Act, which was designed to assist "developing" institutions. The "Black College Act" provisions of the Hawkins-Simon bill would recognize in U.S. law for the first time the unique mission of our nation's historically Black colleges and universities and the importance of federal assistance in maintaining the financial well-being of these institutions.

Since the creation of the Title III Aid to Developing Institutions Program back in the 1960s, the federal government has sidestepped any direct suggestion that Black colleges should be singled out for assistance. This legislation, if adopted by Congress and the President, would finally mandate a program of assistance that our schools so desperately need.

In order for the legislation to be successful, it must first be demonstrated to congressional leaders that the bill has broad support in the Black community as well as in the House and the Senate. Senator Simon and Congressman Hawkins are beginning their search for co-sponsors.

Those of us in the Black community have an opportunity and an obligation to stand up and be counted on behalf of these institutions which have served us and continue to serve us so well. Take the time today and write or call your representative in the U.S. House and your state's two U.S. Senators and urge them to list themselves as co-sponsors to the Hawkins/Simon education bill now. Do not take no for an answer. Accept only a commitment.

You will be alerted periodically to support various efforts by UNCF to achieve passage of this vital piece of legislation. After you and your network have contacted your Congressional delegation, please inform us regarding the success of your efforts. This will facilitate our monitoring of your influence on your Congressional delegations.

Graduates of our Black colleges are spread throughout the country, living in states and congressional districts of key politicial leaders in Washington. Our colleges and universities need this new law, and they need you. You are the constituents of Washington's key leaders. They are obligated to listen to you. An opportunity like this is the opportunity of the century—the opportunity to create a brighter future for higher education for our children. An opportunity like this would be a terrible thing to waste.

Do it today!

Franklin Student Receives Special Recognition From Links

Rodney Haynes

Rodney Haynes received special recognition at the Youth Awards program sponsored by the Seattle Chapter of Links on May 19. This summer he will attend a four-week session at the University of California at Los Angeles.

A Better Chance sponsors the LEAD (Leadership, Education and Development) program which is designed to increase opportunities for minority youth and to provide an introduction to business, finance, and management.

Haynes was one of 300 students selected from over 12,000 applicants nationwide. Students selected have demonstrated leadership, academic achievement, creativity and motivation. University professors from the School of Business Administration and financial leaders from the world of industry will give lectures and seminars as part of the curriculum at UCLA.

The president of A Better Chance is Judith Griffin of the Potomac Chapter of Links. Through her efforts the Seattle chapter was able to share information about the LEAD program with several high schools in the area.

Haynes, a junior, lives in Seward Park and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Haynes. He attends Franklin High School where he is a member of the National Honor Society with a 3.8. In addition to lettering in track, he is president-elect of the 1985-86 senior class and president of the Black Student Involvement Club. Haynes has participated in MESA for three years and upon graduation will receive a scholarship from MESA.

Alice Hall is past president of the Seattle chapter of Links and Dr. Constance Rice is president for 1985-86.

Doctor Of Humane Letters

Stanley S. Scott, vice president of Philip Morris, Inc. receives a doctorate of humane letters from Texas Southern University in Houston, moments before he gave the commencement address for the school's graduating seniors.

Dr. Leonard H. O. Spearman (left), confers the honorary degree. Scott, who urged the Class of '85 to strive for excellence, said that industry and government were looking for the best of all the million and a half graduates from all American colleges and universities.

A corporate vice president and director of corporate affairs for Philip Morris, a $14-billion international conglomerate, Scott said the TSU graduates would find that most of the leading firms and agencies in this nation's "leaner and more aggressive economy" will be looking for the "best" of the graduates, without regard to color.

Fleming Tells Students "Hang On To Your Dreams"

Senator George Fleming

He sponsored legislation last year to provide funds for minority and women students specializing in math and science, and recently Senator George Fleming told students "hang on to your dreams, and invest in them."

Fleming was the keynote speaker to the annual MESA (Mathematics, Engineering, Science and Achievement) banquet at the University of Washington Faculty Club, Thursday, May 30.

MESA is a university program for Blacks, Hispanics, American Indians and other minority and women groups studying in technical and scientific fields.

His message was one of hard work, dreams, believing, achieving and sharing.

"When the MESA program for women and minorities became reality, I could see in my imagination the students and families our legislation might help," Fleming said. "Tonight I'm able to see the people I could only see in my imagination a year ago, and I want to tell you how happy that makes me."

Fleming, the Senate Majority Caucus chairman, and the only Black ever elected to the Washington State Senate, spoke of minorities and women who have made great achievements in the field of math, engineering, and science who "dared enough to dream, and cared enough to share."

•Dr. Patricia Cowling, a Black woman whose science career led her to scientific discoveries 20-years-ago that have had great impact on our nation's space program.

•Ed San Juan, of Philippino heritage, who designed the lunar rover for our space program. "Perhaps somewhere in this room there is another Ed San Juan," Fleming told the students.

•Dr. Luis Walter Alvarez, an atomic physicist who won the Nobel prize in 1968; and yes, another dreamer, Albert Einstein.

"Don't let any self-doubts kill your dreams," Fleming added. "In my lifetime I've seen many worthwhile dreams die because of self doubts.

"When I was young, I sometimes doubted whether I could really play professional football in the National Football League," Fleming confided. "Fortunately, I overcame my doubts, worked hard and eventually became a running back for the Oakland Raiders."

Fleming later achieved another goal of being the first Black elected to the Washington State Senate. He now holds the leadership position of Majority Caucus chairman.
