Black Heads of Washington Colleges Meet With Gov. Evans

With the election of Seattle Urban League Executive Director, Jerome W. Page as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Eastern Washington State College, three prominent Puget Sound Black leaders now head Washington colleges. Mr. Page joins Robert L. Flennaugh, President of the University of Washington Board of Regents (the largest single-campus university west of the Mississippi) and Thomas Dixon, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Evergreen State College. Mr. Dixon is also the Executive Director of the Tacoma Urban League making two of the three Urban League affiliated. Dr. Flennaugh is a Seattle dentist.

All three met recently with Governor Dan Evans, the man who originally appointed them to their respective Boards, to discuss their education budgets for the coming Biennium. The Governor expressed his concern for what the current state of the economy will do to the budgets of the various colleges and expressed his strong desire to work closely with all three men.

Mr. Page was first appointed to the Board of Trustees of Eastern Washington State College in 1972; Mr. Flennaugh has served on the University of Washington Board of Regents since 1970, and Mr. Dixon was appointed to the Evergreen State College Board of Trustees in 1973.

Seattle, Washington
Tacoma, Washington

At a press conference on Tuesday, July 15, Carver Gayton endorsed Eddie Rye, Jr., currently executive director of the Central Area Motivation Program, for the seat he is vacating on the Seattle School Board. Mr. Rye has released the following statement to the press:

"To most people in America, education is a word that has been taken for granted, and our public school system is being viewed as a holding center for our children. It is assumed that they will receive the necessary educational tools, and our children and the public school system is ignored until a major issue like bussing arises, or a crisis like the school levy force us to take a new look.

I have never taken education for granted and for at least the last 10 years it has been one of my prime concerns. Not because it's been barely ten years that blacks have been allowed to participate freely in the educational system, not only because we have had to deal with numerous crisis in and about the quality of education in the Central Area schools. But beyond that I believe that our children are our only future and in face of the recent financial setbacks experienced by the school district, sound and responsible leadership must be exerted as we plan for the future.

I am willing to channel my energies towards helping provide the best educational system possible for the residents of Seattle. Specifically, I pledge to work towards implementing the following goals if elected: 1) continuing the thrust of the Seattle School Board's efforts to desegregate, integrate and upgrade schools. 2) making sure that the Seattle School Board receives "independent" input and analysis before making decisions: this need became abundantly clear during the recent school crisis. 3) increasing the accountability within the educational system by pushing for the establishment of an effective evaluation mechanism throughout the system that community residents, teachers, school board members and school administrations can live with and benefit from. 4) and finally, I will advocate that the state live up to its constitutional responsibility to provide adequate funds for public instruction. This is central to the provision of quality education in our city and throughout the state of Washington.

As the largest school district in the state of Washington, the Seattle District and its school board must play a leadership role in rebuilding educational objectives to meet the needs of our youths, and if I am elected to the Seattle school board it would be a welcome challenge.

Rye attended elementary and secondary schools in Seattle and is currently a senior majoring in community services at Seattle University. He is a member of the following organizations: Center for Addiction Services - Vice-President, Board of Directors, 1975; National Association for Community Development - Board of Directors, 1974 - 1975; National Consumer Information Center - Chairman, Region X State Coordinator, 1974 - 1975; National Community Action Program Legislative Forum - Region X Representative, 1973-1975; Washington State Conference on Black Education & Economics, President, 1975; Central Area Housing Committee - Chairman, 1975; Region X Community Action Program Directors' Annual Conference - Chairman, Region X, January, 1975; National Council for Black Child Development - Member.

I SHALL PASS THIS WAY BUT ONCE
THEREFORE ANY GOOD THAT I CAN DO OR ANY KINDNESS THAT I CAN
SHOW LET ME DO IT NOW FOR I SHALL NOT PASS THIS WAY AGAIN.

I believe that poverty is an economic conspiracy, constructed to destroy aspiration. It is a state of being in our American society, with the effects of unemployment, underemployment, inadequate nutrition, poor housing, deteriorating neighborhoods, limited educational opportunities and inadequate medical care. It is a system that destroys hope. One that stimulates oppression. It is populated by failures who tend to build failure from within. Like in the invisible land, poverty is often off the beaten track. The millions who are poor in the U.S. tend to become increasingly invisible. They are not seen, and because of that, they themselves cannot see. They are an invisible world, the "other America." The America of poverty is so restricted that they only see one another, and that means that they see little reason to hope. In fact, they do not know how to hope, to escape, as before them in this invisible world of theirs, where their mother, their mother's mother and so on, generation after generation. Moreover, the middle class, prosperous Americans often regard poverty as an excusable condition which exists not so much because of any neglect of, or impenetrable barriers erected by the affluent, but because of the inherent indecency and moral weakness of those who dwell, generation after generation within it. It is implied often by them that the poor are poverty-stricken because of their own delight in filth and lack of capacity or initiative to move upward. Thus, the disadvantaged are always a race apart, the misfits of human society. Perhaps because of this belief by white, middle class Americans, they regard the words "poor", "Minority" and "disadvantaged" as associated with groups that are not white, or at least not white Americans. Poor whites, the same as other minorities in poverty, are invisible, so much so until according to Harrington, in his book The Other America, it takes an effort of the intellect and will to even see them. As stated by Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, according to Sidney Lynds in his book Poverty in America: Enduring Paradox, "Poverty is a kind of anguished culture that is almost impossible for people outside to comprehend. This anguished culture is something apart from a wrinkled belly, for though one contributes to the other, they are not the same thing."

Poverty, as a breed of ignorance, is a product of social injustice and is simply a waste of human resources. RIGHT ON!

Rev. and Mrs. Hardy Honored by Full Gospel Mission's Congregation

The Full Gospel Mission For All Nations, Inc. Church is honoring their Pastor and his wife, Dr. A.L. Hardy and Mrs. Hardy. Services will be convening July 20th at 3:00 p.m. and continue through Saturday, July 21st. Because this is a special service, the commencement of these nightly services will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will close at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, July 27th.

The Mission is saying in a very humble way, "We have a pastor of whom we are not ashamed of in all areas in his ministerial role. In his life, in the pulpit, social activities, or employment, he is Dr. A.L. Hardy. Some of his accomplishments are:

He organized the Full Gospel Mission Church with ten people in April 1968. Our location then was a little store front at 902 19th Ave. Under Pastor Hardy's leadership, we were able to buy the property where we are not located in 1970. Still under his direction we are now buying the three lots adjacent to our present location."

Academically Pastor Hardy never stops studying, especially the word of God. He holds three degrees, Ms.D., Ps.D., and a D.D.

Dr. Hardy is a writer. His first publication was copyrighted in May 1975 and entitled "Seven Steps Up To Salvation." He has an outreach ministry out at Monroe Prison. And when his schedule permits he goes down to Shelton Correction Center.

Along with our Pastor is his lovely wife Mrs. Gladys Hardy, who has been recording since 1966. She made her second album in 1973. The last album made by our pastor and his wife was an evangelistic campaign at the Full Gospel Mission in Spokane, Washington by Sound Recording Company.

There is a unique unity that exists between our Pastor and his wife. When you see one you will usually see the other. He says, "What God hath put together let not man put asunder."

Now that seven years have transpired since this great church has been brought into existence, we are saying to them we cannot pay you yet but please be patient with us. Rest these days of Honorarium and let us demonstrate to others what we have learned from you.

Committee Chairman, Elder J.B. Walker, Assit. Pastor.

Sandy Moss,

Longtime Seattle

Resident, is Dead

July 5 saw the passing of Mr. Sandy A. Moss. To those persons who knew him, Mr. Moss was a tireless narrator of life in Seattle over the past 70 years.

Born in Topeka, Kansas, Mr. Moss was brought to Seattle by his parents, Joseph and Rosa E. Owens Moss in 1901. At about six years of age, Mr. Moss and his family moved from the south end of town to the north end of Beacon Hill (11th and Charles) where they spent the first summer and winter there living in a tent. "And there were four of us children and that was just like camping to us. 'Cause in the wintertime the icicles were out from the edge of the tent to the ground; there were icicles we'd go out and break and put them in the pan, and then put them near the stove to melt to get water to drink."

Recalling problems in purchasing property, he spoke of restrictive clauses and means of getting around the barriers of discrimination stating that some real estate agents would sell property to blacks who in turn would clear off the property and even build on it, all the while giving the neighbors the impression that one was actually doing the work for a white owner until one could move in. This, and other maneuvers, such as having white friends make land purchases for them, helped to distribute blacks throughout the city. At other times, blacks encountered no problems.

Moving into what was then an all white block, he saw "For Sale" signs go up on every house on the block, and most of the houses bought up by unscrupulous agents and resold to blacks for at least twice the original sale price. There were threats that the Ku Klux Klan would burn a cross on his lawn. He made it known to the neighbors that he and his rifle were prepared for any such action. Recently, Mr. Moss stated that had he been a student today, he would study electrical engineering. In his school years, blacks were not encouraged to study for such vocations. "Well, it was nice in a way that they did discourage you, because you couldn't get a job after you had learnt it." Despite the many frustrations and closed doors, through his persistence, he finally breached discriminatory barriers to a Navy course in Diesel Engineering. Because of his high average, he was asked to instruct in the course upon completion of his studies. He later worked for the city and the police department as a mechanic. Reviewing the many changes in the city, he attributed much of the expansion of job opportunities to the large wartime migration of blacks, or what he called the "intellectual minorities," those people who came with many preparations and skills as well as the determination to make a better life for themselves as well as others.

American Singers Banquet A Fine Affair

The American Singers Banquet, Dinner and Fashion Show was a success. There were people attending from Seattle and Louisiana and Oregon. There were also guests from Muhammad's Temple #67.

Our thanks go to Mayor Uhlman for sending Mrs. Donetta Alexander to welcome the delegates. The head officers arrived on Friday from San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley, California. Washington's delegation did the music. The banquet was well attended. Thanks to Mrs. Aberdeen Brooks for making the reservation signs for the table. Our very special thanks go to THE FACTS Newspaper for giving us such great support.

Two Pastors Installed

Wednesday, July 2, 1975, was a red-letter day in the lives of Elders Kelly Easter, Jr., and W.E. Jackson, and the joy was equally shared by their wives, children, members and friends.

Elder Easter, formerly an evangelist, was appointed and installed as Pastor of the Upper Room Church of God in Christ (COGIC), 420 - 30th St.

Elder Jackson was ordained as Elder and installed as Pastor of Miracle Temple COGIC, 911 - 32nd St.

The installation ceremony, administered by Washington State Bishop R.E. Alzheimer of Tacoma, was held at Upper Room with music provided by the choir of Smith Temple COGIC.

The certificates of appointments were conferred upon the elders by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Smith, Jr., Superintendent of Ballard Fellowship District #4.

"We are very proud of these two new churches being assigned to our district," Dr. Smith said.

"This is the first time a dual installation has been held within our church", he added, "and it was certainly an honor to have had Bishop Alzheimer with us on this notable occasion."

Dr. Smith is pastor of Smith Temple COGIC, located at 2367 N. W. 67th St., in Ballard.

Senior Home Opens in Berkley

The American Singers Association U.S.A. has built a 3 1/2 million dollar building, as you can see. Clifton A. Battles had a dream. He wondered what he could do to help his fellow man. So he decided along with his people to build this Senior Citizens Home, which is called the Harriet Tubman Terrace and is located in Berkley, California at 2870 Adaline Street, right across the street from Safeway and Marketime, which makes it convenient for the senior citizens to shop. The states that are included are Washington, Oregon, and California. President A. Battles was in Seattle last week for the Singers Convention, which was hosted by Local No. 8 Singers. Mrs. Mae Campbell, First Vice President.

Letter to Editor

Dear Mr. Beaver,

Now that the recall election has passed into the history books, I finally have a chance to express my personal gratitude for your support.

Perhaps the most heartening aspect of the election is the understanding and confidence shown by our citizens in making what I felt was a critical choice, critical to our city's entire future. The people, through their elected officials, must make the hard decisions that guide our community, not the special interests.

Although a healthy "adversary" relationship is the most proper exchange which can develop between our offices, I am thankful that you, and the people of Seattle, were able to define the issues correctly, direct your energies to increase the awareness of those issues, and put together the type of support which was the real force behind our victory. This was indeed the public's victory.

The role of our community publications, particularly evidenced by the outstanding support which you gave, has never been so importantly demonstrated.

I am confident that we continue to share a common goal of making Seattle the very best possible place in which all people can live, work, and enjoy life.

Sincerely,
Wes Uhlman
Mayor

THE SUCCESSFUL PLAN MAKES THE SUCCESSFUL MAN

What a shocking report! According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics: out of 100 men at age 25 who'll set out to seek their fortune, by the time they reached the age of 65, 54 will be broke and dependent on friends, relatives or charity; 36 will be dead; 5 will be working because they have to; 4 will have an income; and only 1 will be financially independent. What this really boils down to is that 9 out of ten men on this average will be dead or dead broke by the time they reach the age of 65; and the most probable reason why the remaining group of men did not achieve success (even though they did not plan to fail) they simply, "fail" to plan success, like mounting to any goal - you must work at it. Perhaps these 100 men started out with much zest and ego; yet as the job became more intense they began to get impatient. And in becoming impatient they become doubtful and negative. Achieving success takes much planning and studying. Stop at this moment and just look around you. Everything that's within your vision, first started as an idea in the mind. After the idea, come forth the plan - the blue print. Without this plan or blueprint the idea could not exist. It would remain just another discarded idea; wasting itself in time.

I cannot tell or even show you how you should go about attaining your success; but one thing you must remember, is, that you must start with your first brick before you can finish with your last one. And if you can continue to do this you will be able to surmount as you've never done before. While you are "doing your thing" of succeeding, don't permit yourself to worry about what the "people" think... just keep planning, building and succeeding and I will guarantee you'll soon attain and see the "finished product" of your plan.

Remember these words: If you can't be a highway, be a road; if you can't be a sun, be a star; but whatever you be, plan, to be the best of what you are.

Good Luck

The Wall Street West Report

by Abe Moore

The Dow Jones News Service reports that stocks opened higher this morning, with the Dow Jones Average up 6.83 at 9:30 AM out time. This followed a close on Monday of plus 4.77 that advanced the Dow Jones Industrials to 875.94.

Will the day come when there are no lemons to gripe about? The New York Times reports on a new bill passed in Washington, D.C. called "The Magnuson-Moss Act", but otherwise known as, "The Lemon Act". Its designed to take the lemons out of the warranty of consumer products. The new law seems to put the burden of education on the manufacturer who is expected to make warranty information readily accessible and to encourage - or demand, if that's possible - that retailers pass this information along to buyers.

ABC of Beauty

by Charlene Roberts

Back this week, on the proper way to wash fabrics. This information is coming straight to you from the Proctor and Gamble Company department of Consumer Services. My contact was with Ms. Dorothy Simott.

For the next coming weeks I will be talking on removing stains from washable fabrics, treatment for stains, general rules for stain removal, stock up for stain removal, which gives you some ideas on things that you may have around the house that are stain removers, and also special advice about fabrics.

The reason why I feel that it is necessary to discuss fabric care is because there are a lot of people who do not know how to clean their clothing, so they just walk around wearing stains, and etc. I feel that if they knew what to do to the different stains, they would not walk around dirty.

A person's appearance means everything. I have seen so many young people looking for jobs this summer who are very much out of order. It is not the name of a garment, but it is how clean and neat it is. It could even have a hole in it, but if a person is clean totally this means that you care. To keep you caring about your appearance I have some tips for you.

1. STACK UP FOR STAIN REMOVAL
Since prompt treatment helps in removing stains, it is so wise to have the proper supplies on hand. Here are some stain removers that you can keep on hand:

Bleaches - Chlorine Bleach, Fabric color remover, oxygen bleach (non-chlorine, all fabric)

Detergents - Enzyme Presoaker, light duty liquid detergent, enzyme detergent and soda is one that I like to use.

Soaps - Laundry soap; white bar soap

Miscellaneous Stain Removers - Ammonia, oxalic acid crystals, rust stain remover, dry cleaning solvent or spot remover, nail polish remover, rubbing alcohol, turpentine (steam distilled), clean white clothes or a clean rag and white paper towels.

I think I will stop here for now, to give you a chance to stock up on some of these items. So that next week you can pay attention to the SPECIAL ADVICE ABOUT FABRICS, which I will be discussing with you, which is most important to know. May God Bless you.

For further information I may be reached at 322-8296.

Dr. Feelgood

HIS SUN SIGN MONEY POTENTIAL...

This week we will look at his basic attitude towards money and possessions.

ARIES 3/21-4/20 - He has the drive and power of mars behind him and can get money. Holding it can be another thing, however.

TAURUS 4/20-5/20 - Venus gives this man a love of pleasure and possessions. His natural constructiveness helps him acquire these pleasures and his stubbornness helps him keep them!

GEMINI 5/21-6/20 - He is very clever in the arena of commerce. Mercury gives him the ability to make "hook ups" that often result in cash.

CANCER 6/21-7/20 - This sun sign dominates the lists of the "who's who" of high finance. He feels insecure without money and possessions and like the crab, his symbol, he holds tenaciously to what he's got.

LEO 7/21-8/21 - He feels royal, and needs the extravagant trappings of royalty. The sun, his ruler, gives him the power to attract wealth and possessions. He may, however, let it all ride on the nose of a fast pony.

VIRGO 8/21-9/22 - Virgo, an earth sign, is hard working and conscientious and in a small way steadily builds his bank book. He can however, appear petty to the more mag nanimous, but what he earns he keeps.

LIBRA 9/22-10/22 - The planet Venus, his significator rules luxury and art, etc. He often uses his natural artistry to earn money easily but you know what they say, "easy come easy go."

SCORPIO 10/22-11/22 - The eighth house, the natural house of Scorpio, rules among other things "other people's money" and they usually get plenty of it. They have a knack of being at the right place at the right time. And they hate losing anything including money.

SAGITTARIUS 11/22-12/20 - They know where the power is and go straight to it with the proper play for the right pay. They enjoy games and speculation and like Leo, love a long shot.

CAPRICORN 12/21 - 1/19 - They crave power and authority. Having money helps this ambition and nothing or nobody can deter them once the goal is set. Because it takes so much work and concentration to gain money and possessions, it stays.

AQUARIUS 1/20-2/18 - He is inventive and ingenious by nature and often comes up with new money making schemes, much to the delight of his friends.

PISCES 2/19-3/20 - This man is often a mystic and dreamer with good planning faculties for making money. Unfortunately more often than not, the plans stay just that, plans.

FUNDING FOR MINORITY PROGRAMS

Black oriented social service agencies in Seattle, King County and other counties throughout the state have not received the kind of consideration for funding necessary for continued survival. The monies in question are a mixture of state, county, city and private funds.

About five months ago, a few directors of minority programs, along with other concerned individuals, felt it was time to organize to assist with minority funding problems. The original group, calling themselves the Minority Task Force, was composed of Frank Mims, Community Acceptance Program; Art Simmons, Center for Addiction Services; Jerry Saunders, Conquest Center; and Calvin Hightower, Operation Awareness. Since that time Fitzgerald Beaver, THE FACTS; Syd Sparks, Central Breakthrough; Karen Denard, K.Y.A.C. Radio; Joe Bell, Prisoner's Coalition; and Curtin Knight, King Co. O.E.P. Program have been added. We are also looking forward to representatives from the Indian and Chicano communities. The long-range objective is to insure that all minority programs, regardless of the type of service provided, have an equal chance at receiving available funds.

The attainment of these goals was given added impetus when state funding allocations were announced by the Seattle King County Drug Commission. The Task Force felt that the Drug Commission had failed to adequately respond to minority programs requests for funds. It is felt that this had been the case for the past four years. There is feeling among the group that both the Drug Commission and minority programs have been at fault in that there has been a laxity on the part of minority programs in bringing about pressure on those responsible for the allocation of funds.

An example of what has been happening is the case of the Community Acceptance Program, located on 14th & Yesler in the Urban League Bldg. Community Acceptance has a primary focus of job development and placement for the ex-addict and ex-offender re-entering the community. To accomplish their goals and objectives they utilize a variety of channels, among them the media, drug education workshops and providing information among the local schools. They are involved in areas where many social service agencies lack time and funds to do a sufficient job. Numerous agencies recognize the importance of what C.A.P. is doing.

Despite the vast amount of support for C.A.P., the Drug Commission felt the program was not a priority for funding. The funding request was reconsidered and $2,000.00 was granted, not nearly enough to insure continued operation for any sufficient length of time.

Why is it so difficult for minority programs to gain government and private funds? To answer this minorities must be in a position to seriously approach those who are responsible for the general allocation of funds. Questions asked by the Minority Task Force are: why haven't those minority programs with large community support received funding in the past and present; what kind of procedure will agencies like the Drug Commission use in the future to determine funding priorities; can we expect the doors to effective and efficient communication to remain open?

The Community Acceptance Program has made another appeal to the Drug Commission for more funds and is currently being considered. The job of the Minority Task Force is to give support to this program. We aim to give objective support not simply because this is a minority oriented program but one that provides a very necessary and unique service to the community and one that has no immediate replacement. We cannot afford to let this type of service be cut off.

The Minority Task Force will continue to study the funding picture as a whole. Not only do we plan to look at funding from the Drug Commission but all other available funding sources. Equality in the allocation of funds should not take a minority task force to bring about needed pressure. However, we must accept the realities of today which often require the necessity of organized interest groups willing to work to insure their rights.

THE WHO AND WHY ABOUT INSURANCE

by Al Williams

Something you should know about traffic violations and accidents..... A poor driving record can have a variety of undesirable effects on motorists. Insurance companies have access to the driving record of their clients, and often adjust their premiums upward if the driver has received citations. Employers likewise have access to driving records under certain conditions, and this information is often a factor in decisions on hiring and promotions.

I suggest that you review your driving habits and make the corrections you feel are necessary to help you meet all of today's driving conditions. By doing this you can avoid being involved in a collision, or further violations that may have serious consequences. "Any question about your auto insurance or driving habits, you can call 722-5270 or write 4702 Rainier Ave. So., Seattle, Washington.

The Disease of Alcoholism

This is the first in a series of articles concerning alcohol, its use, abuse, and the disease of alcoholism. The series is being prepared by the staff of the Central Area Community Alcoholism Center to provide education about alcohol to members of the community. THE FACTS is printing these articles as a public service.

Alcohol is a liquid, a chemical, and a drug. As such it has many uses, the most popular is in its beverage form; beer, wine and hard liquor. It has been used as a beverage for thousands of years, in all parts of the world. During the past several hundred years, however, our society has placed a moralistic judgement on that liquid and those who use it. It is now time to look somewhat rationally at the uses and abuses of alcoholic beverages, so that we may become a more educated, more knowledgeable, and a more humane community.

As we all know, alcoholic beverages are drunk (the act - not the condition). When a person drinks either beer, wine, or hard liquor, the alcohol in that beverage is absorbed directly into the body, it is not digested like food and it has no nutritional value, just lots of calories. The alcohol passes directly from the stomach into the blood system and is circulated throughout the body, not just to the liver and brain, but to each and every body cell.

So once you've had a drink or two, you begin to feel lightheaded, and friendly. This happens because alcohol, the drug, is a sedative, a 'downer'. As it goes to the brain it begins to sedate, or put to sleep, the brain's intelligence (control) centers, allowing us to express our emotional behavior, for better or worse, with fewer inhibitions. One may find it easier to make friends in a crowd of strangers, or more easy to carry on a conversation. This point of 'feeling good' is the point to which most people drink. However, most of us have, at some time, gone a bit beyond this stage. We've found that: some of us get sick; our talking will become slurred; we will begin to see two/three/four things when there is really only one; and, we will eventually lose our ability to walk normally.

Alcohol, the sedative drug, works on the brain. Like ether, once used in surgery, it sedates the frontal part of the brain and moves toward the rear of the brain, reaching the nerve centers where our life functions (heart and breath) are located. When we have too much alcohol for our body to handle we will pass out, and if that does not happen, or if we drink too much too fast, we could over-dose and die.

Most people drink alcohol to 'feel good', we open up more, our problems seem less pressing, we are friendlier, and we do and say things we would not normally do or say. Our judgement has been affected by alcohol, and the more alcohol we drink the more our judgement will become affected. "It can drive better after a couple of drinks", is a statement that we have all heard many times, and maybe used ourselves. We will use it only after having that 'couple of drinks' because, at that time, we will not be thinking rationally. Our thinking and judgement will be effected by the alcohol in our system, so although we may think we can drive better after two or three drinks, if we were thinking rationally we would know that every test, from every country in the world, proves that with as few as two drinks we will drive with less control and poorer judgement than when we are sober.

After this brief introduction to alcohol, we know that:

- 1 - Alcohol is a liquid, a chemical, and a drug;
- 2 - Alcoholic beverages are beer, wine and hard liquor;
- 3 - Alcohol enters the body directly, it is not digested like food, and it has no nutritional value, just calories;
- 4 - Alcohol is carried by the blood system to every organ and cell in the body;
- 5 - Alcohol is a sedative drug; a 'downer';
- 6 - In moderate amounts alcohol reduces our intellectual control over our emotions, and lets us have a good time more easily;
- 7 - Most people drink to the point of 'feeling good' and then stop. If a person drinks beyond this point the alcohol will continue to sedate the brain from the front (intelligence) centers to the stem of the brain (life functions);
- 8 - What this means is, if we keep drinking we may get sick, we will begin to have trouble with our vision, our coordination will not be good enough to walk normally, we may pass out, and if we drink too much too fast we could overdose on alcohol and die;
- 9 - After several drinks our judgement is seriously effected, so we may think we can drive better, but we will drive much worse. Imagine having a surgeon operate on you if he or she had just had a 'couple' of drinks before entering surgery.

Although this may all appear too simple, and something that everyone knows already, it is actually what happens to anybody who drinks alcoholic beverages. Each person will respond differently due to body size, if they had eaten before drinking, what their mood is, the type of the drink, and a number of other reasons, however, it is important to remember that anyone who drinks alcoholic beverages will have these same reactions.

Anyone interested in further information or help, please feel free to call us at the C.A.C.A.C., 322 - 2970, or stop in at our office, 905 East Columbia, on the Columbia street side of the Broadway Medical Center.

Job Hunting

By Chuck Hatten

This week's comments are again aimed at students. Whether you are in Junior High, High School or College, preparing for your future is an immediate task. I know you are asking, "How can I prepare for my future when I don't know what I want to do?" There are several things that can be done even if you have not decided on a career.

The first thing that can be accomplished at this point is to talk to your teachers and counselor as to what areas you seem to be more proficient in, such as reading or writing skills, ability to grasp mathematics easily or quick to pick up on other sciences. Although most careers require a basic knowledge in all disciplines, they do require extensive training in specific areas. To exemplify, a career in engineering usually takes an extensive educational background in other disciplines. If you know someone who is in the field of your desires, ask them courses that they needed to accomplish their goals. If you don't know anyone in the field, do some research as to where they can be located.

You may decide that to achieve your desired career that your educational needs require vocational training. There are many very good vocations that do not require college or university education. What it's all about is finding a career that you like to do and can earn a decent living. Having a good job does not mean that you have to be sitting behind a desk. There are many "Blue Collar" positions that don't require college education that pay more than a "Desk Job." I have read somewhere that the average garbage collector earns about $14,000 a year, which is equal pay to that of a social worker with a Master's Degree. (The point is a matter of supply and demand. If on a national basis there are 1,000 positions available every year in a particular field, and 5,000 qualified applicants for these positions every year, you can bet that the salary ranges are not going to equal to what they would be if the figures were reversed. Investigate and make your choice.

THE FACTS

Sports Record Book

by Brian Jaybush

THE 'GOLDEN' RULE

If Bill Muncey curses women drivers on the highway, what's he going to do on the high seas?

Well, maybe not exactly the high seas, but on the racecourses for the Gold Cup unlimited hydroplane race at Tri-Cities July 27 and Seafair August 3, Muncey and the other unlimited hydro drivers may have cause to blast their horns and yell, "Woman Driver!" as they roar past the Salami Special hydro (sponsored by the Oberto Sausage Co., if you're wondering). Because, as of now, the person the Oberto people want to drive their speedboat is Ms. Patricia Clotta.

"I'm not in this because of women's lib," says Mrs. Clotta, 32, mother of two children. "I've wanted to be given this chance for a long time, but nobody would let me in before. It's not just a spur of the moment thing. I feel that if a woman can do something, she should be given the chance to do it. I think a woman should maintain her femininity. But... women should be allowed the same opportunities as men."

However sympathetic George Byers, Chairman of the Unlimited Racing Commission, might be, he sees an immediate problem with Mrs. Clotta's appointment as chief pilot for the Salami Special. No, it's not the usual you would expect, of finding separate dressing rooms or that the job's too tough or whatever. It seems that the fact Mrs. Clotta is a woman doesn't bother Byers at all. The problem is very simple: a "Golden" rule, "There is nothing in the Rule Book about women," Byers says. But...

"In order to be allowed to drive in a Gold Cup race, you must have driven at least one unlimited heat within the past two years. It has nothing to do with whether or not the driver is a woman. Under our rules she simply would not be qualified."

Mrs. Clotta has never before driven a hydroplane; in fact, she admits to never having driven anything faster than a water-skier tow boat. But, she says, she has "spent a lot of time around the pits."

All hope is not lost, though; there is a way around the "Golden" rule. "The only way I can see that the rule might be waived," Commissioner Byers says, "is if the driver has a good history, a good background, in driving limited inboards. This is something the drivers have to vote on."

"If they feel a man (sic) has a good background and they want him to be allowed to race, then the rule can be waived. Otherwise, they're going to have to find another driver."

At least, for the Gold Cup. None of this hassle applies to the Seafair race August 3; if the Oberto people want Mrs. Clotta, or anyone else for that matter, to pilot their boat in Seattle, he, she or it will be welcome.

Of course, it might help if he, she or it would put up some money to help cover the new $75,000 the City of Seattle has suddenly decided it wants Seafair to pay for maintenance and crowd control. Otherwise there might not be a Seafair race. Of hydroplanes anyway.

I wonder if Mrs. Clotta would like to try her luck at barebacking in a dolphin race?

FIFTH ANNUAL FAMILY PICNIC A SUCCESS!

Lake Wilderness was the scene of our Fifth Annual Family Picnic last Saturday, July 12, with everyone in attendance thoroughly enjoying themselves!

Arriving late because of a meeting with All-Star officials in White Center, yours truly gussed down generous amounts of the following: hamburgers, potato chips, potato salad, tossed green salad, hot dogs, fried chicken, cake, cookies, watermelon, and a beverage! Whew, where's the Alka-Seltzer?

And then the highlight of the afternoon--a family softball game--men vs the women, and then coaches vs the players in the second contest. Everyone was laughing and having loads of fun in these games.

Previous to the games, Mr. Henry Donaldson who coaches the Broadway Kiwanis Mets, was presented a plaque for his continued dedication and support to the youth of the International Little League. Mr. Donaldson is the elder statesman of our league, however, one of the youngest at heart! He accepted the plaque graciously and with all modesty by thanking us for our thoughtfulness. He said he didn't know how long Father Time would allow him to be around. Mr. Donaldson, we wish for you many more years in the coaching ranks molding the youth of our community!

Playing softball for nearly three hours and enjoying every minute of it, especially the antics of coaches, players, parents and friends, I called an end to a perfect day with my fellow coaches and friends.

Aqua Facts

Andrew W. Cole, Jr.

Last week and from time to time, I have given definitions of specific terms related to Aqua (water) Facts. Also from time to time I will include inserts of safety tips related to water environments. The reason for these practices is due to the fact in circulating among the people around the Pacific Northwest, they give me feedback on my articles and relate to me that two of the most important areas that need educational attention are the definition of unfamiliar words and the first aid factor related to being around water.

Safety note of the week-----Don't swim alone. Swim in supervised areas and with someone who is capable of giving you an assist if trouble develops.

GOD BLESS YE ALL

by Bill Bell

Again, we had an excellent picnic at Spanaway Park. The weather was cooperative, and hundreds of people crawled across the landscape, including having to content with a country and western show most of the day. Many of the golfers participating in the club play claimed the awful racket affected their play, perhaps accounting for many of the atrocious scores. Fifty players turned out for the golf play, later joining family and friends for another soulful picnic. There were prizes for Low Gross, Low Net, Long Drive, and Closest to Hole for men and women. Among the women, Iris Valley did her thing by taking the Low Gross honors. Mary Valmore won low net. For the Long Drive, Mrs. Vera Wright, daughter of Oliver Keyes, one of our club members, really smashed one. She is quite a golfer, and if the duties of mother of two tots permits, hopefully she will join our other excellent women players more often. On the tricky little par 3, 110 yard 14th hole, Dorothy McKnight planted a shot seven feet from the hole to win closest to hole honors.

Among the men participants, Al Hainston continued his assault on par by slipping to three over par 75 to take low gross honors. Low net went to Pete Costello who netted 69, shooting a gross score of 76. Roscoe Richmond broke his back on the Long Drive for 0-9 handicappers, bombing one 300 plus yards. The contention is he used an illegal ball, but if one looks at him, he's about the size of an interior guard for the Green Bay Packers. Roscoe, Art Stanley, Jim Benton, Oscar Flowers, and Bob Duckworth could match any professional football line in size and strength. They are awesome (we could toss Ozzie Moore and John Valley in there too, but they might perish). Bryant Andrews unleashed a massive drive also to win long drive among 10-15 handicappers. The 16 and up handicappers did not sign the marker, suggesting no one hit one in the fairway, or they were all short knockers. Fitzgerald Beaver saved his best shot for closest to hole honors, dropping his ball only three feet from the stick on the tough 165 yard par 3 seventeenth hole. He then knocked in the putt for a birdie and picked up quite a few "marbles" (ask Tony Bowser).

The third round of the Club Championship was also played at Spanaway. Team Captain Harvey Potter reports the scores of the nine competitors were absolutely atrocious. Wallace Montgomery continues to lead by two strokes over M. Harrison, four over W. Ponder, eleven over Bill Butler, fourteen over Bill Bell, fifteen over J.J. Jackson, seventeen over John Valley, twenty eight over Hamp Allen and thirty four over Paul Dillard. So, either Wallace is playing extraordinarily well, or the rest of us stink.

Harvey Potter wishes to remind club members to complete their President's and Captain's Cup plays according to the schedule - as posted at the clubhouse - or face disqualification. Applications for the Fir State tournament in August are available at the club house on Empire Way. Sign up early to avoid confusion. Don't forget the Eastside Club tournament this month locally, and the Leisure Hour affair in Portland August 3, 4, 5. Congratulations go out to the Hampton Allens who are to celebrate 32 years of wedded bliss this week. Mrs. Allen is especially to be commended for her ability to keep Hamp in harness for these many years, for "he's a jolly good fellow." If you don't believe it, ask him. My apologies to John Valley for suggesting his wife, Iris, is quite a lady for remaining with him for so many years. He was really upset over this. So, I take it all back and suggest instead I can now understand why Iris is the "irrepressible" lady she is to have survived so long.

Glad Martha West is back playing regularly after an illness. I apologize for not having the names of a couple others reported ill, but a speedy recovery to all those shut in. Don't forget your assessment for the club house. We really need your help if this is to be a successful venture. Let's not be a typical you-know-what group. Let's make this go. So until next week, keep your feet on the ground, and quit your b-----.

to the Class A club in his home habitat and subsequently finished 11-6 on the season. Some 12 months hence his record had dipped to 9-3 with the Idaho Falls team, this slight decrease in effectiveness due primarily to an incidence of arm trouble.

The following annum he started every other day, a practice supposedly initiated by a Bengal scouting executive with the end object being to determine the durability of his wing for possible future promotion to the parent nine. Needless to say, the soreness that had plagued him the summer previous returned with a vengeance and by schedule's termination his overworked appendage hung limp as a beached mackerel. Upon completion of the exhibition slate the next spring when no offer of advancement was forthcoming and his muscle miseries persisted he quit the game in disgust. Embittered, he vowed never to have anything to do with the Doubleday innovation again. But the infinite has a habit of pre-empting the resolve of humankind and this would be the outcome in Williams' case.

Within a short time of joining the Bakersfield Sanitation Department he earned an appointment to supervisor, a position which served to support his growing family for a span of 12 years. During the latter half of his tenure in the used food business he began umpiring Little League contests as a reluctant concession to a competing son. Before long he moved up to the high school level and still later undertook the calling of collegiate games. In the winter of 1969 he journeyed to St. Petersburg, Fla. as an enrollee in the Major League Umpire Development Program and immediately impressed the instructors with his poise and knowledge of the "blue-bird" profession. That spring he accepted employment with a minor league in the Northwest and a new career had been born.

While laboring in a Class A circuit a year hence he was personally singled out for compliance by Fred Fleig, director of umpires for the National League, and in January of 1971 received an invite to work the major league spring training schedule. He went to Texas for Double A duties in April just to shift a month thereafter to the International League, the last rung on the ladder to the bright lights, and remained there throughout the 1972 slate. That fall he and his wife Shirley were preparing to leave for Hawaii and an assignment in the Little World Series when the telephone rang. Within moments his future submitted to drastic alteration. The big top beckoned and, at this writing, he is embroiled in his third campaign in the National League.

Despite the attention and publicity accorded him most recently his basic philosophy continues unchanged. The word "overhustle", a self-coined description, permeates his speech when conversation concerns goals achieved and the means proposed for maintaining their acquisition. In all the areas of his life this term constitutes a pervading theme. Art Williams, a black man who having made it now fully intends to confirm the status quo.

Olympia's 'Hot-Line' Is Great Service to Interested People

Mary Ann Sigman supervises the seven operators who man the toll-free legislative "Hotline" when the legislature is in session. To inform the public of interim committee activity, the hotline operates on a limited schedule year-round. "The well-publicized number -- 1-800-562-6000 -- "keeps legislators in touch with their districts," says Rep. Peggy Maxie, D-Seattle.

OLYMPIA'S "HOT LINE" TURNS OUT TO BE GREAT SERVICE TO INTERESTED PEOPLE

If you've ever wondered what happened to the "voice with a smile", it's moved to the Washington State Legislature's toll-free "hotline" telephone center in Olympia.

There Mary Ann Sigman and her staff of six operators -- four women and two men -- fielded over 4,000 calls each week during the recent legislative session.

"Some callers used the hotline to get all their hostilities toward government out of their system and demanded that we deliver messages to legislators of the governor, word for word, expletives and all, but they were a minority," said Mary Ann.

"They had to get pretty abusive before we'd hang up on them."

The vast majority of calls, however, came from persons who appreciated the toll-free service, which cost the legislature $9,500, and used it to keep track of bills they were following or to get messages to legislators.

"Many people wanted to know about committee meetings and we were always careful to be accurate about the schedules because many of the callers planned to drive or fly here for committee hearings," she said.

Using the computerized Legislative Information System, status sheets and committee schedules, the staff answered "a million questions," and kept a small army of pages busy delivering messages from constituents to representatives and senators.

Those messages enabled legislators to "keep our fingers on the pulse of our districts," says Rep. Peggy Maxie, D-Seattle. "When you're considering what position to take on an issue and a page would arrive with a batch of messages from the 37th District, advising me of the prevailing sentiment here, the value becomes very apparent."

"The majority of calls reinforced my own thinking on such issues as stopping the tuition increases and solving the school funding crisis," she said. "The hotline messages were a confirmation that I am pretty well in tune with the people I represent."

Maxie's only reservation about the service was the tendency of callers to simply advise her "yes" or "no" on such issues as college tuition increases and school funding, "without stating their rationale."

"Legislators need that information, too," she said.

Like most legislators, Maxie said she discounted the "obviously organized deluge of calls legislators received from districts far removed from their own."

"On the school funding issue, I was primarily interested in the reaction of parents, teachers and others here in the 37th District and other areas of Seattle," she said.

"Without the toll-free hotline, many of my constituents would be unable to make contact with me. There's no question that it's an invaluable contribution to representative government," she said.

"The hotline keeps us in touch."

Newspaper coverage of the legislature elicited the greatest response from hotline callers, said Sigman. "A story would appear in the newspapers about a certain issue and we would be flooded with calls from people who wanted their representatives to know they approved or opposed a measure they read about in the paper."

Not all the calls were related to legislative issues.

"There was a lot of publicity about the toll-free number," said Ms. Sigman. "Often we would get calls from senior citizens who were having problems with a landlord or from someone who had questions about a state service. Usually, they were desperate and had seized upon the number as an entry into the entire state bureaucracy."

"If we couldn't direct those callers to the proper agency, we would forward their messages to the legislators from their district. It seemed important that someone be interested in those people," she said, "and we've found that most representatives are."

The hotline was initiated during the 1972 session with two operators and it doesn't close down when the legislature adjourns.

Sigman -- a bill room supervisor -- is still taking more than 100 calls daily. "It's hard for some people to write letters," she smiled. "The hotline lets them respond to something right away while it's on their minds."

TOURING EUROPE....AMSTERDAM.... is a city of surprises. It is one of the cleanest cities in the world. Its standard of living is high. It has more canals than Venice, more bicycles than Copenhagen. Its national drink looks like water, but packs a handsome wallop.

Its people are big and healthy, with a passionate weakness for flowers. They would rather speak English to strangers and sometimes French and German, than their own throaty tongue.

Places of Interest....starting at the harbor and going inward to the city center..... "The Port", on the Amstel River is the oldest harbor; Central Station; The Ayer Tower; Old Church built in 1306; Rembrandt House; Anne Frank House, the carefully restored house in which Anne Frank and her people hid from the Germans from 1942 to 1944.

The newly opened Vincent Van Gogh Museum has been devoted entirely to his works. It houses the world's largest and most complete collection of paintings (220), drawings (400) and letters (600) of Vincent Van Gogh.

Amsterdam specializes in main dish soups. Their vegetables are remarkably succulent and flavorful. Potatoes are a national dish. The tender white asparagus and the frail young green beans make gourmets speechless with delight. Chocolate is a staple food; the children sprinkle it on their bread and butter.

Home Fire-Safety
Inspection Program
Begins This Week

Photographed in their new uniforms are Home Fire Inspectors Toni Harrell and Rick Shellenburger.

By Glenda Winfield

The Central Area and Rainier Valley will be the target area for the vivacious, sprightly dressed home fire inspection personnel of the Seattle Fire Department.

Civilians, the inspectors were selected from the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and have received extensive training in fire safety before beginning the inspection program.

Two home fire inspection personnel that represent the Seattle Fire Department in the program are Rick Shellenburger and Toni Harrell. Dressed in a 'sharp' outfit of brown slacks, gold shirt or blouse, neck scarf and rust blazers, Rick and Toni have a professional, business-like appearance. Toni Harrell said, "This is the first time in Seattle Fire Department history that inspections are being carried out by civilian personnel." She added, "We don't want to pressure the homeowner. The home fire inspectors do not give out citations or violations. We merely look for potential fire hazards and give the home owner a check list for his own reference of the potential problems in his home."

Rick Shellenburger continued, "As inspectors, we carry ID cards, and wear greeters and a badge. All home owners should feel free to ask for our ID." Shellenburger added that the inspectors do not want to frighten people. He went on, "We do not report anything to anyone...if we did, we would defeat our purpose."

Ms. Harrell described the route for the inspectors in the following weeks. She stated that the Central Area route has a north boundary of E. Mercer, the southern boundary is Yesler Way, the eastern boundary will be Lake Washington and the western boundary is 31st Street. The Rainier Valley route is mapped out in the south by South Kenyon Street, on the north by South Eddy Street, in the east by Lake Washington and on the west by Empire Way. She added, "We will be inspecting home door to door from 9 am to 4 pm. If no one is at home, we will leave a marker and you can call us at your convenience."

Shellenburger said, "For those persons who do not reside in the Rainier Valley or the Central Area, we will come to your homes at your request. Just call Home Inspection at

Julian Bond Will Not Be Presidential Candidate in '76

ATLANTA, GEORGIA - State Senator Julian Bond announced this week he would not be a candidate for President in 1976.

"It's simply a matter of not having the money," Bond said. "In spite of the hundreds of people who have written expressing their support and those who worked long, hard hours trying to build a base of financial support, we just couldn't raise enough cash," Bond said.

"Unfortunately," he added, "none of the remaining candidates seems likely to promote the radical political and economic changes so badly needed to insure redistribution of wealth in America and common control of our resources and our future."

"I am more than grateful to the local corps of volunteers," he added, "who worked without pay to keep us going until now."

Bond said he would not support any other candidate.
