Is It Possible That Seattle Could Have The Same Problem As Miami, Florida?

Most people watched the news last week. "Black Man Shot in Cold Blood." Blacks burned, looted and resisted political pressure.

The question which comes to mind is, Could the same thing happen here in Seattle? Does the Seattle Police Department have a good relationship with the black community?

Based on the Northwest FACTS telephone survey, most participants concur that the Seattle Police Department has a better track record than other cities in the United States. A sampling of our survey is provided below for our readers.

Sam Smith - Seattle City Councilman:

I don't think so, Seattleites generally are level headed people. We have an excellent Police chief and system. The leadership, both black and white would head off trouble.

George Reynolds - Supervisor Seattle Airport Sky Caps:

Yes, it could happen here because we have a high influx of all types of people. However, the Seattle Police Department has better relations with the black community. The other day I saw some white Police officers playing touch football with some black children at 30th Avenue and Yesler.

Louis Thomas - Truck Driver:

Yes, a riot could happen in Seattle. But the Seattle Black People would have to be pushed awful hard to react. There is Racism in the Black Community. This showed up when the Black community wanted to change the name of Empire Way to Martin Luther King Way.

White Merchants and Businesses that make money in the Black community let them get away with it. But I believe the Black community will soon wake up and react somehow.

Ina McIntosh - Executive Secretary:

Yes I do believe it could happen here. There is no place immune from violence.

Curt Smith - Newspaper Production:

Yes, because the same racist elements that exist in Miami exist in Seattle. However, I think black police officers have a good relationship with the black community. Most white police officers have the same racist feelings as most white people.

Kent Stevenson - Music Educator:

Anything can happen. It could happen in Seattle, but we have a stronger service of community involvement. We are not racially isolated like people are in Miami. The Seattle Police Department is adequate, but there is lots of room for improvement. We in Seattle should not feel to secure and not relate to other situations in other cities.

Marion Simmons - Housewife:

Sure, it could happen anywhere under the same circumstances. Nevertheless, I have not seen any Seattle Policemen commit an act of wrongdoing. I know some very good police officers, and have police officers as my friends and associates.

Rev. Lloyd - Pastor of Cherry Hill Baptist Church:

Yes, because we have never been satisfied with (investigation of Blacks being Killed by Police bullets. "No, I don't think there is trust between the TWO!

Dave Mann - Sports Editor:

Of course this kind of action taken by the Miami policeman (Louis Alvarez) is possible in any police society. The flip side of the coin is that here in Seattle, seemingly, we have in the black community a mutual understanding and trust in the law and in those duty sworn to initiate it. Not saying that this gives us immunity from police harassment or scrutiny, but only that it eliminates the trigger happy policeman, that in most cities fires not at the whites of his eyes, but at the black of his skin.

Senator George Fleming - Washington State Sen.:

It could happen anywhere that the community is oppressed. The Seattle Police Chief is sensitive to the needs of the people and has tried to make it better here. There are still police officers out there who could use excessive force and enrage the people to riot. The chief of police in Seattle is the type of person from my observance who has taken steps in trying to make relations between the police force and the community, good!

Delana Sneed - Hair Designer:

It is not something that would not occur in one single area.

Eddie Cotton - Businessman:

The Seattle Black community could react just like the Miami black community if the same situation existed. But, the Seattle Police Department has a better relationship with the black community than Miami's.

Larry Gossitt - Director of C.A.M.P.:

Of course there can be crimes in Seattle because of economical and social causes of Urban unrest that exists in Seattle and other major cities. It just takes a spark to set a crisis off.

Black community relationships and the police department are better here than in Miami, Florida. The Mayor and the police Chief of Seattle tries to communicate with the black community.

Makel Spencer - Accounting Technician/Student:

Miami, Florida is in a state of turmoil. The city has rocketed rock bottom on the human relationship scale. Miami's problems are American problems. We, the people of Seattle should not turn our backs on Miamians and respond, shame, shame, shame!

One black man was murdered in cold blood by a white Cuban policeman named Louis Alvarez. Many black people all over the United States experience some form of police brutality everyday. Most cases go unnoticed except for those involved. Seattle is not an exception to the rule. The Seattle Police Department on an overall basis is more sensitive to the needs of the people, resulting in better human relations in the black community. Needless to say, one wrong move by a trigger happy police officer could spark the same reaction Miami is now confronted with or Vis-a-versa.

A Business on Martin Luther King Way Harrassed by Racist Local Businessmen

by Madison King

Mr. Arreola, owner of Manny's Auto Rebuild, has been having a rough time explaining his position in the name change of Empire Way to Martin Luther King Way.

He has received Hate Letters with his picture painted black. The owner of a Plumbing Company asked him to retract his position and join the rest of the Racist Businesses.

Mr. Arreola tried to get the White Newspapers to print something about it, but found out that they would not go against these Racist Customers. Now Mr. Arreola knows that these members of the Rainier and Empire Merchants Association will go to any extreme to Keep a Black Man's name off of their streets.

It's hard to stand still in life. If you are not going forward, you may be going backward. Sometimes this movement is so subtle we're not aware of it.

The most common method of balancing the family budget is by cutting down payments to the savings account.

Councilman Sam Smith Re-Elected President of Brotherhood For Twenty-Third Term

City Councilman Sam Smith was re-elected President of the Brotherhood of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church for the twenty-third year. The Brotherhood is one of the major groups of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church which started out with monthly breakfasts and a Lecture Series once a year. Under the leadership of Councilman Sam Smith, in addition to the Lecture Series, the Brotherhood now sponsors a Spring Concert, a Father's Day Weekend, Laymen's Day Services, and has recently begun to focus on Community Problems such as why there is such a high percentage of Black prisoners in the Washington State Prison System.

Rev. Samuel B. McKinney, the Pastor, first organized the men of the Church into the Brotherhood nearly twenty-five years ago and has been a close advisor and participant through the years. The attendance has grown from nine to ten members present at the breakfasts to the present average of over 100 people, both men and women.

The Brotherhood meets each third Saturday morning of the month, at 7:30 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the church at 1634-19th Avenue.

Medical Center Seeks Board Members

The Sydney Miller Community Service Center is looking for interested and concerned people to serve on its Board of Directors.

Sydney Miller's current programs are the Carolyn Downs Family Medical Center (a community health clinic), the King County High Blood Pressure Control Program (a county wide hypertension screening, education, referral and follow-up program), and a food bank. Over the past twelve years, the Center has also been involved in a free Breakfast Program for school children, legal aid, transportation for prison visitations, a summer school, tutoring, and rodent control.

These are difficult and changing times. Social and health service programs across the country are being cut at a time when more and more people are in need of help. We, at the Sydney Miller Community Service Center, are looking for people with an interest in Central Seattle and enough concern and energy to do something about it.

If you would like to help us review our current programs and work on ways to continue them, have a say in new projects and ways to meet community needs, and have 10 hours a month to devote, please call 324-0402 or send a note expressing your interest to the Carolyn Downs Clinic, 1422 34th Avenue, Seattle 98122.

In a recent survey the results showed THE FACTS newspaper as the number one weekly, with more community news than any other weekly in Seattle.

"Many times a day I realize how my outer and inner life is built upon the labors of my fellow men, both living and dead, and how earnestly I must exert myself in return to give as much as I have received."

The time has again arrived for many Americans to begin formulating New Year's resolutions.

The majority of the promises we make to ourselves normally last through the month of January and then slowly become forgotten as we return to business as usual. However, this year not as many of us will be returning to business as usual simply because there is less business to which we can return. The dismal economic circumstances in which the nation and the world are currently embroiled does not lead one to a sense of hope. It is a popular belief that things will get worse before they get better, in spite of the most glowing promises of recovery.

1983 resolutions will certainly take on a deeper sense of reality reflecting the kind of desperate straits in which most of us find ourselves. What will be the resolution of the unemployed, the poor and the hungry? How will they resolve to better their condition? What will be the resolution of the new Congress entrusted with the nation's growth and security?

I actually sense a kind of fear or nervous agitation on the part of the American people as to what 1983 will bring. There seems to be a sense of misguidance and a lack of direction that has permeated the American psyche. Our nation was built from a sense of hope and has sustained itself with an eye toward the future. Not only has the economy taken on a characteristic reminiscent of the thirties, but so have the attitudes of our leaders. The enthusiastic spark of new ideas is lacking at the top and has filtered to the bottom. Our nation has been daring, in its accomplishments, yet we now face despair based on a lack of creative leadership insensitive to the needs of the people.

1983 will be a test of our national flexibility. I am optimistic in my belief in the infinite possibilities of the people to tailor the kind of leaders we can follow in confidence. Leaders with character, integrity, intellect, perseverance and clarity, and who are not drunk with the past.

So, as we ring in the New Year, let us also ring in a new national attitude not drunk with the past but sober in its commitment to the future.

On the Question of Black Prisoners:

One Superintendent Spoke For Himself; Others Sent Black Representatives to Brotherhood Meeting.

If you had attended the last Brotherhood meeting except for Mr. Kenneth Ducharme, Superintendent of the Monroe Reformatory Prison, you would have easily assumed that Black persons were either running the State Prisons or that they occupied important positions in the administering of the State Prisons but neither is really true. However, what would have given you this assumption is the number of Black persons representing the McNeil Island Prison, the Purdy Treatment Center and the King County Jail. The Brotherhood makes no objection to these Black individuals representing their bosses because they accounted for themselves very well, but we thought that it ought to be mentioned that only Mr. Ducharme of the Monroe Prison appeared in response to the invitation of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Ducharme exhibited a lack of information about the problem, but what was most welcome was his apparent willingness to work with the Community in seeking to improve the situation. He emphasized the importance of inmates having a job in order to get out of prison before time is completely served. He also expressed some surprise at the notion of Black prisoners not being recommended for parole as much as other prisoners, but said he would look into the matter. It also appeared that the Purdy Treatment Center and the McNeil Island Prison representatives were open-minded to some new effort on the part of the Community. There was no representative from the Walla Walla State Prison.

The next Brotherhood Meeting will be on January 15th at 7:30 A.M. when we will begin our re-examination of some facts we have learned along the way. THE PUBLIC IS INVITED.

An Unforgettable Experience in the Life of Sis. Mae Campbell

THE FACTS church Editor said that she did not like Watch Meeting even as a child. Her father, Jesse Tucker was a head Deacon in a little country town in Texas. At the age of six, she told her Father that she did not like false testimonies of people's New Year's Resolutions. But being a child and under her father's authority, she had to accept his principles and guidance, although it went against her own.

She moved to the State of Washington in 1945, without any assistance from her parents, and settled here in Seattle with God as her only and sole protector.

This past year of 1982 was very beautiful and successful. Zion United House of Prayer hosted a Banquet Dinner and Concert for the benefit of their music school. Bishop Eugene Drayton and wife rendered musical selections. The affair was held at the Park Hilton Hotel, downtown Seattle; It was a night to remember. They closed out with testimonies and expressions from many. There were over 150 in attendance; four Nationalities, and there was no Fairy Tales told. The spirit of the Lord did meet us there. This will be an annual affair each year. Long live this Gospel Team.

ANNIVERSARY!!! We, the Members of the Goodwill Missionary Baptist Church will be celebrating our Church's 37th Anniversary starting Monday, January 10th, thru Jan. 16th, 1983. Rev. Shelby Tate of Progressive Missionary B.C. Will close it out. Everyone is cordially invited to worship with us.

Jesus Is The Only Way

1 Thess. 1:1-10

Verse 5a: "For our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost...."

This implies that the gospel did come by word. In fact it is impossible for the gospel to come without words: "For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." (1 Cor. 1:21) See also 1 Peter 1:23-25; Romans 1:16; 10:17. But it did not come in word only. Paul spoke of the things that God wrought through him as an apostle: "for the obedience of the Gentiles, by word and deed, in power of signs and wonders, in power of the Holy Spirit." (Romans 15:18, 19.) This reference surely is to the power and signs which the Lord enabled Paul to work as confirmation of the gospel he preached. The intent and purpose of the miracles, signs and wonders performed by the apostles in the first place (Mark 16:15-20; Heb. 2:1-4). Makes you wonder how people get so confused about miracles and the extent of the power that Christians are to have today. It is obvious that not all Christians of the first century could make this claim. It is just as obvious that Paul made an accurate claim which is fully demonstrated in the book of Acts.

The assurance of the text may apply to the confidence in which Paul preached, as well as that of the people in receiving the gospel. With that same confidence he could say to the Galatians, "But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed." (Gal. 1:8.) A man can have the same confidence in the word today, because it needs no further confirmation... it has been confirmed by signs and wonders, power and the Holy Spirit of God. The command now is "Preach the word..." II Tim. 4:2a

A New Year and a New Career -- After being a Transit Operator for over five years, my career changed. I knew all along that it was something else in life that I would like to do but wasn't so sure exactly what it was.

Born in Texas over 30 years ago, J.R. Christopher came to Seattle after an Honorable Discharge from the Military Services. He drove Fawcett Taxi Cabs before working for Metro Transit.

This is 1983, the year for us to wake up and live and be happy. Happiness does not lie in the future but in the present. This is the year - the year for each and every individual to find himself and get to know him/herself better. "One of the Greatest Adventures of Living today is getting to know yourself better."

We should live each day fully - Even if some shadows blot out the Sunshine; there is still something to feel good about."

A New Year Query

We pray that in 1983 courage and vigor a plentifully to all of THE FACTS readers who slave for a better world and that the worth which dwell in their soul be elevated. That people will come to view more purely that which part us. That every second unite us solid together, not people over people, but of humankind

Show of Documentary Photographs Begins At Pratt Fine Arts Center JANUARY 10TH!

Heritage Society, Newly Incorporated, Meets Saturday

Capturing the essence of the International District without injecting the personality of the photographer, and without manipulating the moment was the task of six photography students from City Art Works. The result of this documentation experience will be on view at Pratt Fine Arts Center from January 10th through January 28th. United Savings and Loan Association in the International District is providing an opportunity for the International community to see the photographs by hosting the show from February 1st through February 18th.

These straight forward photographs, nevertheless, ultimately reflect interpretations by the six photographers. People, windows, doorways, and everyday occurrences are the subjects of the photographs. The question the students raised as they saw their work was when does a document become fine art.

Pratt Fine Arts Center is located at 1902 S. Main behind the Wonder Bread Bakery. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 9-5 PM. A reception for the photographers will be held there from 5-7 PM on Thursday, January 13th. United Savings and Loan Association is located at 601 S. Jackson.

Calendar/Gallery Listings

The Black Heritage Society of Washington State will meet Jan. 8, 1983 at the Royal Esquires Club, 1254 South Washington Street. An historical review of the club and a tour of the building, beginning at 1pm, will be followed by the general business meeting. Persons attending are asked to bring a non-perishable food item to be donated to a local food bank.

The Heritage Society aims to preserve the history of Black residents of Washington state from its earliest days up to the present. The organization was incorporated under the laws of the state of Washington this fall. It is one of a growing number of organizations which has the goal of establishing or maintaining a museum to display the contributions made by Black people in various regions, states, and cities in the nation.

Displays of artifacts and historical information will be on exhibit during Black History Month at several locations, including "Black Women Writers, 1900-1980," at the Douglass Truth Library. Heritage Society meetings and membership are open to the public. Further information about the society may be obtained by writing to the Black Heritage Society of Washington State, P.O. MANN'S Bits and Pieces

by DAVE MANN

Sports Editor

With the curtain down on the 1981-82 Professional football season, the playoff teams are rejoicing and the losers are looking for new lead coaches -- Kansas City Chiefs after a dismal 3-6 record and no playoff berth cut loose its coach Marv Levy - The Seahawks are negotiating with a host of former professional coaches as well as untried college coaches to replace interim coach Mike McCormack - The number one candidate seems to be Arizona State's Coach Daryl Rogers - The Seahawks announced Late Monday evening during a press conference that McCormack had been elevated to Chief Executive of the Seahawks. He is now president and General Manager...

When you can't be number one, I guess number seven isn't all that bad - Huskies rooters are wondering why they finished below Arizona State and U.C.L.A. in the standings, when they flat out beat both teams during the regular season....

The Sonics are hurting - The Sonics are surely a team in transition. Whenever the starters on the team stall at the gate, the bench out-side of Fred Brown can't respond to the challenge. Big James Donaldson played perhaps his best game of the season last week-end in the humiliating loss to Los Angeles. The Lakers could have beaten the Sonics by 40 points if they were not in a merciful mood. The Phoenix Sun ran up an insurmountable 20 point lead in the first half against the Sonics before turning the game over to their subs and eventually winning by 17 points - Until Seattle bench begin to come to play every night and play as if they want to keep their jobs, then the Sonics fortunes on the court will diminish abruptly. Players like Phil Smith output in a reserve role is hardly noticeable - Greg Kelsor, Mark Radford and Danny Vranes are perhaps the worse foul shooters in basketball - Whatever chemistry the Sonics had during the first month of the season is gone, and until the bench becomes more productive, the Sonics Fortunes will be on a downhill coaster.

BLACK COLLEGE SPORTS

by Barry Cooper

Q. Can you tell me if there have been any cases of homosexuals playing professional sports? Name withheld by request, New York City.

A. Yes, there have. I am not going to mention any names, because some of the players have gone straight, now. But a former member of the Los Angeles Dodgers came out to publicly say that he was gay during his playing days, and a member of the New York Giants even wrote a book on the subject. Those were the only two cases I can remember of pro athletes actually admitting that they were gay. Of course, there may have been many other players who were homosexuals and hit it from there teammates.

Q. I am thinking of launching a career in boxing. I would like to know how much money I will make from my first few fights? --Name withheld by request, Miami, Fla.

A. Not much. You didn't say if you had any amateur experience. If you haven't, it'll be difficult to break into the fight game. However, if you're persistent, hang around gyms and impress as manager, you may eventually get a start. Look to make about $25 to $100 a night fighting in four-round preliminary bouts at first. You must keep winning, however, or the purses will dwindle down to nothing. As you climb your way up, the purses will increase, too. A good journeyman fighter, like young Joe Louis, might get $1,000 per bout plus an occasional shot at top-ranked fighter.

Q. Are UFLS teams still taking players?--Mike Henderson, Atlanta.

A. Yes, they are, and probably will continue to sign players until training camp opens in March.

Q. What's the minimum starting salary in the NBA?

A. $30,000 a year, but most players, even first-year players, get much more than that. (Got a sports question? Just write "Ask Barry", P.O. Box 486, Tallahassee, Fla. 32302. Questions will be answered in this space).

ONE-STOP SALES AND SERVICE

Hi Boxing Fans -- Coming up next week is the first boxing show here in over a year. This is a funny thing to me as I think that Seattle is one of the best boxing towns on the coast. We have talent here and gobs of promoters or those who think they are promoters and yet we get one show a year. Sometimes not even that. There has to be someone here that will put on a show and come back with more every month. Maybe this group will do that.

One thing that I do know is that on paper, this show next week shapes up to be a good one. I hope that you fans come out and support Thad Spencer and Partners so they will come back. One other thing I know about this card is that you will see two very good lightweights in action. If Randy McNurlin and Greg Haugen the two young boxers I want you to see show good, then I'm almost sure we will see more fights here in the near future.

Don't forget, the Paramount Theatre, January 13th. Live boxing is back in Seattle.

The next good boxing you can see after the Paramount Theatre show will be the Seattle Golden Gloves. The date for this one is Feb. 19th at the Seattle Civic Arena. I do not have to tell you about these bouts as you know there is nothing but action from bell to bell. When the Golden Gloves boxers are in front of the crowd, this year there will be a little different style show. The boxers can let it all hang out as the Nationals were last month. This means the boxers that thought they should have gone to the Nationals will once again have a shot at the ones that did go. This year we did not do so good at the Nationals, and the young men that the officials passed over will want to show them that they are the ones that should have been sent. That my friends will make for good fights.

Don't forget the dates for both shows - January 13th for the professional show and February 19th for the Golden Gloves. I hope to see you at both of them. -- CIBON

Anti-Klan Network Announces National Campaign To End Racist Violence

Citing the list of nearly a thousand violent racist and anti-semitic acts--including death threats, destruction of property, assaults, shootings, whippings, bombings, and even murder, the National Anti-Klan Network has announced a major, national campaign to press for swift federal prosecution of Klansmen, Nazis and others committing such acts.

"We want to make 1983 a year known as the 'Beginning of the End to Racist Violence in America,'" said Rev. C.T. Vivian, chair of the Network. Today marks one hundred and twenty years since the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation and it seems that regard for black life in America still stands no higher than that of chattel."

The Network, now three years old, has launched the 1983 campaign in order to create public pressure on federal authorities to crack down on racially-motivated and anti-semitic violence. "Those who murdered the five in Greensboro, who shot John McCollum in Alabama, who shot the five in Chattanooga, who tried to assassinate Ms. Evelyn Lowery, those who poured gasoline on the interracial couple in St. Louis -- all these Klansmen, Nazis and other criminals are still out walking the streets," said Vivian who was a top aide to the late Dr. Martin Luther King.

Highly critical of the tiny number (less than 20) prosecutions taken by the U.S. Justice Department in contrast to the nearly 500 documented incidents of Klan violence and nearly 500 more of what they term "random racist violence", the Network hopes that its campaign will make stopping such violence a "to priority on the Nation's agenda."

The rationale for such a low prosecution rate by Justice Department officials, says the Network, is that they only claim jurisdiction in cases if the victim is actually engaged in what the Feds call a "specifically protected activity"--meaning voting, using a public facility, etc.

Klan opponents as well as noted Constitutional law experts contend that all racially-motivated and anti-semitic violence is aimed at depriving blacks, Jews and others -- as a whole -- of their Constitutional Rights. The NAKN complains that these highest law enforcement officials are themselves guilty of breaking the civil rights statutes.

"The Attorney General claims to have very limited jurisdiction in these cases of racist terror," said Vivian. "But we know the laws are on the books and if black people do not have a 'federally protected right to life' then every other civil right stands in grave jeopardy. The posture of the Federal government is tantamount to condoning Klan violence."

Husky News....

Husky Swimmers Air For 29th Consecutive Win Thursday Against Arizona

The University of Washington men's swim team faces its toughest test of the season Thursday (Jan. 6), as they put their 28-dual meet win streak on the line against the University of Arizona in Husky pool at 4:00 p.m.

Arizona was the last team to defeat the Huskies, beating them 59-44 in 1979 in Seattle. Arizona finished 19th at the NCAA Championships last year, and Husky coach Earl Ellis expects another strong battle from the Wildcats.

National Amateur Boxing Champs--

The Budweiser-sponsored USA-Amateur Boxing Federation national championship tournament held recently in Indianapolis, Ind., produced some new faces to the national amateur boxing title scene, and, of course, some old ones. The new champions with weight class listed in parenthesis are from left kneeling: Bryan Jones (106), Philadelphia, Pa.; Todd Hickman (112), Akron, Ohio; Melrick Taylor (119), Philadelphia, Pa.; Bernard Gray (125), Boynton Beach, Fla.; Clifford Gray (132), Boynton Beach, Fla.; and Henry Hughes (139), Cleveland, Ohio. From left in top row are Ronnie Essett (147), Indianapolis, Ind.; Dennis Milton (156), Bronx, N.Y.; Michael Grogan (165), Atlanta, GA.; Sherman Griffin (178), Minneapolis, Minn.; Ricky Womack (Heavyweight), Detroit, Mich.; and Warren Thompson (Super Heavyweight), Baltimore, Md. Through its network of independent beer distributors, Budweiser is the sponsor of local, regional and national amateur boxing championships which will lead to the United States Olympic Boxing team to compete in the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles.

Leaping on the "bad guy" is a common feat for Don Holyfield, a material control expeditor at the Huntington Beach, Calif., office of Aminoil USA, Inc. That's because Holyfield's favorite hobby is staging the antics of a five-member professional stuntman team created by Robert Humphrey (standing), Holyfield's brother-in-law. Mixing martial arts and comedy in their performances, the Southern California stuntmen perform during their spare time in parades and stage shows. Aminoil is the nation's second largest independent petroleum exploration and production company, and is the energy subsidiary of R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc.

"They are every bit as strong," Ellis said. "The rankings are not out yet, but with their personnel, I'm sure they are in the top 15 at least. They have outstanding people in every single event; they just don't have any weaknesses."

One interesting matchup will be in the 500-yard freestyle event, pitting Wildcat sophomore All-American George DiCarlo against Husky senior Sandy Blyth. DiCarlo earned All-American honors for his sixth-place finish in the 500-yard freestyle at last year's NCAA Championships, while Blyth took 13th place in the same event.

Blyth, the most valuable varsity swimmer the past two seasons, is currently listed among the world's top 25 at 400-meters following summer stints at the U.S. Sports Festival, the U.S. Senior Nationals and the World Games Trials.

"We had a lot of close races the last time we faced Arizona," Ellis said. "Our big goal is for our good people to stay with them from the block and race them head-to-head as best they can. We need to race with that kind of intensity, and not give up before we get into the water. We can't afford to be psyched out."

The Husky men and women were scheduled to compete in the Northwest Open in Tacoma Saturday and Sunday, but have dropped out of that meet. The first coed dual meet for the Huskies will be Jan. 14th against Oregon in Husky pool.

Huskies Host Montana State Thursday, Montana Saturday

Washington's women's basketball team entertains Montana State Thursday (Jan. 6) and Montana Saturday (Jan. 8) with hopes of evening its 3-5 win-loss record. Saturday's game will be played in Hec Edmundson Pavilion, while Thursday's game is scheduled for the women's regular home court, Hec Edmundson Pavilion Addition. Both games start at 7:30 p.m.

Husky head coach Sue Kruszewski expects Washington's second opponent, Montana, to be the strongest team of the two. "Montana is a very good team, a very efficient team with a lot of size. They run a very good motion offense, are well disciplined, strong and a physical team. Of the two teams, the tougher team is going to be Montana."

Montana is 8-2 on the season and Montana State is 4-4. MSU meets western Washington before its tilt with the Huskies and Montana plays two games when it hosts the annual Lady Griz Classic.

Language School to Offer New Classes

In response to the ever-growing demand for foreign language instruction in the Seattle area, THE LANGUAGE School of the American Cultural Exchange will be offering classes at a new location starting January. The newest site, the East Madison YMCA, will feature two unique offerings, Tagalog and Farsi, as well as French, Spanish, Russian, and Japanese.

This new location will not only offer appeal to those living in the immediate Capital Hill/Madison Park vicinity, but will have the added advantage of free parking located behind the building on 24th Avenue.

Classes are small, thus assuring individual attention and practice, and take place at various times of the day to suit all scheduling needs. Conversational skills are emphasized in a friendly, low-pressure atmosphere.

Classes will be held as usual at the Downtown YMCA beginning January 17 while classes at the East Madison YMCA and in Bellevue will begin on January 10. Registration for all three locations starts on December 13; early registration is advised to ensure a place in class.

For further information, contact THE LANGUAGE SCHOOL at 682-6985.

Celebrity Daredevils

You just have to see it to believe it when LeVar Burton does his thing on "Celebrity Daredevils." Burton, shown here with co-host Bert Convy, goes aloft hanging on a rope ladder underneath an airplane as he catapults into a burning wall of flame just several feet above the ground. One wrong move and bye, bye Burton. "Celebrity Daredevils" presents over 30 stars performing very dangerous, yet fascinating, acts of daring in a two-hour special that may be seen on Sunday, January 16, from 9-11 p.m. (ET) on the ABC-TV network.

New Morning Latchkey Program At The East Madison YMCA

The East Madison YMCA will offer a new morning Latchkey Program along with the regular after school session for children ages 5-12. Hours will be from 7-9:30 a.m. and 2-6:30 p.m.

Latchkey is an exciting youth program, full of activities. In each one month session, the group leader is expected to plan activities in crafts, nature awareness, cookouts, dramas, story times, discussions for personal sharing or value clarification, games, activities, the kids choose, community service, music and dance, and field trips. Through all this it is hoped that two special things happen: that the children truly enjoy themselves; and that these experiences give kids valid reasons to feel good about themselves.

The staff are people who have their career around child development or are work study students at Seattle University. They are chosen for the job because they exemplify a sense of loving, wholesome maturity. Training for the staff includes clarification of the program's goals, the rules the staff has to live by, first aid, and leadership skills to deal with group dynamics.

Patricia Schwartz, Program Director, and her staff stress as their goals a desire to help the children learn to gain control over their own lives, to be responsive to the world around them, and to aid in the clarification of personal values. Patricia thinks that all the aspects of the program are important, but very high on her list is community service where the children learn to give of themselves. One outstanding example of this was that the children formed a caroling group to perform for their parents and for a senior center in the area. The senior citizens definitely got a charge from the kid's special rendition of Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer, whose shiny nose glowed like a light bulb and "who went down in history with Columbus, Washington, and The East Madison Latchkey Kids."

For more information about Latchkey and to sign up call 322-6969.

The Rose Beyond The Wall

A rose once grew where all could see, sheltered beside a garden wall.
And, as the days passed swiftly by,
it spread its branches, straight and tall...

One day, a beam of light shone through a crevice that had open wide - the rose bent gently toward its warmth then passed beyond to the other side...

Now, you who deeply feel its loss, be comforted the rose blooms there - its beauty even greater now, nurtured by God's own loving care.

We Love you Lee, then, now, forever.
Your Mother
your Sisters.

"Let us move on in these powerful days, these days of challenge, to make America what it ought to be. We have an opportunity to make a better nation."

The Martin Luther King, Jr. Celebration Planning Committee invites you, and all students at your school, to participate in the 1994 workshops, rally, and march honoring the life and works of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Because 1994 promises to be an especially important year, we ask your help in encouraging a large number of students to attend all the King Day activities on Monday, January 17.

This year the Planning Committee has placed a major emphasis on youth participation, and our 1994 theme, "Step Up, Help Keep the Dream Alive: Let's Stop the Violence Now!" was chosen through active youth participation.

As in previous years, the critical issue workshops will begin at 9:30am at Garfield High School, 400 23rd Avenue. The rally is scheduled to begin at 11:00am in the Quincy Jones Auditorium. Marchers will leave Garfield promptly at noon and proceed to a downtown destination. We welcome all youth every step of the way!

Critical issue workshops in 1994 are Youth Perspectives on Violence: What Needs to be Done?, AIDS, Health Care, Jobs/Labor Issues, Hate Crimes, Police/Community Relations, Education, Economic Empowerment, U.S. Policy in South Africa and Haiti, and the Life and Legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Students will also participate in the Police/Community Relations workshop, and youth perspectives will be a focus of every workshop.

All workshops will focus on positive contributions of our youth in providing solutions to the problem of violence. And, in the words of march organizer Eddie Rye, Jr., "It's our turn to step up now and address the underlying economic factors causing the violence."

Please put announcements in your school bulletin to encourage as many young people as you can to help us find solutions to the problem of violence and thus honor Dr. King. Children and youth are our most precious natural resource, and we want everyone to be a part of the solutions.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Oscar Eason, Chair, Publicity Committee (725-5303). Marjorie Prince, Publicity Committee (281-7664).

To Be Equal

by John E. Jacob

A Fresh Start In 1983

I know of no reputable observer who foresees an end to the enormous troubles afflicting our economy in 1983. All the talk about "recovery" suggests a very limited upturn may take place, hardly enough to get the jobless back to work or to slice much off the incredibly high black unemployment and poverty rates.

So 1983 will have to be the year when the slowly gathering strength of the coalition for a more just society brings maximum pressure to create jobs, and as important, to make sure those jobs go to the long-term unemployed and to the minority communities for whom the Depression has been virtually permanent, not just a matter of a bad couple of years.

With a significant revival of the private sector nowhere in sight that means a massive federal job creation program. But limited plans for new jobs to repair highways and the crumbling infrastructure don't qualify. They are too limited, barely making a dent in unemployment.

Despite the token aspect of those plans, we are already hearing objections to them. It is said they are too costly at a time of huge budget deficits. Yes, they do cost a little. But that huge military budget can be cut to accommodate them.

Anyway, we should not confuse costs and investments. Creating jobs through infrastructure repair and providing services is an investment in a tax-paying labor force. The real cost comes from unemployment - for each one percent rise in unemployment the nation loses almost $100 billion in lost production, lost taxes and higher social spending.

Critics say federal job creation programs take too long to get started. By the time they are in operation, the economy is recovering and the new impetus just adds to inflation. Well, that shouldn't concern us now. There's so much slack in the economy that there is no way inflationary pressures will be reignited soon - a third of our industrial capacity is dormant.

As for the time lag until they start up, that depends. Those terrible New Dealers we hear so much about these days managed to put four million people to work repairing roads and building public works in just two months back in 1933.

Surely a business-oriented Administration can find the managerial talent to match that record. And public works are more than dams or bridges that take years to plan. An infrastructure repair program could get under way immediately.

But one thing we will have to guard against in 1983 is the tendency to carve up that pitifully small job creation pie in such a way that the parts of the nation most impacted by unemployment get less than their share, and that the long-term jobless lose out to temporarily unemployed highly skilled workers.

Politicizing public works programs inevitably leads to that kind of unfairness. In contrast to the old CETA program, in which local governments put people to work providing necessary public services under federal rules and regulations, there may be no safeguards to ensure that the poo and the deprived get the newly created jobs.

By dismantling the CETA structure in the midst of a recession, Congress and the Administration deprived the nation not only of a useful program, but also of a mechanism for emergency job-creation that was already in place and had already been purged of whatever abuses and inefficiencies that had plagued it in its beginnings.

That was a terrible mistake made by people who thought there would never again be a need for government job creation efforts. Now, just a few months later, they are floundering about because they tore apart the only functioning program suited to today's needs.

That argues for the necessity of a permanent federal job creation and training structure, something that is not subject to the year-by-year whims of political leaders. A Universal Employment and Training program that guarantees jobs and skills training opportunities for all the jobless, utilizing the resources of the private sector, the schools and other institutions, should be our goal for 1983.

County Extension Agent

Have you noticed the commitment of volunteers emerging during these tough times? Refugee families all over King County are being served by sponsoring families who spend countless hours helping these people adjust to life here. I know of families opening their homes to other families in need of emergency shelter. My 90-year old grandmother is still living independently, partly because of her weekly visits from a volunteer chore service lady.

I know there are countless individuals responding right now to the needs to their friends and neighbors as unemployment continues and social services are cut.

There is very little training for volunteers who have taken on these responsibilities. After working with families my friends express a common frustration. As one friend said to me, "I worry about them more than I help them. I want to share useful ideas, but I can't get my message across."

King County Cooperative Extension has help for volunteers and para-professionals in social service. We are offering Basic Living Skills workshops this winter - workshops in food shopping, basic nutrition, money planning and safety.

More than just basic information, we have built in the "how to teach, how to reach." The format is truly workshop style. People who attend collaborate to find ways to improve the situations of the people with whom they work.

Margaret Movius, my colleague in charge of Basic Living Skills workshops says, "We have even made it possible for our workshop people to receive continuing education credits from Washington State University. This is one of the few inservice training opportunities for these kinds of dedicated volunteers."

The workshops begin January 26 and run weekly for six weeks. Volunteers and paraprofessionals attend free of charge. For more information and registration call Margaret Movius at the King County Cooperative Extension office, 344-3900 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Another Point Of View

by GEORGE BURNEY

The Prosecution Rest: William's Is Denied Second Trial

His mother described him as a "fun loving 100 percent all-American boy." But, at the early age of 23 Wayne B. Williams has been convicted of 2 murders and denied a second trial, a trial which was supposed to introduce new evidence to prove his innocence. The evidence was surrounded by carpet fibers, and dog hairs and basic images of Williams who was portrayed as a "mad dog killer. What seems even more strange is the fact that the other 26 unsolved murders in Atlanta have been closed, after the conviction of Williams Commissioner Lee brown removed all special task force officers that were on the case. Williams' defense motion for a new trial based on the fact that they the prosecution could link him to at least 15 murders but they only tried him for two. As far as the citizens of Atlanta are concerned they do not believe that Williams is the one, even though his portrayal was bad they feel that there is some one out there who is responsible for the slayings of 26 black youths. So why has the investigation stopped? What was the most extraordinary case in 1982 some how slim from everyone's minds. Pressure was brought on by Georgia's Governor to bring a halt to everything, could it be that they just brought anybody in to fight off political pressure? Not until new evidence is produced 26 unsolved murders will just stay unsolved, perhaps someone in the Atlanta police force will come up to reality and realize that it is still not over. A bewildering case which depended on carpet fibers, dog hair, and an All-American 100 percent fun loving boy, but in the end the jury found the evidence more convincing then the all-american boy. Like last year I welcome all letters, write to George Burney c/o THE FACTS, 2765 E. Cherry--Seattle Wash. 98122. Your letter may be printed for a Viewpoint Response.

The Virtue of Patience

The response from last weeks editorial was excellent, and several of my readers ask me to explain in greater detail, how the 60's generation were to reintegrate ourselves back into the structures of our fathers. As well as how to minimize conflict between older members who may feel threatened by younger people and new ideas.

My answer to that is two parts and both parts should be called "Patience." To often we want to see something happen overnight, and we feel rejected when we cannot go right into some of the older Black Organizations, and make an immediate impact. We also must exercise a great deal of patience, when we bring new ideas. It's difficult for people to change a way of doing things that they are familiar with, and their first reaction is to reject it, out of hand. But you got to keep working with them and sometimes a gradual process is the best way of doing it.

It's difficult for someone to feel threatened when he or she believes that you have their best interest at heart, and it may take some time to prove that. As time goes on and you stick around, the overall relationship will continue to improve as you pay your dues, in time and energy.

In other words, it's all just a matter of time if you are sincere. Which is not to say that you may not occasionally run into individuals who are impossible to communicate with, but they are in the minority and shouldn't be considered a major stumbling block.

Everything eventually changes, or it decays. If new ideas and fresh energies are not incorporated into the older Black Organizations, they will eventually fall apart. Many of them already have tax exempt status, or a variety of different licenses, that would be difficult for a newer Black organization to get today.

It's crazy to keep inventing the wheel, one time is enough. So you take what you have and use it as the foundation for something greater in the future. We should work with people who have accumulated a large store of knowledge, and let them educate us, give us the maps so that we can miss some well marked pit falls.

The recent riots in Miami demonstrates to me just how little time we may have to get ourselves organized. It may be Seattle, Tacoma, or Portland tomorrow, and it just don't make sense to not take advantage of the foundations already layed as we build for tomorrow...This is Charlie James with the Bottom Line....

Helpful Hints

From Your Insurance Commissioner/Fire Marshal Dick Marquardt

The first of the year is a good time to review your insurance packages, making sure you have the coverages you thought you had, looking for ways to save money and, of course, adding new items (Christmas gifts for example) to your homeowners policy.

Call your agent and see how your insurance company wants new items added. Things like jewelry, guns, fishing gear, or cameras are the kinds of new acquisitions you may want to note for insurance purposes. Some companies want you to get an appraisal - others may want serial numbers so it is wise to check.

Another smart thing to do for the new year is to get an engraving machine and put your driver's license number on special items. This will help in recovery if the item is stolen or lost. Often police departments and civic organizations will make engraving tools available for your use, so check around.

Anorexia

One of the dangers of chronic dieting is Anorexia. Anorexia is defined as loss of appetite. When one diets for a long period of time, the normal eating patterns are disturbed, causing physical as well as psychological changes in the body. As a result, once the desired amount of weight has been lost, it isn't possible to resume normal eating patterns, weight continues to be lost. This may bring many hazards to the health, i.e., Anemia low blood pressure, and may even prove fatal.

For this reason, for long periods of weight loss, one should be under the constant supervision of a physician.
