

Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Foundation Announces 1975 Fellowship Recipients

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 11 -- Six recipients of the 1975-76 Whitney M. Young, Jr. Fellowships were announced today by the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Foundation, Inc.

In announcing the Fellowships, Mrs. Whitney M. Young, Jr., Chairman, and Mr. Joseph F. Cullman 3rd, President of the Foundation, noted that the first annual Foundation Fellowships were announced in 1973 -- just two years after the death of the former executive director of the National Urban League.

The Foundation was created following Mr. Young's death in 1971. Its Fellowships are intended to memorialize him by providing minority group leadership training and developmental opportunities for men and women who have demonstrated talents and commitment in the broad field of social science-- which was Mr. Young's professional service and primary interest. The Foundation is devoting special attention to interracial cooperation in the areas of social services, career counseling and training, human resources, communications and government and its related agencies.

The Fellows were approved by the Foundation Board on the basis of the nominations of the Foundation's Selection Committee, consisting of eminent educators and public figures. Members of the Selection Committee personally interviewed the candidates before making their nominations.

Recipients of the Foundation's third annual Fellowship awards -- which include four Academic Fellowships and two Informal Tutorial Study Grants are:

Wilburn Hayden, Jr., Greensboro, North Carolina. Mr. Hayden, 26, will use his Fellowship award to pursue his doctoral study in Sociology at the University of Toronto.

Jeffrey T. Sammons, Lincoln University, Pa. Mr. Sammons, 25, holds a B.A. degree in history and an M.A. degree from Tufts College and plans to use his Fellowship award to begin his doctoral studies in the History Department at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Freeman T. Pollard, Denver, Colorado. A native of Birmingham, Alabama, Mr. Pollard, 33, holds a B.S. degree in English/Sociology from Tuskegee Institute and a Masters degree in Human Relations from New York University.

Adrienne Maria Foster, San Francisco, California. Ms. Foster, 30, will use her Fellowship award to pursue her Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology at the Wright Institute, Berkeley, California.

Joyce Mathis, New York, New York. A graduate of Central State University with a B.A. degree in Music, and a student at the Julliard School of Music, Ms. Mathis, 31, will use her Informal Tutorial Grant to train daily in vocal coaching and technique.

Paul David Escott, Durham, North Carolina. Mr. Escott, 27, a History teacher at Duke University, will use his Informal Tutorial Study Grant to devote this year to full time reading, analyzing and recording data from the Federal Writers' Project - Slave Narratives and a number of smaller collections of slave narratives.

Mrs. Young noted that the Foundation was formed "to establish fellowships for potential leaders committed to effecting positive social change, and to conduct conferences designed to bring together the races. We are pleased to see how well our former Fellows are progressing and look forward to great accomplishments from this most-promising group of Fellows who have been selected this year."

The Fellowship Program is administered by the National Fellowships Fund of Atlanta, Georgia. Candidates for the 1976-77 academic year can obtain application forms and additional information from the National Fellowships fund, 795 Peachtree Street, N.E., Suite 484, Atlanta, Georgia 30308.
