CSCCF HOSTING SPAGHETTI POTLUCK EVENT

On February 24, 1976, the Central Seattle Community Council Federation is hosting a community-wide "Spaghetti Potluck Event." The "Event" will be a follow-up to our Meet the Bankers evening last summer at which the community first confronted the bankers regarding their redlining practices. Over 200 folks "met the bankers" and the event was a success: the Mayor's Reinvestment Task Force began investigating redlining, several major Seattle banks began negotiations with the community through the Federation, and anti-redlining legislation has been submitted to the state legislature.

A show of active community concern is again necessary as the Mayor's Task Force begins preparation of its report on redlining which has the potential of becoming the city's official stand against these banking practices. Subsequent city action would also be based upon this report. As well, the bankers themselves need reminding that people are in support of continued direct negotiations with the community.

The "Event" will include a great spaghetti dinner (75¢ donation) and potluck (bring a salad, rolls or dessert to share) and a trip to the Reinvestment Task Force hearings at which two national experts on redlining and disinvestment will be addressing the Task Force.

The dinner will begin at 5:30 p.m. at Garfield High cafeteria. At 7:15 we will be going to City Hall to hear Gale Cincotta's presentation to the Task Force.

Come to have a good dinner, enjoyable evening, and demonstrate continued united concern about redlining.

HOME INSULATION WORKSHOP

Are you paying too much to heat your home? The Mt. Baker Housing Rehabilitation Program is sponsoring a workshop on home insulation on Saturday, February 21, 1:00 p.m., in the Mt. Baker Community Clubhouse, 2811 Mt. Rainier Drive South.

Bob Corliss of Seattle City Light will give general home heating information, energy saving tips, and costs and benefits of various types of insulation. Representatives from local insulation companies will discuss the merits of their products.

Workshop participants can learn which type of insulation is suitable for their homes, and other ways to save energy and money.

For further information about the workshop, contact Mike Bryant, Mt. Baker Housing Rehabilitation Program, 722-2500.

DRILL-A-RINES & DRILL-A-RETTES HOLDING BIG AFFAIR

The Drill-A-Rines & Drill-A-Rettes, invite you to another one of our dynamite "All Day Affairs," beginning at 11:00 a.m. and ending at the UNTIL HOUR.

Yes, it's our annual "Eat In and Evening of Fun", and as an addition this year, a delicious Bake Sale. For those of you who may not be able to drop by 2103 South Atlantic Cottage, we will be delivering. Mark your calendars for February 21, 1976. Oh yes, for you hearty eaters...it's ALL you can eat, if you come in and eat with us. The menu includes: hot links, turkey and dressing, chicken, chitterlings, barbecued pig feet, greens, beans, yams, corn, salads, corn bread and desserts. Order ahead or drop by for your weekend baked goods, home made cakes, pies, cookies and rolls. For information call 722-6175 before February 21st. On February 21st call 329-7121.

SUBJECT IS "LIBERTY" AT PEOPLE'S BICENTENNIAL TOWN MEETING

Frank Wilkinson of the National Committee Against Repressive Legislation will be the guest speaker at a People's Bicentennial Town Meeting, Sunday, February 29 at 3:00 PM at the University-Unitarian Church, 6556 35th NE, in Seattle. Dr. Giovanni Costigan will introduce Mr. Wilkinson, whose subject will be "Who's Taking Liberties With Our Liberty?", a discussion of Senate Bill 1. The meeting is sponsored by University Unitarians for Social Justice and the Northwest Committee Against Senate Bill 1.

Senate Bill 1, Richard Nixon's Criminal Justice Reform Act, includes many sections that would seriously threaten the freedom of all Americans. The Bill includes severe criminal penalties in regard to the freedom of the press, peaceful expression of dissent, the protection of privacy and other repressive features. On the other hand, it would allow "public servants" to avoid prosecution for criminal acts done in the performance of their official duties. Debate on the Bill will begin in the next few weeks.

ECKANKAR FILM TO BE SHOWN

The free film "A Way of Life" will be shown Monday, February 23, 7:30 at the YWCA on 2820 E. Cherry. ECKANKAR is an ancient spiritual path dealing with man's search for answers to life there, and life in the worlds beyond. The ECK Masters have taught through the ages that these answers can be obtained by extended awareness or 'soul travel'. The film will be followed by a short talk.

New Public Defender

A. Graham Greenlee, the chairman of the board of directors of the Defender Association, announces that W. Kirkland Taylor has been selected as the new Seattle-King County Public Defender. Mr. Taylor succeeds Phillip H. Ginsberg who will commence private practice of law with the firm of Houghton, Cluck, Coughlin & Riley. Taylor is a native of New York City and was previously director of the Harlem Association of Rights, Inc. In addition, Mr. Taylor has had an extensive criminal law practice as well as having been active in civil rights and the director of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Law. A graduate of American University School of Law, Mr. Taylor was chosen from among 30 applicants from all part os the country. Mr. Taylor took over the post on February 1st and promises to make the Defender Association as responsive to the needs of the community as possible. Mr. Greenlee said the directors were pleased to obtain the qualities, experience and dedication which are personified by Mr. Taylor as well as expressing the board's appreciation for the past outstanding leadership and direction that Mr. Ginsberg has brought to this office.

The Defender Association provides legal representation and services for persons accused of crime who are unable to afford a lawyer.

The new director has indicated that it is his intention to see to it that this office continues to be "the best legal defense office in the country."

Acting Associate School Superintendent Named

Seattle School Superintendent Loren Troxel today announced the appointment of Dr. Harold V. Reasby as Acting Associate Superintendent, effective April 1.

Dr. Reasby will fill, on an interim basis, the vacancy created by the departure of Dr. Mike Hickey who will assume the Superintendency of the St. Louis Park Schools in Minnesota.

Dr. Reasby currently is Assistant Superintendent for Region I Schools. His Region I duties will be assumed on an acting basis by Perry Wilkins, currently an Area Administrator in Region I.

A graduate of Iowa State Teachers College and the University of Washington, Dr. Reasby began his career in Seattle as a Social Studies teacher at Wilson, Ingraham and Ballard. He served as the Supervisor and later Director of the District's Research, Planning and Evaluation Department from 1970 to 1972, prior to his appointment to the Region I position.

In announcing the appointment of Dr. Reasby, Superintendent Troxel indicated he was making it on an "Acting" basis pending a final action by the School Board regarding the hiring of a Superintendent for next year.

Tips From Youth Unlimited

GETTING A GIG?

A majority of the young people who are applying for employment will be turned down simply by not knowing how to fill out an application. Individuals make mistakes that can be avoided when filling out the application. The mistakes that are recognized by the employer have a bearing on whether the applicant will get the job. The errors that are committed by applicants are not writing down addresses and phone numbers of references, writing with pencil and with poor penmanship, and not remembering dates that are to be written on the application and writing in the wrong places. The errors suggest to the employer that the applicant is negligent, put little effort into filling out the application and has a lack of interest in the job she/he is applying for. The employer will not consider hiring the person even if qualified and about 30-40% who are qualified are turned down.

Filling out the application is a basic requirement to applying for a job. The individual can avoid the mistakes by preparing her/himself by jotting down information pertaining to references or have a resume on hand with adequate information about oneself. Skim or read the application before writing. Use a pen and good penmanship. After completing the application the individual is ready for the interview.

The interview is very important. In the process of the interview the final decision is made by the employer if the individual will be hired. During the interview the interviewer (employer) will get a good or bad impression of the interviewee. It depends on the impression given by the person, the ability to sell oneself and the application that will determine employment. The interviewer will be turned off or get a negative impression by the factors below:

- Arriving late to the interview
- Clothes being untidy
- Wearing heavy make-up or cologne
- Speaking with muffled voice and indistinctly
- Chewing gum
- Slouching when sitting

In turn, the individual should always arrive on time, dressed appropriately for the interview, speak intelligently and distinctly without chewing gum and wear the proper amount of make-up (women) or cologne (men); one should sit up straight at all times when being interviewed. The person who has these helpful hints in mind will have success in landing her/himself a job.

Ossawa's Works on Display Here

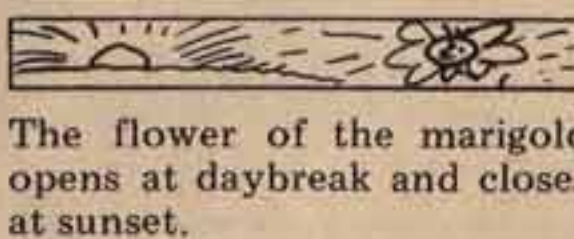

Currently on display at three locations in Seattle are the works of an artist by the name of R. J. OSSAWA, who came to Seattle three months ago to do research, planning and development of one-man shows in the city. We have been informed by the artist that he has a number of one-man show now in progress. Ossawa also says that in his native northern California atmosphere his works of Black Art have been subjected to review and criticism by such people as Roscoe C. Brown, Jr., Director, Afro American Affairs, N.Y.U., and Edna K. Turner, Art Editor of Good Publishing Company (Sepia), who recently published six of Ossawa's pastel paintings. In the months of May and June, 1974, both the Las Vegas Sun and the Nevada State Journal, Reno, published a cross section series on the works of Ossawa the artist ranging from the years 1970 to 1975.

The current shows in the Seattle area are located at The Pioneer Banque, First and Yesler, Douglass Truth Library (formerly the Yesler Library), in the east wing, and also at the Langston Hughes Cultural Center, 17th and Yesler Way.

The paintings that are on display at the Center location are the early oils, a few pastels, some charcoal and pen and ink studies.

HONEY -- To most of us it suggests only limited uses. We may think of it primarily as a spread for bread, hot biscuits, waffles and griddle cakes, and we overlook the fact that it may be included in actual cookery processes where it not only can form the sweetening--but where its delicate flavor combined with other ingredients produces a different and delectable flavor which is both interesting and satisfying.

Honey is natural, wholesome, sweet and easily digested. Its use is highly recommended as an energy food.

Care must be used in cooking and baking with honey. Products containing honey scorch easily, so use controlled temperatures for best results.

HONEY CAKE

1/2 c. butter

1 c. honey

1 egg

1/2 tsp. cinnamon

1/8 tsp. ginger

1/4 tsp. nutmeg

1/2 c. milk

1/4 tsp. salt

1 tsp. baking powder

1/4 tsp. soda

1-1/2 c. flour

Cream butter, add honey. Mix well and add beaten egg. Sift together all dry ingredients and add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Bake at 350° for 35 minutes in tube-pan.

HONEY FROSTING

1-1/2 c. honey

1/8 tsp. salt

1 egg white

1/2 tsp. vanilla

Cook honey and salt to 245° F. or until spins thread or makes a firm ball when dropped into cold water. Beat egg white. Pour the syrup in a thin stream over beaten egg white. Continue beating until frosting stands in peaks. Add vanilla and spread on cake.

HONEY NUT OATMEAL COOKIES

1-1/2 c. honey

3/4 tsp. margarine

1 egg beaten

1 tsp. cinnamon

1-1/2 c. oatmeal

2-1/2 c. flour

1/4 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. soda

2-1/4 tsp. baking powder

3/4 c. nuts

1/2 c. raisins

2 Tblsp. hot water

Cream honey and margarine add beaten egg. Sift flour, salt, soda, baking powder, and cinnamon into mixture. Add oatmeal, raisins, nuts and water. Mix thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) for 12 minutes.
