Buy Them Now, Very Rare and Original Cromemco Dazzler Boards that have been stripped.The boards are populated by common IC's and parts, except one, that was difficult to get even back when the boards were new, now they are next to impossible to find. The TMS 3417, I will include 2 even though only 1 is needed . Also included with the 2 boards and the 2 IC's, a 16 pin ribbon cable, and 3 Manuals.The Cromemco Dazzler gave the first home computer color video output. It is a two board set, they are connected by a 16 pin ribbon cable that runs up and over one board and down to the next board behind it. The boards access up to 2K of system RAM via DMA putting wait states on the CPU while the info from RAM is picked off. This RAM location can be anywhere on a 1K boundary in the 64K space. Various resolutions of graphics display are possible. Video output is generated by board 1. Board 2 is used to communicate with the computer CPU.Video output is composite video which could be sent directly to a composite video input of a TV. The Dazzler can be used to generate games, animated displays, even light shows, all in full color.Software programs for the Dazzler are available on the internet, you just have to do a little digging to find them.Please do your own homework to see if this board is compatible with your system.Please Note, Only the Stripped READ MORE
