Martha,

- 1) Did you get info on ordering the Dunovant photos I sent? Are you going to be able to get the copies?
- 2) We were by the cemetery today and the Wm. Calhoun marker is still broken. What is the time-frame for getting it repaired?
- 3) Today (1/31) my friend, Rita Crabbe, went into the office to report another broken marker ... Henry Phillip Roberts ... he is a Confederate Vet ... she spoke to the Recpt. who was very flippant and really could not care ... she said it was too expensive to fix these old broken markers ... there is no need to "fix" his marker as we can or Bernice can get a new replacement marker free from the VA ...

Thanks ... Lynna Kay Shuffield

Lynna Kay,

I definitely agree on including historic photos on the soon-to-be website. I'm excited about getting them too, and I'm definitely going to make copies for you.

Martha,

I am so excited you are going to be able to get the photos ... I hope you will consider adding it to the cemetery's website as well ... these old historical photos are a nice addition to a cemetery history ...

My friend, James Williams mailed them to me over the weekend from Milam County where he lives ... I should have them this week and will fax to you upon receipt ...

My dad and I were in the cemetery on Sunday afternoon and it looked so festive with all the holiday flowers ...

Lynna Kay,

Glenwood definitely wants to buy prints of the photographs at UT. Can you forward the forms and contact information to me?

I can usually get a decent copy of a photograph from our scanner. When the prints arrive, I'll make copies for you.

To Lynna Kay:

I don't know when the photos were taken. They are some type of brown tone. It seemed that the statue was undamaged. Statues on other graves can be seen in the background.

I am sending the forms that I picked up yesterday along with a card showing the name of the person to contact about photos (Steve Williams). I don't know if they will make photostats of the pictures.

Sincerely,

James E. Williams

Subject: Glenwood broken markers

Lynna,

If the Henry Phillip Roberts marker is the one I think it is (IIRC, it says Co B, 2nd TX Inf) I would be reluctant to replace it with a new one. The one I'm thinking of is a family marker, not a government marker. And since it is over 100 years old, it is historic in its own right. There may be other information on it that would not be written on a VA marker. Are you in contact with the family? If so, what does the family want to do?

Having said all that, yes, the VA will replace broken markers. As you know, a cemetery representative has to sign the application for a VA marker. For Washington and Glenwood, that representative is Gus Mistrot.

Repairing these thin (2") marble dies is not practical, at least not to stand them up as they were. We have tried it at Washington Cemetery, and have regretted it. Some have been preserved by laying them down and setting them in concrete. Not ideal, but it does prevent further damage and retains the historic materials. THC wants broken markers to be laid down on a sloping limestone base and set with a special grout instead of concrete. That is effective but terribly expensive.

In any case, there is generally no set timetable for such repairs. As with most projects, the major issues are time and money. Finding qualified craftsmen who are willing to do the work is also a challenge.

At Washington, we have been doing marker repair for over ten years, and there is still a lot left to do. Having done the worst cases first (however subjectively "worst" is defined), those that were comparatively "not bad" ten years ago, have now moved up the list to being "worst" and are next on the list to be fixed as manpower and money permit. I'm speaking only for Washington here, but I believe Glenwood probably faces similar issues.

Bernice,

No where in my e-mail did we state anything about the family, being in contact with the family or contacting the family ...

ALL WE WERE DOING WAS REPORTING THE BROKEN MARKER ... very simple ... that's all ... and offering alternative to repairing the marker ...

Egad!! Roberts IS the lot I was hoping no one would see until something can be done about it. I'm amazed Lynna Kay didn't have more to say than she did. I'm sure she misspoke when she referred to a "replacement marker" for Henry. The one that's out there must be preserved in some fashion.

I did not receive Lynna Kay's response to your question whether she is in touch with the family and what their wishes are. If she is, I'd love to know who they are. There has been nothing in the Glenwood records since the 1950s.

ROBERTS, INGHAM S. (1871-1932). Ingham S. Roberts, attorney and civic leader, son of Henry Philip and Laura J. (Wagner) Roberts, was born in Houston, Texas, on January 29, 1871. After attending the public schools of Houston and studying privately, he was licensed to practice law when nineteen years old. He enlisted in the Texas Volunteer Guard in July 1894 and rose through the ranks to retire on December 31, 1913, as major and judge advocate general. During World War I^{qv} he held the rank of major in the infantry. Roberts was married to Mary V. Frymier in 1896; they had three children. He was a noted historian and was a member of the Sons of the Republic of Texas,^{qv} president of the Harris County Historical Society, and a fellow and vice president of the Texas State Historical Association.^{qv} With Dermot H. Hardy,^{qv} Roberts edited the Historical Review of South-East Texas (2 vols., 1910). He died in San Antonio on October 9, 1932, and was buried in Houston.
