"How Does Your Garden Grow" Del Colby

Since the time plants first developed on our earth, they have required the same elements and minerals for nutrition. Basically, these elements are the same as they were when time began, but if you were to believe all the advertisements we see and hear, plant life can only be sustained if you use their particular product. True enough, the convenience of these products must be considered, but I fail to understand how a new name or fancy label can increase the value of the basic food elements to the plants.

To help you really understand what each element does for a plant, we are reproducing a simple chart that was prepared by San Diego Fertilizer Company. Once you understand what your plants need, many of your garden problems relating to feeding, are easily solved.

"I AM A TIRED AMERICAN"

Im tired of being called the ugly American.

I'm tired of having the world panhandlers use my country as a whipping boy 365 days a year.

I am a tired American - weary of having American embassies and information centers stoned, burned and sacked by mobs operating under orders from dictators who preach and breed conflict.

I am a tired American - weary of being lectured by General DeGaulle (who never won a battle) who poses as a second Jehovah in righteousness and wisdom.

I am a tired American - weary of Nasser and all the other blood-sucking leeches who bleed Uncle Sam white and who kick him on the shins and yank his beard if the flow falters.

I am a tired American - weary of the beatniks who say that they should have the right to determine what laws of the land they are willing to obey.

I am a tired American - fed up with the mobs of scabby faced, long-haired youths and short-haired girls who claim they represent the "new wave" of American, and who sneer at the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, integrity, and morality on which America grew to greatness.

I am a tired American - weary unto death of having my tax dollars go to dictators who play both sides against the middle with threats of what will happen if we cut off the golden stream of dollars.

I am a tired American - who is tired of supporting families who have not known any other source of income other than Government relief checks for three generations.

I am a tired American - who is getting madder by the minute at the filth peddlers who have launched Americans in an obscenity race—who try to foist on us the belief that filth is an integral part of culture - in the arts, the movies, literature, and the stage.

I am a tired American - weary of the bearded bums who tramp the picket lines and the sit-ins - who prefer Chinese communism to capitalism - who see no evil in Castro, but sneer at President Johnson as a threat to peace.

I am a tired American - who has lost all patience with that civil rights group which is showing propaganda movies on college campuses from coast to coast. Movies denouncing the United States. Movies made in Communist China.

I am a tired American—who is angered by the self-righteous breast-beater critics of America, at home and abroad who set impossible yardsticks for the United States but never apply the same standards to the French, the British, the Russians, the Chinese.

I am a tired American who dislikes clergymen who have made a career out of integration causes, yet send their own children to private schools.

I am a tired American - who resents those who try to peddle the belief in schools and colleges that capitalism is a dirty word and that free enterprise and private initiative are only synonyms for greed."

They say they hate capitalism, but they are always right in the head to the line demanding their share of the American way of life.

I am a tired American - real tired of those who are trying to sell me the belief that America is not the greatest nation in the world - a generous hearted nation - a nation dedicated to the policy of trying to help the "have nots" achieve some of the good things our system of free enterprise brought about.

I am an American who gets a lump in his throat when he hears the "Star-Spangled Banner" and who holds back tears when he hears those chilling high notes of the brassy trumpets when Old Glory reaches the top of the flag pole.

I am a tired American who thanks a merciful Lord that he was so lucky to be born an American Citizen - a nation under God, with truly mercy and justice for all.

LOCOMOTIVES by Minton Cronkhite

This one man's roster represents the very beginning of commercial scale railroading in the United States. Who knows what scale model railroading would have been without him?

"Copyright Kalmbach Publishing Co. Reprinted by permission of Model Railroader Magazine"

By James A. Slocum

MINTON CRONKHITE'S interest in railroads crystallized in his early years, when he chose 2 years of apprenticeship on the Pennsylvania RR. He learned well, covering every phase of railroad operation from the drawing board to running locomotives. It was this eagerness to learn, and the skills of railroad craftsmanship he acquired, that guided him toward fruitful years of making things for fellow modelers, and then to the building of his well-known model railroads at exhibitions, museums, and fairs.

Perhaps the story should start in 1890, when Cronkhite was 2; but 1924 seems to mark the start of intensive model railroading when three men—Ed Alexander in New Rochelle, N.Y., Fred Icken in New Jersey, and Minton Cronkhite in Greenwich, Conn.—discovered they had a mutual interest in 3/4" scale railroad modeling and relished their occasional contacts to exchange ideas.

At that time Cronkhite owned the Liberty Electric Co. in Stamford, Conn., manufacturers of battery chargers and electrical controls for high-pressure steam valves. The business was sold in 1928, when Cronkhite was 40. Harmon Vanderhoef, then Cronkhite's neighbor across the street, suggested they start a company to make scale models. A two-story 35 x 80-foot building was erected in Greenwich that same year, and the name Crovan—from Cronkhite and Vanderhoef—was chosen.

Otto Noack, who had been an expert locksmith in Germany, came to the U.S., where he worked for Liberty Electric. It was he who did much of the exacting machinework for the models. From this

Because of his modesty, Minton Cronkhite has received rather little attention from the hobby as a whole—but here is an expert locomotive builder who also did as much as anyone else to get scale model railroading on its commercial feet in the U.S. Another old-timer in the hobby, Jim Slocum (who is a mighty close relative of Gopher Coughie), has spent several winters in the La Jolla (Calif.) area and his acquaintance there with Minton Cronkhite brought about this story, the cover photo, and the reproduction of these pictures from Minton's own collection.

three-man start developed the pioneer "line" of scale models in the U.S.—though no such claim is made by Cronkhite. He remarks only, "Could be." His 2 years of apprenticeship at Altoona provided Cronkhite with an interest in railroading that he has enjoyed ever since. When asked "Have you been a railroad man all your life?" he answers simply, "Not yet."

Cronkhite moved to California in 1930, but his interest in modelbuilding continued. The Crovan building was destroyed by lightning and fire in 1932 and Crovan Railway Models came to a quick halt. However, the fire did not destroy his best models, as most of these were in his new home. Some of these were a few built later in California, might be in Ed Alexander's museum collection today. Models such as these were built from detailed Pennsylvania drawings and are therefore exact historical replicas. Some of Fred Icken's early models are also in Cronkhite's collection. Fred is still in business custombuilding fine locomotive models at Blauvelt, N.Y. Today, Minton's private collection in Rancho Santa Fe contains only some engines of historical interest, and models of engines that were "friends" of his during his Pennsy apprenticeship: all are prototypically painted and protected by glass cases.

Cronkhite also became an expert photographer. On completion of each engine model he photographed it in sharp detail. His extensive collection of pictures, some dating to before 1930, now attest to his workmanship. Only a few of the photos can appear here.

It was after moving to California that Cronkhite, through the San Marino & Santa Fe, became known to many modelers. His San Marino & Santa Fe layout was occasionally featured in publications, and from this developed a contact with the Santa Fe RR. For this company, Cronkhite designed and constructed Santa Fe-oriented exhibit layouts at San Diego, 1935 and 1936; Dallas, 1937; and San Francisco (where diesels were first modeled) in 1939 and 1940. The Museum & Santa Fe layout was opened in January 1941 at Chicago's Museum of Science & Industry, where it still operates daily. Santa Fe is its sponsor.

At these exhibits, museum visitors asked various questions, but according to Cronkhite, they mostly narrowed to these two:

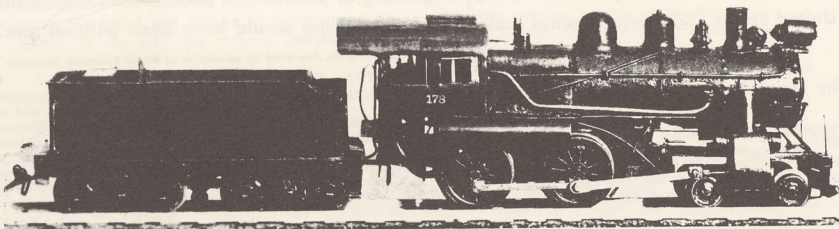

"How much did it cost?"
"Where is the rest room?"

Model railroad hosts know most of the others:

"How fast can they go?"
"Can you run them all at once?"
"Can you have wrecks?"
"What a lovely train set!"

When Cronkhite moved to Rancho Santa Fe, the home pike was revised and renamed. He was the president of a mining company with mines near Ishpeming, Mich., including one shaft named Cambria. In the Rancho neighborhood was a mountain called Black Mountain. It didn't have any coal, but a model railroader can pretend that it does, so the name of the new pike became Cambria & Black Mountain, with operations including mining of both coal and ore.

In time another move was made to a second home in Rancho Santa Fe, but this time the railroad, including some 25 Cronkhite-built engines, was merged with that of neighbor Marion Charles. This layout was described in the November 1964 MR.

This 4-4-0 along Pennsylvania RR. D-16sb lines was one of the first models built to 1/4" scale in the United States. It was constructed by Paul Egolf, another pioneer, on a toy mechanism fitted with outside-third-rail pickup. Cronkhite bought the machine from Egolf in 1924.

Much of Cronkhite's later modeling was done in 1/4" scale as usual, but with a track gauge of 1 3/16", or Q gauge, as it was later called.* This was more correct for 48:1 models and gave the engines a better overhang. Cronkhite still has some of his Q gauge equipment, including ore cars of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming, the DSA, and the CNW, but the models that merged with Charles's Border Line had to be reconverted to O gauge.

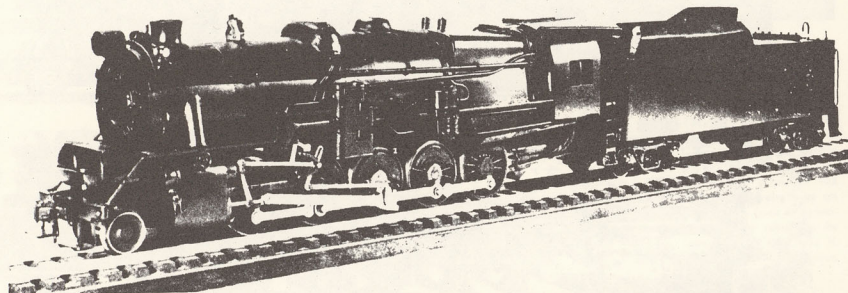

Cronkhite's interest in models was developed very early in life. His collection contains a 1/2" scale 4-4-0 locomotive that traces back to an 1850 prototype. His mother could not remember when the engine model was not on their mantel in Brooklyn. Her father, a doctor, was given the engine by a patient in settlement of a bill about 1870; the builder is unknown. The straight stack was probably novel for 1850, but not the Russian iron boiler. The photo of Minton and the engine was taken by his uncle when Minton was 2 years old. He explains this picture to the unwary as "the first model I ever built." It is unfinished in the photo, and when questioned further, he admits: "It took me about 6 months more to finish it."

Cronkhite's latest modeling creation could easily be his finest: the prototype engine was no. 134, Tiger, on the PRR roster; the builder's plate number, 737, of M. W. Baldwin & Co., Philadelphia, in—*Today Q gauge is reviving in interest as a haven for very exacting 48:1 modelers, but now the gauge is the even more correct 1.177". — Ed.
Text continues on page 49

The Pennsylvania RR. class 1-1s shown above and below was among Cronkhite's first engines, built in 1927 and 1928. He built five of these Decapods at one time: 1 percent of Pennsy's ownership.

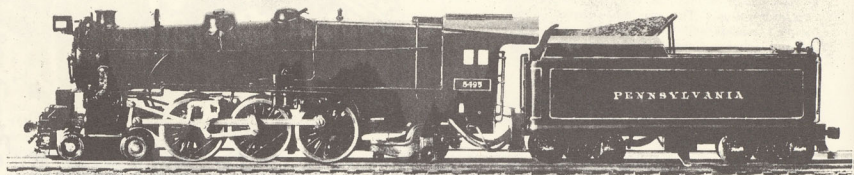

Southern Pacific 4-8-2 was built in 1930. This engine and one other SP loco were built before Cronkhite became identified with Santa Fe exhibits.

The mimeographed sheets of the Crovan Railway Models catalog listed locomotives — mostly Pennsy — as well as parts, track supplies, signals, and other items. This K-4s photograph was a postcard sample mailed to show the quality of the firm's work. The model was built about 1929.

Santa Fe gas-electric M-180 was bought from Fred Icken in 1931. It is still operating on regular schedule on the Cambria & Black Mountain.

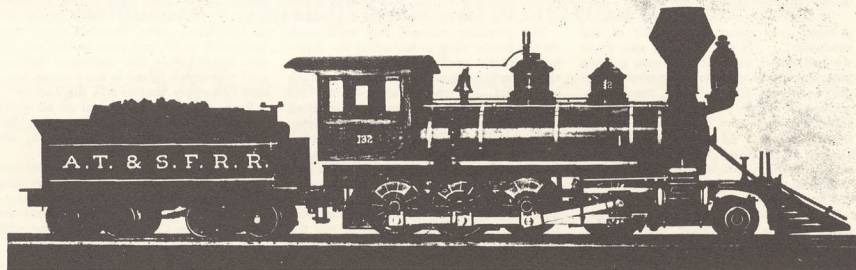

Santa Fe became the principal modeling interest about 1931; that's when Cronkhite built this ATSF 4-6-2. It was originally a PRR K-4s, but in two successive rebuildings ended up as Santa Fe 1374 for the San Diego fair. It too is still in service on the Cambria & Black Mountain RR.

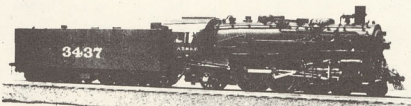

The Santa Fe stud grew rapidly in 1932 with engines of many classes added: among them, 3450, 3761 as originally built by the Santa Fe, and 4103.

Modelbuilding for the public stopped after fire destroyed the Crovan factory, but Cronkhite continued building his own locomotives at San Marino, Calif. Among the first was 3738, in 1934, and husky 3441, both built in 1937. Nos. 91 and 132 were built in 1937 for historical purposes; both are still in Cronkhite's possession. Today, no. 132 is doubly historical. It was one of the first ATSF engines built by Baldwin, in 1880. It became 912 in 1898, 2414 in 1900. It was rebuilt as an 0-8-0 and served as roundhouse goat at Argentine for years. In 1941 it was rebuilt to its original condition, lettered "No. 1, Cyrus K. Holliday," and is kept for special occasions.

Cronkhitze's building continued into the 1950's. One of the latest was no. 3437: a modernized 4-6-2. The 80" drivers, stack extender, and big tender make it seem shorter than the older version, no. 3450, page 47.

No. 3761 was rebuilt and updated in 1938. Besides the huge tender, some details were changed: compare this picture with the earlier version shown on page 47. Rebuilt 3761 is still operating on the C&B.M.

dictates a machine of the year 1856. The model was built from PRR plans to 1/4" scale, Q gauge, with finishing touches and painting done in Japan in 1964. When Cronkhitze took the locomotive to a Japanese modelbuilder for some finishing details, he was told: "We can do the details, but we cannot do the painting."

Cronkhitze, having ancestry connected with Minton chinaware, suggested, "Why can't you get an artist who puts detailed designs on tea cups at your neighboring factory to do it?"

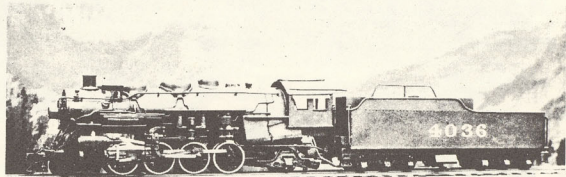

"Yes, we could try that." And so it was.

According to the railroad's best records, this engine is the one described in Charles Dickens's American Notes when he rode from Harrisburg to Pittsburg via the Pennsylvania Canal, which included a trip over the Allegheny Mountains by inclined planes and rail. (Incidentally, that is the way Pittsburgh and Allegheny were spelled in Dickens's work.) Slightly west of what is now Horseshoe Curve, the engine was cut off the train and the cars drifted down the grade ahead of it using handbrakes. Dickens wrote:

"It was very pretty traveling thus, at a rapid rate along the heights of the mountain. . . . It was amusing too, when we had dined, and rattled down a steep pass, having no other moving power than the weight of the carriages themselves, to see the engine released, long after us, come buzzing down alone, like a great insect, its back of green and gold so shining in the sun, that if it had spread a pair of wings and soared away, no one would have had occasion, as I fancied, for the least surprise."

Tiger has been modeled in its original paint scheme (see cover photo), with original-style tender trucks, valve chests, and other fittings; and it is a most enjoyable sight for a modeler to see. A builder's plate is on both sides of the front dome, and the sandbox carrying the engine number is just that—a box. The model has a water pump on the right side; cinder screen in the stack; throttle, steam gauge, fire door and reversing bar in the cab; and handbrake on the tender.

The painting includes fine scrollwork on the tender sides—including the Japanese artist's spelling of Pennsylvania—the crouching tiger of the name on each cab panel, and the rural scene on the headlamp sides. The headlight is fitted with a perfectly formed oil lamp reflector. (although the model has an electric bulb) and the lamp vent at the top. The metal scrollwork on the headlight bracket and between the drivers is astonishing, but it does not outline the individual bolts that hold the valve chest cover on, nor the oil drip cup on the crosshead, nor the valve chest lubricator and cutoff cock.

Most locomotives are not of this "tallowpot" era and so do not provide a model of this early method of lubricating locomotive valves and cylinders. A pot full of tallow [rendered fat of cattle and sheep] was kept in a hot spot on the boiler backhead; and at wood, water, and station stops—only once in a while while drifting—the fireman would open the tops of these valve chamber cups, then the cutoff cocks, and pour in the hot and now liquid tallow. The nickname "tallowpot" was soon applied to the fireman himself. To many that is still his name.

Even the flags, so typical of all early locomotive pictures, and the safety bar running the length of the engine, are correct and accurate.

Now, in 1966, every second Sunday sees Minton Cronkhitze intently operating "his" panel at Minton, near Minton Junction on the Cambria & Black Mountain RR, at Marion Charles's home, along with good friends and occasional visitors.

The San Diego Opera Guild wishes to announce the formation of a new Associate group in Rancho Santa Fe under the guidance and chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis Powell, and co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Alwin Trepte.

The musicale and tea which was held in July at the Powell home was well attended by many interested Ranchoites, as well as many Opera Guild members from San Diego. A special Communion-Marriage rite planned by the bride and groom united Jennifer Jean Abels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Abels, Jr., Rancho Santa Fe, and Robert Dickinson Thomas, son of the Reverend and Mrs. Jack Irwin Thomas, of Ithaca, New York, on July 7th at 8 p.m. in the Village Church.

The Reverend Roland W. Anderson officiated at the double ring ceremony and was assisted in the worship service and Communion which followed by the Reverend Mr. Thomas, father of the groom, and Dr. Gordon MacInnes of Los Angeles.

Classical airs for harp and organ preceded the ceremony. Joy Hujsak, harpist, chose music by Nicolai Geddes and Benjamin Britten. Jerry Stirtz, organist, played selections by Bach, Handel, and Vaughan-Williams. Together they played the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria" and Handel's "Largo" which was chosen by the bride as her processional. The recessional was Bach's "St. Anne Prelude and Fugue."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza designed by John Cavanaugh of London and made by her mother and herself. RANCHO SANTA FE LIBRARY SUMMER READING PROGRAM is in full swing! Candy Scarborough, and Alden Cole surround Shirley Hoadley on the left; while Kelly Novak is in the foreground. Peeking behind Kelly is Shawn Mannion!

Our girl is home! Melody Giffin arrived in Rancho Santa Fe on Friday evening, July 29th, at San Francisco's International Airport aboard a chartered Air France flight which brought home more than a hundred students who had spent one or two years abroad in a study program arranged thru San Diego State College. Melody was with the International French program; and her studying was done at the University in Aix en Provence. Her travels took her through England, Scotland, Italy, Greece, Spain, and Russia.

While in San Francisco it was our pleasure to stay for four days at the Villa Roma Motor Hotel (advertised opposite). It's a wonderful place for a vacation! Located just a block from Fisherman's Wharf, within walking distance of the cable cars, it's a simple matter to leave the car at the free Villa Roma parking stalls (under the motor hotel) and ride downtown to shop or dine. The rooms are great, too! Large and lovely in very modern Roman design, with huge king size beds, T.V., bar, spacious closets and storage—in fact, everything possible for complete comfort. Because the Villa Roma is designed in a circular fashion, every room has a magnificent "outside" view. It's a friendly place to stay—and the Continental Breakfast (complimentary) is a fun experience, especially nice if you travel with children. You serve yourself with iced orange juice, piping hot coffee in Italian mugs, and the flakiest fresh-baked pastry this side of Hans Christian Andersen's "Viking" restaurant here at home! We unqualifiedly recommend the Villa Roma Motor Hotel to anyone with San Francisco on his mind!

As unique as the Golden Gate Bridge SAN FRANCISCO

Capt. Alfred L. Cope, USN Ret., and Mrs. Cope of Rancho Santa Fe have as their house guest their son, Lt. A.L. Cope Jr., who has just returned aboard the carrier Yorktown after seven months in Vietnam. He is assigned to Helicopter Squadron 4 which was just cited for outstanding rescue work.

With young Mr. Cope are his wife and very young daughters, Sarah, 15 months, and Catherine, four months. They arrived from Pensacola, Fla., on July 20 and will stay with the senior Copes until a suitable home can be located in Chula Vista.

William Moyer Cope, a recent graduate of Army-Navy Academy in Carlsbad, has been accepted at the University of California at Santa Barbara, although not in time for housing on campus. He will live in one of the college-approved apartments off campus.

Tom Cope, 16, is in Mexico attending the Inter-American University at Satillo, Coahuila, Mexico. He left July 20 to study Spanish at the old-world campus near Monterey and will fly home August 29 to enter the junior class at San Diego in September.

On August 6 Capt. Cope's brother, Ansley Cope, and his wife and daughter Emily will arrive from Pittsburgh to spend two or three weeks in California. Mr. Cope, an executive with U.S. Steel, and his family will see the Golden State for the first time, and their hosts will endeavor to do a comprehensive job as tour directors.

Meyerhoff Center Established In Washington, D.C.

Announcement of the establishment of the Meyerhoff Center of Political Psychology and Communication at American University in Washington, D.C., was made at a reception at the university on August 2. The center will be part of the university's School of International Service.

Arthur E. Meyerhoff, a Chicago advertising executive and newcomer to Rancho Santa Fe, is backing the center, said to be the first academic center for the training of United States foreign service candidates in the skills of political psychology and mass persuasion. Its object is to turn out future diplomats equipped to combat communist propaganda techniques. Mr. Meyerhoff will serve as an advisor and occasional lecturer in the mass persuasion field.

The curriculum will include such subjects as political psychology of the emerging countries and socio-political dynamics with the supporting disciplines of anthropology, economics, education and sociology. Only graduate students will be trained in the center which will be headed by Dr. Stephen Chow, formerly associated with the military intelligence and CIA.

Mr. Meyerhoff, author of the book, "The Strategy of Persuasion," has served as an advisor to USIA and recently as a civilian member of an inspection team in the United Arab Republic.

One result of his book was a letter from a young girl who had read it and had been accepted as a student at The American University. She inquired about mass psychology courses to take in preparation for a career in international service.

A carefully conducted survey of colleges and universities revealed there were none, and the Meyerhoff Center was born.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Meyerhoff attended the reception. Their daughter Judy is with them for the summer and will return to Pitzer College next month. Another daughter, Joanne, will be on the faculty of The Bishop's School in La Jolla at the start of the new school year.

PUBLIC HEARING — 9:00 A.M.

Mr. Blackman declared the Public Hearing open to consider the petition by Joe Wickstrom and Luba Wickstrom, portion of Lot 1 in Block 48, Map 1742, to modify the restrictions on number of building sites from a maximum of not to exceed six (6) to a maximum of not more than seven (7) building sites.

The Secretary stated that the requirement for written approval of the owner or owners of record of two-thirds in area of the property subject to said modification, and the written consent of the owner or owners of record of not less than two-thirds in area of all of said property held in private ownership within five hundred (500) feet in any direction from the property concerning which a change or modification is sought to be made, had been satisfied by the applicant.

HARD AT WORK SORTING BOOKS are Mrs. Robert Francisco, Mrs. Reg. Clotfelter and Mrs. Neil Randol. (Connie is the only one who isn't the least bit phased by the photographer!)

Busy Days for Library Guild Book Fair Committee

By LORNA LEEDY

Not only have the members of the Sorting Committee for the R.S.F. Library Guild Book Fair found a large variety of the customary mystery, fiction, biographies, travel, children, sports, gardening and cook books. They have found some memorable volumes including a first edition Alice In Wonderland and a complete gourmet cook book.

Sorting books to be sold at the Rancho Santa Fe Library Guild annual Book Fair on October 1st, Mrs. Hugh Stewart, Guild book selection chairman, suddenly came upon a mystery more exciting to book lovers than anything on the shelves. Glued inside the front cover of a plain blue book titled The Poems and Stories of John Masefield is a short handwritten letter apparently signed by the famous English himself, "J. Masefield." Written on Hotel Statler, Cleveland, Ohio, stationery the letter says:

"Dear Mr. Vickerman,

May thanks for your letter and the generous verses. They described the operation very closely, but I never was a weaver; nothing so grand.

All good wishes,
Yours sincerely,
J. Masefield"

The Library Guild hopes to authenticate the letter, although committee members do not know who donated the book and there is no nameplate. The only clue to the original owner, besides the letter, is a loose photograph of a lady and gentleman taken on the boardwalk at Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Mrs. Karl Weber and Mrs. John Isaacs have been selected as general chairman of the Book Fair which will be held in the patio adjoining the library from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, October 1st. The Masefield Letter is an exceptional find Mrs. Weber says, but the Fair will feature books appealing to all tastes. The chairman will be assisted by Mrs. R. M. Clotfelter and Mrs. Neil Randol. Mrs. Ray Paulin will serve as refreshment chairman; Mrs. Hans Amtmann, chairman of cashiers; Mrs. Louise Badger and Mrs. A.E.C. Oxley, telephone; Mr. Howard Wellman, transportation; and Mrs. Daniel Leedy, publicity.

Many more books are needed to assure the success of the Book Fair according to Mrs. William Weddell, Guild president, who is urging Ranchoites to "please look through your shelves for any books you would like to donate to the Book Fair. Either deliver them to the library, or at your request we will be glad to pick them up. Such donations of old books are tax deductible at your own valuation." A call to Mrs. Badger at 756-1632 or Mrs. Oxley at 756-1048 will bring a pick-up truck to your door.

The Library Guild has decided to allocate half the proceeds from the Book Fair to the building fund, and use the other half for the purchase of new books, Mrs. Weddell said.

Don't forget, books you no longer want, donated to the Book Fair will provide new books for everyone at the library!

Guest Editorial

ARE WE PROUD?

By "Red" Lasswell and Herb Pratt

With the rebuilding of the first and tenth tees all the golfers as well as the many Ranchoites who come to the clubhouse for lunch are proud to bring their guests and show off the improvement. From the golfer's viewpoint it is a great thrill to stand on a level tee — believe it or not the tenth tee was 2½ feet out of level — slice anyone? The Board of Directors was very forward looking in approving this expenditure. While the Rancho Golf Course is in a class by itself, there are many new courses in the area, with others planned, and they will all compete with us for members, guest play, etc. If Rancho were allowed to run down we would soon find our revenues being reduced. It is the same old story — people like and patronize a successful operation. It would be wonderful to have the Ranch stay exactly as it is with no change whatsoever but, unfortunately, life is not that way — you either go forward or backward. The only solution is to direct the inevitable change that will take place. The Golf Committee and the Board of Directors of both the Men's Club and the Association have only one thought in mind — to maintain the Rancho Santa Fe golf course in a manner which it deserves which will not only make many happy and proud golfers but will reflect the pride of ownership of anyone owning property in Rancho Santa Fe.

During the present year it is hoped that many of the tees will be improved with adequate cart paths, a level stance, and a just pride in the course.

Organic Health Products Opens In Country Squire Complex

A new interesting activity has been added to the Rancho Santa Fe scene.

Mrs. Loretta Angel has opened a regional sales and demonstration office for "Organic Health Products" in the Country Squire Complex on Avenida De Acacias.

The products that Mrs. Angel are presenting are exclusively those of Shaklee Products made in Hayward, California distributed both nationally and internationally by independent distributors — and offer four complete lines of products, the facial line is essentially food for the skin that actually aids the skin in its rebuilding processes — this is done throughout our protenized, apricot, and avocado lines by the unique process involving only natural, organic oils blended to allow the same PH balance in the products as to that of which the skin should maintain. In all our facial products careful attention is given to allow the natural breathing process of the skin to function naturally as nature intended. Youthful skin is to be encouraged, not covered up by harsh chemical cosmetics.

The entire hair care line is organic and protenized, and carries through the same principals applied in our facial line.

Americans are the most abundantly fed nation in the world, but is our diet less than the best nutritionally — the organic food supplements are obtained from soils rich in nutritional values, aided in growth by organic fertilizers, and without the harmful effect of toxic sprays. Since health is our most valuable asset — can we afford not to be absolutely sure our body is receiving the sixty or more nutrients needed to build health. Shaklee offers concentrated food in supplement form as one of nature's finest contributions to good health.

The cleaning line is entirely organic, making cleaning a pleasure rather than a possible hazard. Basic H is the most versatile cleaner containing no acids, no alkalis, no kerosene, no solvents, and is non-toxic, non-irritating, non-magnetic, and non-volatile.

Tony Green "Originals" Cause Comment at the Country Squire Gift Shop

Many of Jim Young's customers have exclaimed with justifiable delight at finding something new and different at the Country Squire Courtyard of Shops . . . mainly, hand-painted pictures of animals and birds by former Ranchoite J. E. Green, Jr. These pictures are moderately priced and are sized "just right" for attractive wall decor.

J. E. Green was born in 1908 in Berkeley, California. From early childhood he showed a keen interest and talent in both Art and Nature study. As a high school boy, he worked as a taxidermist. Subsequently he majored in Art and Science at San Diego State College, later taking a special course at the Art Institute in Chicago in Research Design in Nature. His thirty-year professional career was spent in Museums where he worked as a preparator, preserving over 6000 animals and constructing their authentic natural habitats. This career eventually led him into administration as Museum Director. Along with this active professional life, he continued his personal involvement in painting and sculpture, experimenting with a variety of media — wood carving, bronze, oil, water-color, etc.

Mr. Green's current series of bird and other animal paintings reflect his enlightened background in the Natural Sciences, as well as his skill in animal portrayal.

PRÊT A PORTER

You're going to see a lot of us this fall — we're in Glamour, Vogue, Mademoiselle and Harper's Bazaar. Currently you'll see our Dalton dress of brown knitted wool in Glamour, and with next month's issue we make even a bigger splash by becoming a Glamour cover girl... wearing a smashing red/white plaid coat and skirt affair. From this same issue we've chosen (among others) a vibrant purple wool coat plus an A-line skirt — uniquely contrasted by its own brown crepe blouse. Both costumes are part of our Bardley collections for Fall.

Ann Fogarty designs clothes with verve and of exclusive fabrics, from the September Vogue, American Designers Collection, we're showing her sparky, short and sequined cocktail dress and great town costumes. Our favorites... a plaid coat dress, side buttoned, with matching camel/white stole... a lush pink/gold mohair costume with double breasted jacket, jersey topped long torso dress beneath.

Of course words and pictures are hardly half as much fun as the real thing... so before or after reading your favorite fashion magazine come to SANDERSON'S

NEWS FROM OUR NEIGHBORS AT

Whispering Palms

Mrs. Bruce Langshaw, Mrs. Denis Waitley, Mrs. Robert Danforth, Mrs. David Lee Browning is seated with "Cosmo".

WHISPERING PALMS SET FOR ARABIAN NIGHTS GALA PARTY

Arabian tents and torch-lit streets like those of ancient Baghdad will transform the pool and garden area of Whispering Palms into the setting for a "Caliph's Carpet" party September 30, sponsored by the Salk Institute Women's Association.

Mrs. William E. Bowman of La Jolla, co-chairman of the event, announced that the party will be the first major fund raising event for the 500-member three-year-old association.

The central attraction will be a thieves market created in adjoining garden patios of the Whispering Palms model homes where artisans will display pottery, silver craft, jewelry, art, glassware, silks and baskets in the Arabian Nights' tradition. Fortune tellers, snake charmers and brightly-costumed "sultan's wives" will add to the authenticity of the decor.

A giant carousel tent, 90-ft. in diameter will further the Baghdad theme for the cocktail hour, dinner, dancing and entertainment. Over 100 reservations already have been received by the Salk women's group from prominent residents of San Diego, La Jolla and Rancho Santa Fe. Approximately 500 tickets will be sold at $10.00 each, with the proceeds going to a research library fund for the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Carnell Kirkeeng has been named master of ceremonies and will coordinate the entertainment program plans for the buffet supper, which will feature top talent from the San Diego area.

Jack Payne, La Jolla fashion consultant, is currently previewing silk pascha pants to be worn as harem costumes by young members of the women's association who will serve as hostesses on the night of Special lighting effects throughout Whispering Palms, with the cooperation of San Diego Gas & Electric, will create the illusion of a desert oasis as guests arrive at the palm-studded entrance to the community.

Rancho Santa Fe socialites should not miss the opportunity for a most unusual evening of pleasure that promises to be the biggest North County event of the year.

TENNIS

Ranch tennis players will again join golfers for the August 27 "Summer Swing," with tennis chairman Ty Cobb heading the tennis players' committee. In charge of decorations for the dance are Louise Loomis, Jonelle Nance, Virginia Dewey and Kay Wasser.

The Tennis Club's annual club championships will begin August 27, concluding with finals matches to be played Labor Day. Defending their titles in the men's and women's singles divisions will be Lou Perry and Virginia Dewey. Awards are to be presented at the annual family picnic Labor Day. Women's "B" players have also scheduled a tournament Wednesday, Aug. 24, and "C" players have planned an event for Wednesday, Aug. 17.

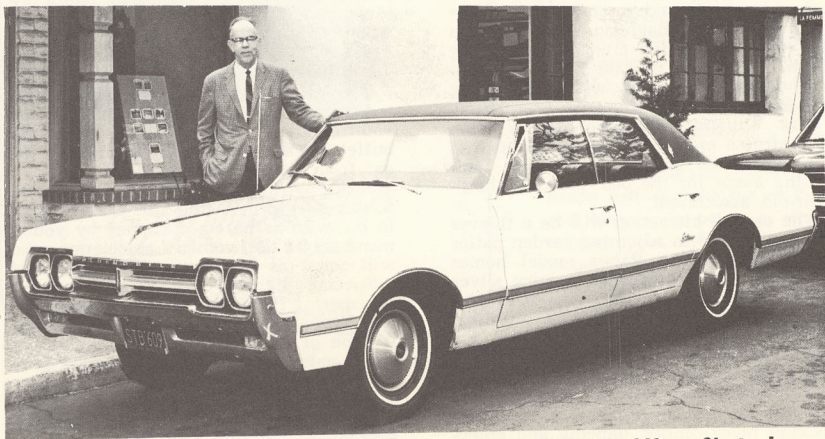

Commander J. Fred Reeves, Jr., USNR, officer in charge of San Diego unit Naval Intelligence Reserve Division, swears into the Naval Reserve his twin sons, Kirby and Drew. Kirby and Drew, now students of Palomar Junior College, will attend week end drills of the Surface Division at the U.S. Naval Training Center in San Diego for one year. They will then serve on active duty with the Navy for two years. The Reeves' have been residents of Rancho Santa Fe, California since 1960.

THE VILLAGE CHURCH MEMORIAL ORGAN

The Village Community Presbyterian Church has made good progress on contributions to its new organ and presently lacks about $2000 to cover its obligation.

The Allen electronic organ now on order, one of the most renowned instruments for sacred music rendition, rivals the pipe organ in tonal qualities. The trained musical ear often cannot distinguish between the two.

Installation is planned in time for Christmas if procurement goes as scheduled. A dedication recital will give everyone an opportunity to hear this marvelous instrument which will be called simply, "The Memorial Organ" because many donations were given in the names of departed loved ones.

The Village Church will welcome all donations, large or small, to the Memorial Organ Fund. A significant asset to the entire community, the new organ will offer to everyone the opportunity to hear organ music at its best.

Rancho Santa Fe Garden Club Plans Ahead for Fall Flower Show

by MRS. FILLMORE ROSE

The Fall Flower Show of the Rancho Santa Fe Garden Club is two months away, but NOW is none too soon for the real dirt gardeners to begin preparations for the Plant Sale. This division of the show serves a three-fold purpose. It defrays expenses of the total operation, there being no admission charge to the show. It affords those in need of plant material a convenient and inexpensive source. Lastly, it gives the active growers an opportunity to share their horticultural wealth, that being one of the greatest joys of gardening.

If you have an excess of one or more kinds of plant material, plan your contributions now so that cuttings and divisions can be well started by the time of the Plant Sale. Just to speak your thinking - African violets could be started, succulents divided, or geranium and begonia slips rooted. But then, you know best what your garden offers.

The Fall Flower Show will be held at the Garden Club on October 21 and 22. If you have any questions about the Plant Sale, call the chairman, Mrs. Allan M. Gray, 756-1476.

The Innkeeper's Jottings

Wes Hadden

Crossing palms with silver in short, TIPPING is a sort of worry for travelers and visitors and we have done a little research and find that the English Inns, a century or so ago, started it all. There were little, slotted boxes placed in the lobbies which were labeled "TO INSURE PROMPTNESS". Guests dropped small coins into the slots, when they wished an errand done for them or some other extra service performed. The rewards in the boxes were a sort of "incentive plan" for the servants. In time, just the abbreviation of the phrase appeared T. I. P. It is not a thoroughly popular custom by any means but we guess it is here to stay.

The dime tip has just about gone the way of the buggy whip. However, many times a dime is left, with pleasure, at a drug store soda fountain or at a small coffee shop counter, when you have had something less than a meal - just a cup of coffee and a doughnut, for instance. Rarely nowadays do you see a sign "No Tipping Allowed". Some restaurants automatically add a certain percentage for a tip on each food check.

Webster says tipping or a gratuity is a voluntary payment, usually in money, for some extra service or attention. Therefore, tipping is a personal thing and the percentage should certainly be determined on the service rendered and as it is part of the out-of-pocket expense of any vacation, trip, or visit it must be given, and should be given consideration. Whatever, you decide to give and to whomever you decide to give, do it firmly, with a smile and a "thank you" and then forget it - so don't be a "tipping worrier". I once read there is no such animal as a perfectly positive tipper nor a positively perfect tipper, either.

I cannot find any actual proof on this but I have often heard that when a penny is left (of course, with other coins or bills) it is an indication to the receiver that the service has been excellent.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

... contributed by Jack Wilson, this interesting article is reprinted from National Cash Register International Publications.

Would you agree that your cooperation becomes even more important and valuable to you if the second party talks to a third party about it?

To illustrate the point, we are reproducing here a tribute spoken by a lawyer about a dog. His farmer client had preferred charges against another farmer who had shot and killed his dog which had merely strayed on to his property. The first verdict was in favor of the plaintiff for 25 dollars damages. But he considered this amount ridiculous and not in line with the principle involved because he had lost not only a dog, but a close companion and friend. So he appealed the case several times.

At the fourth trial, lawyer George Vest was brought in, who made such a moving tribute to the dog as man's best friend that the atmosphere changed completely. When he had finished talking, many of the jurors had tears in their eyes. Soon the damages awarded were increased 20-fold to 500 dollars. All this transpired almost 100 years ago, and in those days, 500 dollars was a tremendous sum. The State in the U.S.A. where this final decision was handed down was Missouri, well-known for mules and their famous characteristics.

Now, please read lawyer Vest's moving plea:

Gentlemen of the jury, the best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter whom he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us may become traitors. The money that a man has he may lose. His reputation may be sacrificed in a moment. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world—the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous—is his dog.

Gentlemen of the jury, a man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he can be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes and death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

Aug. 21 "OVERCOMING FEAR AND ANXIETY".

Is fear something we have to live with? Is fear inevitable — a part of modern life in the "Age of Anxiety?" Or is it something that can be overcome?
For an inspiring answer, listen Sunday to a Christian Science program on "Overcoming Fear and Anxiety." The program is part of a regular dialogue series called "The Bible Speaks to You," searching deeply into man's relationship to God and what it means in every aspect of life.

Aug. 28 "LEARNING TO COPE WITH ACADEMIC PRESSURE."

Students today face more academic pressure than probably any previous generation. And many seem haunted by the fear of failure. But the fear can be conquered, and you can rise above the pressure. There's a spiritual means for it. Listen Sunday for the story of some college students who discovered how, through the power of prayer.
