I have lived in Rancho Santa Fe my entire life. During those thirteen years I have realized something, that Rancho Santa Fe has offered me many things that I might not receive somewhere else.

For instance, the beauty and tranquility of Rancho Santa Fe could not be matched in a city or urban area. Instead, you might receive a busy street immediately outside your house or property. Most families do not have that problem in Rancho Santa Fe. The beauty of this town might be replaced by more houses, factories, or businesses if you lived in the city.

A second plus for Rancho Santa Fe is the people. The people are so friendly and considerate.

Since it is a small community, many know each other and greet each other on the sidewalks.

It offers you seclusion, if that is what you prefer, or there are many social activities you can join in.

The children are offered a wide selection of activities. For example, horseback riding, tennis, 4-H, swimming, or the Ranch Santa Fe Youth. The youth has a large gymnasium in which you can play many games including racketball, basketball, and pool.

With all these experiences Rancho Santa Fe has given me a positive beginning into my life.
