PRÊT A PORTER

I have to admit it's fun to sit in front of the mirror at Sanderson's or Whitsitt's and try on hats. I delight in becoming (during brief dramatic vignettes) many different women. But who can—honestly—put on a slouchy Garbo hat without sending forth a devastating glance or two, from beneath the brim?

Feeling very much the Gibson Girl I pondered myself in an almond green straw sailor, the brim is slightly curved. Swirled at the crown is veiling the colour of ocean foam, tied into a crunchy bow at the back.

An aqua cloche by Mr. John is very John Held Jr., the inner brim is white as is the wee gro-grain tie. Very wearable with this is a pale blue and aqua silk costume—sprinkled with pink and peony buds. The dress is slightly sleeved and the jacket has sleeves about elbow length.

Lily Dache's hot pink homburg of straw dips dashingly at the front partly to flatter, partly to show off the colourful fabric band.

On the target, pow, very Jasper Johns is a small brimmed dome hat striped round with gold, white, royal and red. This is also by Lily Dache.

The hat in the picture is by Adolfo Realites. A straw of lime with lemon inner brim and gros-grain tie. $30. Worn here with a saffron and white check costume by Nantucket Naturals. The Fabric is Arnel and cotten by Galey & Lord. Sizes 10 to 16 $76.

Aside from lovely hats and suits, other new fashions to see . . . the array of summery (and funnery), culotte dresses in colourful prints. And just arrived, in time for St. Patrick's Day, is this years import collection of Irish linen dresses. These are made exclusively for Sanderson's every Spring in Ireland.

Happy Easter . . . Happy Spring.

smog IN OUR COMMUNITY

We are all aware of the term "air pollution" and yet it is surprising how much needs to be known of its causes and care. What can an individual or a single community like ours do? Here are a few "thought starters" from a book by H. R. Lewis, "With Every Breath You Take."

1. Become familiar with the causes of smog, alert to spot them, and persistent to stop them.
2. Do something about pollution by communicating with those who are in a position to act. These include the President, the Governor, our congressmen, our county supervisors, the Rancho Santa Fe Association, the San Diego Public Health Department, etc.
3. Make a careful survey of one's own individual smog contributions:
 - (a) Have I stopped burning leaves and trash?
 - (b) Am I using some control over my use of gasoline vehicles by, walking when possible, using my electric golf cart for local chores, always trying to pool my car use with others?
 - (c) Does my car have all available pollutant controls and are they working effectively?
4. Check local offenders—power companies, dumps, junk yards, hotels, hospitals and manufacturing concerns to be sure they are employing every possible process control to reduce pollution.
5. Should we have a local Pollution Control Committee with necessary equipment, established standards and authorized procedures in the event of a serious alert?

6. How can we stimulate discussion of the "causes and cures" by local speakers, newspapers, Garden Club, Book Review Clubs, Rotary, school conservation groups and others?

Some one may say Rancho Santa Fe's problem is mild compared to Los Angeles, San Diego and other places. True, but it is certainly going to get more serious until there is a growing awareness of the problem, and a sustained effort to do something about it locally and nationally.

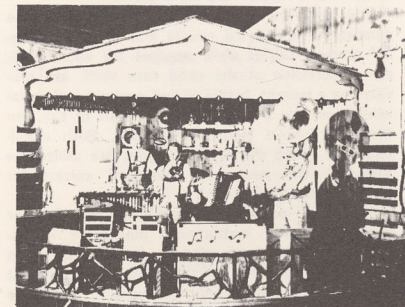

Note one of the above will "cure" this ill, but all of them plus others that will occur to you, will lead to an aroused public opinion and that is an essential step in solving one of America's pressing problems—Air Pollution.

THE STORY OF THE SAN DIEGO CHILDREN'S HOME ASSOCIATION

by L. George Horne, Executive Director

Unique among the services provided by the San Diego Children's Home Association, a multiple function child care agency, is a small treatment facility for emotionally disturbed adolescent girls, which in the field of child welfare is commonly referred to as a Group Home. Throughout the nation several such programs exist providing many children a second chance, or perhaps a last chance, to experience some of the more positive things of life to which all children should be rightfully entitled.

The Group Home as defined by the administrative staff of the San Diego Children's Home, is a residential unit, agency owned or leased, located in a compatible community. Such a home is designed to provide care in a family type setting where the emphasis is in meeting the specialized need of adolescents or seriously emotionally disturbed youngsters for who traditional institutional care is not indicated. The Group Home is designed to care for five, possible six children.

The staff for the San Diego Children's Home consists of a married couple and a part-time relief worker. Social work services for each child, and supervision of the child care staff, are provided by a trained, highly skilled, professional social worker, who is a member of the staff of the San Diego Children's Home Association. Both individual and group therapy techniques are utilized in providing the necessary treatment services for children who are in care.

For many adolescents neither foster care nor more traditional institutional placement is appropriate. When such children, between the ages of 14 and 18, come into placement for the first time, they are frequently unready to make the personal investment required in foster home care. They are even more often unwilling to accept placement in an institution which means severing many ties to families, friends and schools. Many adolescents may have had more or less extended placement experience. Providing service for them presents a serious problem. The older child, with several foster home experiences, who has not found roots with the family by the time she is 15, is frequently a bad risk in still another such placement. Similarly, the adolescent who has spent three, four, or even more years, in an institution, is all too likely to rebel or become "institutionalized" or both.

Throughout San Diego County there is a critical need for more adequate facilities to care for adolescent girls. The need is especially critical for the girl who is not yet a full blown delinquent, as well as for the girl who may be severely emotionally disturbed but not yet requiring hospitalization. It is primarily for girls in this category who are best and most frequently served by the San Diego Children's Home in its Group Home for Adolescent Girls.

The Group Home is not necessarily an economical facility. The cost is almost as high as that for residential care and treatment in a residential treatment center. However, the Group Home does clearly serve the child who still needs the support, protection, and social work services, of a voluntary social agency. A case in point is Mary.

Mary: 13 years of age was transferred from the San Diego Children's Home's treatment center after nine months in care. She is one of three children removed from parental care because father beat them when he had been drinking. Mother had deserted. Mary could not make use of foster home care or was she doing well in the treatment center. Prior to the San Diego Children's Home, Mary was several years in an institution for children. Moody, often depressed, socially very confused, well endowed intellectually but academically behind, terrible temper, and little ability to establish relationships with her peer group, Mary is a girl who finds herself a very lonely child. When first admitted, Mary was frequently truant from school, there were also frequent instances of shoplifting, and a perpetual insistence to be granted more freedom in selecting boy friends. During more than two years in placement in the Group Home, there were many ups and downs, however, there was also an indication of steady gains in many areas. Mary's social worker helped her to become active in a local settlement house where she assisted as a leader in working with younger children. From this experience she gained both satisfaction from her identification with the leader, and from her work with younger children. After many hours in individual therapy, Mary finally began to invest herself in the treatment process. Slowly, but surely, as Mary began to examine her own thinking and her own feelings, along with the help of her social worker, she began to find it more comfortable to relate to her peer group. She was especially successful in establishing friendships in school. Problems of stealing, truancy, and her delinquent interest in boys, began to ease, in fact these signs all but disappeared. In the late spring of 1966, Mary was ready to be placed in a conventional foster home. After the initial adjustment and the usual testing her adjustment has been successful. This spring, Mary will finish high school her plans are to attend beauty college. Upon successful completion of her high school training, a scholarship to beauty college awaits her.

During this child's stay at the Group Home she learned many things. By all means she had opportunity to learn something of the responsibilities of keeping a home. She learned to cook and to sew.

More important, Mary learned how to live with other people and how to live with herself. She is now more nearly ready to face the responsibilities of the life ahead of her having had the opportunity to experience some of the positive values of family living. Concurrent treatment has helped to fill some of the voids and to bridge over some of the gaps in Mary's life experience to date.

Mary is only one of more than 12 children who have been served in the Group Home since it opened its doors in June 1963. Since its establishment, and until February of this year, the Group Home for Adolescent Girls had been located at 2410 Albatross Street in San Diego. In late December, the agency was notified to vacate the Albatross address in order that the building might be demolished for the construction of an apartment house. A search for a rental house suitable to meet the living needs of five adolescent girls and the staff, proved fruitless. Therefore, it was the decision of the board of trustees to purchase a house thereby assuring the Group Home of a permanent home. In the Linda Vista area, near the main offices of the San Diego Children's Home, the agency was successful in finding a duplex which could be easily converted into a five bedroom, single family unit. At a total cost of $22,500 the agency will be able to complete its Group Home Relocation Project. This amount includes the purchase of the property, its remodeling, and furnishing. Funds for the project are to be raised by means of a limited fund drive. Mrs. Emily Powell, Rancho Santa Fe resident, and a member of the board of trustees of the San Diego Children's Home Association, is chairman of the agency's Buildings and Grounds Committee. Under her direction the purchase of the property and its remodeling is being planned. Throughout the years many Rancho Santa Fe residents have been staunch supporters of the San Diego Children's Home Association. Several Ranchites have served on the board of trustees, including Mrs. Paul Lloyd, and former Ranchite, Mrs. C. Gray Stewart. In addition, the Country Friends contributed $1,765 toward the initial establishment of the Group Home for Adolescent Girls in 1963.

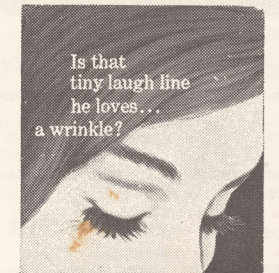

The services of the San Diego Children's Home, including residential care and treatment in its treatment center, care of children in its specialized foster home program, as well as in the Group Home for Adolescent Girls, are available to all residents of San Diego County. All referrals for admission are considered on the basis of the need. The San Diego Children's Home Association also welcomes the support and the interest of the entire community. Inquiries regarding service, contributions, gifts of equipment and/or furnishings, may be directed either to Mrs. Jack Powell of Rancho Santa Fe, or inquiries may be directed to the Home at its headquarters at 3002 Armstrong Street in San Diego.

IS RELIGION AN OBSTACLE TO CONVICTION?

James A. Pike
Father William Dubay

April 14-16

We can no longer ignore the expanding conviction that religion is really passe and useless as a significant and directional factor in the life of the modern man. Bishop Pike and Father Dubay are two men who have voiced and demonstrated their concern about this attitude. They see the use of new roles and changing forms of religious expression as a necessary ingredient to the re-energizing of religious conviction.

They will discuss the role and value of conviction as it relates to religious history and to today's most critical questions. Special emphasis will be placed upon the means by which religious conviction can be rediscovered and strengthened to meet the explosive problems of the modern world.

HOW TO CARE FOR YOUR CORSAGES

Your corsage will last for several wearings if you'll follow these directions. As soon as you receive it, leave it in the corsage box and place it in your refrigerator in or near the vegetable crisper. After wearing, sprinkle it with water, and place it in a plastic bag, closing the end of the bag with pins. Many flowers drink through their faces, so after two or three wearings, remove the ribbons, etc., and leave your corsage upside down in a bowl of water in your refrigerator overnight. This will renew your corsage, many times, and you can wear it once or twice more. Remember, corsages should always be pinned on with the stems pointing down. We hope that this Corsage Care Information will be of benefit to you who are happy recipients of Easter and Mother's Day corsages.

RANCHOITE E. J. Evans and Arthur R. Lindburg, scoop up the first shovelfull of earth with the gold shovel to officially break ground for Rancho Santa Fe's new library—a dream come true!

Milestones Reached at Groundbreaking

by Kay Frazer

As Mrs. William Weddell, Library Guild president, explained to the group of local citizens and visiting dignitaries on the afternoon of Thursday, February 23, the ground breaking which was taking place not only marked the culmination of the successful drive for funds for the new library, but also the third anniversary of the formation of the Rancho Santa Fe Library Guild, which made the whole project possible.

After the ceremony there was a gay gathering at the library, with refreshments served in the children's section from a table centered with orange calandulas. Mrs. Elliott Wheeler was responsible for this as well as the stunning arrangement of kumquats, birds of paradise and iceland poppies which graced the memorial table in the main library.

MORE ABOUT THE DOOR

A letter was received in response to the inquiry made by the Shipways as to what historical Mexican figure adorns the Jack Warnocks' door (featured in last month's RANCHO SANTA FE LIVING) from Ray Palm, Ph.D., of Cuernavaca. He delves with authority into the background of the benevolent Toltec god, Quetzalcoatl, whose Mayan counterpart was probably Kulkulcan. He interprets the symbols in the conventionalized carving as being representative of the god or a priest. In those days priests usually took the name of the god they served.

To Señor Palm and to the Shipways we say muchas gracias for their generous assistance in solving this fascinating enigma.

Nuclear Information Center In San Clemente Begins 3rd Year of Operation

SAN CLEMENTE, February 20—This week marks the start of the third year of operation for the Nuclear Information Center, adjoining the San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station, five miles south of San Clemente on Highway 101.

Since opening February 19, 1965, the center has attracted 215,487 visitors. Of this total, 109,539 persons visited during the past year. The nuclear exhibits have been seen by persons from each of the United States and from 53 foreign countries.

The dome-shaped information center building, which complements the 140-foot-diameter steel containment sphere of the nuclear generating plant, contains numerous audio-visual displays that explain nuclear energy and point up its peaceful applications.

The center is open daily between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Guided tours for school children and interested organizations may be arranged by contacting any local office of the San Diego Gas & Electric Company.

The San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station is being built by SDG&E and Southern California Edison Company. It is scheduled to become operational later this year. The plant will have a generating capacity of 450,000 kilowatts.

George Trenfel Named No. 1 Leader In Sales by Toyota Motor Distributors

Mr. George W. Trenfel, recently awarded the distinction of being the number one dealer in sales by the Toyota Motor Distributors, began his career as a dealer in 1960 in La Jolla. Due to increased sales, he moved to his present location, 942 Grand Avenue, Pacific Beach, in December, 1962. On April 1, 1966, he opened another store, TNT (Toyota & Triumph) at 400 West Main St., El Cajon.

Mr. Trenfel was fully qualified for his own dealership by 1960, having gained 17 years of automobile experience in sales and management with other firms.

Having the foresight of the popularity of the compact and economy automobiles, to combine horsepower and prestige, he merged with Toyota and BMW. He recognized the quality of car in a Toyota and in a price class that everyone could afford and that BMW is a prestige car with the lowest price range out of Germany today. This merger has made a handsomely running operation along with the products of the American Motors Corporation.

His operations continue to expand with the opening of another show room at the Pacific Beach location in the very near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cook of Rancho Santa Fe admire the handsome lines of the BMW 2000 C.S. Coupe. Built by the Bavarian Motor Works, this car is sold exclusively in San Diego by Trenfel Rambler. It is the ideal car for superior performance and dependability... a particular favorite with Ranchoites who want the very best.

Oceanside Federal Breaks Ground For New Bank Building

William W. Rorick, president of Oceanside Federal Savings and Loan Assn., together with members of the Board of Directors and other dignitaries recently broke ground for a new three-story head office building to be located at the corner of Mission and Nevada Streets.

This important new addition to the Oceanside business scene will consist of 3 floors and a full basement and have a total of 37,000 square feet of usable space. The first floor will be used entirely for customer service area, customer lounge, and executive offices for the 47-year-old association. The second floor will be devoted to general offices, including the loan and escrow departments. The third floor will be devoted to lease-tenant space. Fully carpeted and air conditioned throughout, the building will feature such innovations as stainless steel window frames and demountable partitions to make floor usage flexible as needed. The building will be built around four large core supports and will contain an elevator plus provisions for installation of another elevator in the future.

The full basement under the building will be used for storage and for installation of the complete electronic data processing system for handling of customer accounts, mortgage payments, etc. The savings and loan customer service area on the first floor will be separated from the public front and rear entrances by specially designed stainless steel antique grill work. Each floor will feature floor-to-ceiling glass exterior walls behind load bearing sculptured precast exterior supports which will also act as sun screens. General exterior finish will be in contrasting shares of concrete.

Total cost of the project is estimated to be in excess of $1 million for the completed building, including furnishings and landscaping. Scheduled completion date is December, 1967. The building will be situated on the southwest corner of Mission and Nevada, fronting on Mission street. Actual property, including parking for 85 cars, will extend through to Third street on the north and Clementine street on the east.

General contractor is M. H. Golden Construction. The building was designed by Frank L. Hope and Associates, Architects & Engineers.

After discussion it was moved, seconded, and carried to mail the proposed letter, with revisions as suggested.

In Memoriam

MARION M. PRATT

Graveside services were conducted Tuesday at 11 a.m., Feb. 21 at El Camino Memorial Park for Mrs. Marion Maxine Pratt, 51, former composing room supervisor for the La Jolla Light-Journal. She died at home Saturday morning, February 18.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., she came to San Diego County 15 years ago from Corona Del Mar. She and her husband, Lewis, had resided prior to that time in Sydney, Australia, and Cleveland, O.

Mrs. Pratt was one of the original staff members of the La Jolla Journal when the paper was purchased by Clinton D. McKinnon and before the merger with the La Jolla Light. She directed composition of editorial and advertising layout and was instrumental in the change of offset printing for the publication. She previously had worked in offset operations for the Del Mar Surfcomber in the initial days of that publication and for the Rancho Santa Fe Times.

Mrs. Pratt was an active golfer and a member of the Rancho Santa Fe Golf Club. She also was active in Rancho Santa Fe Riding Club, working on committees at the annual horse shows. Her son, Thomas A., was a show rider on the Ranch and later became a horse trainer, now owning and training horses in Los Angeles.

In Australia, Mrs. Pratt was a member of the American Women's club in Sydney.

She had resigned from the La Jolla Light-Journal in July, 1966, due to illness. Surviving in addition to her husband and son are a daughter, Michele, also of Los Angeles, and a brother, Dr. Alexander Olbert of Ohio.

Fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus, who hath been crucified. He is not here, for he is risen, even as he said. MATTHEW 28:15-6

An Easter Sermonette
Prepared by the Christian Science
Committee on Publication
Submitted by

Rancho Santa Fe, Calif.

The meaning of the Easter event is renewed when we begin to discover in ourselves the capacity for that "greater love" of which Christ Jesus spoke.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends," Jesus said (John 15:13). And his total willingness to do this opened to all mankind a new estimate of reality—brought resurrection, showed us a new and unending life.

Our readiness to learn what Jesus' words mean in our lives can begin to open to us this vast view.

His words are a call for the most penetrating kind of self-sacrifice—for a spiritual devotion that overcomes human pride, fear, and selfishness in a triumph of divine Love.

It is literally a call to be born again. Can the "average" person accept this call, this self-surrender?

It is really inevitable. And we know this in the first stirrings of our own deepest spiritual intuition. It can happen in July on a city street, in a classroom, in an office. Easter comes when it happens in the heart.

Writing of the new birth, Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, said:

"It begins with moments, and goes on with years; moments of surrender to God, of childlike trust and joyful adoption of good; moments of self-abnegation, self-consecration, heaven-born hope, and spiritual love" (Miscellaneous Writings, P. 15).

Our intuition grows into perception and understanding. Gradually, we gain the conviction that the lives of all men are ultimately bound together, in Truth. Then we begin to find the courage, strength, and intelligence we need to lay down our lives for each other, day by day—to sacrifice whatever is self-satisfied or self-seeking in our hearts, to break through the barriers of mortal ego.

Then Easter comes. And then we begin to see ourselves—and each other—in this new light.

For this is where the "greater love" leads—to clearer views of what is actual, to resurrection, to a life that is new and to life that is endless.

Jesus said, "He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it" (Matt. 10:39).

It is Easter that sets the Christian Faith as a unique gem among the religions of the world, and gives to a peculiar character in life. All religion seeks God, and is man's best efforts to make man worthy of a fellowship with his Creator. Christianity at its heart is not truly a religion in that sense, but it rather, a faith. It is the faith that God has revealed His very nature in Jesus Christ; that Jesus Christ took on Himself the rigorous practise of religion and the penalty for man's sin; that His death on the cross is the one sufficient sacrifice demanded from man; and that God raised Him up on Easter Morn as the sign of God's power over death, and man's victory over it, through Jesus Christ.

Of course every Christian then attempts to live in the light of a revealed God, and develops religious rituals and ethics and life, but fundamentally that religion depends on that faith which unites all of Christendom, that Jesus Christ is the only "begotten Son of God".

Easter then, is His day of triumph, that Christians share with Him, when the last enemy of man, death, is overcome by what He did.

Easter for the Christian is a day for rejoicing. The Empty Tomb gives credence to every claim made by Christ. The Empty Tomb provides proof of Resurrection. The Empty Tomb establishes hopes for the resurrection of all who believe. The Empty Tomb demonstrates that man is more than dust, created to be a companion of the Eternal's, who now opens the way of Everlasting Life.

Every awakening bud cried to us, "It is Easter". Every new sign of blooming life cries to us, "It is Easter". Every reminder of nature in Spring cries to us, "It is Easter." Easter, life coming from the grave; Easter, light penetrating the dark. Easter, hope dispelling despair. Easter, the silver lining to every cloud. Easter, God's sign and seal that although man may fail Him, He will not fail man. Easter, the day that spells new light, new hope, new life, and new faith.

Pastor, St. James' Catholic Church, Solana Beach

THE SECRET OF CHRISTIAN JOY

A provocative French novelist has put on the lips of one of his characters a stinging challenge: "You say you are a Christian. Then where the devil is your joy?" There, for many a pagan, is the real Christian scandal. He does not demand that we be heroes, simply because we are Christians. He may not even expect us to be good. But does expect us to be happy.

The pity of it is that the pagan is right: so many of us are not happy. He has a right to wonder where that joy is which Christ said "no man shall take from you". He has a right to be cynical when he contracts with our joylessness, St. Paul's "Rejoice always! I say to you, rejoice!" He has a right to sneer if he sees that our joys are just the same as his, and, therefore, ultimately just as brief, just as bitter. I am afraid we have impressed the pagan with one-half of one beatitude: "Blessed are they that mourn" (Mt. 5:5) Blessed are the melancholy.

May I recapture for you this afternoon the thrilling secret of Christian joy? I shall do that by emphasizing three points: (1) joy is a quality of LIVING, joy flows from LIFE, (2) for a Christian, joy flows from ETERNAL life, from life without end; (3) this life without end has its beginning now.

First, then: joy is a quality of living; joy flows from life. You see, for something that lives, the supreme sorrow is death. Death and all the lesser forms of death: pain, loss, lovelessness, loneliness. For death means the end. That is why even the gentle deer, by sheer instinct, will fight savagely for its life. That is why the tulip folds its chalice petals at night to protect the golden seed of life against the frost that would blight it. That is why the last thing man clings to is life, even when he has nothing to live for, he lives for life.

And the more life there is in us, the more joy.

That is true even on a sheerly natural level. You know the feeling of joy that goes with physical well-being—when you feel so brimful of life that it almost hurts. You know the joy that is in mental activity, in mental achievement—the artist at his easel, the scholar at his books, the man who thrills to his job—your mind is alive, and that very living is joy. Above all, when you are in love, you are alive—doubly alive, because someone else's life has been fused with your own—you are living not only your own life, you are living his. The more life there is in you, the more joy.

God knows that. And there we have the meaning of His message to men, the lesson God came on earth to teach. God did not become man to teach us that we will suffer and die; that much we could have learned for ourselves. God came on earth to tell us that we will live. To tell us that death is not an end, but a beginning. And not merely to tell us. He could have told us through angels or prophets; He could have written it like the ten commandments, on tablets of stone. No, God proved it. God lived it. He died, but He rose to life again. From that thrilling monument human life could never be the same again, because death would never be the same again. To me, the most joyous words the Son of God spoke to His disciples the night before He was crucified, the promise of Christ that has transformed human life: "I live, and you shall live" (Jn. 14:19)

That is what we mean by eternal life. You who die in the arms of Christ, will be alive as you have never lived before—doubly alive, because you shall share God's own life, God's own love. Not for a precious hour to be stolen and then treasured in memory, but forever, days without end. Not in drabs and drabs, but as much as you are capable of absorbing, as much as your own heart's love can contain. Not merely in your soul, but reflected in your body as well—the same body as now, but without the pain, without the tears. Not to the destruction of your human effections: your joy will be increased by the presence of those you loved on earth, even as our Lord's affection for His mother led Him to want her with Him in heaven, even in her bodily frame.

Little wonder that Scripture, God's own handwriting, ends with St. John's cry of longing: "Come, Lord Jesus . . . come!" (Ap. 22:20). For, as St. Paul remarked with such penetration: "If with this life only in view we have had hope in Christ, we are of all men the most to be pitied". Each Mass for a dear Christian departed sounds the selfsame note of Christian joy: "For those who believe, Lord, life is not taken away; life is merely changed" Do you believe that? That death is not the end of life, but its beginning? That life begins not at birth, not even at forty, but at death?

And yet, even that is not quite true. Christian life, therefore, Christian joy, does not begin at death. The remarkable aspect of eternal life, of eternal joy, is that it is not simply reserved for the other side of the grave. It has its beginning now. "If any men love me," the Son of God declared, "my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our home with him" (Jn. 14:23). We have God's own word for it that, if we love Him, He lives in us—we share His life—now. That is not just a bold metaphor. In sinlessness we bear heaven within us. True, heaven hides itself from our eyes. God is not yet for us, as He was for St. John, "that which we have heard, that which we have seen with our eyes, have looked upon, and our hands have handled" (1 Jn. 1:1). But we believe, on God's word, that within us rests God Himself.

THERE is the joy "no man can take from you"—no man except yourself. The realization that God, who is Love, loves you and in some mysterious way lives in you. That realization does not destroy natural joy. If you are one of those lovable individuals who are naturally gay and lightsome, God's love gives a lift to your laughter, for it puts a rich meaning behind our most powerful argument for the faith that is in us. If YOUR life is a tissue of sorrow, even in your anguish—as a perceptive writer phrased it—you will be "conscious of that lift of the heart which made one of the saints declare that job was inmost core of sorrow." It is only because of God's indwelling that you can be alone without ever being lonely.

Eugene O'Neill once wrote a play—a muddled play in many ways, but a play with a brilliant insight. It dealt with the life of Lazarus after the Son of God summoned him from the grave. O'Neill called his play LAZARUS LAUGHER. It is the story of a love of Christ who has tasted death and sees it for what it is. The story of a man whose one invitation to men is his constant refrain:

"Laugh with me!
Death is dead!
Fear is no more!
There is only life!
There is only laughter!"

And O'Neill tells us: Lazarus "begins to laugh, softly at first," then full-throated—"a laugh so full of a complete acceptance of life, a profound assertion of joy in living, so devoid of all fear, that it is . . . infectious with love" so infectious that, despite themselves, his listeners are caught by it and carried away.

And that, I submit, is Christianity. It is not that the Christian binds himself to sin and war and disease and death. These touch him as cruelly as they touch the pagan. And still he can laugh, as the pagan can never laugh; still there is a joy in his heart which no man can take from him. For in the midst of death, he has discovered life; as for St. Paul, "life is Christ".

THE REV. MATTHEW A. CURRY, RECTOR
St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Del Mar

Christmas and Easter, the two great festivals of the Christian Church, are remembered by thousands of people in this country who rarely if ever go to Church at any other time. Christmas speaks to us of the giving of God's life to humanity through the coming of His Son. Easter assured us that the life so given grows and continues and finds perfection in immortality. Our modern age has grown so accustomed to taking things for granted, that we are in danger of losing the significance of some of our great days and the customs and ceremonies which surround them. Thus, the Fourth of July comes to mean little but fireworks and a big noise. Memorial Day, Veterans Day a parade of War veterans. Christmas we associate with presents, a turkey, and a house all decorated with beautiful greens. Easter, the great spring festival, reminds us of the glory of the returning spring with its flowers and birds and all the joy of nature renewing itself. Coupled with all these Christian and national festivals and holidays is the ever present motive of commerce, to capitalize the celebration in behalf of a greater sale of goods. If the Churches failed to keep Christmas and Easter, the merchant would still keep them alive. Let us not blame the merchant, but also let us not permit him to side-track the message which our Christian and national holidays and festivals have for every one. If we forget the real meaning of Christmas and Easter, the feasts will be hollow and tawdry, laughter and joy a mere mockery, and in the end, what was intended by God will be spoiled by man's carelessness and selfishness.

Fortunately or unfortunately for the modern world, today, we have before our eyes the most colossal effort ever made to blot all conscience out of any of our dealings with one another. The communist theory of dictatorship and the rule of the proletariat abolishes all of man's ethical dealings—the state and not man has value and meaning. It is a frank challenge to the hopes of mankind for justice, freedom, and all of those rights which Christian civilization has set up. Because religions of all kinds cherish those rights and values, communism is of necessity atheistic. In our efforts to combat the political and economic propaganda of communism, we must never forget this. The distribution of wealth and the failures of any form of government are not the final stakes for which communism is warring; they are out to upset the whole basis of any organized society: the rights of individuals to cherish and win a moral and a spiritual life. They are blasting away at the Rock of Ages; they are ruthless and unafraid. They see clearly the real issue. If they win, Jesus stretched out His arms on the Cross in vain. He did not rise from the dead, all our hopes are futile; we are yet in our sins.

The loosening of the power of that faith upon the minds and consciences of people everywhere is responsible for the terrible wave of crime which is so evident not only in the United States but throughout the world. Fear of consequences has ceased to be effective in the restraint of crime and evil-doing. Anything is all right so long as you can get by with it. This has led to glorification of the villain in our culture where values are confused and crime continues to grow.

All morality is based upon the inherent worth of the individual and his respect for the worth of other individuals in a mutually interested society. Sin has just one motive—the desire of the individual to attain his wants even be it at the expense of others.

Just what does Easter convey to you? Suppose it had never happened, think for one moment as to what your life would mean if Jesus never rose from the dead, but His mortal life ended in failure on a cross. Despair, the futility of all things, would come to you; of all men you would be most miserable, death would remain the victor, and your noblest dreams and aspirations would vanish into thin dust. Easter is more than the assurance of the life to come; it explains and interprets the life that now is. It speaks of change and progress, of God in His world working out His good purpose to recreate all things in accord with His Divine plan.

On Good Friday, March 24, The Rector, assisted by Dr. Kirk O'Ferrall, will have the service of "The Last Words of Jesus", starting at 12 noon, and lasting until 3:00 PM.

On Saturday, March 25, at 2:00 PM. the Rector will administer Holy Baptism. Arrangements must be made with the Rector prior to this date.

On Easter Sunday, Holy Communion will be celebrated at all three services, 8:00; 9:30; and 11:00. The 9:30 Service is the Children's Easter Service, when they participate in the flowering of the Cross. All children are reminded to bring flowers. This is also the time for presentation of Mite Boxes. The money from the Mite Boxes will be used to help poor children in many parts of the world.

Don Randal went on a trip to Pacific Grove. He saw light deer, a dead sea lion, and a dead racoon. A few people in the 3rd, 4th and 5th and 6th grades got to go to a new Creative Writing Class. A new library is being built, some of the school children got to watch the ground breaking ceremonies. Afterwards there was coffee and good cookies at the old library. Our new teach, Mrs. Matthews retired and all the 3rd graders were sad to see her leave. We will see her sometimes as a substitute. Our new teacher is Mrs. McLaughlin. She gives lots of homework. Last week we went to Mr. Cook's room and saw a film about rockets and how they are made. John Murphy had a birthday and German measles.

We are learning very good phonics too.

We are learning about evaporation. Heat makes water evaporate and change into a gas called water and vapor. We got a new reading book called All Around with Dot and Jim. Some of us are reading in our SRA books. We changed our furniture in February and I like the way the room looks now.

Hi Readers!

In Social Studies we have started our California reports. Some people are doing it on oil, and our National Parks, and others are doing it on lakes and redwoods and still others are doing it on the avocado industry and many others.

In reading, Group I got a new book and a new workbook entitled "Sky Lines. In Arithmetic, we are doing long division that is done in a new way, but easy.

In Art we are doing many unusual things. We are painting and doing some tissue paper work.

In Science we are bringing in experiments from home and Bentley Freeland did one on underwater reservoirs. I did one on taking salt out of salty water and others did them on making carbon dioxide, and floating ice.

The class officers are: President, Julie Pinkel; Secretary, Cindy Hughes, Art Monitor, Billy Wood, Paul Worthington; Paper Monitor, Lindy Novak, and Line Leader, Cynthia Briggs and Dan Harris.

How have you been this month? Hope you have been fine. Well I better start telling all you fine readers what my class has been doing this month.

In science we have been talking about vibrations. One day our teacher got a large piece of paper, a cigar box, rubber bands, big pieces of thin cardboard, and thing strips of paper. She asked one at a time to come up and make a sound with one out of the five things we had.

In arithmetic we are doing borrowing in subtraction. Well, bye now. I'll be seeing you next month.

Hi,

This month our teacher had so many meetings and things so our class had to take over our studies under a substitute.

Yesterday we went to a Science Fair, and when we came back our class had to write about it.

On Wednesday, March 1, Mrs. Flood's class challenged us to a vocabulary game. We had never done this game before so we lost. Mrs. Ross mentioned to us that we should challenge them to a spelling game.

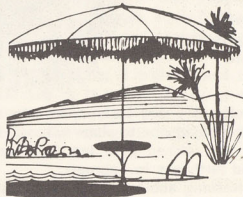

We are working on South American reports. They are due on March 16. I choose Ecuador.

In Spanish we are using a chart and checking of our names when we do something right.

In spelling we are in a 7th grade spelling book. In reading our book "Wing to Adventure," is due next week.

Jamie MacEwing was citizen for the week, and Mari was Author of the week. We also have to elect new class officers.

We just started a club de Espanol for fifth and sixth graders. About 30 boys and girls are in it. Senora Martin has some good plans. We all just finished writing our letters to South America. Mr. Gregory, international chairman of Rotary Club, will take them with him on his trip, and we all hope the children will write us back.

Mr. John Dusel, director of foreign language for the State of California, visited the sixth and kindergarten Spanish classes a couple of weeks ago. The students did very well, and he thanked them for a nice visit. The sixth graders are working with a new language wheel, and are having a race to learn verbs.

This month has been a very exciting month. The choir has been quite active. We sang for the new library dedication. Afterwards we had refreshments at the old library. The choir was pleasantly surprised that evening to see themselves on Channel Eight.

In Mr. Biggin's music listening program, he is introducing new composers. He believes we should grow up to know more than one composer.

Two people from beginning band have made advanced band already.

The advanced band now is studying new music in preparation for a spring program "Salute to Beethoven" a favorite of all and several other new numbers.

In social studies we have finished our clay maps and the book. We are now putting on the products. Yesterday, March 2, we got new social studies books. They are called "Latin America."

In Science we have begun a new chapter in our books "Ideas and Tools: For Longer Life."

EARL WARREN
JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

HAL HOADLEY
Reporter

"From Ago to A-Go-Go," or our variety show, was a success, and the willing students and teachers to make it so should be commended for their efforts.

We regained our milkbreak soon after it was taken away, the campus in good condition. In order to keep it that way, our ASB decided to ring the bell several time five minutes before the lunch period is over, for trash pick-up. The idea proved to be a good one.

Earl Warren hosted six San Diego county junior high school cabinets, eating lunch together, showing them around the campus, and attending a business meeting to discuss various topics concerned with student councils and their officers.

A science fair was held on March 2 and 3 in the Earl Warren cafeteria. The projects could have dealt with 14 categories of science: Medical Science, Micro-biology, Botany, Zoology, Biochemistry, Astronomy, Chemistry, Geology, Physics, Engineering, Electronics, Mathematics, Psychology, and Earth Science.

Chris Kane, editor of Earl Warren's school newspaper, the "Tide," placed second for his hard-hitting editorial on TB, many students entering in the contest.

The basketball season is slowly closing out, giving way to baseball and track.

Getting back to the basketball, our ninth grade team won two of their last four games, to close out their season with a 4 win 8 loss record.

The eighth grade basketballers competed in a tournament in Escondido, being one of the twelve teams there. The Caballitos, getting off on the wrong hoof, got bombed by Coronado, 31-10. In the night cap, however, against Del Dios, they lost by only five points, 30-25. Probably only trace of Warren's presence will be remembered by Brian Frick's 3rd place free throwing out of 24 competing. He was awarded for his accuracy (he hit 21 out of 25) with a medal. Earlier in the week, by the way, Warren did nip Oak Crest, 23-22 in overtime.

It's back to baseball season again, the only sport Warren has taken any kind of domination in. They start March 14 on a ten game, and everything looks "thumbs up" again this year. For those interested, this is the remaining schedule:

Track is also available for those who don't know what to do with themselves, for someone who doesn't care for baseball, or mainly, we hope, for trackstars, whether he be a sprinter, a middle-distance man, a long-distance man, a hurdler, a long or high jumper, a pole vaulter, a shot putter, or a discus thrower.

THE MIDDLE SCHOOL AT COUNTRY DAY

by Jim Irwin

In response to parents' demands, clothing restrictions were tightened this month. Still, some parents pushed a five-day uniform and expressed their views during two and a half hours of chaos at the Beach and Tennis club last Monday. In Middle School elections held in early February Tom Bierly replaced Gard Jameson as Student Body President.

A group of eight-graders took a red-carpet tour of Ryan's aeronautical and electronics divisions.

Sportswise, the Middle School fared better than usual as both the basketball and soccer teams concluded their seasons in winning form. Locals on the soccer team are Yager Cantwell, Justin Dorsy, Jim Irwin, and Willis Booth and on the basketball team Dean Wilcox.

Frank Kirk Joins Southwest Bank

Cloys J. Frandell, executive vice president of Southwest Bank, headquartered in Fallbrook, California, today announced the formation of a marketing department. It will be directed by Frank Kirk of Carlsbad who has been appointed to the post of Assistant Vice President and special assistant to the executive vice president. The overall marketing and customer service function is a relatively new concept in the development of banking business throughout the county.

Mr. Kirk, who has resided in the Carlsbad area for the past eight years, is the current president of the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce and Carlsbad Merchants Association. In addition, he also operates two women's apparel shops in the area and is president of Chemical Culture of California, maker of bionetic products for use by the U. S. Government.

Mr. Frandell noted that the move to no-service-charge checking during 1966 has proved to be very popular and has resulted in a substantial increase in demand deposit customers.

The Innkeeper's Jottings Wes Hadden

February, the shortest month of the year, had us all moving fast to get everything squeezed into twenty-eight days, but we made it! Lincoln's Birthday, Valentine's Day, and Washington's Birthday makes February a holiday month and we seemed to always be on a skateboard. We even came across a few patriotic ones, who substituted a cherry for the olive in their Martinis. It doesn't look as if we will get a chance to get off the skateboard, for the social life on the Ranch continues, but of course we are complimented that so many enjoy our facilities.

Reservation is an important word in the hotel business and we often wonder why people treat restaurant reservations so casually. They are always more respectful of commitments to Doctors, Dentists or Hairdressers, but restaurant reservations take a lot of criticism, for guests arrive late and expect their table to have been held, not seeing the restaurant's side of the picture with loss of revenue and the slowing down of the entire schedule as to timing. Many times, lateness or neglect to telephone is a lack of consideration to those who serve you.

Insofar as housing reservations are concerned this is something which has to be done accurately to avoid embarrassment to all. Recently, we reserved a Suite for a month effective January 5th and same was confirmed. On January 5th the couple did not show and as they were traveling we could not contact them. However, one month later on February 5th they arrived bag and baggage and fortunately we could accommodate them, but not in the original suite. The could not believe they had made the mistake of writing the incorrect month and were only convinced when their letter was shown to them. They also had not noticed the dates in our confirmation. In this case, everything worked out alright, but it could have been otherwise, and there are no park benches in Rancho Santa Fe. We, therefore, caution when making housing reservations at THE INN or ELSEWHERE, that dates be carefully checked.

Don't forget the Bunny comes early this year, for Easter Sunday is March 26th. Luncheon and Dinner will be served as usual at THE INN and Chef Ross plans some tempting entrees for your enjoyment.

RANCHO SANTA FE, CALIFORNIA 92067

February 20, 1967

Mr. Robert B. Bottomley, President
The San Diego Opera
530 Broadway
San Diego, California 92101

Dear Mr. Bottomley

Mrs. Trepte and I feel real pride in The San Diego Opera, its artistic and technical staff and performers; and hope to see its activities accelerate. At the same time, we have reservations about the ultra-modern music of The Young Lord. Many of the people aboard the busses returning to Rancho Santa Fe after Friday evening's opening seemed puzzled.

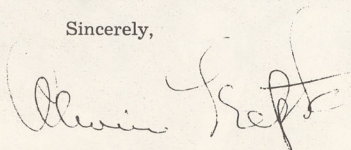

Mrs. Trepte enjoyed the plot and staging, but not the music. On the other hand, I feel that in time the music of 'The Young Lord' will eventually prove more agreeable to all, since even the old standard operas sound questionable when first heard.

The performance by the singers and musicians were admirable, if not faultless. The staging was magnificent. We hope The San Diego Opera will stage many more productions of equal magnitude.

It must have been considerable of a risk to produce the American premiere of 'The Young Lord.' Sometimes I wonder if it would be worthwhile to revive some operas that have been shelved for decades — like Meyerbeer's 'Dinorah' or Gounod's 'Romeo and Juliet'; or even some light operas like Belfe's 'Bohemian Girl' or Planquet's 'Chimes of Normandy.' One light opera each season might stimulate attendance at all operas.

Assuring you that we fully appreciate your efforts, I am

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Trepte:

Thank you so much for your good letter of February 20, 1967. The reaction of you and Mrs. Trepte, I believe, typifies the reaction of the people that I have talked to. Obviously, not everybody enjoyed all aspects of The Young Lord, but very few did not like it at all. Most people were proud of the fact that San Diego was able to put on this premiere and the critical reaction that I have seen has all been favorable.

We hope in the future to produce some operas along the lines of your suggestions. In order to keep on with our work, we will need the support of all interested San Diegans. In this regard, we have been most appreciative of the support and enthusiasm of the people in the Rancho Santa Fe area.

Kindest regards.

the Ranch Scene

NEW ON THE RANCH SCENE is Miss Lynne Crosby, daughter of the John Crosbys of Country-Squire-Tearoom-Golf-Course-Restaurant fame, who is exchanging the smog and fast-paced life of Los Angeles for the quieter pace of the North County.

Rancho Santa Fe is very proud indeed of MRS. JACK LEWIS POWELL (pictured here with her husband, Bridget Cantwell, and Mrs. Robert Cantwell III at the O'Hara wedding reception). Mrs. Powell was recently honored as a 1967 "Woman of Elegance," and is well known for her many, many philanthropic endeavors. Only seven women in San Diego were so honored, and each was chosen on a basis of four categories, using a merit system of 100 points. Good grooming and fashion flair; supporting community services, civic and cultural endeavors; reciprocity or taking part in events which interest her husband, who-in turn attends with her events of her choosing, and, fourth, femininity in a wide sense, including friendliness, graciousness, sense of humor and sincerity

MRS. PRESTON HOLLOWAY is the former Miss Ruth Comey of Rancho Santa Fe, whose marriage to Mr. Holloway of Del Mar took place on Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22 at the Village Church with Rev. Roland Anderson officiating. The young couple were attended by Miss Jennifer Miller, a close friend of the bride, and Mr. "Hap Holloway," brother of the groom. After a honeymoon to Los Angeles, Disneyland and Lake Arrowhead, the couple have taken up residence in Del Mar. Mrs. Holloway is employed by Rancho Santa Fe Pharmacy. Mr. Holloway is employed at Denny's Restaurant.

This happy occasion was a Ranch wedding reception for the O'Haras at the gracious Spanish home of the Robert Cantwells.

THE HUBERT BROOKES, in authentic Bavarian regalia, do a real mean polka!

JEAN TAYLOR, pantaloons and all, had an admiring audience as she executed a few fancy steps with her handsome husband. (They practiced!)

GEORGE & MARY LOU LEWIS practiced, too!

ANNETTE AND FRED REEVES DIDN'T practice! "Ouch!" Close your mouth when you scream, Freddie. Everybody's looking!"

THE HAROLD HARRIS' enjoy the Bavarian band.

"No thanks, I'm sitting this one out!" says Jane Stockton after a rather hectic polka. Her smiling (handsome) table mate is Dick Wilcox.

PEG WALKER AND HER HANDSOME DAD, RUSS MILLAR really showed everybody a thing or two!

GORDON SIEGEL and MARIE WYMAN were old pros when it came to a dance floor and a spirited German band!

"Would You Believe ... ?" A Story About the PENCIL!!

SAN DIEGO, February 21—Would you believe that an ordinary No. 2 pencil can write up to 45,000 words or make a single straight line of up to 35 miles? That it can be sharpened 17 times, has up to 12 coats of lacquer, and takes about one year to make?

These and other little-known facts are part of the tale told by Marvin E. Musgrave, "Teller of the Story of the Writing Stix." It's a story he has told 440 times to date.

Musgrave, 58, of 1841 Klauber Avenue, San Diego, is manager of San Diego Gas & Electric Company's employment office. In 1939, when supervisor of lamp sales, he wanted a hobby that would enable him to participate in the company's employee hobby show.

Starting with an old cigar box full of pencils given to him by his mother, Musgrave started his collection. By July, 1940, he had amassed 1,500 pencils and was asked to give a speech about his collection to the Escondido Kiwanis Club.

Newspaper coverage of his talk was picked up by the Associated Press wire service, and news of Musgrave's collection was printed in papers around the country. He received pencils from as far away as Maine.

His collection grew; his speaking engagements mounted up. In 1950 the Musgrave's added a room to their home, specifically for the collection. He became an original member of the American Pencil Collecting Society and traded pencils with members from most states in the union.

For a few years, Musgrave's collection was considered the largest in the nation. It is still believed to be the third largest, numbering some 40,000.

Of the total collection, an estimated 14,000 pencils are contained in racks of 100, arranged alphabetically by state, city and advertiser. Another 9,000 are general advertising pencils distributed nationwide.

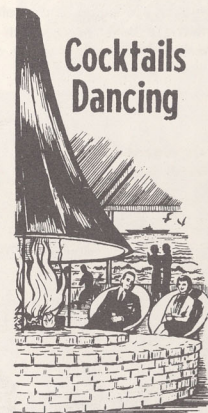

His novelty pencils often appear to be anything but instruments for writing. A cigar, key, totem pole, umbrella, broom, gavel and clothespin—when twisted, flicked or turned around—become pencils! One pencil contains a working crystal radio set; another is a usable yo-yo; still another, intended for secretaries, has five feet of eraser.

The shaft of one pencil is filled with note paper, another has a scale for weighing letters, a third contains a compass, a set of dice, a game, and cigarette holder. Special groups of pencils have the names of all signers of the Declaration of Independence, state slogans, and state flowers. For years Musgrave has worn nothing but pencils for tie clasps.

He also has several thousand mechanical pencils, slim-jims, carpenter-type, and bullet-type pencils. His largest is eight feet long; 33 of his smallest fit neatly in a box the size of a cigarette package. His oldest is a German-made pencil made in 1847. All pencils manufactured before 1876 had square lead.

Many have come to him from fellow employees or friends who travel overseas. Among his favorites are those which have come from Lebanon, India, China, New Caledonia, Egypt, New Zealand, and from European and South American countries.

In lectures from Oshkosh, Wisconsin to Honolulu, Hawaii, Musgrave always leaves his audience with this reminder, "It is NOT the size or shape of the pencil or where it comes from that counts— but whose hands it is in."

Sunrise Services to be Held at El Camino Memorial Park Easter Sunday Morning

Sunrise services on Easter Sunday, March 26, will be held in the outdoor chapel area of El Camino Memorial Parks' Mausoleum of the Bells, Douglas P. Pearson, El Camino Vice President announces.

The third annual services, to be held at El Camino, will start promptly at 6 a.m., March 26. A record crowd is expected to attend.

The services are sponsored by the Pastors' Conference of the San Diego Southern Baptist Association. Rev. Richard G. Bryant, Director of Metropolitan Missions, Southern Baptist Association and other pastors of the association are working with El Camino officials in staging the event.

The inspiring site where the services are being held is atop a promontory which overlooks El Camino's lakes, lawns and administration buildings.

In the background of the pulpit and choir area are the three 40-foot tall bell towers which stand as sentinels above the completed portion of the Mausoleum.

Southern Baptist ministers who will participate in the services include: Rev. Seth Anderson, who will welcome the worshippers; Rev. Wade McKinley, invocation; Rev. Wayne Eurich, Offering; Rev. Clifton Brannon, will give the sermon; the Rev. Ronald Chandler, will give the benediction.

Music will be furnished by the Del Aire Trio and an adult choir. Rick Fusco will sing a solo, "The Holy City."

El Camino Memorial Park may be reached from Rancho Santa Fe by leaving Interstate 5 southbound at Carmel Valley exit. El Camino is 4 miles south on Sorrento Valley Rd.

Louella Liverwurst celebrates the coming of Spring with a day at Del Mar in the company of the "Pepsi Generation." (Can you find "The Girl Girl-Watchers Watch? Oh, come on now. TRY!!!!")

Delightful evening last Saturday night when the Thomas Furst Art Gallery hosted an intimate little cocktail party to celebrate the opening of their new Rancho Santa Fe Gallery. On hand to greet guests was Mary Plaisted whose paintings, full of life, sparkle and color, enhance the gallery walls. Well worth a trip to browse (it's open to the public, every day, including Sunday) the Gallery also features the sculpture of Jean Beaumont. An accolade to Pat and Bill Gates who engineered all this thru a keystone-cop series of calamities. First of all, Pat had emergency throat surgery and addressed all the party invitations from a hospital bed. Home again to recuperate, she tripped over a scatter rug and broke her leg! She greeted guests last Saturday night in a beautiful red cocktail skirt and blouse, with white plaster cast accessories . . . have you met Mrs. Jeanne Courant of Rancho Santa Fe yet? She is a fascinating woman whose talents lie in many directions—and her services include French tutoring (she was in the French department of the University of Arizona for many years) baby-sitting, house-minding, alterations, custom draperies, men's and women's alterations including tailoring, mending, etc. She has traveled extensively, is a personality you will enjoy, speaks with a marvelous French accent, has her own car, and is looking for employment of any kind in Rancho Santa Fe where she is making her home. You may reach her at 756-2621, or at the Village Press office, 756-2415 . . . one of the prettiest Sunday brunches of the season took place two weeks ago when the Karl Webers opened their regal home and famous gardens to more than a hundred Ranch friends. Even the weather was cooperative . . . with sunshine and warm spring breezes greeting each guest along with the sunny faces of hundreds and hundreds of daffodils in bloom . . . the C. Temple Murphys hosted the first in a two-part series of cocktail-buffet parties last Tuesday, evening in their delightful newly-completed Ranch home with fifteen couples attending . . . Mr. and Mrs. Grover Godwin of St. Louis, Missouri arrived at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Langley last Tuesday evening for a visit which will extend thru the Easter holidays. In honor of her cousins, the Langleys are giving a black-tie dinner at the Rancho Santa Fe Inn on Wednesday evening, March 22nd . . . wonderful fun-idea at Rancho Bernardo last Monday night called "Mrs. Murphy's Chowder Party", set in the St. Patrick's Day theme complete with overalls in the chowder (honestly!!) Along with the Irish coffee (which was mighty potent!) was entertainment in the "auld sod" manner, and merriment galore! . . . interesting letter in the mail from Betty Blaisdell who used to own the Gourmet Cheese Shop in the Country Square Courtyard. Betty is up in Santa Ana running the Gourmet Shop for Bullocks, but her heart remains in Rancho Santa Fe and she would like to return. Here's how she puts it "Is there any Ranchoite who needs someone to write some letters, do some office work, for grandchildren and with grandchildren, mix up some d'oeuvres in a pinch, do light cooking, feed animals and generally be responsible?". Ed. note: If there is, call the Village Press (756-2415) and we'll put you in touch with Betty Blaisdell . . . Grandma Connie Clotfelter had an interesting statistic to relate the other day when we were comparing the merits of respective grandchildren. Her son Dick's baby was born in the very same Rancho home where he himself was born. And, when Dick was born, the youthful population of Rancho Santa Fe was very, very limited. How times have changed! . . . Marshall Field is looking for a Rancho Santa Fe representative for his famous publications; "World Book Encyclopedia and Childcraft". Should someone on the Ranch be interested in this worthy endeavor, please call collect to 724-1393 . . . and now we must apologize for two boo-boos recently when we described the following: # 1. The Leonard Bell family includes TWO handsome sons, not just one. Barry Bell is in Jr. High School; Randy Bell is a Jr. in High School (Well, wouldn't you get mixed up if things sounded almost exactly alike, like that?). # 2. The delightful Glover children (who have been models in our recent "Little Folks" Shop advertisements) are part of a family of eight youngsters, not just a mere six, as previously reported! . . . and, should you be looking for Easter Bunny Goodies, we heartily recommend that you take a trip to La Jolla and see the wonderful selection of fresh, homemade Easter eggs and novelties which are waiting for you at the Martha Baker Chocolate store on Silverado. Imported delights, too . . . with baskets filled, or ready to fill, whatever your pleasure!

.....with love from your

tennis tidbits

By Fran Johnson

Returning to mixed doubles after two months of playing in men's and women's doubles leagues in North County competition, Rancho Santa Fe tennis players will hold another of their chop suey tournaments Saturday, March 18. Tennis chairman, Ty Cob, and his committee members are in charge.

The Rancho women's "A" team emerged victorious in north county competition, chalking up only one loss in 16 matches. The women's "B" team tied with Oceanside for first place, with a play-off scheduled. The men's team came in third.

Virginia Dewey and Jonelle Nance have also played in the winter city doubles league as representatives of La Jolla.

"The Bible Speaks to You" is a Christian Science radio series which is broadcast every Sunday at 7:15 A.M. over KOGO, at 7:45 A.M. over KFI and at 8:45 A.M. over KMPC.

Mar. 19 "WHERE DO YOU LOOK FOR SAFETY?"

Today's high crime rate often causes people to worry about their own safety—or the safety of wives and children—especially when they're traveling alone. What does the Bible offer us in the way of a practical basis for actually feeling and being safe.

Mar. 26 "HOW DOES EASTER RELATE TO MODERN LIFE?"

Traditionally Easter is a day for happiness. And it is being celebrated this way in countless homes and churches around the world. But religious beliefs are changing. Many people may wonder whether the resurrection really has meaning today. As part of its series, "The Bible Speaks to You," the Christian Science Church has prepared a stirring discussion of this theme.
