This is an exciting year for all of us at Regal Ware, as we celebrate our fiftieth year in the housewares business. When my grandfather founded Regal Ware in 1945, I doubt he would ever have predicted the incredible growth we have experienced.

We are grateful to our loyal customers across the nation and around the world who have made our success possible. We embrace the opportunity to build even stronger relationships with all our customers, old and new, in the years to come.

We have worked diligently to build an organization that will have the flexibility to meet our customers needs today and react quickly to their changing needs in the future. That dedication shows through as we work hard everyday toward establishing our goal of total customer satisfaction.

Service and value-priced quality products have been a hallmark of our company from the very beginning and have helped us create a reputation as a world class housewares source. We look forward to building on that reputation.

As we celebrate our golden anniversary we look to the future confident, that working as a team, we will successfully serve the needs of the global housewares community for another fifty years and more.

Regal Ware - A History of 1945

The purchase of the Kewaskum Aluminum Company marks the beginning of Regal Ware, Inc.

1950

Product line rapidly expands to include a wide variety of aluminum cookware and electrics.

1955

Regal is among the first to introduce a wide selection of colorful annodized accessories.

1960

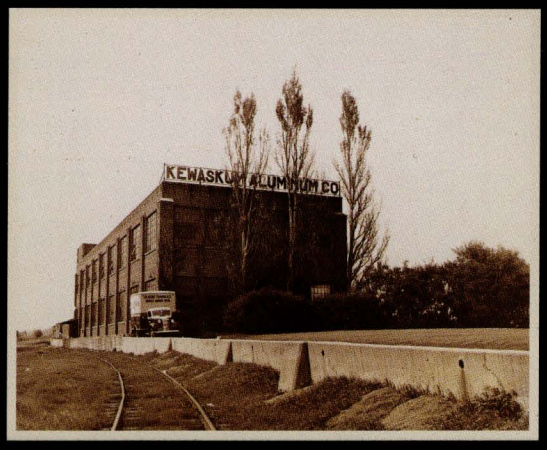

Teflon® nonstick coated cookware is introduced for the first time, dramatically changing the way the world cooks.

1965

The PolyPerk is introduced and in a few short years becomes America's best selling percolator.

Regal Ware began in 1945, when James O. Reigle and a small group of investors purchased the Kewaskum Utensil Company. At that time America was in the midst of World War II and the company was manufacturing shell casings for the U.S. military.

Regal's first manufacturing faciltiy in Kewaskum, 1945.

Two weeks after Reigle took over the company the war came to an end, along with their contract to manufacture shell casings. They scrambled to convert to peacetime production and in a short time they had retooled and were producing 1 and 1½ quart stainless steel sauce pans.

Regal's quality cookware found favor among post war consumers and the pent-up demand for consumer goods helped sustain impressive growth in those early years.

Regal's product line rapidly expanded and within the first ten years grew to include an extensive collection of rangetop cookware, coffeemakers and electric appliances.

The responsiveness of family management allowed Regal Ware to effectively adapt to changing market conditions and continue to grow. Timely acquisitions helped the company increase production and helped secure Regal's position as a world leader in housewares.

Regal has always concentrated on the development of innovative cookware and electrics. Regal was a pioneer in the development of nonstick cookware and was the first to introduce colored cookware. The early sixties marked the introduction of the PolyPerk coffeemaker, which quickly grew to be the most popular percolator in America. That same spirit of innovation can be seen in today's product line with Regal's new Royal Diamond cookware. Its patented nonstick application process creates an interior so durable it's warranted for life.

Celebrating the success of the Poly Perk.

From the beginning, Regal Ware has concentrated on producing quality products that offer an outstanding value to the consumer. That dedication to quality and attention to detail has helped create a worldwide demand for its products. In fact, Regal is actively marketing in well over 100 countries around the world.

What began as a company with a humble two pan product line in 1945 has grown into a truly international company, with manufacturing facilities in the U.S.A., Canada, South America and England.

This impressive growth is a tribute to three generations of consistent leadership and to the hard work and dedication of thousands of Regal employees over the years. As Regal celebrates its golden anniversary, it looks back at the accomplishments of its first 50 years with a deep sense of pride.

As Regal looks to the future, it remains determined to build on past successes as it continues to meet the needs of its customers.
