Regal®

HOME OFFICE . . .
KEWASKUM, WISCONSIN

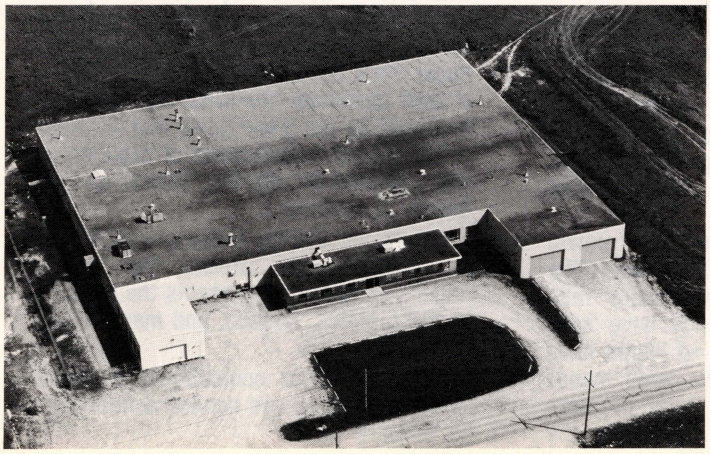

Regal's Corporate Headquarters, located in the beautiful Kettle Moraine countryside, is a symbol of a company that is young at heart as well as in years. A leader in the cookware industry, the name Regal means quality, integrity and dependability to homemakers throughout the world.

Plant in Flora, Mississippi

Plant in Orangeville, Ontario, Canada

Saladmaster, Dallas, Texas

SPL 5529 Printed in U.S.A.

A great tradition began in 1945 in Kewaskum, Wisconsin. The original building had a total of 18,000 square feet of floor space for manufacturing and office facilities.

REGAL WARE, INC. 1945 to the present

Regal Ware, Inc. is the largest privately-owned manufacturer of cookware and small appliances in the United States.

Regal Ware today is the culmination of a dream and the hard work of its founder — James O. Reigle.

In 1945, Reigle left his position as vice-president of sales with an Ohio aluminum company and purchased the Kewaskum Aluminum Company in Kewaskum, Wisconsin, then engaged in defense production.

Reigle had over 20 years experience in housewares sales and especially direct — (door-to-door) sales. Early in his career he was one of the first to sell minimum moisture cookware directly to the home and established his own successful sales agency. It had always been his dream to design and manufacture his own type of cookware. The purchase of the Kewaskum Aluminum Company gave him the chance to fulfill that dream.

The new management team included: J. O. Reigle, President and General Manager; his brother Charles E. Reigle, Vice-President; L. N. Peterson, Secretary and Treasurer; Edna M. Oster, Assistant to the President; and Albert Hron, Chief Engineer. The company had 47 employees.

Eight days after Reigle and his associates took over the company, World War II ended, and the new owners faced the task of terminating three million dollars worth of government contracts and disposing of $1,000,000 worth of equipment that could not be converted to peacetime use. Even more discouraging, new machinery was difficult to find.

During the next four weeks, J. O. Reigle and Peterson spearheaded an all-out effort to retool the company. With some equipment built and installed by company engineers and plant personnel, the factory resumed production, turning out one quart and one-and-a-half quart stainless steel sauce pans.

From the small beginning, the growth of the company has been phenomenal. The original plant was 18,000 square feet. Since then, 19 new buildings have been added and four manufacturing plants have been purchased. Regal now owns manufacturing facilities with a total of more than 800,000 square feet. In 1951, the corporate name was changed to Regal Ware, Inc. to tie it more closely to its best known trademark, Regal.

Regal Ware now has divisions in Wooster, Ohio; Flora, Mississippi; and Orangeville, Ontario, Canada. Facilities owned in Peoria, Illinois were sold in 1979 after a new aluminum casting facility was added at Kewaskum.

September 20, 1979 marked another stride forward for Regal with the acquisition of Saladmaster, Inc. and Nationwide Acceptance, Inc., a direct sales organization and finance company based in Dallas, Texas, operating throughout the United States. This acquisition reinforces the company's position in the direct sales marketplace, that segment of trade where the company got its start.

While Regal's principal output is aluminum and stainless steel cookware, the company also manufactures small electric housewares.

In 1965, J. O. Reigle stepped down as president of Regal Ware, Inc., but continued his role as Chairman of the Board until his death in 1973. L. N. Peterson has continued his association with Regal Ware, Inc., now serving as Chairman of the Board.

J. O. Reigle's sons, James D., Ronald O., and Richard V. represent the second generation in the business.

Regal products, nationally known and advertised, are respected for quality, versatility, and originality of design. The company's line of coffee makers is the most extensive in the industry and the Poly-Perk which was introduced in 1968 continues as America's No. 1 selling percolator. Regal Ware is also a leading manufacturer of cast aluminum cookware and cookware produced for the direct sales market. Regal is the official manufacturer of cooking kits and canteens for the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts of America.

Offices and display rooms are maintained in principal cities around the country. Regal's sales force represents the company in all 50 states, Canada, and many foreign countries.

The Company's commitment to excellence in products and service continues as its primary goal.
