SEPTEMBER

SCHOOL DAYS, school days . . . dear old golden rule days. After a wonderful vacation, September is here again. We find ourselves back on campus, amid the hustle and bustle of welcoming old and new acquaintances.

Eager voices ring through the college shops as events of the summer are retraced, then stored away to make room for anticipated red-letter days here at ESSTC. Confused students crowd into Oakes Hall for registration. After various schedule changes, classes begin and another college term gets under way. Social functions open with the Fall Reception and Dance as "boy meets girl" to the sound of swaying music.

"Green Frosh" wearing red and black dinks become the object of traditional hazing. "Regs" are posted and the grotesque figures scurry to classes in outlandish garb. The "mighty Sophomores" lead group singing and cheering after the evening meals. Julia receives her annual bath—a thorough scrubbing with a tooth brush.

As the "Frosh" wade through endless pages of the red Handbook, varsity teams begin their intensive training programs. Expectant victories for our Alma Mater are the topics of heated discussions. By the end of September, everyone has found his place in the intricate pattern of college life and is prepared for a full year of work and fun.

In Honor of Dr. D. W. La Rue

THE FAMILIAR DISTINGUISHED FIGURE, tall and erect, is no longer seen meditatively striding up the campus walk. Dr. Daniel W. La Rue has retired from his teaching position at ESSTC. To most upper classmen, he needs no introduction, being remembered for his well-known teachings in psychology and as head of the Department of Education.

Just over half a century ago, a shy country-bred youth with very limited preparation enrolled in the then Normal School at East Strousburg, feeling much like a small dog racing to catch a speeding car. This feeling grew when he faced a daily schedule that kept him in the classroom from eight in the morning until four in the afternoon, with a rigorous three-hour study period in the evening.

Yet he would not open a textbook on Sunday, in conformity with the discipline of his newly-adopted Methodist Church. His motto was "Ever in earnest," though he laughed and joked a great deal. His philosophy of fun was, "Just enough to keep in good condition for work." Those mottoes were to serve as guide-posts during his two years at the Normal School.

Dr. La Rue enjoyed all branches of study—was a "generalist" who had no idea of specializing. But psychology, he thought, was something everybody should understand for happy social relations, smooth adjustment in daily living, and for religious insight.

Some of the fun Dr. La Rue liked best consisted of walking, skating, gymnastics, and bicycling. You had to walk forest, field, and roadside, if you collected your fifty specimens for Botany. He sang in the glee club, acted in plays, wrote essays and poems for the Normal Echoes, and was a member of its board of editors. Twice he served as president of his literary society and once as president of his class. Too, he was very active in the religious organizations of the community.

However, these extra-curricular activities were never allowed to interfere with classes. He established a perfect attendance record for his two years at Normal School and his policy of narrow concentration won him valedictory rank, but left him still untutored with regard to many things outside of books. To learn them required severe training in the "University of Hard Knocks."

"A shy country-bred youth."

"The future Mrs. La Rue."

But not to be forgotten is the most outstanding feature of Dr. La Rue's student days here at Teachers College—"the future Mrs. La Rue." Dr. La Rue, then a senior, was given the head of a table in the dining room, now the library. The Facutly Committee, guided perhaps by Divine Providence, seated her at his table; thus "boy met girl." Girl—in the singular—became the greatest threat to his mark in deportment. He lingered with her just a few seconds too long after literary society meeting one evening. Some miscreant (name not yet reported) turned out the lights. "Hurry out?" Well, would you? He expected the disgrace of having his name read out in Chapel as a warning, a common punishment in those days, or perhaps confinement to campus. But a call to the office and a reprimand by the principal about "this con-twisted girl business" ended the whole matter, that is, so far as the principal knew.

Following graduation from East Stroudsburg Normal School, Dr. La Rue enrolled in Dickinson College, where he finished a four-year course in three years, winning several prizes for scholarship, membership in Phi Beta Kappa, and graduating at the head of his class. After he had taken a Masters Degree at Harvard and gained experience as a teacher and principal, he went to Augusta, Maine, and served for three years as Superintendent of Schools. He was then scheduled to head the school system of Maine's metropolis, Portland, but again the lure of learning drew him back to the University.

As a graduate student at Harvard, Dr. La Rue was exposed to the stimulating influence of such world celebraties as William James, Josiah Royce, George Santayana, George Hervert Palmer, and Robert M. Yerkes. Soon after receiving the golden tassel of the doctor, he became joint author with Professor Yerkes of an "Outline of a Study of the Self." Since then he himself has published a half dozen books, which have won him a listing in the volume of "North American Authors."

This is, by no means, a complete list of his achievements; for they are almost endless. Even now, after his retirement from ESSTC, he is engaged in a new project approved by the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

We miss the quiet, unassuming manner of our former teacher and department head. A true scholar and a true gentleman, Dr. La Rue leaves behind him a record that may well serve as a model for us as prospective teachers.

Approximately six hundred '49ers made their debut into college life at ESSTC, appearing in traditional dinks and deferring to the upperclassmen's every wish. For the first few weeks shining shoes, making beds, cleaning rooms, running errands, and carrying luggage were the orders of the day. Pajama-clad fellows paraded to the opening football game; Julia received her annual proposal of marriage; and the girls made fashion news with their gaudy apparel.

But, time marched on and "Frosh" tossed away their dinks to assume the illustrious title of Freshmen. The thrill of making a varsity team, that struggle with the first term paper, the endless planning for the Valentine Dance, and various club activities now dominated the lives of these busy underclassmen.

The Class of '53 has established a fine record during their initial year at ESSTC. May their next three years be just as successful.

OCTOBER

OCTOBER RUSHES in with spontaneous enthusiasm for fall sports. Highlighting the month are football and the first night game at Gordon Giffels Field. Pajama-clad freshmen parade through town to the scene of the kick-off. Their half-time antics, including the traditional burial service over the opponent's coffin, keep the crowd well entertained and in high good humor. Adding the final dash of color so necessary to the successful setting of any football game is the band with its twirlers and majorettes. And not to be forgotten are the cheerleaders, exhorting the crowd to greater and greater vocal support of the fighting Warriors.

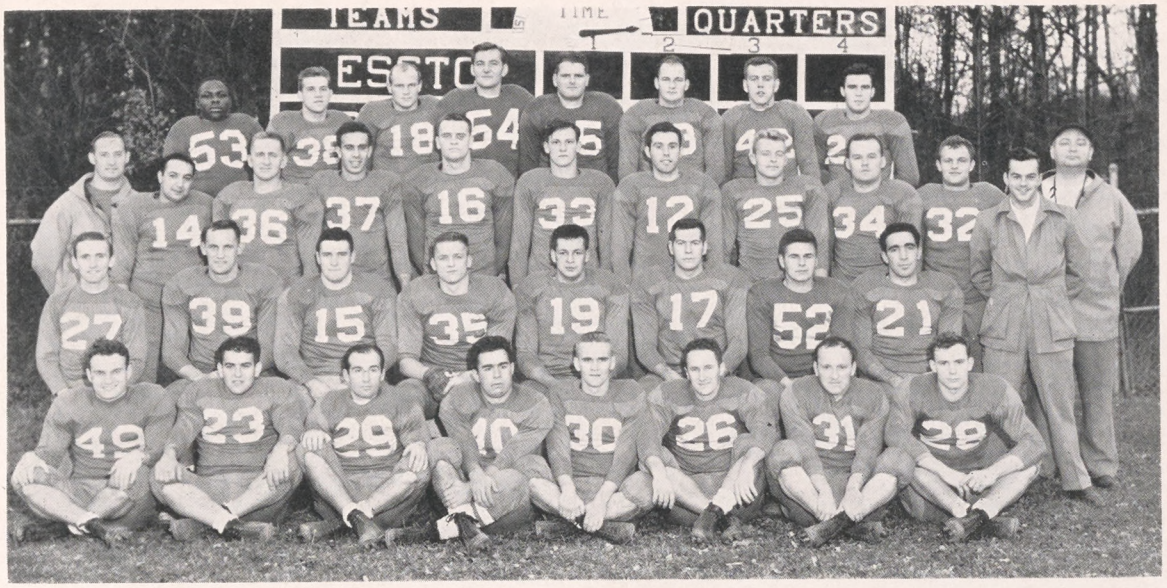

Sharing the lime-light with football are the men's soccer and women's field hockey teams. The "boys with the educated feet" and the "stick-wielding lassies" never disappoint their loyal followers for want of thrills, excitement, or action.

Homecoming Day lures many alumni back to the campus. Reminiscing, renewing friendships, cheering for the Red and Black, and being honored at the all-college dance make the day both memorable and enjoyable.

As the referee blows the final whistle and winter draws the curtain on October sports, the student plods away from the athletic field in dreamy reminiscence of "pep rallies", snake dances, victories, and new heroes with the "varsity limp"—memories to carry into the coming wintry months.

FOOTBALL

With the opening of the "49" season, a strong Warrior team crashed through with a string of four wins. Then in a thrill-packed game with an undefeated West Chester eleven, the hopes of a perfect season were smashed as the Warriors came away on the short end of a 7 to 0 score. In the next three games the Red and Black of ESSTC lost two and won one, ending the season with 5 wins and 3 losses.

Running from the "T" for the first time, the backfield gave the opposition plenty of trouble. Jackie Swartz at quarter back played his usual superb game, and Vince Tomasetti, Dick Jones, Dick Pritchard, Bob Derby, Buddy Buddell, and Phil Braun all showed up well lugging the ball.

With the close of the 1949 season, four men of the forward wall saw service for the last time. All four, John Petercuskie, Charles Ritinski, Charles Peterson, and John Whitehead, played varsity ball for four years. Too, John Petercuskie was selected for the All-State Teachers College Team. Their absence next year will cause Coach Gene Martin no small headache.

ESSTC 13 — MILLERSVILLE 0

On a wet and soggy field using the "T" formation for the first time, the Red and Black came through with a 13-0 win.

ESSTC 21 — PANZER 6

Highlighting the Warriors' victory over Panzer was John Eagen's 90-yard run back of a Panzer kick-off to open the second half.

ESSTC 7 — SHIPPENSBURG 0

In a hard fought game played at Shippensburg, George Braue caught a 5-yard aerial from Jackie Swartz to score the only TD of the game. John "Poopsie" Whitehead, conversion specialist, made good on the extra point.

ESSTC 28 — MANSFIELD 6

Showing plenty of power and deception, the Martinmen romped to an easy 28-6 victory over the Mansfield eleven posting their fourth victory with no defeats.

Bob Derby breaks up a West Chester pass

ESSTC 0 — West Chester 7

The West Chester Rams continued to dominate the ESSTC eleven by virtue of a 7-0 win. Four times in as many years, the Rams toppled the Warriors from the ranks of the undefeated, and each time by a margin of one touchdown.

ESSTC 7 — Rider 19

Again baffled by a strong Rider eleven, the Redmen went down to their second defeat by a 19-7 score.

ESSTC 14 — Cortland 6

Although completely dominated in the first half by the invaders from the Empire State, the Red and Black gridders caught fire in the second half to gain their 5th victory by a 14-6 count.

ESSTC 22 — Bloomsburg 28

Bringing their 1949 football season to a close, the Warrior football team bowed to a strong Bloomsburg eleven 28-22.

The point scores for the season are as follows:

Pritchard	18
Harmison	18
Swartz	18
Eagen	12
Whitehead (Conversion)	11
Braue	6
Tomasetti	6
Braun	6
Jones	6
Derby	6

HOCKEY

Do or die!!

Bully for Coach Genevieve Zimbar's terrific hockey team, which set the pace for fall sports by completing an undefeated season! Never in the history of hockey at ESSTC has there been established a comparable record.

The Zimbarettes opened their season by catching Beaver entirely off-guard and upsetting them 5-1. Next, they edged the Alumni 3-2 in a thrill-packed game. Traveling to Collegeville, the girls again displayed spectacular play in defeating Ursinus 4-2. In rapid succession, Hunter and Moravian fell to the ESSTC lassies by scores of 9-0 and 6-0 respectively. Highlighting the season was the closing game with Temple in which two evenly matched teams fought to a 1-1 deadlock.

Besides their regular season play, the Zimbarettes captured top honors in the Annual Intercollegiate Field Hockey Tournament by defeating Drexel 3-1, West Chester 5-0, and Temple 1-0, in addition to placing six girls, Capt. Jane Platt, Jane Moffet, Marilyn Maure, Gertrude Randolph King, Joan Givens, and Florence Ashbee, on All-College Teams. Too, Coach Zimbar was selected to coach the Third All-College Team.

ESSTC is especially proud of Jane Moffet, outstanding center forward, who played on the All-Philadelphia Fourth Team in the U.S. Field Hockey Tournament at Baltimore, Maryland, scoring an average of two goals in each of the three games which she played.

SOCCER

Another soccer season has bowed off the stage at ESSTC. Now that the dust has cleared and the results are evident, we take our hats off to the boys with "educated feet". Despite losing eleven varsity men through graduation, Coach DeNike came up with a great team. Especially to be commended are Bob French and Sam Lumer, the two big guns for the Red and Black, who contributed seven goals each. Plagued by injuries and bad breaks the Warriors, nevertheless, closed the season with 3 wins, 3 losses, and 2 ties.

After opening their '49 season with a thrilling 1-1 tie with Lafayette, the DeNike "booters" dropped an early lead to lose their second game to West Chester 2-1. A tie with Trenton followed by a 4-1 loss to Lock Haven and the injury-riddled ESSTC squad finally hit their stride, setting down Panzer 2-1 and rolling over Wilkes College 9-3. However, playing on a snow swept field at Ithaca, they suffered their third defeat 6-2. Back home again, the DeNikemen closed their season in a blaze of glory, scoring with lightning-like rapidity to swamp the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy 9-1.

NOVEMBER

NOVEMBER WITH its Indian summer days provides the student with a "breather" between fall and winter sports. But this is no time for loafing; spare moments must be devoted to studying for those inevitable quarter exams. Students wait anxiously at the post office for their marks hoping that the profs have given them a break.

Election day gives the politically-minded student a topic for discussion. Office-seekers are analyzed and merits of the major parties are subjects of heated debates. Although, as yet, these students exert little influence on the national scene, on campus they make themselves heard through the Student Senate and the various councils.

However, all is not work. The Sophomores cudgel their brains for new and unique ideas to carry out the theme of the Stardust Ball, first semi-formal dance of the college year. Girls keep their fingers crossed that their current "beau brummels" will invite them to the ball. Dancing to their favorite band in a star-lighted atmosphere, students forget the dreary routine of classes and look forward to the approaching vacation.

Then follows the delicious Thanksgiving dinner served in the dining room, the hurried last minute packing, and the final dash to catch that ride home, all of which marks the beginning of Thanksgiving vacation and the passing of November.

STUDENT SENATE

Seated: J. Bender, secretary, R. Frank, A. Kropinicki, president, A. DeMarco, vice president, J. Perna. Standing: M. Gross, B. Lake, J. Nickel, F. Wodock, M. Gates, D. Herd, L. Shepherd, Dr. Koehler, M. Pfeffer, E. Belet, D. Coombe, Dr. Naegle, W. Eden.

ALEX KROPINICKI
President of Student Council

Because of his wide experience and recognized capacity for leadership, Alex R. Kropinicki was elected to this year's biggest student job on campus, that of presiding over the Student Senate. Conscientious and hard-working, he had fulfilled the duties of this important office with dignity and efficiency.

The Student Senate is probably the most important organization at ESSTC. This governing body has been invested with the power to act as regulators of all college activities. It allocates money to the various councils, approves council budgets, supervises and conducts elections, reviews the minutes and audits the books of all student organizations, and authorizes student and faculty representation at conferences. This power of regulation includes, also, the right to originate necessary laws, to determine problems of policy, and to execute the principles of the constitution of the college.

The membership of the Senate consists of three faculty members appointed by the President of the college who act as advisers; a president, member of the junior or senior classes, who is elected by the student body; and sixteen senators (two men and two women representatives elected from each class). Working in close cooperation, this group strives to assist in the betterment of the student body and student organizations. These members have accepted their heavy responsibility and have efficiently and successfully accomplished their task. We are proud of their fine record.

MEN'S EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The Men's Executive Council, consisting of representatives from each class and the president of the Men's Day Student Association, is the major organization at ESSTC for men students. Under the guidance of Dean Martin, the council serves as a governing body enacting laws and regulations to maintain high standards of conduct and responsibility on the part of men students. Too, this group endeavors to help freshmen adjust themselves to college life, and assumes an important role in the framing and enforcing of "Frosh regs".

Realizing the importance of social activities in a well-rounded program, the council sponsors several smokers as well as the annual Spring Frolic, which features entertainment by the talented males on campus.

WOMEN'S EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Front Row, left to right: M. Edwards, K. Mansfield, A. Russopulos, I. Torres. Second Row: H. Zito, V. Fiori, secretary-treasurer, J. Blank, N. Soper, president, J. Every woman student owes something to the Women's Executive Council. This efficient group, made up of counsellors elected by the women themselves, sees to it that dormitory life runs as smoothly as possible. It draws up rules and regulations which give each Stroud Hall resident a share in the responsibility of promoting an atmosphere of cooperation and well-being. Miss Jones, capable adviser, lends a practical hand in organizing and guiding the council, bringing to the group the benefit of her experiences as Dean of Women.

Annually, the council sponsors the four class teas, a fall and spring party, as well as an exam-week "Chocolate Fest". These highlights in the social activities of the year are looked forward to by all women students.

A bang-up crew opened the doors of ESSTC in 1948 with one little password: "silence." Oh, how they shouted it!! Exuberantly they completed their "green year."

As Sophomores, they returned with as much vitality as before and pitched right in issuing orders to their successors. "Where's that dink, Frosh?" "How about a toothpick?"

Under the leadership of William Schmidt, class president, and guided by their adviser, Dr. Moore, the class sponsored the first annual semi-formal dance of the season, the Stardust Ball. Too, they were well represented in college activities, making a name for themselves both as athletes and as campus leaders. However, extra-curricular activities were not allowed to overshadow their college studies, and scholarship was kept on an even par making them well-rounded, happy students. As the year closed, the class left as "silently" as they had come.

SNOW FALLS upon the campus to welcome December in her colorful attire of holiday celebration. In greeting, the maples bow white-covered branches and snow drifts the pathway to the "winter wonderland."

Gathering on the porch of Stroud Hall, fellows and girls watch the traditional tree-lighting ceremony. December, too, listens solemnly to the yuletide carols sung by the College Choir and gazes at the little children encircling the tree with candle-light. As if to add a final touch to the impressive ceremony, chimes of nearby churches echo through the starry night.

December is personified in every activity on campus. Gay Christmas parties mark the clubs' final efforts in the old year. Flowing gowns sweep the floor of the gym as dancers celebrate the yuletide. Festive decorations in the dining room and eager students impatiently awaiting the dinner bell attest to the nearing holidays.

The night before vacation, books are laid aside as everyone succumbs to the holiday spirit. Hall parties make Stroud Hall resound. Melodic voices of caroling men ring through the air. Tomorrow is vacation and all worries are forgotten.

December has been welcomed on campus in holiday tradition, leaving the realization that another year has come to an end—a year to cherish in thought and to fortify us for the future.

PENN STATERS

For the fourth consecutive year, Pennsylvania State College assigned a contingent of nearly sixty students to undertake their freshman studies at ESSTC. Although an arrangement of this type is an inconvenience to both the students and the "farm" college, the "Frosh" consignees can't be sorry about being sent to ESSTC. Here efficient instructors have done their jobs well, and the "Staters" have profited immeasurably.

Despite being "men without a campus", the lads from Bellevue did enjoy a great many college activities. They witnessed athletic contests, took an active part in intra-murals, attended dances and movies, and made many new friends.

This rollicking outfit, whose only connecting link with classes was the Bellevue's "Orange Turtle," had a fine "esprit de corps." Their close cooperation was achieved among the administration, students, and faculty through the efforts of Mr. Kurt Wimer, adviser; Warren Kone, president; and Franklin Kone, vice-president.

WAYNE GYM

JANUARY

FRIGID JANUARY veils the campus with a snowy mantle and silver-icicled trees. Biting winds whistle around the dormitories, bee-hives of activity. Each student is literally "walking the last mile" of the semester...final examinations! Cramming is the order of the day, aided by coffee, weeds, and midnight oil. All too soon the fatal day dawns and scholars scurry to the gym with freshly-sharpened pencils in hand and freshly-sharpened wits in head.

By the end of the week every industrious grind is ready for the few days' reprieve granted. Upon the mass return, registration and long queues at the business and dean's offices foretell that a new semester is in the offing.

But all is not work; there is plenty of diversion what with ice skating, tobaggoning, skiing, good old-fashioned snow battles, and fabulous weekends in the mountains. The main social event features the annual WRA dance, "The Gold Diggers Ball," for which the coeds play the aggressors by escorting the males to the "hop." Basketball season is really getting into full swing by this time as tense spectators yell themselves hoarse while the "hoopsters" rack up the score.

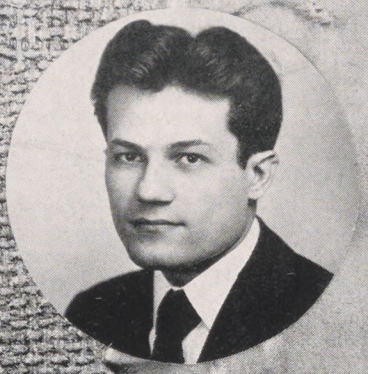

Ere long January drifts away on a snowflake, closing another chapter of the 1950 Stroud.

In publishing our yearbook, the first and most important thing was that of selecting a top-notch staff. This year we chose the staff from 196 prospective seniors, an exceptional class of intelligent, studious, and original students. But, what a job!! One third of them we really knew, and the rest were vaguely familiar to us. Blindly we made our choice, hoping we had chosen the most capable.

Everyone was enthusiastic at the first staff meeting. Assignments were made for senior write-ups which were to be finished by the end of May '49. When the deadline arrived, we heard — "Fay, how about those write-ups?"..."Steve, did you write Ike up?"..."Marge, I can't get them done." We held our ears, but not our tongues. At the last minute most of them were completed. Marge took them home for revision—a happy summer vacation!! Meanwhile, we searched our minds and the libraries in order to obtain a new and unique theme for the 1950 Stroud. Finally, toward the end of summer we decided upon the month-by-month theme.

September brought new worries, both financial and editorial. These important matters were threshed out at staff meetings and all phases of the yearbook got under way slowly and excitingly,—but not for long!! Staff members got tied up with student teaching, other class activities, and with Cupid. Homework piled up, exams came into view, and some cramming had to be done. It became a matter of yearbook work or flunking an exam—a tough decision to make. Well, we made it, and with the assistance of Dr. Kistler, we followed through to the end.

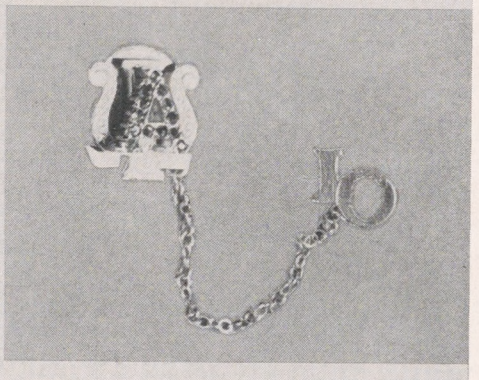

The result is this book, containing the highlights of one year of college life at ESSTC. It is not the work of one person, but of the combined effort and cooperation of all the members of the 1950 Stroud Staff. We hope that you will really like it.

KEYS TO SUCCESS

The first national honorary society to be established at ESSTC was the Gamma Xi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi. This honorary society in education strives to maintain high educational ideals and to promote a closer bond among students of education. With these goals in mind, it invites to membership only those juniors and seniors whose character and fine scholastic records merit this honor. Kappa Delta Pi includes not only our better students, but also a majority of the leaders in extra-curricular activities.

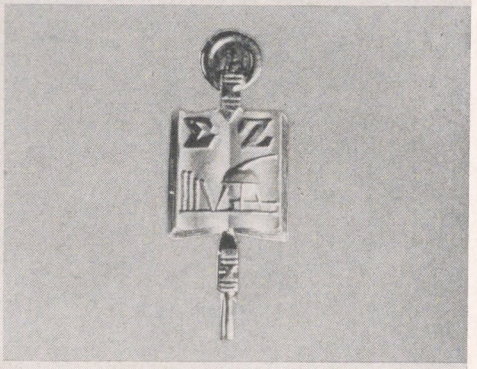

Iota Omicron is our local cast of Alpha Psi Omega, a national honorary dramatic fraternity. As a producer of college plays and other dramatic activities, this thespian society has displayed the high quality of its ability. Pride is taken in the good fellowship and cooperative spirit which must exist as prerequisites of any successful performance. Its membership is limited to Mask and Zany members with satisfactory scholarship who meet the requirements of the national constitution and of the local chapter.

The Delta Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity, was established by a group of industrious male students in 1947. Grounded on the basis of fellowship and cooperation, this organization is designed to be of service to the fraternity membership, to the College, and to the community. Candidates for membership must have previous training in Scouting, a desire to render service to others, and a satisfactory scholastic standing.

The Tau Chapter of Sigma Zeta, a national honorary science society, is becoming one of the prominent honorary societies on campus. Its members, consisting of juniors and seniors doing outstanding work in the specialized fields of science and mathematics, endeavor to encourage and promote interest in these special fields. As a sponsor of many worthwhile activities, especially the science clinic which gives assistance to students encountering difficulty in science and mathematics, Sigma Zeta has established a highly commendable record.

The youngest honorary fraternity on campus is Gamma Theta Upsilon, a national geography fraternity established to promote interest in the study of geography. Latest developments in geographic education and exploration are followed and different regions of the world are studied in an effort to enlarge the geographic scope of the member. Since the founding of the Omega Chapter at ESSTC in 1948, a closer bond of fellowship has been formed among geography majors.

FEBRUARY

FEBRUARY SHOOTS through the air as Dan Cupid's arrow finds its mark at the Freshman Valentine Dance. This first formal of the semester makes old flames burn brighter and sets new hearts a-throbbing.

This month the gymnasium becomes the center of student activity as winter sports reach their peak. Capacity crowds, tense with excitement, cheer for the colorful and spirited men's basketball team. The white-clad Zimbarettes, too, share the crowd's acclaim as their expert ball handling and floor play draw praise from even the most prejudiced male spectator. From the swimming pool sound splashes as the men's swimming team continues its triumphant way, while in the mat room, the "grunt and groan" artists are hard at work preparing for the next meet. And not to be forgotten is the gymnastic team, whose members can be seen at almost any hour of the day perfecting a new routine.

In the auditorium, lights burn late as the Varsity "S" Club rehearses for the annual Minstrel Show. Black-faced endmen are the centers of attraction, producing laughs, at the expense of faculty and students, with jokes which are retold time and again.

Before it seems possible February becomes history, as over a cup of coffee at the College Shoppe, she bids the exhausted student good-night.

J. V. BASKETBALL

Pozda's favorite shot

Coach Ray Welsh has a group of promising and eager hoopsters taking to the hard-woods at the start of this, his third year as head mentor of the Warrior quintet.

A nineteen game schedule, with some new competition —Wilkes and Kings Colleges, and some of the old traditional rivalries—West Chester, Kutztown, Scranton University, and Panzer, promises some hard games for Pozda, Jennings, Swartz, and company.

Lost from last year's cage group are such outstanding performers as Moe Thomas, Nick Young, Don Manning, and on the doubtful list due to injuries are two slightly better than good pivot men, "Sticks" Young and Paul McGovern. However, the credit side of the ledger shows that big Frank Pozda, "Nails" Jennings, Jackie Swartz, Bill Schmidt, and "Wah" Marks are back along with Earl Theme, Jack McAndrews, and Charlie Ritinski.

Last year's five finished the season with a somewhat refreshing 12 wins against 6 losses. Here's hoping that this year's squad meets with equal if not better success. The following is the 1949-50 schedule.

Mad Scramble

Ballet on the Hardwoods

The '49 season saw Coach Genevieve Zimbar's varsity basketball team complete one of its most successful campaigns in recent years. Led by high-scoring Jane Moffet, the Warriorettes emerged victorious in eight out of eleven games.

Opening against a strong Hunter sextette, the local lassies dropped a hard-fought game 46-39 but came back into the winning column in the next three games by defeating Rider, Panzer, and Brooklyn Colleges. Then, in one of the most thrilling games of the season, Ursinus decisioned ESSTC 27-25. The next five opponents, L.I.U., Lock Haven, Albright, Rider, and N.Y.U., met their "Waterloo" at the hands of the Zimbar-coached contingent. Traveling to Philadelphia to play their last game of the season, the Warriorettes met their third defeat as an experienced Temple team came from behind to defeat them 35-28.

Candidates for the 1950 season began practice before the close of hockey season since the basketball team had been honored by being selected to demonstrate its style of basketball at the State Health and Physical Education Convention at Harrisburg. Prospects for the '50 season look excellent with the return of ten members of the varsity squad from '49 and with several promising freshmen.

Although the gymnastic team at ESSTC is not competitive, it ranks high in the interest of the student body. Under the expert tutelage of Mr. Liljenstein assisted by Miss Whitenight, the team members spend hours perfecting precision drills, routines, and exercises on the apparatus and mats. Following this the team presents approximately twenty exhibitions before school and civic groups in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York.

Intricate free-hand, wand, and Indian club drills; tumbling, parallel bar routines; and the ever-popular clown acts are consistent attractions on the program. Two rather recent additions are the breath-taking, hand-balancing act of Mitman and Sabo and the "Rhythmical Designs" routine incorporating the grace, rhythm, and balance of ten male members of the team. Other popular features are the tap, modern, and folk dances presented by the women members of the team.

These gymnastic exhibitions are especially noteworthy because of the excellent representation they afford of our Alma Mater. The quality of ESSTC's Health Education Department and of the college itself is favorably noted throughout the area as a result of the gymnastic exhibitions.

swimming

The Red and Black tankmen of Coach Grimm, co-captained by Carl Lloyd and Gene Minor, concluded their second year of intercollegiate competition with a record of 6 wins and 2 defeats. Starting practice in mid-November, the mermen worked hard for two months before meeting Lycoming and defeating them 46-25. This meet aided Coach Grimm in organizing his team for the match with ESSTC's top rival, West Chester. In this exciting meet, the Warriors led until the last event, the 400-yd. relay, which West Chester won, copping the meet 41-34. For the first time in college competition, Jim Carpousis suffered defeat in the 440, but Bill Kelly and Bill Capallo continued their streaks by contributing two victories each in their specialties. Following this Brooklyn Poly and Cortland were drowned by the local splashers 44-31 and 58-17 respectively. Then in a meet with Lafayette, the final relay again cost the Warrior mermen the match 39-36. As the season closed, return matches with Cortland and Lycoming added two more victories 48-25 and 52-21 to the Warrior's record.

The 1949-50 edition of the Stroud Mermen is highlighted by the return of all but two lettermen and a promising number of freshmen. A nine-meet schedule promises an exciting season.

WRESTLING

Coach shows how it's done.

Coach George Ockershausen's grapplers opened their '49 season with six tough meets facing them. Although winning only one of the six contests, the Warriors displayed promise for the coming year. The scores of the meets failed to indicate the closeness of the individual matches. This was proved at the State Meet at Millersville, where our boys made a brilliant showing by placing third. Too, Joe Victor was runner-up for the state championship at 155 lbs., and Howard Pewterbaugh placed third in the heavyweight division.

Opening against Lafayette, ESSTC was defeated 22-8 with Victor, Pewterbaugh, and Nesbitt registering the only victories for the Warriors. Then playing host to Lock Haven, the Warriors finished on the short end of a 32-0 score as they did again at West Chester 22-11. The Red and Black matmen tasted first victory in a 19-11 triumph over Brooklyn Poly as Metropoulos, Victor, Pewterbaugh, Fluegel, and Hoffman recorded victories. Then in the last meet of the season, C.C.N.Y. dropped ESSTC 16-12.

This year the ESSTC matmen are under the tutelage of Coach Walter Tyszkowski. The season looks bright with the return of five lettermen, Daniels, Schoenberger, Davies, Hopkins, and Victor, in addition to many promising new hopefuls.

MARCH

WINDY MARCH blows in — the longest school month, in thought if not in actuality. Winds blow, skirts fly, boys whistle as the campus slowly comes to life after the long snowy winter.

Spring is coming, and the Juniors make plans to greet it with their annual dance. Into each girl's mind creeps hopes of an invitation, while the only thought in the minds of the males is the question of money. Hustle, bustle, last-minute touches, and the excited damsels with their gay lotharios are off to the dance—each girl hoping that she will be chosen "queen of the campus," if only for a night.

Excitement and talk of the dance live on through the next week, even though minds are reluctantly forced back to the task at hand. To some this means student-teaching. These budding teachers are easily spotted by their lengthy lesson plans and eagerness for weekends. Discipline problems, the latest escapades of their students, and speculation as to where Miss Pontius will be tomorrow are the chief topics of conversation.

Health edders practice long hours for the annual Health Education Demonstration. Everyone hunts around for available funds with which to make that last quarterly payment. Students' minds function automatically, indifferently working out assignments and wishing away the days until Easter vacation. At last, the longed-for day arrives, and so closes March — harbinger of springtime.

STUDENT

A student teacher is like a young bird, about to test its wings before being pushed completely out of a warm nest. After three years of intensive training on campus he is placed in an elementary or secondary school under the vigilant eye of his critic teacher. Usually there follows a period of observation, but sometimes the student teacher is less fortunate and must begin teaching immediately.

That first day is a nightmare. The student teacher is flustered—he stammers and stutters and the pupils snicker, appear dumb, and play all sorts of tricks on him. Too, that carefully prepared and rehearsed lesson plan runs out before the period is over.

Back in his dormitory room, the student drops from exhaustion. That night, lights burn late as the budding teacher prepares new lesson plans, guided by his first day's experience. For the next few weeks this new experience is a nerve-wracking business. However, after two months of torture the student teacher gets his second wind, loses all hindering self-consciousness, and finds that he really has something to show for the effort he has put forth. At the end of his student teaching days, he is ready to fly out and take his place in the teaching profession.

Remember how as eager Frosh we came through the "Maples" in 1947, almost three hundred strong. Filled with pep, ability, and boundless spirit we brought new life to ESSTC after the rather quiet war years.

Then as Juniors we found ourselves literally up to our ears in work. Planning the '51 Stroud, struggling through Junior gym, participating in extra-curricular activities, and finding time for that last-minute term paper kept us on the run. Gay diversions sponsored by the Class of '51 included a hilarious square dance, authentic to the last cider jug, and the memorable Junior Prom.

Although our number may have decreased, our spirit and enthusiasm more than compensate for it. To Miss Ayers, our capable class advisor, we say thank you for her guidance throughout the year. To the Senior Class, congratulations and best of luck. May our Senior year be as successful as yours.

APRIL

APRIL APPEARS with showers, sunshine, and spring athletics. Ardent fans brave the rain to cheer for the Warrior trackmen, while the other coaches pray that "ole man weather" won't throw their schedules awry. Tennis courts are always occupied as the varsity men and women's teams open their spring schedules. Resounding with the impact of horsehide against hickory, the baseball diamond is the scene of concentrated activity. With the short training season and unpredictable weather, every minute of time is made to count.

Spring is really here and a "young man's fancy turns," as Sunday afternoon hikers take to the nearby mountain trails. Too, this month marks the opening of sunbathing. Everyday that there is a glimmer of sun, the slope near the dining room resembles Jones Beach. Girls rush out before classes, between classes, and after classes in a frantic effort to get that beautiful tan. Usually they look more like sun-burned lobsters the first week, but undaunted they keep trying and peeling.

Juniors busily make plans for their Senior year as they organize and elect officers for the local chapter of Future Teachers of America. Meanwhile, the Seniors, whose college careers are rapidly coming to a close, make preparations for the eventful month ahead. Thus, April showers give way to May flowers.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Coach Genevieve Zimbar scores another first as her women's varsity tennis team completes its first undefeated season since women's tennis became a varsity sport at ESSTC in 1944. Having faced some of the toughest opposition in the East in establishing this record, Coach Zimbar and her racqueteers rate a carload of congratulations for a job well done.

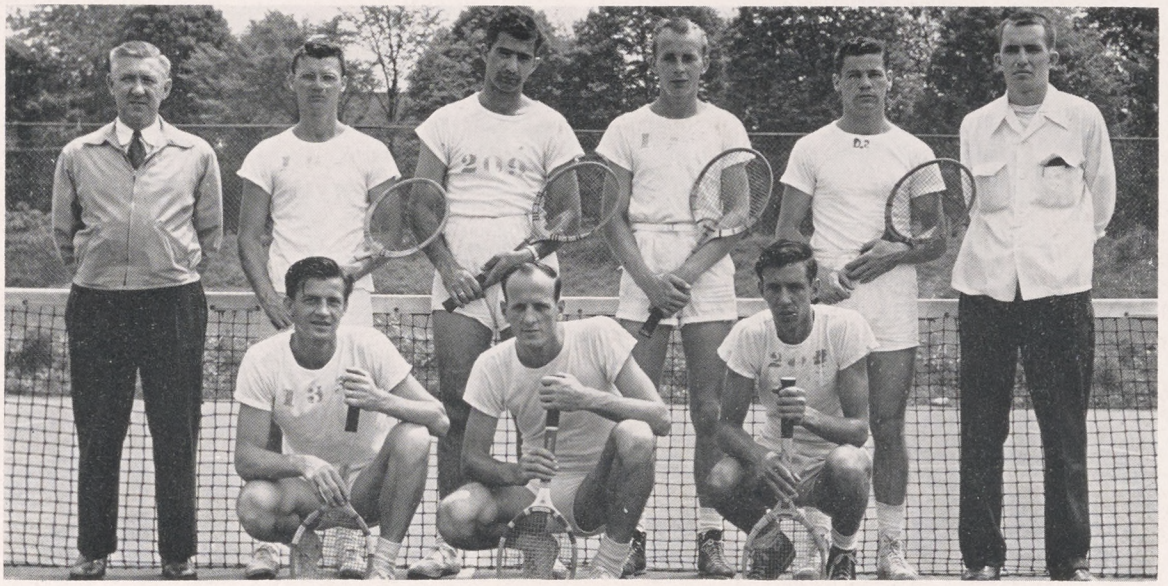

Opening their '49 season against Brooklyn College, the local lassies won a hard-fought match 3-2 on their opponent's courts. Next, the Warriorettes crushed a highly-regarded Temple net aggregation by a 4-1 count. The only point which Temple gained in this match came when Joy Valderrama, Owlette ace with a string of titles, took the measure of ESSTC's Ardath Houser. Extending their victory string to 3 straight, the Zimbarettes shut-out Drexel 5-0 on the latter's court. Then, with only two days rest, the white-clad racqueteers traveled to New York, where they decisioned N.Y.U. 3-2 in a nip-and-tuck battle. In the last game of the season, the ESSTC lassies made a clean sweep of all the matches to win 5-0 and complete a perfect season.

MEN'S TENNIS

Coach J. Frank Grimm's racket wielders finished the '49 season with only one win with seven defeats. However, the true success of a tennis season is not always determined by the won and lost column. Spirit ran high, as each man gave his all until the last point was played.

Their lone victory came over Montclair State Teachers College by an 8 to 1 score. Some of the losses with Trenton Teachers, Kutztown State Teachers College, Patterson Teachers, and Lafayette could have easily been turned in the Warrior's favor by a few points. These game, but inexperienced players displayed a great deal of potential ability, their play at times approaching the brilliant. Working hard, Coach Grimm has developed what looks to be a strong team for the 1950 season. Those lost by the team via the graduation route are Thomas Carvin, Ted Keir, and Paul Moser. Four lettermen returning for the season are Jack Broadt, George Bechtel, Pete Vendzules, and John Gutman.

"SMASH!"

A winning performance

Coach Howard DeNike's track forces continued their long winning streak by taking all but one meet in a six-meet schedule. The one losing meet of the season was with West Chester, who, while winning only 4 first places in a 13-event roster, managed to collect enough seconds and thirds to win by a close 66½ to 59½.

One of the Red and Black victories was Panzer College, which we drubbed 114-17 to set a new school-scoring record. Another easy victory was the Montclair Teachers' Meet, in which ESSTC took 13 first-place honors in a 15-event meet. Consistent winners in all the meets were Capt. Pat McCarthy, John Mincemoyer, George DeLong, Bill Hillman, Hank VanGorder, Paul Urda, and Bill Prater.

Journeying to Shippensburg, the Warriors took part in a Pennsylvania Teachers College Track and Field Meet. Here they received a third-place trophy, the first in many years. Too, Coach DeNike's one mile relay team placed third in a field of five at the Penn Relays held at Franklin Field in Philadelphia. Representing the ESSTC Warriors at the Relays were: John Mincemoyer, Pete Houston, Francis Wodock, Hank VanGorder, and Donald Furlong, alternate.

As per usual, spring rains put a halt to many practice sessions as well as to the big opening game with Lafayette. Finally, opening against Trenton the Warriors, led by their hard-hitting captain, Fred Kelly, were victorious 13-11. After working to improve erratic fielding and hitting, the Red and Black traveled to Panzer, where lack of power led to a 14-13 downfall. In a return engagement, ESSTC emerged victorious 2-1 in the most beautifully played game of the season, a pitchers' battle to the very end. Leo Johnson's single in the 9th was the telling blow. Following this the Warriors took Kutztown STC into camp 914 and 6-5, lost 6-3 to Rider, and battled Patterson to a 7-7 standstill. In the last game of the season before a large Alumni crowd, the Red and Black fell before Scranton University 11-10 in a wild game that had everything which makes baseball the national pastime.

Future Teachers of America, which grew out of the Horace Mann Centennial in 1937, is a project of local, state, and national education associations. Its three basic ideas are: (1) that the future belongs to youth and is full of hope, opportunity, and promise for those who prepare themselves for it, (2) that teachers are builders of civilization—next to the mother who passes on the unending stream of life comes the teacher who preserves, enriches, and transmits the ideals and purposes of the race, and (3) that America is peculiarly the home of the future and the teacher. FTA chapters in colleges and universities are training schools in professional and civic relationships with the purpose being to give a professional background to student teachers and to develop a practical understanding of the relationships that should prevail among teachers and those agencies with whom they are affiliated.

The local organization, the Thaddeus Stephens Chapter, was organized in 1947. Since that time this professional organization has grown in prominence until it has become one of the most important in the college. All seniors are members and derive from its diverse professional program much worthwhile and practical information of value to them as future teachers. Such topics as voice of the teacher, teacher rating, teacher salaries, teacher placement, professional ethics are fully discussed both by well-known authorities in the particular fields and by student committees. Not only does this group benefit from the local organization, but its members are in reality junior members of the state and national professional education associations.

MAY

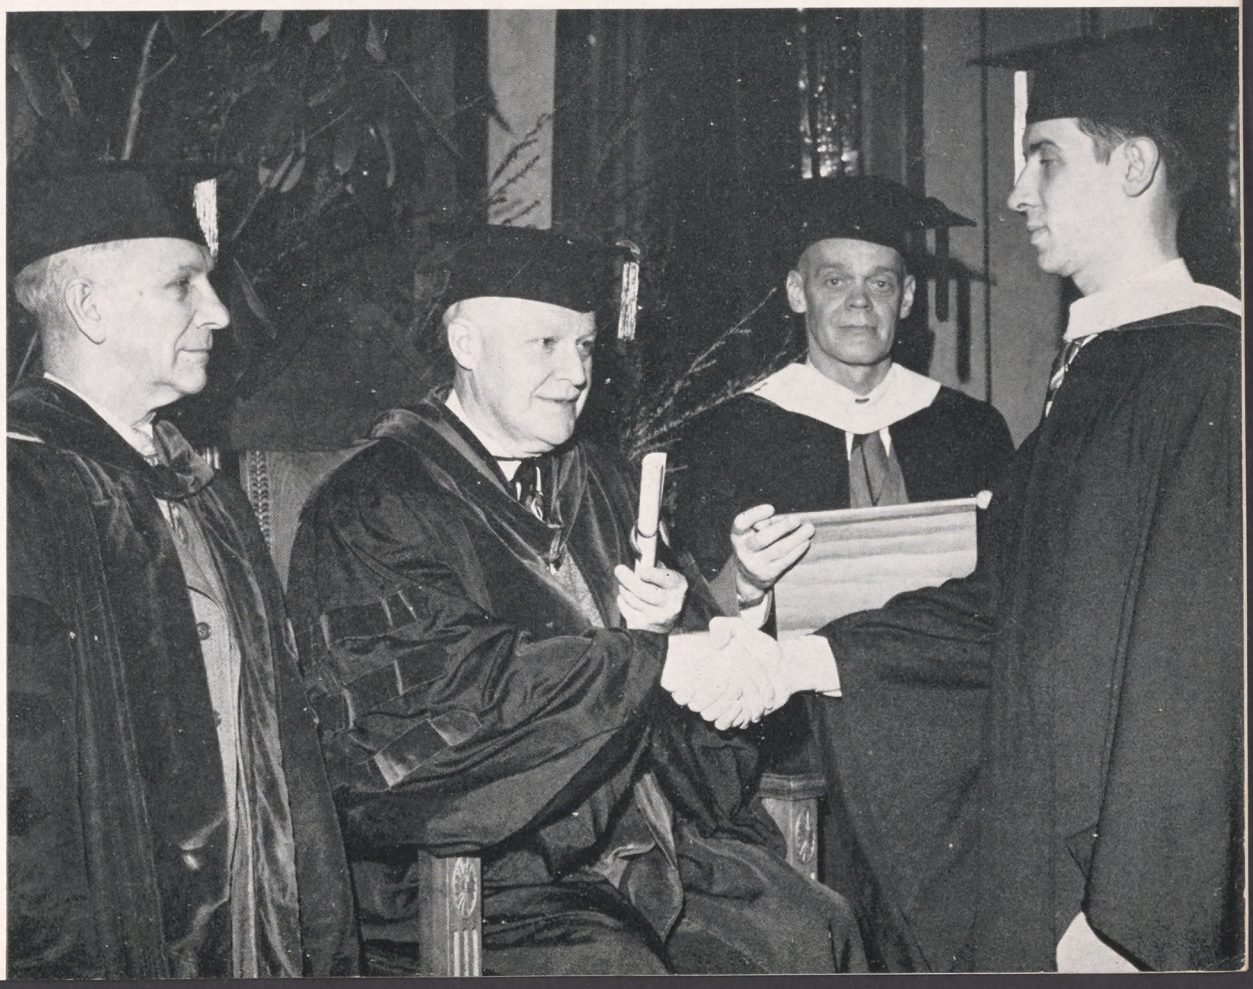

MAY STIRS a mixture of emotions on campus. The warm sun beams down upon day-dreaming students as they plod along to classes. Birds twittering merrily outside of classroom windows attract more attention than trying profs. Clubs anticipate activities for the succeeding year by electing new officers. Yearbooks appear and pass from hand to hand for cherished witticisms and signatures. Busy seniors rush about finishing last-minute details before ultimately donning gowns and mortar boards.

Fellows and girls gather in groups about the campus, reliving yesterdays and making plans for the months ahead. Friendly hours of living and sharing become limited. Now, the true meaning of "College ties can ne'er be broken" is fully realized. Looming dark upon the horizon are final examinations. Midnight oil burns as scholars ponder over texts in strained apprehension.

All too soon the term comes to an end and with it moving day. Drapes disappear, pennants are removed from the walls, and trunks monopolize the hallways. Dormitory quarters become barren, as underclassmen say farewell to the campus and those about to graduate.

Lastly, only the seniors remain. Old grads are greeted, Baccalaureate Services are held, and Commencement Day arrives. As each one takes his place beneath the "maple trees trim," the crowning point of college life is attained.

"GRADUATION"

SENIOR DANCE

The Senior dinner Dance, held at Fred Waring's luxurious Shawnee Inn on the Delaware, is the ONE EVENT in four years for which everyone has waited. A colorful and picturesque scene unfolds as our fellow classmates and their guests, transfigured into Cinderellas and Prince Charmings, glide up the walk and into the lobby of the Inn. Cinderella is beautifully arrayed in a spring gown with a matching corsage. Prince Charming wears a tuxedo or white dinner jacket. Hushed excitement and eager anticipation fill the atmosphere. A cool and inviting dining room beckons the group to the feast.

After dinner the class president and the faculty adviser speak to the group. Soon soft music floats in from the ballroom and all dancing feet are magnetically drawn away to the dance. Now and then a brilliant flash tells us that the photographer is busy taking pictures of happy couples as keepsakes of this eventful affair.

All too soon the evening has ended. The clock strikes the hour! Cinderella and Prince Charming must leave to step forward into the reality of the next day. With them they take a memory of this one last evening of elegance, this grand finale of college social life.

CLASS HISTORY

1946...the year we arrived! "We" meant not only women, but also MEN, an important addition after the war-time shortage. Most of these males were older and had been to those "far-away places." Now they were here, with a keen determination to make good.

Comprised of Penn Staters, accelerated students, regulars who planned to stay four years, and commuters, our Alma Mater was bursting at the seams. Its great overflow had to sojourn in the Fenner Hotel, the Bellevue and in private homes.

As "Frosh" we started college life with vigor. Rules and traditions were heaped upon us, and we suffered the inglorious period of "regs." Campus organizations swelled with our membership. Our first social dance, appropriately called "Cupid's Capers," was held in February.

None too soon did we become "reliable" Sophomores. Now we were eligible for membership in the Senate and various councils. Accordingly our number in the sports world increased. November threw the spotlight upon us as sponsors of the "Stardust Ball" with its "Wishing Well." This chief attraction must have been authentic, because all wishes for a successful year came true.

1948 brought us into our Junior Year. By that time things were really happening. Well-represented in all phases of college activity, we reached our height of accomplishment with the "Luxury Liner Ball," which gave us the impetus for the terminal college year.

Finally...we reached the top rung of the ladder. As Seniors and student-teachers, we took our last tasks to hand...with graduation we contemplated the future, taking along memories of days well-spent at ESSTC.

THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1950

AND THEN THERE is graduation, the culmination of our college years. Once more we are assembled together—for the last time.

By now we think ourselves more worldly and wise. Actually we are merely another group of young men and women going out to find our niche in the world. New realms remain to be discovered, new theories to be proved, vast philosophies to be delved into, and young minds to be guided into constructive channels.

Yet, there is a quiet pride in being handed that sheepskin symbolizing genuine effort on one's part to better self and society. However, the diploma tells only a part of college life. No credit is granted for coffee half-hours when Physics laws are weighed on the balance and found accurate, no grades given for rooting your heart out for the "Red and Black." Even group-study sessions, where fates of nations were redecided and evaluations of techniques were scaled to finer distinctions, have not been accredited.

Our college career has not been painful by any means. We have emerged well-rounded and versatile, eager to enter the profession for which we have been trained. It is we who now step up to take a major part in the shaping of the next generation.

"OUT OF THE EDITOR'S WASTE BASKET"

Farewell—ESSTC

goes out to a . . .

Delightful task! —to rear the tender thought
To teach the young Idea how to shoot,
To pour the fresh Instruction o'er the mind,
To breathe the enlivening Spirit, and to fix
The generous purpose in the glowing breast . . .

FOR YOUR FUTURE HOME Specify a
"FUEL-SAVER" International Boiler

Type DD "FUEL-SAVER" boilers give you MORE HEATING COMFORT, MORE DOMESTIC HOT WATER—WITH LESS FUEL.

Water Tube design provides FASTER HEATING and MAXIMUM HEAT ABSORPTION.

You can use any fuel with a "FUEL-SAVER" boiler. Loads of Fresh, Clean Hot Water instantly available the year 'round from an oversize cooper coil-submerged in the heated boiler water.

Burner or stoker control automatically maintains desired water temperature.

Attractive, two-tone enameled steel jackets are heavily insulated, blend with any basement color scheme.
