Downhill Slide Into Record Book

MONROE, La. (AP) —

Soggy but determined, 39

people are repeatedly trudging uphill to waterslide down 400 or so feet, hoping to splash into a record book.

"It'll be 30-hours plus, the way some of these people are,"

Melvin Ward, who thought up the stunt, said Sunday.

The entrants, from 12 to 48 years old, got sponsors to donate $50 to $100 to muscular dystrophy, he said.

By nightfall, one teen-ager

had dropped out. "His momma came got him. He's a young boy, and she kinda got a little aggravated at him and come and got him. She just didn't cotton to that there much,"

said Ward.
