Affray in Platte.

Major Halsey of Parkville informs us that on Saturday last, about seven miles east of Parkville, a colored man shot a young man named Sheppard, son of Lycurgus Sheppard, a well-known citizen of Platte. Three shots took effect—in the head, jaw and breast, and the wounds must prove fatal. The colored man who did the shooting was formerly a slave in the Sheppard family, but what induced his hostility we could not learn.
