We learn from the Leavenworth Commercial that Mr. C. Roach, his wife and five children, who lived in a small wooden house on Olive street, between Second and Third, South Leavenworth, were poisoned to death last Monday night. In the cellar were found Mr. and Mrs. Roach and their two youngest childred, in the sitting or dining room two other children, and in the kitchen the eldest daughter, a fair and promising child. Suspicion points towards a colored girl, named Ann Squires, as the murderess. She had been a servant in the family about two months, and during that time had been frequently heard to make threats. The girl is still at large, and it is thought has fled to Platte county.—K. C. Jour Com.
