NEW LIBRARY FOR ATCHISON

Congregational Church Deeded to Association.

MUCH HISTORIC INTEREST

First Congregational Congregation Was Organized in Atchison in 1858.

From Tuesday's Daily.

Trustees of the First Congregational church have conveyed to the Atchison Library association a deed to the church building which will be used as a permanent home for the Atchison public library. It is understood it will be extensively remodeled on the inside to adapt it to library purposes.

Owing to the fact so many members of the congregation either have left Atchison or have died, the trustees decided to turn over the church to the library association.

Only the north 50 feet on the lots facing on North Fourth street has been retained. This will be sold and the proceeds given to the Congregational conference at Topeka.

The property now owned by the library association is represented by the church building and the south 100 feet o fthe lots on the northwest corner of North Fourth street and Kansas avenue. The trustees who attached their signatures to the deed were Mrs. A. J. Harwi, Miss Elizabeth June, Robert Hyde, Judge J. L. Berry and Clarence Blanke.

The building is one of the handsomest church edifices in the state and although it was dedicated March 30 in 1897, it is in fine condition. It is understood that in the remodeling the beautiful memorial windows, recognized as extraordinary works of art, will not be disturbed. The windows of the audience room are memorials for Dr. D. J. Holland and sons, Rev. Francis T. Ingalls, S. C. Pomeroy, W. F. Downs, Mrs Anna Hetherington, and E. C. Johnson, and are rare examples of artistic skill.

When in March, 1858, the first Congregational church was organized there were nine persons—five men and four women—who composed the congregation. Rev. John H. Byrd, the first Congregational minister in Atchison, came here in June, 1857, and first held meetings in a small stone building on the corner of Second and Commercial streets, which was occupied during the week as a banking house. When the Congregational church was first organized here it was known as the "abolition" church and signalized the incoming of considerable numbers of free-state settlers. It is likely that all the founders of the church are dead.

Rev. Byrd, the first pastor, was a faithful pioneer in religious work and was a strong free-state man.

Andrew J. Evans, one of the founders of the church and who lived in the Independence Creek neighborhood at the Eden postoffice, assisted Rev. Byrd in hiding and assisting slaves who escaped from their owners. Mr. Byrd and Mr. Evans' homes were the Byrd and Mr. Evans' home were "stations" of the famous underground railway.

In 1860 a negro woman and a child belonged to Duff Green who lived in Mt. Pleasant neighborhood. The first free-sate territorial legislature had passed a law prohibiting slavery and declaring all slaves within its borders free. Duff sold the woman and the child to a trader who put them in a room in the Massasoit House to await a steamer that had made a trip to St. Joe and was expected back that night. By some means Rev. Byrd opened the door of the hotel and took the woman and her child to the home of Mr. Evans.

The Congregational minister was suspected of having assisted in the escape of the slave woman and her child and his house was searched. Bands of armed men scoured the country. The fugitives remained at the Evans home for days until the excitement subsided and then they were spirited away to Northern Ohio.

Rev. S. D. Storrs succeeded Rev. Byrd as the Congregational minister in Atchison and then followed Rev. J. M. Van Wagner, Rev. L. B. Wilson and Rev. F. T. Ingalls who was pastor of the church 12 years, from 1872 to 1884.

The first public library in Atchison was started in the basement of the old Congregational church by Maj. W. F. Downs in 1873. A city hospital was also started there by Mrs. C. B. Singleton and others in 1880.

Senator S. C. Pomeroy donated the lots upon which the old church was built in 1860, Mrs. Pomeroy donated brick for the construction of the basement. She had intended using the brick for a residence but denied herself the pleasure of a new home so the members of the congregation could have an assembling place of their own. The basement was used for some years until N. S. Gaylord and James Garside raised money to pay for the construction of the auditorium.

The first pipe organ brought to Kansas was installed in the old building of the Congregational church.

A SPORTSMEN'S CLUB.

Will Arensberg: "The Atchison anglers should start a movement looking forward to the organization of a Sportsmen's club. Alva Clapp says that should be done, with the hope of getting the sportsmen of the state organized. A state organization of sports would be effective in the way of going before the legislature and asking for certain laws effecting fish and game."

Will Arensberg should at once start the ball rolling. There are enough anglers and hunters in Atchison and Atchison county to make a real organization.

Andrew Jackson Cleek, an old resident of Buchanan county, Mo., died recently at De Soto, Kas. The deceased was 90 years of age, and settled in Buchanan county, opposite Atchison, at the opening of the Platte Purchase. He married Emaline Salsbury in Buchanan county and later moved to De Soto, Kas. One of his sons, Jack Clark, lives in Platte county, Mo.

DEATH OF A. L. MORRISON

From Monday's Daily.

Alexander L. Morrison, who lived many years on the Morrison farm a short distance south of Atchison, died Saturday night, at 10 o'clock, in the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Eagle, in Kansas City, Kas. He was a brother of J. W. Morrison and M. S. Morrison, who live south of Atchison; and Mrs. Nellie Buchanan, of Atchison. Bright's disease caused his death, and he had been in failing health two or more years. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Burial will occur in Mount Washington cemetery, Kansas City, Mo.

Older residents, of Atchison city and county will recall Alexander L. Morrison as a fine man in all respects. While he lived on the Morrison farm south of town, after having attained manhood, he conducted a dairy. He was born in Buchanan county, Mo., about seventy-two years ago, but spent his boyhood days on the farm south of Atchison. That farm is now occupied by the M. S. Morrison family. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison. In 1884 Alexander Morrison moved to Cottonwood Falls, Kas., where he became a ranchman. His marriage to Miss Georgia Scarborough, of Atchison, took place here in 1879. Sixteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. Morrison moved to Kansas City.

Alexander is survived by his widow and two children, Roy, Morrison, of Houston, Texas and Mrs. Eagle, of Kansas City, Kas. His surviving brothers and sister are mentioned in a preceding paragraph.

BURGLAR WORKS JUST AT DAWN

From Monday's Daily.

The Atchison burglar called at three homes Sunday morning, between 4 o'clock and 7 o'clock. He seems to think that all people go to church early on Sunday mornings. He called at the Hassenfratz home at Seventh and Spring streets about 7 o'clock yesterday morning. He entered the house through a window in the kitchen, and was frightened away by the screams of Mrs. Hassenfratz. Mrs. Hassenfratz is sure he was a colored man. He did not take anything from the house. Mrs. Hassenfratz and daughters were home. Her sons were at church.

At 7 o'clock yesterday morning the burglar entered Engineer David Beauchamp's house at 710 Park street. He entered through a back window. The Beauchamp family was in bed, but Mr. Beauchamp heard a noise, and got up. The burglar heard Mr. Beauchamp, and ran out of the house, taking no loot. Mr. Beauchamp is over six feet tall, and broad as a house, and if he ever gets hold of a burglar it will go hard with the burglar.

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning the burglar attempted to enter the J. B. Ross home on South Fifth street. Mrs. Ross turned the front porch light on him, and saw him. To her he appeared to be a man large in size.

SAYS BELL STRUCK HIM WITH HIS FIST

Charging that L. B. Bell, of Farmington, had struck him with his clenched fist, J. W. Graves yesterday swore out a complaint for his arrest. The warrant states that Mr. Bell is charged with assault and battery. A severe contusion around Mr. Graves' right eye bears evidence that he was in some sort of a row; Mr. Graves claims that he suffered the injury during an argument with Bell, who is a tenant in one of his houses. This is the second time within the past year that Mr. Graves and Mr. Bell have aired their differences before Judge William Cain, ni the city court. On May 8, 1920, Mr. Bell had Mr. Graves arrested for attacking him with an open knife. The case was dismissed in the city court, when the evidence failed to show that Mr. Mr. Graves had used a knife. But Mr. Graves was held on a warrant charging him with attempting to do bodily harm to Mr. Bell, and he was placed under a $500 peace bond. This bond Graves dramatically refused to furnish, and he was incarcerated in the county jail until he had a change of heart four weeks later, furnished the bond, and was released.

CAR REPAIRER KILLED AT DOWNS

From Monday's Daily.

William Reppman, Missouri Pacific car repairer, met death at Downs Saturday night when he fell under a moving car. Carrying a box of tools, he was trying to board the car when he slipped. He formerly worked on a piledriver out of Atchison, and many Central Branch employes in Atchison knew him. He was about forty years of age, and a man of family.

CATHOLIC MEN ORGANIZED

From Monday's Daily.

Yesterday afternoon, at St. Louis college hall, an Atchison Council of the National Council of Catholic men was organized, with Leo Nusbaum as president; David I. Degan, vice-president; Maurice P. O'Keefe, secretary, and B. H. Jacobs, treasurer. Father Girard was elected as honorary president of the organization.

The work of the National Council is especially along educational and social service lines. It will work especially among the foreign-born population, in an effort to create a better and higher type of citizenship among the people of this class.

ATCHISON'S BURGLAR READS

From Monday's Daily.

There is a clue about Atchison's Burglar. He can read. He entered Matt Nelson's house the other night, and ate a whole plateful of cream puffs, and also took liberal portions of roast beef, and as he ate he calmly sat at the table and read The Globe. The Nelson family did not know they had entertained a caller until after he had departed. They say Mrs. Nelson makes wonderful cream puffs.

The Erie canal, 387 miles long, is the longest in the United States.

ATCHISON HAS FLASHLIGHT PHIL

Burglar Entered Ed. Evans' Home.

GOT BUT $2.70 IN CASH

Ransacked Bedroom and Directed Light on Miss Florence Benning.

From Tuesday's Daily.

It was Ed. Evans' turn to be visited by the Atchison burglar last night. The Evans home is at 1125 Santa Fe street, and the burglar took $2.70. The burglar entered the room occupied by Miss Florence Benning. She was so frightened that she did not move, as she lay in bed, with her back turned on the intruder. She did not say a word, and did not get a glimpse at him. She was afraid he would shoot if she moved an eye lash or spoke a word. He had a flashlight, and turned the rays on Miss Benning several times. He did not say a word, either.

After taking $2.70 from her purse, he passed out of the bed room, and went away. Mr. Evans, who was awakened by the burglar, sneaked down stairs, but was too late to get a glimpse at the burglar. The small amount of money was all the property taken away. The burglar made his informal call at 12:30 o'clock. He gained entrance through a pantry window, and departed through the kitchen door. He ransacked the downstairs of the house very thoroughly. Ed. Evans is a retired farmer. I "knew that our house would be burglarized some time, so I am not astonished today," Mr. Evans said. "I am glad it's over with now."

Mrs. Ralph Tennal, of Sabetha, formerly society reporter on The Globe, attended the Kansas editorial meeting, and Kansas Day festivicies in Topeka last week, accompanying her husband, who was on the programme. Mrs. Tennal was interviewed for the Topeka Capital regarding professional Reformers, especially the latest Kansas affliction, Miss Lucy Gaston, of Chicago. Among other things Mrs. Tennal said: "When I think of one of the prominent members of the species leaving Chicago and coming out here to reform poor little innocent Kansas, and leaving Chicago to the wolves—it makes me laugh. Men who are the happiest in their own homes, who have the happiest wives, and the best brought up children, are the men who are permitted to smoke all they want to at home and can put their feet on the parlor chairs when there's no company around. Their wives are more concerned over their husband's contentment than the odor of tobacco in the parlor curtains. A little sunshine and fresh air will take care of the curtains—but a bigoted, narrow-minded, vain, self-satisfied wife or mother or a woman who is neither, will take all the sunshine and fresh air out of any man's life. It makes me so indignant to hear a woman say, 'Such and such a thing can't happen in my house!' How does she get to thinking that the house bought and paid for by her husband is her house? Last Christmas I wrote an ad in our paper for a pool hall proprietor. It ran like this: 'Don't give your husband a camisole for Christmas. Give him a pipe.' I suppose the proprietor didn't know what it meant but the women did. I'm like Henry George—I'm for the men! And when they come to my house they can smoke. The individual with a basque skirt, flat heels and hat that's come out of the ark does not appeal to the public. She's just a blot on the landscape. I think it's a woman's duty to be good looking, and if she can't get it from get it from Dorine!" (Note: The men will not know about Dorine, but the women will).

One of the wildest and most sensational rumors Atchison has had in years now is being industriously circulated. Globe reporters today have been busy investigating and they have found out it is an atrocious lie which should not be repeated. The story concerns certain high school students in Atchison and their conduct while at the high school. So far as Globe reporters have been able to learn, and no information has been withheld from them, a colored student at the school remarked to a white girl student that she had "a beautiful smile." The girl resented the remark and the manner in which it was made and reported it to her teacher. The boy then was called upon the carpet and according to the rumor he made a confession involving many students. The truth is there wasn't any confession made. The boy said there had been a few notes passed between students but that these notes concerned class work and nothing else. The Globe is positive that no attempt is being made to suppress anything and its only interest in the matter is to head off the pack of vicious, malicious falsehoods which are being circulated.

The first issue of The Daily Kansan Senator Arthur Capper's new publication at Kansas City, Kas., came off the press today. The Kansan starts with a paid-in-advance subscription list of approximately 17,000 and advertising contracts for the first year totaling more than $210,000, according to Marco Morrow, assistant publisher. Financial backing for the paper was obtained in a campaign conducted by the Chamber of Commerce several weeks ago. Although Kansas City, Kas., is the largest city in the state, with a population now exceeding 100,000, it has had no daily paper of its own general circulation, depending on the Kansas City, Mo., papers. The staff for the Kansan has been recruited largely from the Topeka office of the Capper publications. Charles Sessions, who has been managing editor of The Topeka Daily Capital, will be managing editor of the new paper. Harvey Parsons succeeds Sessions as managing editor of the Topeka paper. Carl White, formerly of the Kansas City Post, and a Kansas City, Kas., man, will be city editor of The Kansan .

Atchison churches are more alive these days than ever before. They all advertise, and the results are very satisfactory to the ministers and church pillars.

DAY'S DOINGS.

MONDAY.

A lie for today: "Let him tell all he wants to about me. I'm not worried. My life is an open book in this community."

Ed Lukens has always been a real gentleman. Hundreds of Atchison city and county people are expressing deep concern about his illness.

Burglars tried to enter the Ed McBratney home on Spruce street night before last. He was cutting on a screen door when he was frightened away.

Mrs. F. M. Baldwin, of St. Joe, and Miss Lois Benham, of Leavenworth, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Flower, 1125 Burbank street.

Rev. Albin Heinz, of Idaho, who was recently elected pastor of the two Lutheran churches at Lancaster, will arrive at Lancaster next week, to take charge.

A son was born recently in Kansas City to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Mitchell. Mitchell, who is now selling automobiles, formerly lived in Atchison and attended school here. His wife was an Ohio girl.

Housen Armstrong: "I hear so much bellyaching about the Memorial hall that I am sorry it was ever started." Housen, the reporters wish to clasp your mitt. They, too, feel the same way about it.

Her many friends will regret to learn that Mrs. G. H. T. Schaeffer was stricken with paralysis Saturday evening, about 6 o'clock. She is bedfast, but there is a considerable improvement in her condition today.

The population of the Orphans' home is increasing. Last week two girls were received at the home, one of them from Wichita, and the other from Iola; and the week before last, 6 children from one Topeka family were admitted to the home.

A little man entered a restaurant today, and was "sassed" by the waiter, a great big man. After the little man had departed from the restaurant, he said: "I can't understand what kept me off that man." Which is, of course, some more Old Stuff.

Fred Weertz, who was extended a call to become pastor of the Lutheran church at Bendena, has declined. He will become second assistant pastor of the Kountz Memorial Lutheran church at Omaha. Weertz is now a seminary student at Fremont, Neb.

Fred Ernst, jr., will celebrate his third birthday on Ground Hog day by having a party, to which he has invited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Ernst, and Mrs. Norman Yaple as special guests. Fred has no use for the Ground Hog, even if his birthday does fall on Ground Hog day.

It is probable that there will be no more sessions of the jury in the district court this term. Judge W. A. Jackson has excused the jury until March 1, and it is understood that he will not call the jury back then unless there are sufficient cases to be heard to make it worth while.

The playing floor of the gymnasium in the new Roosevelt building will be about 4 feet larger each way than the floor at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The seats around the court will be arranged in amphitheater style, in a balcony that will be 7 feet above the gym floor, and which will seat 1,200 people.

At the union depot the matron has a great deal of trouble with women who go into the women's rest room to smoke. The practice is most general among colored women, and often, depot attendants say, there are scores of cigarette "butts" lying around the women's rest room at the end of a busy day.

Mrs. Imogene Challiss, formerly of Atchison, writes from her home in Gotha, Germany, that the contract under which her son, Harold Challiss, is singing, expires June 1, of this year. It is understood that Mr. Challiss and his mother will return to America as soon as the contract expires.

An Atchison man recently tanked up on home brew, and wandered to Omaha Junction. Feeling a sense of helplessness coming on, he went to a phone and said he had a burglar cornered. The patrol wagon was sent to the junction, the officers could not find any burglar. The drunk man merely wanted a ride to town in the patrol wagon.

The Maple Hill, Kas., postoffice was robbed the other night. Concordia bloodhounds were taken to Maple Hill, and followed a trail from the postoffice to the home of two colored men. Under the porch of the house occupied by the colored men a mail pouch was found. The colored men are now in jail. A still was also found in their home.

At the court house Saturday Chas. C. Brown, of Horton, and Miss Victoria Norfolk, of Horton, were married by Judge J. P. Adams. Other late marriages by Judge Adams were Maurice A. Moyer, of Atchison, and Miss Ethel Hood, of East Atchison; and George P. Bunker and Bertha Marie Smith, both of St. Joe. A license to wed was issued to Fred Beck, of Atchison, and Miss Opal Reed, of St. Joe.

Ewing Herbert says a word in behalf of the Common Peepul: "No wonder that taxpayers are disgusted with the legislature. Right off the bat employment has been given to four persons to do the work of one person. There are 70 persons on the payroll—paid by taxpayers, to do work 20 persons could do very well. Waste, extravagance are not yet out of the saddle, but some of the legislators will be, next election."

Capt. L. B. Dougherty, the first white child born at Fort Leavenworth, recently celebrated his 92nd birthday at his home at Liberty, Mo. Capt. Dougherty was born at Fort Leavenworth in 1828. His father, Major John Dougherty, was then Indian agent for the Missouri river territory and was stationed at the fort. Major Dougherty formerly owned the townsite of Iatan, Mo., and was the founder of that pioneer town, naming it for his friend, Chief Iatan, of the Otoe Indians.

Miss D. Anna Speer: "Allan Newman, one of the New man brothers of Cherryvale, Kas., sent to the penitentiary on a charge of defrauding depositors in their bank, was at the Kansas state normal school at Emporia when I was there several years ago. He was one of the treasurers of the school, and a most highly respected man, in every way. He married one of the daughters of President Taylor, of the normal. It was a real shock to all of us who knew him, when the news came that he had been found guilty of the crime with which he was charged."

There is now a row raging in Topeka in which Atchison has a look in. The situation is explained by the following which appeared in The Topeka Capital Thursday: Another chapter has been added to the history of the flag which may become the battle flag of Kansas, if the life of the flag continues in the spirit in which it has begun. The flag in question was made by Albert T. Reid and was hung in the Kansas house at New York, where Miss Helen Ostertag, of Atchison was hostess, during the war. It was given to the Kansas State Historical society. The flag was locked in the vaults of the society, where it remained in peace and security until Wednesday when events in the history of the flag made W. C. Connelley and Miss Clara V. Francis, of the State Historical society, feel that they should take the flag to the legislature. A resolution was introduced into the senate Tuesday requiring that the flag be hung in the legislature pending the passage of a bill adopting a state emblem. This resolution was said to have been introduced in order to lay bare the facts concerning the disappearance of the flag, since Miss Ostertag had given it into Miss Francis' keeping. Miss Francis and Mr. Connelly, carefully guarding the flag, which was fastened up in a firm box, came to the legislature to show that the flag was not lost. Anyone who asked could see the flag. The last who have made that request are Mrs. De Witt C. Nellis and Miss. Nanon Herron, of the Native Daughters of Kansas. This society will ask that the flag be made the state emblem. Miss Francis and Mr. Connelly admitted that they were a bit impatient over the allegations that the flag was lost. They are both of the opinion that the story arose as the result of Mr. Connelly's refusal to allow the flag to be taken to Chicago last June, to the National Republican convention. Mr. Connelly refused the request because the state laws would not allow him to remove the flag from the historical society vaults without permission of the legislature. That's the state law, and not Mr. Connelly's, he explained. With the flag safe in the society vaults, and with everyone knowing its whereabouts, the flag alteration has quieted. The next ripple may be expected when the Reid flag is placed against the flag indorsed by the D. A. R., when the legislature tries to decide upon an emblem. Members of the D. A. R. and the W. R. C. took hands in the little game of 'Flag, flag, who's got the flag?' by saying to many legislators that the Stars and Stripes should be enough emblem for even such a fine state as Kansas."

John Compton, fire marshal: "After having fought fires in Atchison for forty-two years, I went to Kansas City this week and almost perished in a fire, and feel humiliated. I was in the Owl drug store building at Tenth and Main streets in Kansas City Wednesday, when that building caught fire. I was in an office room on one of the upper floors. 'I smell smoke,' I said to the gentleman who occupied the office. 'Quit kidding yourself,' said the man. But just then the fire department arrived. 'I tell you something has broke loose,' I said. I opened the door that led into the hall or corridor, and a great cloud of smoke swept into the office room. The other man and I were in immediate danger of smothering to death right then and there. We got down on our hands and knees and crawled into the hall and down a stairway. But I figured that we were doomed. Arriving on the floor at the bottom of the stairs, we met with firemen who wore masks. They dragged us to the rear of the building, and shoved us out. My rubbers are still in the office down there. I don't believe I'll go back after them. If I've got to die in a fire, let it be in Atchison. By gosh, the more I think about it, the more humiliated I feel."

Guy Swallow, who has as broad a smile as any good fellow in the state, is in Atchison today. Mr. Swallow is a graduate of the old-school of politics who has adapted himself to the constantly changing conditions and is one of the most popular men in the state. At present he is employed in the state banking department under Walter Wilson, state bank commissioner, who is under fire. Mr. Swallow came to Atchison today to deliver to J. M. Challiss copies of all the pleadings, exhibits, depositions and briefs of the ouster proceedings brought against the bank commissioner. The case was tried before Mr. Challiss as a commissioner representing the supreme court but he hasn't announced his decision as yet.

Ed. Lukens was removed to the Atchison hospital yesterday afternoon where Dr. Poorman assisted by Dr. C. A. Lilly and Dr. Charlie Johnson, inserted a tube to drain an abscess formed by an inflamed appendix. A quart of pus was drawn from the abscess, and from a small pocket which had formed. The condition of Mr. Lukens at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon was as satisfactory as could be expected. His physicians say his splendid health and manhood are great factors in his ultimate recovery. Miss Edna Bonnell, trained nurse put in charge of the case at the first, and who has faithfully remained at her post day and night, is being relieved part of the time by a nurse sent last night from Kansas City by Dr. Poorman.

Mrs. C. S. Hull returned last night from Topeka, where she went to assist in celebrating the sixtieth birthday of Kansas, which state has been her home since 1867. Saturday morning Mrs. Hull attended the program of the Women's Kansas Day club, of which she is a member. At noon she attended the luncheon given by the Natal Sons and Daughters, where she has a place, being a Kansas pioneer. In the afternoon she attended the annual board meeting of the First district Kansas Women's Federated clubs, of which she is vice president, and that evening was one of the 700 guests attending the Kansas Day banquet. While in Topeka Mrs. Hull was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Byers.

Mrs. Nellie Hays, and her sons, Luther and John, of Franklin, Indiana, who came New Year's to visit at the home of Mrs. Hays' brother, E. E. Marr, 1106 Kansas avenue, will leave this evening for their home. Mrs. Hays went to Savannah, Mo., shortly after her arrival in Atchison, where she had an operation, returning here a week ago. Yesterday Herbert Marr, of Falls City, spent the day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Marr.

Paul Schmidt, who has been away from Atchison fourteen or fifteen years, has returned to Atchison, and it is understood he has bought John Scherger's tailoring shop at Sixth and Kansas avenue.

Press dispatches state that Governor Allen and Mr. Gompers will meet again and put on a public debate. That's old stuff. The people know what the governor will say and what the labor leader will say. The debate they had last year did not change the mind of anybody.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ramsay, who are taking their wedding journey, went by boat from New Orleans to New York, where they are now at the Waldorf Astoria. They are expected home next week. Upon their return Ronald Ramsay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Ramsay, will leave for Hot Springs.

H. C. Auld, writing from Mohawk, Ore, where the Aulds are in the lumber business, states that the rainy season there this winter has been something unreasonable. It is the wettest season in that district's history. Since September 8 thirty-five inches of rain have fallen, and there have been only five rainless days.

Near Sparks yesterday an 18-year-old boy named Carter accidentally killed himself, when a gun which he had placed against a fence fell to the ground and discharged itself, the bullet entering his side. The boy lived only a few minutes after the accident. His father is a prominent farmer of the Sparks neighborhood.

Jim Conlon has left St. Louis and gone to Fort Worth, to superintendent the installation of the plumbing in two new buildings of great size. One of them will be a 600-room hotel, and the other one will be a 26-story office building. Mr. Conlon is associated with the Westlake Construction Co., a large firm with headquarters in St. Louis.

Clay Lott: "These are ticklish times in Atchison. The railroad men realize it, too. We surely are not in favor of giving the politicians a chance to land a man on the new board of commissioners, which will be organized under the city manager form of government. We have a lot of faith in the new form, if the right men are placed at the helm of the city government ship."

The funeral of Theodore Hart, whose death from pneumonia in Washington, D. C., was related in The Globe last night, will take place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Christian church and will be in charge of the American Legion. The body will arrive tomorrow morning at 10:05, coming from Kansas City on the Missouri Pacific. Interment will be in Mt. Vernon.

Frank Anderson, who formerly lived west of town, is now working in a store in Santa Ana, California. He and his family are homesick for Atchison county, and may decide to move back. His brother, George Anderson, who formerly lived west of Shannon, will move back to Atchison county this spring. Frank Anderson is paying $45 a month rent for a four room house in Santa Ana.

Milton Cummings, an Effingham young man, and the son of Clarence Cummings, of Effingham, is making a name for himself at the state university at Lawrence. He has been chosen as one of the members of the K. U. debating team, which will meet the University of Colorado team within a few weeks. Milton Cummings formerly was a student at the Atchison county high school at Effingham.

Twenty-four hens sold last week by J. G. Horn, retired farmer, who lives in the big brick house this side of the state orphans' home, brought him $36. The hens averaged six and a fourth pounds each, and sold for an average of $1.50 each. Mr. Horn and his son-in-law, Dr. C. L. Hixon, sell eggs to the wholesalers, and last week Mr. Horn brought 22 dozen to market, receiving 55 cents a dozen, and this week 32 dozen, receiving 50 cents a dozen.

Wilbur Hawk: "I am, of course, very much gratified because I was elected president of the Kansas Day club. It is a real honor to be the head of that organization. But it must be understood that my election was due to the fine manner in which Walter E. Brown, Ernest Underwood and Senator Burdick and other Atchison friends boosted me for the place. Without their hard work and loyal support I would never have been put over the top, top, top."

T. A. Gardner, the local wrestler and pugilist, was arrested yesterday by Jess Torbett, marshal of the city court, on a warrant charging Gardner with assault and battery. The warrant was sworn to by Theodore Billmek, who claims that Gardner struck him with his fists recently. Yesterday afternoon Gardner was arraigned in the city court, and entered a plea of not guilty. The date for his trial was set for February 14, at 10 o'clock. Gardner was released from custody under a $200 bond, signed by himself, G. W. Warfield and Charles J. Conlon.

Here's a story from the Forty Years ago column in the Kansas City Times this morning which shows forty years ago Kansas City stood where it does today with those who visit the city: A well-dressed commercial traveler—a wise-looking "drummer" he was, too—set his valise on the floor in the waiting room at the Union depot yesterday and went up to the lunch counter to get a bite to eat. A few minutes later when he looked around for his grip it wasn't there. Same old story. "Serves me right, I ought to have known better—in Kansas City," said the drummer to a reporter.

Atchison hospital notes: Mrs. F. E. Long, whose husband is a teacher in the Atchison high school, had a minor operation yesterday......Mrs. George L. Stein, who, as was briefly mentioned in The Globe Saturday, was operated on Saturday morning, is doing nicely, but is very weak. She had a double operation: one for appendicitis and one for gall bladder. ......The condition of C. D. Brenner remains about the same......At one time yesterday afternoon there were 12 automobiles on the hospital hill, having come with people who anxiously awaited the result of Mr. Lukens' operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamme have arrived in Manila, and have begun their work. On arriving there they witnessed a great riot, and saw many people fall dead and wounded, as a result of a barrage. Enroute to the Philippine islands, they visited Miss Helen Ritner at Shanghai, and found her busy and happy. The famine in China is something awful, and Mr. and Mrs. Hamme saw many starving people. One day Mr. Hamme gave some money to several starving Chinese children. In a few minutes a great mob of starving Chinese people gathered around him, and begged and implored for money and food. The mob became so great that the police had to disperse it. Mrs. Hamme is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Armstrong.

Mrs. C. H. McNamara, a sister of Father Gilbert, of St. Benedict's college, passed away Wednesday night at her home in Sabetha. An operation for appendicitis which Mrs. McNamara underwent last December caused her death this week. Mr. McNamara is the manager of the Wilson Poultry Co. branch house at Sabetha. The funeral service was held at Hanover, Kas., the former home of Mr. and Mrs. McNamara today.

An item in The Globe last night to the effect that eggs declined 5 cents in price yesterday because great quantities of eggs are coming into the country from China causes an Atchison county woman to indignantly ask: "Why does not China eat her own eggs, instead of sending them to this country, thereby lowering the price here, and then calling on the United States to aid starving China?" A timely question? We'll say it is.

Some haul and one that hasn't been reported to the police was made by Atchison's liquor pilferers the other night. According to street rumor 20 gallons of rare liquor was stolen from an Atchison home. The man who owned the rare fluid refused to be interviewed by reporters but his intimate friends say he is a broken up. There hasn't been much liquor stealing in Atchison lately; there isn't much old-time liquor left.

The funeral of Mrs. Modrell will take place tomorrow morning at o'clock from St. Benedict's church; interment in the Catholic cemetery. Mrs. Modrell's husband, V. P. Modrell, arrived this morning from San Bernardino, Calif. The pall bearers for the funeral will be L. J. Mullins, G. L. Weingart, C. L. Horan, John Wolters, John Frommer and August Nestler.

Dan Lynch: "Hicks and Devoe forecast ordinary weather for the rest of the winter. Hicks has been hitting the mark this winter. The recent rains and snow amounted to .81 of an inch at Sumner. A friend writes me that around Montreal, Canada, the weather has been very mild this winter with very little snow. I walked to town this morning, to keep from becoming ossified."

Kansas legislature may pass a bill making Armistice Day a legal holiday. Other legal holidays in Kansas are New Year's Day, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, Decoration Day, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas. To be sure, the banks observe all of them.
