State of Missouri

vs.

Marshall, Frederick

Compelling Slave to work on Sunday

State of Missouri } In the Circuit Court
County of Platte } April Term 1846.

The Grand Jurors for the State of Missouri, for the body of the County of Platte aforesaid, upon their oath present, That Frederick Marshall late of said County on the first day of February in the year of our Lord Eighteen Hundred and forty six at the County aforesaid, did compel a certain Slave (to the Jurors aforesaid unknown) which said Slave was then and there under the charge and control of him the said Frederick Marshall to perform certain work and labor on the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, by then and there compelling the said Slave to perform work and labor other than of the Household office of daily necessity, and other than of the works of necessity or charity, and that the said Slave then and there did by such compulsion of the said Frederick Marshall perform certain work and labor in and about the chopping of Wood, and the hauling of Lime, Sand, Stone, Corn, Wood, Brick, Plank, and Lumber with an Ox Team and Waggon, and in the making and fixing of large lasting and valuable improvements upon a certain piece of land then and there situate, contrary to the form of the Statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the State.
