

THE RESEARCH STUDIO
Maitland • Florida

The RESEARCH STUDIO is a workplace for painters and sculptors. It has for its purpose the encouragement of American artists toward an adventurous and experimental approach to the art problems of today.

Each winter, over a period of four months from January to May, it offers to selected groups of progressive artists an interlude from their more customary surroundings and methods of expression in order to give them an opportunity to work under conditions that will assure privacy and freedom from restrictions and intrusions.

In its monastery-like enclosure, its location, as well as the design and arrangement of buildings and courtyards, the Research Studio has been planned to insure an atmosphere creative of work and contemplation.

Artists who accept the invitation of the Research Studio to become its guests are at no expense other than the cost of transportation, materials, and other personal expenditures.

The RESEARCH STUDIO
is situated at Maitland, a small town in the Lake country of central Florida.
It is the gift of Mary Bok
and is under the direction of André Smith.
