

December 9, 1981

Norm,

I think you are right about "Drogeham" and "Harkema."
According to the tapes it is 52 north and 6 east.

As for Winston Johnson, he was alive in 1975 and at that time his address was 34 Hamilton Road, Arlington, MA 02174. If you write him you might tell him that a children's novel, THE SECRET OF THE DUNES, in which Bouke is a central figure, has received initial editorial review board approval by a major publisher and I am waiting to hear next steps on it. I think he will be interested.

As for the stocks, we inherited some bankrupt J. T. Grant stock, some Palm Beach Co., and some Fibreboard Corp. I, too, heard about the May Co. stock. I don't know about any others.

I know a few others who knew Bert for sometime, but they are scattered and they knew very little about the Dunites. If you want to come up and go through my tape transcripts, it would probably be faster than writing them. Many I wrote didn't bother to answer. Angus Crites was good at first, but he didn't answer my last letter or two.

Things are going great with my writing. Just learned I won first prize in CROSSCURRENTS First Annual Fiction Contest and the short story will be nominated by the editor for PUSHCART PRIZE ANTHOLOGY or THE RANDOM REVUE for consideration for further award. I am delighted, because as well as a $200 cash prize the nomination is an honor whether the story is selected or not. THE NEW YORK TIMES Literary Section considers PUSHCART PRIZE a literary event of the year. . .

Hope this helps you out. Thanks for letting me know about the error in location.

Sincerely,

Jane Elsdon

JE