

This is the final version of an RR&G standard switch lock. Again made by Handlan-Buck Co. of St. Louis, this lock dates from about 1918 by its design. This is the most commonly found RR&G lock and there is one of these in the Southern Forest Heritage Museum Collection.