and a period of silence was observed in memory of the departed president. By order of Gen. Guerre, the American flag in the area near camp headquarters was ordered flown at half-mast for a period of 30 days. Social and athletic events scheduled for the week-end were cancelled.

Normal military routine continued uninterrupted in all branches on the Post, but a sober attitude prevailed among all personnel giving mute evidence that the passing of the commander-in-chief left a deep feeling of sadness in the hearts of all.
