LATEST INTELLIGENCE.

Yesterday we received the Paris Papers of Wednesday last. The intended embarkation of a Russian army for France has given rise to a variety of rumours. The French Papers inform us that it is not the whole Russian army that is to be replaced by French troops, but only 5 or 6,000 men, chiefly cavalry.

The King has conferred the dignity of Grand Crosses of the Order of St. Louis on Monsieur, the Dukes of Angouleme and Berri, the Prince of Conde, Duke of Bourbon, and Duke of Orleans.

ORIGINAL PROPRIETOR
BELL'S WEEKLY MESSENGER
& also
BELL'S Edition of the Poets
OF GREAT BRITAIN.
BELL'S Edition of Shakespeare.
and
BELL'S BRITISH THEATRE.

These papers continue to inform us of the damage done by storms of hail and rain, by lightning and thunder, in every part almost of Europe:

Such sheets of fire, such horrid bursts of thunder,

Such groans of roaring wind and rain.

Whole districts have been ravaged and laid waste, houses have been blown down; the labours of the husbandman destroyed; rivers have burst their banks, and inundated vast tracts. The greatest damage seems to have been done in Germany.

It is said that the reigning Prince of Coburg is about to visit this country.

The thriving condition of the recently married Princess of the Netherlands is announced; and also that Lauenbourg has, after an earnest endeavour on the part of Hanover to retain it, been finally ceded to Denmark.

We have nothing more worth notice in these Papers. The French Funds continue falling—they are under 58.

Private Correspondence.

PARIS, JULY 16.—A conspiracy has been detected at Troyes, in consequence of the revelations of one Lapeyriere, which has led to numerous arrestations. The intention of the party was to begin with seizing the funds deposited at the Receiver General's. The chief of the plot has been likewise apprehended.

VIENNA, JULY 6.—These last two days the crowd before the Bank is more considerable. To accelerate affairs four new offices are to be opened on Monday next, and a greater number of clerks will be employed to discount the bills. Against all expectation the course of exchange has fallen. The stock-jobbers, availing themselves of this circumstance, propagate the absurdest rumours, and contribute to lower it yet more. But the prudence of Government will eventually prevail, and the measures adopted contain in them the assurance of their success. The Public have already purchased 2500 bank actions. The course of exchange on Augsburg is 270, value of silver money 276 (this evening, at six o'clock, 272); the new bonds at one per cent. had amounted to 16, but fell again to 14 one-third.

NAPLES, JULY 1.—The harvest offers the most agreeable prospect in the provinces; but the high roads, and in general all means of communication, are intercepted by banditti who pillage the inhabitants, and threaten to burn the corn. The Austrian troops use every effort to put an end to these excesses, but they are not sufficiently numerous, especially in cavalry, and are unsupported by the troops of Naples. A detachment of Hungarian cavalry attacked lately 18 men of the band of the brothers Vardanelli, near Apulia in Apulia. These miscreants fled to the woods. These same brothers Vardanelli attacked lately near Sarracapriola, at the head of 14 horsemen, a Neapolitan detachment, commanded by a Captain, who had been sent out against them. Twenty-five, with a Lieutenant and sergeant, were taken prisoners. The banditti gave them a supper, and having made them drink "long life to the King—death to his Ministers," dismissed them. Giuseppe di Furia, chief of the banditti, who desolated the vicinity of Bocino, receives 300 ducats a month for protecting the provinces he had been plundering before. General Canvellicia scours the country at the head of a battalion to ensure its tranquillity.

The Sovereign of Nepal with whom Lord Moira entered into a treaty, died before it had been ratified, and was succeeded by his brother. This brother is described to be strongly attached to the Mahrattas. As soon as he ascended the Musnud, he refused to ratify the treaty, and entered into a correspondence with Scindia and the Berar Rajah, both of whom, it is said, have manifested such hostile dispositions towards us as to induce a belief that we shall be immediately engaged in war with the Government of Nepal and with the Mahratta Powers.

Lord Exmouth sails this day. The accounts in the several Papers of the difficulty attending the manning of his Fleet, are, we can confidently say, not only great exaggerations, but absolute falsehoods.

Intelligence was received yesterday of the arrival of the Peruviana from St. Helena, but we do not understand that it brings any interesting news.

Extract from the Cork Advertiser.—The Tay Planter, arrived in our Harbour on Thursday last, after a passage of 30 days, bringing Papers to the 7th ult. The Charleston Courier of the 4th June, states, that the American cutter Dallas, Captain Smith, found at sea a ship drifting, which proved to be the Alexander, Capt. Conally, of Cork, bound from Jamaica to New Brunswick, laden with rum, &c. The Dallas found the master and one seaman dead, and the rest of the crew in a state of intoxication, not being able to navigate the vessel; the Alexander was taken into the Savannah.

The Princess Charlotte did not go out in a carriage with Prince Leopold to the Queen's Palace on Tuesday, as was stated by mistake. Her Royal Highness's health, we are happy to say, is much improved, but she still keeps her room.

THE THEATRES.

LYCEUM AND HAYMARKET.

Both of these Theatres continue to maintain their public favour, and by the production of novelties to deserve it. As friends of both Theatres, and more particularly as a public duty, we could wish to point out some minor inconveniences, which may be easily remedied by the Proprietors, but which are exceedingly obnoxious to the public.

So much of the pleasure of these theatres depends upon the good conduct of the box-keepers, that it is the interest as well as duty of the proprietors to attend to it, and we feel ourselves called upon to notice it; and as this notice will probably be attended with a just reproof to the servants concerned, we should certainly not have given it unless it had fallen under our observation.—We allude to the indecent and rapacious taking and seeking for money, by the box-keepers, for giving places even in an empty house; their evident sale of those places against all fairness; and their rudeness and delay in not opening a box, nearly empty, until the fee is given or offered. It is fair to say that we are speaking of the Lyceum and not of the Haymarket. There is another nuisance in this House. Immediately upon entering, the front of the entrance of the dress-boxes is encircled and guarded by a string of women, (fruit-sellers) who, for the sake of money which ought not to be allowed, pester every lady who comes in with observations that such a part of their dress cannot be allowed in the dress-boxes, but that they will take care of it for them: the box-keeper joins in the observation, and a cloak, tippet, or even fancy head-dress, is then necessarily handed to these women, for the care of which they are paid after the play. It is perfectly right, and no one can object to it, that some distinction should be kept up in these dress-boxes: red cloaks and straw hats are properly excluded, but the exclusion should not be made a source of this traffic, and should not be extended to summer head-dresses, &c. The Lyceum is not the Court or Opera. We should not notice this, but that it may be easily remedied, and because we are well aware that Mr. Arnold is most laudably anxious to do every thing for the convenience of the public, and will correct all abuses when pointed out to him.

The Opera of Artaxerxes was extremely well performed; the Lady who performed in Mandane is very little inferior to Miss Stephens; indeed seems to want only practice to become her equal. The recitative of this Opera is so dismal, and the action so totally uninteresting, that the Managers are entitled to very considerable praise for reducing it to two Acts.

In the Haymarket, Mrs. Glover and Mr. Terry continue to attract crowded houses, and are never seen without pleasure. It rather surprises us, however, that the Managers should revive such a Drama as Such Things Are,—an unnatural, turgid, and inane play. We had never, however, seen it before, and we cannot but acknowledge that it interested us, though upon reflection we cannot approve it. Huvel, we suppose, was a compliment to the late Mr. Howard, and was a merited one. But prisons are not the suitable scenery of a stage; nor violent and horrible passions of Comedy.

BLACKHEATH PEDESTRIAN.—Eaton, yesterday afternoon, completed his hitherto unparalleled task of 1100 miles in 1100 hours, about 20 minutes after 4 o'clock; and the day being fine, the crowd was immense. Eaton, on going his last round, was greeted by the cheers of nearly the whole of the spectators—not only by those who were in carriages and on horseback, but likewise by those on foot; with this mark of respect, this champion of Pedestrianism was highly delighted; and in coming up to the Hare and Billet, so anxious were those who surrounded him, that it was with the utmost difficulty he could get along. The course was for a short time stopped, and having gained his room, he was joined by his friends. The facility with which he has, in 45 days and 20 hours, at one mile an hour, performed this unexampled task of Pedestrianism, and the unimpaired strength he has still preserved, induced Eaton in the course of the afternoon to express his confidence of performing sixty miles a day for ten successive days, to commence immediately. His friends have offered to back him to perform the like feat he has now completed for a considerable sum of money, but as yet their challenge has not been accepted.

Eaton, in going his last mile, was attempted to be thrown three times by some supposed hirelings of his opponents. After completing his match, he went another mile, which he performed in twelve minutes.

BARNET, THE ESSEX PEDESTRIAN.—This veteran hero, who is now attempting his task of 1000 miles, at his advanced age of 72 years, if ultimately successful, will far surpass all other feats of pedestrianism. Barnet continues in most excellent spirits, and is in good health: his friends and backers in this match spare no trouble or expense to render him every assistance. So far as he has gone he certainly has exceeded either Captain Barclay or Eaton: having, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, performed 262 hours, which he has done in grand style, at one mile and a half each successive hour; which enable him to be 131 miles ahead of either of them in that time. This most extraordinary feat daily attracts crowds of spectators.

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS MARY.—At this momentous crisis of her life, a correct Portrait of her must be highly acceptable and gratifying to every patriotic admirer of Royal female worth and perfection. This treasure may be obtained in the next Number of LA LADY'S ASSEMBLER, to be published on the 1st of August next. It is a most admirable likeness of Her Royal Highness will be given by authority, from the genuine and original portrait, by Sir WILLIAM BEECHY. This Number may be obtained by an attorney, or on account of the most beautiful Portraits, which had not been the Length Portraits in the most complete manner. The Mouth, which will enrich this could probably have been a fine lead of a habes corpus.
