

POLICE.—THE CONSPIRACY. (Continued.)

Bow-street.—On Thursday, Mackay further stated that Pelham, at present in custody in the city, had come to him upon a certain occasion, and asked him if he could procure 5*l.* as he was enabled to put him into "a good thing for the Mint: the job was already to their hands, and the men at work." This he (Mackay) declined. When the four Irishmen were tried for coining last Session, (but who were acquitted upon a point urged by Mr. Justice Bayley in their favour) he saw Pelham and a person named Ryan, who told him that Vaughan had advanced money to do the "job, and that Dickons and Jefferson were in it." To a few days after this, Pelham told him, that if he (Mackay) would advance him money to buy counterfeit shillings, he would put him in "such another concern," and he would find the men all ready and at work. This he also declined. Dickons afterwards complained to him of the money he had lost in treating the Irishmen, and of the unfortunate job it was of the four men being acquitted.

On another occasion, Mackay saw Vaughan give two bad dollars and four bad shillings to a person named O'Shea, who was to procure an innocent man to buy some article from the mother-in-law of Vaughan, who keeps a chandler's shop in Gray's-inn-lane. A small quantity of good silver was also to be given to the unfortunate person, in order that when he was searched there might appear no excuse for passing the bad money. Mackay afterwards saw O'Shea go into a public-house, and shortly return with a poor sailor, whom he directed to go into the shop before mentioned. The sailor did so; O'Shea fled, and immediately the former, having changed some bad money, came out with a loaf. He was instantly seized by Vaughan, who was in waiting, and having secured him and brought him before the Magistrate, he was fully committed for trial, and convicted.

There were several other cases of an equally atrocious nature mentioned by Mackay, which came within his knowledge by information from and connection with the parties concerned. Not being able, however, to give them sufficient authenticity, they were not received as evidence.

On Tuesday night, when Mackay was taken into custody in bed, there was found upon his table a letter addressed to Mr. Westwood of the Bank, disclosing all he knew of the circumstances of the present inquiry, and surrendering the names of the criminal parties.

The principal actors in the diabolical scene, as it relates to the coining, we understand to be Pelham, Brock, O'Shea, and Mac Power.

Jefferson and Dickons were, after the examination of Mackay on Thursday, ordered to appear before the Magistrates.

G. Brown, Mackay and Drake are now in custody; Hubbard is also in Horsemonger-lane; Ruthven was secured, and we believe bailed; but Vaughan is not yet forthcoming.

The investigation of these extraordinary and infamous conspiracies may of course be expected to continue daily for a short time.

MANSION-HOUSE.—The Lord Mayor went on Friday morning to Newgate, and visited Quin, Reardon, and Donnelly in their cells, where they were in irons, and under sentence of death, but the Lord Mayor had them taken off. The conspirators were placed before them, and they instantly recognized Barry as the person who hired them to manufacture what they thought to be ornaments for some grand show, and left them at their work, in the expectation of getting their dinner. All the conspirators were brought together to the view of each of the unfortunate Irishmen in his separate cell, and Barry was, without hesitation, pointed at by each of the three.

The Lord Mayor took down their statements, and immediately after proceeded to the Mansion House, where he commenced another private examination of the Conspirators. Ryan, who was apprehended on Thursday morning by White and Harrison, was discharged, nothing sufficiently strong to warrant his detention having appeared against him. The examination detailed more circumstances; criminations and recriminations took place amongst the Conspirators, in which they argued in favour of their "Blood System," by the strength of the temptation, and accused each other of offering the first advances towards building up the "Estate" upon the necks of the innocent. It appears that Barry and his son were to have been rewarded with 5*l.* each for the three heads. We must do justice to Brock and the others of the patrol concerned in this case, to declare, that they looked amongst the most wretched to act as their instruments; and Barry's family were found in the deepest poverty by Harrison and White. That distinguished character in the "Blood System" endeavours to throw the bulk of the iniquity upon Barry, but it will be soon seen that the leaders are those who have already realized independence, and that many have been seduced into an agency where they were not aware of the full extent of the mischief they were creating.

The particulars of the important examination of Friday are withheld from the public at the desire of the Lord Mayor, under the impression that their publication at this moment might tend to defeat the full measures of justice. The whole of the time usually devoted to relaxation is given up by his Lordship to the development of the "Blood Plot." It is known that the evidence of an accomplice is regarded by a Jury with very great jealousy, except it is backed by an unexceptionable corroborator authority. Already the testimony of the accomplice is a matter of inferior consideration in this case, even as to the important facts which it discloses.

A witness came forward, at whose house the gang met for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements for the destruction of the three convicts. He listened to their conversation, which proceeded to so extraordinary a degree of boldness as to be heard out of the room in which they were drinking. The witness not knowing that it would be safe to take any other notice of their conduct, kicked them out of his house. They then went to another public-house, where they met with a reception equally warm; notwithstanding which they proceeded with unremitting activity in their intention. It is impossible to reconcile such a persistence with any thing but a rooted habit.

The great public examination will take place early in the present week.

Dalton, the carman, charged with having been an accomplice in the robbery of a house in Bucklersbury, to the extent of 1200*l.* in woollen cloths, underwent another examination on Friday. The Lord Mayor said, that the owners of the stolen property had intelligence of all those concerned in the robbery. The prisoner was ordered to be remanded for another examination.

On Friday, at the Old Bailey, James Wells and Matilda Metterson, were indicted for stealing a sheet, the property of Eliza Pearce. Verdict, Metterson Guilty; Wells Not Guilty.

James Inwood was indicted for stealing a Catholic prayer-book, and a purse, containing Bank-notes to the amount of 60*l.* the property of James Butler. Guilty.

William Tristram, a boy, was indicted for stealing, on the 24th of June, various articles of wearing apparel from an infant named Charles Buttles, the property of Hugh Buttles. Guilty.

James Simmonds was found guilty of stealing a quantity of tools from a workshop in Kensington-gardens. Sentenced to seven years' transportation.

Sophia Brown was indicted for stealing from the person of William Jones ten 1*l.* Bank of England notes, his property. Verdict—Not guilty.

Robert Young was indicted for stealing a great coat, the property of Richard Price, on the 20th June. Verdict—Guilty. The Prosecutor recommended him to mercy.

Wood was indicted for stealing one watch, a hat, and other articles, on the 8th July, the property of Patrick Grady. Guilty.

John Dyches and James Coysh were indicted for stealing a piece of mahogany, the property of Alexander and John Semple. Not Guilty.

EXECUTION OF JOSEPH PERU.—A great concourse of persons assembled on Wednesday morning to witness the law put in execution upon the person of Peru, the Spaniard, pursuant to his sentence on Friday se'night, who had been respite from Monday, in consequence of some doubts having arisen respecting the transaction; these doubts, however, having been cleared up to the full satisfaction of Mr. Justice Parke, who tried him, he was on Wednesday last ordered for execution. It is a singular fact, that on Sunday he contrived (by what means cannot be ascertained) to have conveyed to him in his cell a piece of bread and butter, which contained the blade of a knife, with which no doubt he meditated self-destruction: fortunately, however, it was discovered by Mr. Cotton, and thus he was prevented from carrying his fell purposes into execution. The Sheriff did not go from the Sessions House until near a quarter after eight, and this circumstance induced the populace to conjecture that he had received another respite. The unhappy malefactor was attended early in the morning by the Rev. Mr. Devereux, the Catholic Priest, who impressed upon him the necessity of offering up his prayers to Heaven for forgiveness. From this moment he became extremely penitent, but would not admit the justice of his sentence. The Rev. Mr. Cotton and the Under Sheriffs met him in the Press-yard, from whence he was conveyed to the fatal scaffold, where, after remaining a few minutes in prayer, the signal was given and he was launched into eternity. After having hanged the usual hour, his body, pursuant to the sentence, was conveyed to Bartholomew's Hospital, and consigned over to the Surgeons for dissection.

BIRTHS.

On Thursday, Mrs. Henchman, of 58, Lamb's-conduit-street, of a daughter. The wife of T. Torrey, bailiff at Shelve Farm, Lenham, was safely delivered, a few days ago, of three fine female children, which were baptized after Job's daughters, Jemima, Keziah, and Kerenhappuch.

MARRIED.

On Thursday, the 4th instant, at St. Leonard, Shoreditch, Mr. Thomas Bell, to Miss Hannah Self, of North Walsham, Norfolk.

On the 17th instant, at West-Ham Church, by the Rev. James Burford, Mr. L. W. Williams, of Stratford-green, to Mary, eldest daughter of Mr. Buck, of Arundel-street, Strand.

At Saint George's, Hanover Square, Alfred Thorp, Esq. of Walthamstow, to Louisa Susanna, eldest daughter of the late Sir William Plover, Snaresbrook, Essex.

DIED.

On Monday noon, Counsellor Colles, of Stephen's-green, Dublin, suddenly, having gone into the circulating library, in Stephen's-street, and while in the act of looking over the catalogue, he fell back, and expired.

A very interesting PRINT, on a small scale, has just been published, representing her ROYAL HIGHNESS the PRINCESS CHARLOTTE OF WALES and the PRINCE OF COBOURG, whole lengths, in their Wedding Dresses, as returning from the Altar immediately after the Marriage Ceremony. The Artist has been peculiarly happy in this production, as it exhibits the most pleasing and perfect likenesses of each of these august Personages that have yet been produced, and commemorates at the same time a very eventful period of their lives. By favour, this Print is given as the Portrait Embellishment to the present Number of LA BELLE ASSEMBLEE, published on the First of July; the other Embellishments are highly interesting, and render this Number a very valuable production. The Prints of Fashion given monthly in this Work now establish the criterion of taste in female costumes, and serve as models for Ladies of taste as well as faithful professors, to compose their most elegant dresses from. Samples and Drawings are received from Paris every month by the Proprietor of this Work, to enable his Artists to represent the finest compositions in Female Dress from the elegant designs of the French, as well as from the London professors and amateurs in elegant Costumes. The present Number affords an interesting specimen of its general pretensions to public favour.

At a time when foreign importation (or innovation) seems to gain ground, to the utter exclusion of native talent, the Proprietor of the Royal Circus has the honour most respectfully to inform the Public, that he has been so fortunate as to effect an Engagement, for Six Nights, with that most wonderful Phenomenon, Mr. Peters, the British Voltigeur, or Flying Sorcerer! who will, for the first time in this metropolis, go through his astonishing performances—NEW ROYAL CIRCUS and SURREY THEATRE—To-morrow, Monday, July 22, and following Evenings, will be performed, WHO'S THE MURDERER? a True Tale of the Twelfth Century. A new Pantomimic Divertissement, called THE HOUSE WARMING; or, Peasants' Pic Nic. To conclude with CHEVY CHACE.

The numerous applicants who fail in obtaining particular numbers, by deferring their order in the Lottery to a late period, and the attractions of the present Scheme (in which there are Two Prizes of £40,000, one of which must be drawn the First Day, Two Prizes of £20,000, &c. &c.), having already created an unusual demand for Tickets and Shares, those persons whose intention it may be to purchase particular numbers should lose no time.

TO BE LET A VERY NEAT COTTAGE.

Furnished and comfortably accommodated for the immediate reception of a small respectable party, most pleasantly situated and detached, surrounded by gardens, and in a genteel neighbourhood, on the Bath Road, exactly three miles from Hyde-park Turnpike.—Cards of reference and explanation of the particular may be had of Mrs. Titchener, at the Hammersmith Turnpike Gate; and at the Westminster Central Mart, corner of Southampton-street, Strand, where references and explanations respecting the particulars of Advertisements may be left generally, which would save much trouble in answering numerous applications to the Advertising Principals.

The NEW-STREET, STRAND-BRIDGE, SOUTHWARK, and VAUXHALL-BRIDGES, and NEW POST-OFFICE IMPROVEMENTS.

ADELPHI-HOUSE, ADAM-STREET.—The Surveyor who resided as above is about to resign into competent hands the above extensive concern, and change his own residence into a few doors higher up, where he can wholly devote himself to professional avocations, in surveying, purchasing, and selling Estates. Gratitude at the same time induces him to assure the claimants, under the above, or any other Acts of Parliament, in Town or Country, that no independent exertions on his part shall be wanting, to obtain their proper compensation; on which, through the kind and decided preference he has had the good fortune to obtain, is happy to add, professions are unnecessary.—Adelphi, July 20, 1816.

SUPERIOR GINGER BEER and EFFERVESCENT SHERBET IS INSTANTLY PRODUCED BY RICHARDSON'S PORTABLE EXTRACT.

Encouraged by the flattering reception his Beverages, lately brought forward for preparing the above delightful beverages, have experienced, the Proprietor has been induced to offer these new preparations for the same purpose: in consequence of its being in a liquid form, the finer parts of the Ginger and other ingredients only are obtained; and the Proprietor is convinced that a single trial only is necessary to prove its being superior to that contained in bottles, still retaining the advantage of portability so much approved of in his powders. Prepared by JOHN RICHARDS, (the original Proprietor and Inventor), Chymist, 193, Strand, opposite St. Clement's Church, in bottles of 3*s.* 6*d.* 6*s.* 6*d.* and 12*s.* warranted to keep in all climates. Sold retail at Bacon's Medicine Warehouse, 130, Oxford-street, opposite Bond-street, and Tott's Royal Exchange; where may still be had his highly approved Double CARBONATED SODA, GINGER, and WHITE SPRUCE BEER POWDERS, as also those for EFFERVESCENT SHERBET.—N. B. The Imperial Marking Ink, without preparation, 3*s.* a bottle.

BURGESS'S ESSENCE OF ANCHOVIES.—Warehouse, 107, Strand, corner of the Savoy Steps, London.—JOHN BURGESS and SON being apprized of the numerous endeavours made by many persons to impose a spurious article for their make, feel it incumbent upon them to request the attention of the public, in purchasing what they conceive to be the original, to observe the name and address corresponds with the above. The general appearance of the spurious descriptions will deceive the unguarded, and for their detection J. B. and Son submit the following cautions:—some are in appearance at first sight "The Genuine," but without any name or address;—some "Burgess's Essence of Anchovies;"—others "Burgess's," and many more without address.—JOHN BURGESS and SON having been many years honoured with such distinguished approbation, feel every sentiment of respect towards the Public, and earnestly solicit them to inspect the labels previous to purchasing what they conceive to be of their make, which they hope will prevent many disappointments. Warehouse, No. 107, Strand, corner of the Savoy Steps, London.

HAIRNESS or GREY HAIR will not be seen in future; in short, Prince's Russia Oil is the wholesome and best Oil for preserving and promoting the Growth of Hair of Ladies, Gentlemen, and Children. Gentlemen who are bald, and the least sign of roots, have it restored. CAUTION. As there are several Hair-dressers and others, who sell noxious counterfeit Russia Oil, therefore Ladies and Gentlemen will be particular to ask for Prince's Russia Oil, and observe, "Prince," on the cover and on the seal of each bottle, at 4*s.* the small bottle; or a bottle containing the quantity of near five small ones, at 11*s.*; or a dozen 11*s.* bottles for 6*l.*

Also Prince's Improved Dye, prepared with Spirits, is the only innocent Dye in the universe for changing, in a few minutes, red or grey hair on the head, whiskers, eye-brows, &c. to a dark brown or black.—Ask for "Prince's Dye;" half-a-guinea a bottle, or two for 1*l.* or a dozen for 5*l.*—Sold by the sole Proprietor, A. Prince, 9, John-street, Oxford-street; as the numbers run irregular, observe, his house is next door to a Coach-maker's. Sold also by most respectable Venders.

RUPTURE.—The afflicted are most respectfully informed that SALMON, OBY, and Co.'s PATENT SELF-ADJUSTING TRUSSES continue to be recommended by the most eminent Surgeons in town and country. From the superior construction of these instruments no straps are necessary, and will answer for right and left side; the body is also relieved from the galling pressure which all other Trusses occasion. The Patentees have the honour to supply the Army and Navy, the Military and Naval Hospitals, the Transport Board, the Dock-yards, the Ordnance, the Marine Infirmary, the Honourable East India Company, the City of London Truss Society, the Marylebone Infirmary, the Middlesex Hospital, &c. &c.—Manufactory, 292, Strand.

N. B. Persons residing in the Country, sending the circumference of the body in inches, just above the hips, may depend upon being accurately fitted.

DR. CAMERON is consulted every Day, (Sundays excepted) from Ten till Three, at his House, No. 34, Berners-street, Oxford-street. Patients unable to attend are requested to send a small quantity of their morning Urine. Although Dr. C.'s method is singular, it is a well-known fact that he has restored many to perfect health, when the most eminent of the profession have failed, in painful, lingering, and dangerous cases, as Diseases of the Liver, Bilious, and other Obstructions, Jaundice, complaints in the Stomach, Nervous Debility, Gravel, Dropsy, &c. Also those complaints peculiar to Females at the different periods of Life.—Advice to the Poor without a Fee.
