This image shows a vertical strip of aged, yellowed paper. The left edge is dark and textured, likely representing the binding or spine of a book. The paper itself is a light tan or yellowish-brown color, showing signs of wear, including small dark spots and a slightly uneven surface. There is no text or other markings visible on this strip.

A close-up detail of a manuscript page, likely from the Lindisfarne Gospels, showing a large, ornate initial 'D' in blue ink, decorated with red and green filigree. The text is written in a Gothic script.

A vertical strip of aged, textured paper, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a yellowish-tan hue and a visible fibrous texture. There are faint, dark, diagonal lines and markings across the surface, which appear to be either ink bleed-through from the reverse side or light pencil markings. The strip is narrow and oriented vertically.

[Faint, illegible handwriting on aged paper]

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint smudges and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. A vertical crease is visible on the left side, and a faint, dark, vertical line runs down the center. There is no text or other markings on the page.

This image shows a blank, aged, light brown page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a textured, slightly mottled appearance with visible creases and some minor discoloration or foxing. There are faint, illegible markings scattered across the surface, possibly from the reverse side or due to the age of the paper. The overall tone is a warm, yellowish-brown.
