Sharpener, Locksmith, Small Engine Repairs . . . Shop Pays Now, Sets Up Their Retirement

Bob Chenoweth who lives at 843 East Dartmouth, Englewood, Colorado, believes the time he has spent studying how to sharpen saws, locksmithing and repairing small engines has been time well spent.

It is paying off for him as he does this type of work in his home shop following working hours at the General Iron Works located in nearby Denver.

Chenoweth is a small crane operator. He has always worked with his hands, from the time he was a small child growing up in the country near Carrollton, Missouri.

"I looked ahead from this work I do with the iron works and decided I wanted something that I could do after retirement. Therefore, I decided to set up this small shop in this room adjoining our home. But first I knew I must learn how to do a good job. I ordered a Sharp-All first, and later added a Handsaw Filer, Abrasive Belt Grinder, Chain Saw Grinder and Rotary Lawn Mower Sharpener," Chenoweth pointed out.

Shop Pays Its Way

He does all of the sharpening for General Iron Works, key making too, and he added that he had been able to pay for all equipment through his after-hours work.

"I get up at 4 o'clock and study before breakfast. I read all of The Bulletins Belsaw sent out before I really felt I had sufficient knowledge to open my shop," Chenoweth stated.

"After I had mastered the sharpening services, I decided to take the Locksmith Course. After completion of those courses, I enrolled in the Small Engine Repair Course. You can educate yourself, I have found," he said.

Chenoweth attended school to the seventh grade. When his father died, he went to work to help support the family.

"You can always educate yourself," he repeated. "I had
