CLASS SONG

Light beats the heart when the battle is over,
Sweet is the rest when the victory is won;
Light lies the wreath on the brow of the victor,
Sweet is the peace when the striving is done.
Classmates who've struggled with lessons so bravely,

We may rejoice we've not fought all in vain;
We are at rest for a while from our labor,
'Till in new fields we may struggle again.

CHORUS—

Now say farewell to the High School so dear,
Farewell to happy days spent by us here;
Farewell dear teachers, and classmates adieu,
Ever our hearts will be turning to you.

Down the far future in years that are weary,
When other battles have been fought and won,
We shall look back to the days at the High School,
And think that they are the dearest we've known.
Even the hollows and knolls of the school ground,
Old school yard trees—we'll remember them all;
We'll recollect the old books and the school room,
Classmates and teachers with love we'll recall.

CHORUS—

—MRS. C. E. BIRD.
