

short distance off the coast shore line to land either saboteurs, enemy spies or explosives in the Pacific northwest.

The official announcement of the FBI read:

"On December 11, 1944, a wood-chopper, Owen Hill, and his father, O. B. Hill, who had been working in a mountainous forest region 17 miles southwest of Kalispell, Montana, reported to the sheriff's office there his discovery of an object which he thought was a parachute.

"It was brought into town the next day and the FBI advised. Upon examination, the object was discovered to be 33½ feet in diameter, with a gas capacity of over 18,000 cubic feet and a carrying capacity of at least 800 pounds net.

"The bag itself is of high grade processed paper. There appeared on the balloon Japanese characters indicating completion of construction at the factory on October 31, 1944.
