

Bill Dossett's Pantry Is Raided, So He Serves Few

Bill Dossett's pantry got raided last night in his new hamburger joint—when the night shift of the Boulder City News office gang next door inadvertantly got a sniff of frying 'burgers and coffee.

No, he's not having any grand opening now, but his first few hamburgers done got served—to his wife and pals and the News tribe.