

C. S. Swanholm, in charge of cadastral surveys in the Boulder City district, which embraces some 200 square miles, announces that the work will be completed by next Monday and the corps of engineers and assistants under him will disband and assume duties in other parts of Nevada and Utah.

Swanholm expects to leave about the first of next week for San Diego, for a brief stay. Later he will go to Salt Lake City and Washington, D. C., on official business. He will return to Las Vegas in late fall and continue work in this section.
