

Funeral Set For Antique Expert, 90

Services will be at 11 a.m. Thursday in Palm Mortuary Chapel for Clara Grace Monson Christopher, 90, a Las Vegas antique dealer who died Sunday in her residence.

Christopher and her late husband, Fred Monson, owned and operated a sand and gravel business that was involved in the construction of Hoover Dam. They also built several Las Vegas homes.

In 1931, she owned and operated Las Vegas' first antique shop. Known as the first lady of antiques, she was frequently contacted for information and advice.

Her late husband died in 1959 and in 1976, she married her present husband Peter Christopher.
