

Trop Stagehand Dies After Show

Wallace Roper, a 30-year resident of Southern Nevada and stagehand at the Tropicana Hotel, collapsed and died at 1:30 a.m. yesterday after ringing down the showroom curtain to conclude a night's work.

Roper, of 616 California St., Boulder City, leaves his widow, a wardrobe mistress at the Tropicana, and a son, also employed there.

Dep. Coroner Harvey Schnitzer said he succumbed to an apparent heart attack. He was 62.