

The neighbors of two pioneers who lived on "D" St. and raised their daughters, Nancy and Mary there, have donated the gift of a memorial on the Boulder City Museum board.

Memories flood our minds as we remember their role in Boulder City and on our street.

Both loved animals, both loved flowers and both loved their home. It is being resided in at this writing by their daughter Mary and her husband.

Arthur "Bud" Shope worked for the Webb family. Paul Webb, master builder and Dick Webb, for the family owned Boulder Builders and the Uptown Hardware store was a modern facility from which most of the homes and business buildings were erected.
