

Lt. Harvey Morris Said, Shot Down Over Germany

Lt. Harvey Morris, army air corps pilot, is reported to have been shot down over Germany about August 25, according to word received by friends in Boulder City.

Morris was employed by the U. S. Bureau of Mines in Boulder City, and later with Ziebarth in construction of the high lines to Basic.

He took his training and was graduated from the Air Corps school at Dallas, Oklahoma. His wife and son now live at Crawford, Nebraska.

Whether Lieutenant Morris was able to escape from the plane after it was shot down is not yet known, according to best present information.