Jack McGowan, Former B. C. Man, in Sicily Battle

Jack MacGowan, formerly of Boulder City, was one of the attacking force which invaded Sicily during the past two months, according to word received by friends in Boulder City.

MacGowan is radio technician first class in the navy, and did his share toward landing of troops on the island for the memorable invasion of the island near the toe of the boot of Italy.

He was in technical work at the Bureau of Mines in Boulder City before joining the navy.
