

DEMOCRACY WORKS

ARTHUR GARFIELD HAYS

A Random House Book

FIRST PRINTING

COPYRIGHT, 1939, BY RANDOM HOUSE, INC.
MANUFACTURED IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
BY THE HADDON CRAFTSMEN, INC.

Contents

Prologue	3
----------	---

CHAPTER ONE

This Talk of Capitalism	11
--------------------------------	----

The label on the package—Planned economy—Early utopian views—Robert Owen—Anticipated breakdowns—Technological employment—Machines to make machines—Shorter working day—Effect of industrial revolution—Faith in new systems—Change, a gradual process—Soaking the rich—Criticism of capitalism—What shall we do to be saved?—The American outcome.

CHAPTER TWO

“Of, By and For—”	23
--------------------------	----

I. THE SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY. Liberty and food—What democracy means—The fight for civil rights—What rights are involved—Free speech, but—The market in ideas—Political and industrial democracy.

II. BEYOND THE BALLOT BOX. Fascism’s excitements—Democracy’s drabness—The dynamics of democracy—Democracy in the factory—Labor’s proposals—Consumers’ co-operatives—Other schemes.

III. HOW AND WHY DEMOCRACY WORKS. “You can’t beat Santa Claus”—Sail and anchor—Qualified suffrage—

The ward heeler at work—Universal suffrage works—Democracy's speed—Acceptance of new theories—Demands of the Communist Manifesto of 1848—Public schools—Sherman Anti-Trust Law or nihilism—Populist Party—Yardstick theories of public ownership—A canal on Cape Cod—Income tax "anarchistic"—Labor unions as a conspiracy—The "lunatic fringe" in the 1935 Presidential campaign—Huey Long, Upton Sinclair, Dr. Townsend, Father Coughlin—"Those overtaken by disaster"—Is this socialism?

IV. DEMOCRACY IN ACTION. A third-party convention—Committee of 48—Old-party conventions—Political sentimentalists—Their stolen sentiments—The primaries at work—After the election—The alternative to geography—Guild Socialism—Functional representation—Group pressure—How we make laws and influence legislators—The pageant of democracy.

V. MISGIVINGS. The threat of fascism—Militarism—The red herrings of the dictators—Our domestic red-baiters—The D.A.R.—Mrs. Dilling's Red Net-Work—The S.A.R.—The American Legion—John Strachey—Hearst and Girdler—The open fascists—Political use of the communist bugaboo—Free speech for fascists—New aspects of freedom—Administrative tribunals—Income tax returns—Wagner Labor Act—Free speech for employers—Taming of power—Abuses in criminal procedure—Conspiracy cases—The threat of war.

CHAPTER THREE

What Hath Man Wrought!

110

SCIENCE AND INVENTION. The Great God Science—Science and democracy—Science and government—The organization of invention—Social effects of invention—New machines that see, hear and feel—Discoveries in chemistry, medicine, physics and biology—Will invention maintain its tempo?—Invention under socialism and capitalism—The politician and invention—Private monopoly and invention—The lag in invention.

CHAPTER FOUR

"We Digga Da Ditch—"

131

EMPLOYMENT. Two ways to happiness—Curbing desire—Creation of wants—Fulfilling them—Beginning of industrial era—Machines and employment—The cotton gin—The cotton picking machine—Industrial revolution in England and America—Technological employment—Change in habits—The past and present—Employment through new devices—Direct employment in making things for use—Automobile employment—Social effects of iron men—Old industries and new—Developments of twentieth century—Technological unemployment—Taking up the slack—What becomes of displaced worker—New demands—Employment a collective problem.

CHAPTER FIVE

Shoes for the Baby and Sunday in the Park

152

WAGES AND HOURS. Progress without plan—In early factory days—"The Cry of the Children"—Conditions in the United States—Comparison with times past—Wages then and now—The family wage—Social services in addition to wages—Reduction in hours—Legislation for eight-hour day—Present working day—Future prospects—Strain of mass production on worker—No cause for optimism—Wages and Hours Laws.

CHAPTER SIX

From IOU to AFL and CIO

170

THE RISE OF LABOR. Unions as factors of progress—Our unknown labor history—The beginnings—Agitation for "Republican" education—Social movements of the forties—The start of the modern movement—Labor in politics—Rise of the Knights—The A. F. of L. emerges—A. F. of L. versus Knights—The great railroad strikes—Craft unionism—The Haymarket bomb—Growth of the A. F. of L.—Debs and the American Railway Union—The Pullman "conspiracy"—The Wobblies appear—The Western Federation of Miners—The Paterson strike—Our indigenous radicalism—Haywood in exile—Labor in war time—The open shop offensive—Stuffy sterility and the decline of the A. F. of L.—The life-giving Blue Eagle—Lewis punches Hutcheson—The rank and file stirs—The rank and file sits down—"Theory of the labor movement"—The question of responsibility—Union incorporation—Is there a class struggle?—The sharing of industrial responsibility—The philosophy of industrial unionism—Political deals—Tyranny in and by unions—Competition between unions—Gains of unionism—The objectives of the C.I.O.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Uncle Sam Rakes In and Shells Out

210

GOVERNMENT INCOME AND EXPENSES. Early burdens of taxation—Proportion of income paid in taxes today—The torrent of taxation—Is the burden fairly distributed?—Amount paid by rich and poor—Taxes on automobile owners—Housing—Where is the money coming from?—Increase in government expenses—Growth of tax burden—Receipts, expenditures and costs of government—Increase of debt—Three considerations—Equitable apportionment—Proportion of citizens' income spent by government—The purpose of government spending—Pump priming old—No plea for New Deal—The general trend.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Hell and High Water

233

EXTENSION OF GOVERNMENT FUNCTION. T.V.A.—The power trust—Conservation, the newcomer—First come the dams—Technology displaces oratory—Supreme Court and T.V.A.—Attitude of the valley folk—A social adventure—The W.P.A. and C.C.C.—Work or relief?—More than shovel-earning—Accomplishments material and human—Private charity—Permanent government participation—Problem No. 1, the South—After five years—Scratching the housing surface—Dangers of new government functions—"Proper" functions—Supplying food and collecting garbage—Trend toward greater spending for social services.

CHAPTER NINE

Baking, Cutting and Eating the Pie 260

PRODUCTION, DISTRIBUTION AND CONSUMPTION. National income—Cause of diminution—Industrial sabotage—Our capacity to produce—Ways of increasing production—Government interference as illustrated by new banking functions—Concentration of control, finance capitalism—Disproportionate distribution of income—Labor's increasing share—We are a country of contradictions—Creative capital—Effect of high tax rates—Experts at work—Chart of Plenty—Does this mean dictatorship?

CHAPTER TEN

Rations, Radios and Reality 292

STANDARDS OF LIVING. The real test—Hoover heydays—The "good old days"—Living standards in 1929—Statistics misleading—The necessary budget—The United States and other countries—The things of our life—Material and spiritual well-being—Luxuries into necessities—Comparison of past and present standards—Recent government contributions—Parks, music, sports, health—Being bored to death—Standards of living and habit—Shifting weather of values—Liberty or Things?

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Signing Off— 313

A SUMMARY.

Index 325