

2nd Newspaper For Boulder City

Establishment of a second weekly Boulder City newspaper on or about Oct. 1 was announced here yesterday as Robert Crandall, publisher of the Goldfield News-Tribune, said he was moving his printing plant to a Boulder City building which he has leased with an option to purchase.

Crandall, who has published the Goldfield paper and the Beatty Bulletin since July of 1946, said he has completed negotiations with Clarence Watson of Boulder City for the lease of a building near the airport which was formerly occupied by the Campbell and Felts Electric Co. Crandall also has an option to purchase the building.
